Application Policies: SR&ED 2000-04R2: Recapture of investment tax credit.

(35) Recapture of investment tax credit — Where, at any particular time in a fiscal period and after February 23, 1998, a purchaser is a partnership that converts to commercial use, or disposes of without having previously converted to commercial use, a property

(a) that was acquired by the purchaser in circumstances described in subsection (33) or that is another property that incorporates a property acquired in such circumstances, and

(b) that was first acquired, or that incorporates a property that was first acquired, by a person or partnership (in this subsection referred to as the "original user") with which the purchaser did not deal at arm's length at the time at which the purchaser acquired the property, in the original user's taxation year or fiscal period that includes the particular time (on the assumption that the original user had such a taxation year or fiscal period) or in any of the original user's 10 preceding taxation years or fiscal periods, there shall be deducted in computing the amount determined under subsection (8) in respect of the purchaser at the end of the fiscal period the lesser of

(c) the amount

(i) included, in respect of the property, in the investment tax credit of the original user, or

(ii) where the original user is a partnership, that can reasonably be considered to have been included in respect of the property in computing the amount determined under subsection (8) in respect of the original user, and

(d) the amount determined by applying the percentage that was applied by the original user in determining the amount referred to in paragraph (c) to

(i) if the property or the other property is disposed of to a person who deals at arm's length with the purchaser, the proceeds of disposition of that property, and

(ii) in any other case, the fair market value of the property or the other property at the time of the conversion or disposition.

Related Provisions: 127(30) — Addition to tax where ITC goes negative; 127(33) — No application to certain non-arm's length transfers.

(2) Definitions — In this section,

"excluded corporation" for a taxation year means a corporation that is, at any time in the year,

(a) controlled directly or indirectly, in any manner whatever, by

(i) one or more persons exempt from tax under this Part by virtue of section 149,

(ii) Her Majesty in right of a province, a Canadian municipality or any other public authority, or

(iii) any combination of persons each of whom is a person referred to in subparagraph (i) or (ii), or

(b) related to any person referred to in paragraph (a);

Related Provisions: 256(5.1), (6.2) — Controlled directly or indirectly — control in fact.

"qualifying corporation" for a particular taxation year that ends in a calendar year means

(a) a corporation that is a Canadian-controlled private corporation throughout the particular year (other than a corporation associated with another corporation in the particular year) the taxable income of which for its immediately preceding taxation year (determined before taking into consideration the specified future tax consequences for that preceding year) does not exceed its business limit for that preceding year, or

(b) a corporation that is a Canadian-controlled private corporation throughout the particular year and associated with another corporation in the particular year, where the total of all amounts each of which is the taxable income of the corporation or such an associated corporation for its last taxation year that ended in the preceding calendar year (determined before taking into consideration the specified future tax consequences for that last year) does not exceed the total of all amounts each of which is the business limit of the corporation or such an associated corporation for that last year;

Related Provisions: 87(2)(oo), (oo.1) — Effect of amalgamation; 88(1)(e.9) — Winding-up; 127.1(2.01) — Additional refundable amount for corporation that is not a qualifying corporation; 136(1) — Cooperative can be private corporation for 127.1; 137(7) — Credit union can be private corporation for 127.1.

History: The definition "qualifying corporation" in subsec. 127.1(2) amended by 1997, c. 25, subsec. 36(2), applicable to taxation years that begin after 1995. It formerly read:

"qualifying corporation" for a particular taxation year means a corporation that is, throughout the particular year, a Canadian-controlled private corporation the taxable income of which for its preceding taxation year or, if it is associated with one or more other corporations in the particular year, the taxable income of the corporation for its last taxation year ending in the preceding calendar year plus the taxable incomes of all such other corporations for their last taxation years ending in the preceding calendar year, does not exceed the total of the business limits (as determined under section 125) of the corporation and the other corporations for those preceding years, except that for a particular taxation year that begins before 1996 the total of the business limits shall be determined under section 125 as that section read in its application to taxation years ending before July 1994;

The definition "qualifying corporation" in subsec. 127.1(2) amended by 1995, c. 3, s. 38, applicable to taxation years that end after June 1994. The definition formerly read:

"qualifying corporation" for a particular taxation year means a corporation that is, throughout the particular year, a Canadian-controlled private corporation whose taxable income for the immediately preceding taxation year together with the taxable incomes of all corporations with which it was associated in the particular year for their taxation years ending in the calendar year immediately preceding the calendar year in which the particular year of the corporation ended does not exceed the total of the business limits (as determined under section 125) of the corporation and the associated corporations for those preceding years;

"refundable investment tax credit" of a taxpayer for a taxation year means, in the case of a taxpayer who is

(a) a qualifying corporation for the year,

(b) an individual other than a trust, or

(c) a trust each beneficiary of which is a person referred to in paragraph (a) or (b), an amount equal to 40% of the amount, if any, by which

(d) the total of all amounts included in computing the taxpayer's investment tax credit at the end of the year

(i) in respect of property (other than qualified small-business property) acquired, or a qualified expenditure (other than an expenditure in respect of which an amount is included under paragraph (f) in computing the taxpayer's refundable investment tax credit for the year) incurred, by the taxpayer in the year, or

(ii) because of paragraph (b) of the definition "investment tax credit" in subsection 127(9) in respect of a property (other than qualified small-business property) acquired or a qualified expenditure (other than an expenditure in respect of which an amount is included under paragraph (f) in computing the taxpayer's refundable investment tax credit for the year) incurred

exceeds

(e) the total of

(i) the portion of the total of all amounts deducted under subsection 127(5) for the year or a preceding taxation year (other than an amount deemed by subsection (3) to be so deducted for the year) that can reasonably be considered to be in respect of the total determined under paragraph (d), and

(ii) the portion of the total of all amounts required by subsection 127(6) or (7) to be deducted in computing the taxpayer's investment tax credit at the end of the year that can reasonably be considered to be in respect of the total determined under paragraph (d), plus, where the taxpayer is a qualifying corporation (other than an excluded corporation) for the year, the amount, if any, by which

(f) the total of

(i) the portion of the amount required by subsection 127(10.1) to be added in computing the taxpayer's investment tax credit at the end of the year that is in respect of qualified expenditures (other than expenditures of a capital nature) incurred by the taxpayer in the year, and

(ii) all amounts determined under paragraph (a.1) of the definition "investment tax credit" in subsection 127(9) in respect of expenditures for which an amount is included in subparagraph (i)

exceeds

(g) the total of

(i) the portion of the total of all amounts deducted by the taxpayer under subsection 127(5) for the year or a preceding taxation year (other than an amount deemed by subsection (3) to be so deducted for the year) that can reasonably be considered to be in respect of the total determined under paragraph (f), and

(ii) the portion of the total of all amounts required by subsection 127(6) to be deducted in computing the taxpayer's investment tax credit at the end of the year that can reasonably be considered to be in respect of the total determined under paragraph (f).

Related Provisions: 88(1)(e.8) — Winding-up; 127(14) — Identification of amounts transferred as current or capital; 127.1(2.01) — Addition to refundable investment tax credit; 256(2.1) — Anti-avoidance; 256(5.1), (6.2) — Controlled directly or indirectly — control in fact.

History: Para. (f) of the definition "refundable investment tax credit" in subsec. 127.1(2) amended by 1996, c. 21, subsec. 31(1), applicable to taxation years that begin after 1995. Para. (f) formerly read:

(f) the total of

(i) the portion of the amount required by subsection 127(10.1) to be added in computing the taxpayer's investment tax credit at the end of the year that is in respect of qualified expenditures (other than expenditures of a capital nature) incurred in the year, and

(ii) all amounts determined under paragraph (a) of the definition "investment tax credit" in subsection 127(9) in respect of expenditures for which amounts are included in subparagraph (i),

The definition "refundable investment tax credit" in subsec. 127.1(2) amended by 1994, c. 8, subsec. 16(1), applicable to taxation years ending after December 2, 1992. The definition formerly read:

"refundable investment tax credit" for a taxation year means,

(a) in the case of a taxpayer who is

(i) a qualifying corporation for the year,

(ii) an individual other than a trust, or

(iii) a trust each beneficiary of which is a person referred to in subparagraph (i) or (ii),

an amount equal to 40% of the amount, if any, by which

(iv) the total of all amounts each of which is an amount included in computing the taxpayer's investment tax credit at the end of the year

(A) in respect of property acquired, or an expenditure made (other than a qualified Canadian exploration expenditure or an expenditure in respect of which an amount is included under subparagraph (vi) or (b)(ii) in computing the taxpayer's refundable investment tax credit for the year), by the taxpayer in the year and after April 19, 1983,

(B) pursuant to paragraph (b) of the definition "investment tax credit" in subsection 127(9) in respect of a property acquired, or an expenditure made (other than a qualified Canadian exploration expenditure or an expenditure in respect of which an amount is included under subparagraph (vi) or (b)(ii) in computing the taxpayer's refundable investment tax credit for the year), after April 19, 1983, or

(C) in respect of the taxpayer's qualified Canadian exploration expenditure for the year, or pursuant to paragraph (b) of that definition in respect of a qualified Canadian exploration expenditure for the year, other than an amount included under subparagraph (b)(iii)

exceeds

(v) the total of

(A) such portion of the total of all amounts each of which is an amount deducted by the taxpayer under subsection 127(5) for the year or a preceding taxation year (other than an amount deemed by subsection (3) to be so deducted for the year) as may reasonably be considered to be in respect of the total determined under subparagraph (iv), and

(B) such portion of the total of all amounts each of which is an amount required by subsection 127(6) or (7) to be deducted in computing the taxpayer's investment tax credit at the end of the year as may reasonably be considered to be in respect of the total determined under subparagraph (iv), plus, in the case of a qualifying corporation for the year, other than an excluded corporation for the year, the amount, if any, by which

(vi) the total of

(A) the total of all amounts each of which is an amount required by subsection 127(10.1) to be added in computing the taxpayer's investment tax credit at the end of the year in respect of an expenditure, other than an expenditure of a capital nature, made by it after May 23, 1985 and in the year, and

(B) the total of all amounts each of which is an amount determined under paragraph (a) of the definition "investment tax credit" in subsection 127(9) in respect of an expenditure for which an amount is included in clause (A)

exceeds

(vii) the total of

(A) such portion of the total of all amounts each of which is an amount deducted by the taxpayer under subsection 127(5) for the year or a preceding taxation year (other than an amount deemed by subsection (3) to be so deducted for the year) as may reasonably be considered to be in respect of the total determined under subparagraph (vi), and

(B) such portion of the total of all amounts each of which is an amount required by subsection 127(6) to be deducted in computing the taxpayer's investment tax credit at the end of the year as may reasonably be considered to be in respect of the total determined under subparagraph (vi), and

(b) in the case of any other taxpayer, the total of

(i) 20% of the amount, if any, calculated for the year in respect of the taxpayer, by which the total determined under subparagraph (a)(iv) in respect of property acquired or an expenditure made before 1988, exceeds the total determined under subparagraph (a)(v) in respect of property acquired or an expenditure made before 1988,

(ii) 40% of the amount, if any, by which

(A) the total of all amounts each of which is an amount included in computing the taxpayer's investment tax credit at the end of the year

(I) in respect of an approved project property acquired by the taxpayer in the year and before 1988, or

(II) pursuant to paragraph (b) of the definition "investment tax credit" in subsection 127(9) in respect of an approved project property acquired before 1988

exceeds

(B) the total of

(I) such portion of the total of all amounts each of which is an amount deducted by the taxpayer under subsection 127(5) for the year or a preceding taxation year (other than an amount deemed by subsection (3) to be so deducted for the year) as may reasonably be considered to be in respect of the total determined under clause (A), and

(II) such portion of the total of all amounts each of which is an amount required by subsection 127(6) or (7) to be deducted in computing the taxpayer's investment tax credit at the end of the year as may reasonably be considered to be in respect of the total determined under clause (A), and

(iii) where the taxation year commences before 1988, 40% of the amount, if any, by which

(A) the total of all amounts each of which is an amount included in computing the taxpayer's investment tax credit at the end of the year

(I) in respect of the taxpayer's qualified Canadian exploration expenditure for the year, or

(II) pursuant to paragraph (b) of the definition "investment tax credit" in subsection 127(9) in respect of a qualified Canadian exploration expenditure for the year,

exceeds

(B) the total of

(I) such portion of the total of all amounts each of which is an amount deducted by the taxpayer under subsection 127(5) for the year or a preceding taxation year (other than an amount deemed by subsection (3) to be so deducted for the year) as may reasonably be considered to be in respect of the total determined under clause (A), and

(II) such portion of the total of all amounts each of which is an amount required by subsection 127(6) or (7) to be deducted in computing the taxpayer's investment tax credit at the end of the year as may reasonably be considered to be in respect of the total determined under clause (A).

(2.01) Addition to refundable investment tax credit — In the case of a taxpayer that is a Canadian-controlled private corporation other than a qualifying corporation or an excluded corporation, the refundable investment tax credit of the taxpayer for a taxation year is 40% of the amount, if any, by which

(a) the total of

(i) the portion of the amount required by subsection 127(10.1) to be added in computing the taxpayer's investment tax credit at the end of the year that is in respect of qualified expenditures (other than expenditures of a current nature) incurred by the taxpayer in the year, and

(ii) all amounts determined under paragraph (a.1) of the definition "investment tax credit" in subsection 127(9) in respect of expenditures for which an amount is included in subparagraph (i)

exceeds

(b) the total of

(i) the portion of the total of all amounts deducted by the taxpayer under subsection 127(5) for the year or a preceding taxation year (other than an amount deemed by subsection (3) to have been so deducted for the year) that can reasonably be considered to be in respect of the total determined under paragraph (a), and

(ii) the portion of the total of all amounts required by subsection 127(6) to be deducted in computing the taxpayer's investment tax credit at the end of the year that can reasonably be considered to be in respect of the total determined under paragraph (a)

plus the amount, if any, by which

(c) the total of

(i) the portion of the amount required by subsection 127(10.1) to be added in computing the taxpayer's investment tax credit at the end of the year that is in respect of qualified expenditures (other than expenditures of a capital nature) incurred by the taxpayer in the year, and

(ii) all amounts determined under paragraph (a.1) of the definition "investment tax credit" in subsection 127(9) in respect of expenditures for which an amount is included in subparagraph (i)

exceeds

(d) the total of

127.2 (1) [Pre-1987] Share-purchase tax credit — There may be deducted from the tax otherwise payable under this Part by a taxpayer for a taxation year an amount not exceeding the total of

(a) the taxpayer's share-purchase tax credit for the year, and

(b) the taxpayer's unused share-purchase tax credit for the taxation year immediately following the year.

(2) Persons exempt from tax — Where a taxpayer who was throughout a taxation year a person described in any of paragraphs 149(1)(e) to (y) files with the taxpayer's return of income under this Part for the year a prescribed form containing prescribed information, the taxpayer shall be deemed to have paid, on the day on which the return is filed, an amount, on account of the taxpayer's tax under this Part for the year, equal to the taxpayer's share-purchase tax credit for the year.

(3) Trust — Where, in a particular taxation year of a taxpayer who is a beneficiary under a trust, an amount is included in computing the share-purchase tax credit of the trust for its taxation year ending in that particular taxation year, the trust may, in its return of income for its taxation year ending in that particular taxation year, designate as attributable to the taxpayer such portion of that amount

(a) as may, having regard to all the circumstances (including the terms and conditions of the trust arrangement), reasonably be considered to be attributable to the taxpayer, and

(b) as was not designated by the trust in respect of any other beneficiary of that trust, and, where the trust so designates such a portion, an amount equal to that portion shall be

(c) added in computing the share-purchase tax credit of the taxpayer for the particular taxation year, and

(d) deducted in computing the share-purchase tax credit of the trust for its taxation year ending in the particular taxation year.

Related Provisions: 53(2)(h)(iii) — Deduction from cost base of beneficiary's capital interest in a trust.

(3.1) Exclusion of certain trusts — For the purposes of subsection (3), a trust does not include a trust that is

(a) governed by an employee benefit plan or a revoked deferred profit sharing plan; or

(b) exempt from tax under section 149.

(4) Partnership — Where, in a taxation year of a taxpayer who is a member of a partnership, an amount is included in computing the share-purchase tax credit of the partnership for its fiscal period ending in that year, such portion of that amount as may reasonably be considered to be the taxpayer's share thereof shall be

(a) added in computing the share-purchase tax credit of the taxpayer for that year; and

(b) deducted in computing the share-purchase tax credit of the partnership for that fiscal period.

Related Provisions: 53(2)(c)(vii) — Deductions from cost base of partnership interest.

(5) Cooperative corporation — Where at any particular time in a taxation year a taxpayer that is a cooperative corporation (within the meaning assigned by subsection 136(2)) has, as required by subsection 135(3), deducted or withheld an amount from a payment made by it to any person pursuant to an allocation in proportion to patronage, the taxpayer may deduct from the amount otherwise required by subsection 135(3) to be remitted to the Receiver General, an amount not exceeding the amount, if any, by which

(a) the amount that would, but for this subsection, be its share-purchase tax credit for the taxation year in which it made the payment if that year had ended immediately before the particular time

exceeds

(b) the total of all amounts each of which is the amount deducted by virtue of this subsection from any amount otherwise required to be remitted by subsection 135(3) in respect of payments made by it before the particular time and in the taxation year, and the amount, if any, so deducted from the amount otherwise required to be remitted by subsection 135(3) shall be

(c) deducted in computing the share-purchase tax credit of the taxpayer for the taxation year, and

(d) deemed to have been remitted by the taxpayer to the Receiver General on account of tax under this Part of the person to whom that payment was made.

(6) Definitions — In this section,

"share-purchase tax credit" of a taxpayer for a taxation year means the amount determined by the formula

$$(A + B) - C$$

where

A is the total of all amounts each of which is an amount designated by a corporation under subsection 192(4) in respect of a share acquired by the taxpayer in the year where the taxpayer is the first person, other than a broker or dealer in securities, to be a registered holder,

B is the total of all amounts each of which is an amount required by subsection (3) or (4) to be added in computing the taxpayer's share-purchase tax credit for the year, and

C the total of all amounts each of which is an amount required by subsection (3), (4) or (5) to be deducted in computing the taxpayer's share-purchase tax credit for the year;

Related Provisions: 257 — Formula cannot calculate to less than zero.

"unused share-purchase tax credit" of a taxpayer for a taxation year means the amount determined by the formula

$$A - (B + C)$$

where

A is the taxpayer's share-purchase tax credit for the year,

B the taxpayer's tax otherwise payable under this Part for the year, the amount deemed by subsection (2) to have been paid on account of the taxpayer's tax payable under this Part for the year or, where Division E.1 is applicable to the taxpayer for the year, the amount, if any, by which the taxpayer's tax otherwise payable under this Part for the year exceeds the taxpayer's minimum amount for the year determined under section 127.51, as the case may be, and

Related Provisions: 248(1)"unused share-purchase tax credit" — Definition applies to entire Act; 257 — Formula cannot calculate to less than zero

(7) Definition of "tax otherwise payable" — In this section, "tax otherwise payable" under this Part by a taxpayer means the amount that would, but for this section and section 120.1, be the tax payable under this Part by the taxpayer.

(8) Deemed cost of acquisition — For the purposes of this Act, where, at any time in a taxation year, a taxpayer has acquired a share and is the first registered holder of the share, other than a broker or dealer in securities, and an amount is, at any time, designated by a corporation under subsection 192(4) in respect of the share, the following rules apply:

(a) the taxpayer shall be deemed to have acquired the share at a cost to the taxpayer equal to the amount by which

(i) its cost to the taxpayer as otherwise determined

exceeds

(ii) the amount so designated in respect of the share; and

(b) where the amount determined under subparagraph (a)(ii) exceeds the amount determined under subparagraph (a)(i), the excess shall

(i) where the share is a capital property to the taxpayer, be deemed to be a capital gain of the taxpayer for the year from the disposition of that property, and

(ii) in any other case, be included in computing the income of the taxpayer for the year, and the cost to the taxpayer of the share shall be deemed to be nil.

Related Provisions: 192(4.1) — Paid-up capital of designated share.

(9) Partnership — For the purposes of this section and subsection 193(5), a partnership shall be deemed to be a person and its taxation year shall be deemed to be its fiscal period.

(10) Election re first holder — Where a share of a public corporation has been lawfully distributed to the public in accordance with a prospectus, registration statement or similar document filed with a public authority in Canada pursuant to and in accordance with the law of Canada or of any province, and, where required by law, accepted for filing by such a public authority, the corporation, if it has designated an amount under subsection 192(4) in respect of the share, may, in the prescribed form required to be filed under that subsection, elect that, for the purposes of this section, the first person, other than a broker or dealer in securities, to have acquired the share (and no other person) shall be considered to be the first person to be a registered holder of the share.

(11) Calculation of consideration — For greater certainty,

(a) for the purposes of this section and Part VII, the amount of consideration for which a share is acquired and issued includes the amount of any consideration for the designation under subsection 192(4) in respect of the share; and

(b) the amount received by a corporation as consideration for a designation under subsection 192(4) in respect of a share issued by it shall not be included in computing its income.

(2) Definitions — In this section,

"scientific research and experimental development tax credit" of a taxpayer for a taxation year means the amount determined by the formula

$$A - B$$

where

A is the total of all amounts each of which is an amount equal to

(a) where the taxpayer is a corporation, 50%, or

(b) where the taxpayer is an individual other than a trust, 34% of an amount designated by a corporation under subsection 194(4) in respect of

(c) a share acquired by the taxpayer in the year where the taxpayer is the first person, other than a broker or dealer in securities, to be a registered holder thereof,

(d) a bond, debenture, bill, note, mortgage or similar obligation (in this section referred to as a "debt obligation") acquired by the taxpayer in the year where the taxpayer is the first person, other than a broker or dealer in securities, to be a registered holder of that debt obligation, or

(e) a right acquired by the taxpayer in the year where the taxpayer is the first person, other than a broker or dealer in securities, to have acquired that right, and

B is the total of all amounts required by subsection (5) to be deducted in computing the taxpayer's scientific research and experimental development tax credit for the year;

Related Provisions: 248(1)"scientific research and experimental development tax credit" — Definition applies to entire Act; 257 — Formula cannot calculate to less than zero.

"unused scientific research and experimental development tax credit" of a taxpayer for a taxation year means the amount determined by the formula

$$A - (B + C)$$

where

A is the taxpayer's scientific research and experimental development tax credit for the year,

B is the taxpayer's tax otherwise payable under this Part for the year or, where Division E.1 is applicable to the taxpayer for the year, the amount, if any, by which the taxpayer's tax otherwise payable under this Part for the year exceeds the taxpayer's minimum amount for the year determined under section 127.51, as the case may be, and

C is the taxpayer's refundable Part VIII tax on hand at the end of the year.

Related Provisions: 248(1)"unused scientific research and experimental development tax credit" — Definition applies to entire Act; 257 — Formula cannot calculate to less than zero.

(3) Trust — For the purposes of this section and section 53, where a taxpayer, other than a broker or dealer in securities, is a beneficiary under a trust and an amount is designated by a corporation under subsection 194(4) in respect of a share, debt obligation or right acquired by the trust in a taxation year of the trust where the trust is the first person, other than a broker or dealer in securities, to be a registered holder of the share or debt obligation or to have acquired the right, as the case may be,

(a) the trust may, in its return of income for that year, specify such portion of that amount as may, having regard to all the circumstances (including the terms and conditions of the trust arrangement), reasonably be considered to be attributable to the taxpayer and as was not specified by the trust in respect of any other beneficiary under that trust; and

(b) the portion specified pursuant to paragraph (a) shall be deemed to be an amount designated on the last day of that year by the corporation under subsection 194(4) in respect of a share, debt obligation or right, as the case may be, acquired by the taxpayer on that day where the taxpayer is the first person, other than a broker or dealer in securities, to be a registered holder of the share or debt obligation or to have acquired the right, as the case may be.

Related Provisions: 53(2)(h)(iv) — Deductions from cost base of beneficiary's capital interest in a trust.

(3.1) Exclusion of certain trusts — For the purposes of subsection (3), a trust does not include a trust that is

(a) governed by an employee benefit plan or a revoked deferred profit sharing plan; or

(b) exempt from tax under section 149.

(4) Partnership — For the purposes of this section and section 53, where a taxpayer, other than a broker or dealer in securities, is a member of a partnership and an amount is designated by a corporation under subsection 194(4) in respect of a share, debt obligation or right acquired by the partnership in a taxation year of the partnership where the partnership is the first person, other than a broker or dealer in securities, to be a registered holder of the share or debt obligation or to have acquired the right, as the case may be, such portion of that amount as may reasonably be considered to be the taxpayer's share thereof shall be deemed to be an amount designated on the last day of that year by the corporation under subsection 194(4) in respect of a share, debt obligation or right, as the case may be, acquired by the taxpayer on that day where the taxpayer is the first person, other than a broker or dealer in securities, to be a registered holder of the share or debt obligation or to have acquired the right, as the case may be.

Related Provisions: 53(2)(c)(viii) — Deductions from cost base of partnership interest re scientific research and experimental development tax credit.

(5) Cooperative corporation — Where at any particular time in a taxation year a taxpayer that is a cooperative corporation (within the meaning assigned by subsection 136(2)) has, as required by subsection 135(3), deducted or withheld an amount from a payment made by it to any person pursuant to an allocation in proportion to patronage, the taxpayer may deduct from the amount otherwise required by subsection 135(3) to be remitted to the Receiver General, an amount not exceeding the amount, if any, by which

(a) the amount that would, but for this subsection, be its scientific research and experimental development tax credit for the taxation year in which it made the payment if that year had ended immediately before the particular time

(b) the total of all amounts each of which is the amount deducted by virtue of this subsection from any amount otherwise required to be remitted by subsection 135(3) in respect of payments made by it before the particular time and in the taxation year, and the amount, if any, so deducted from the amount otherwise required to be remitted by subsection 135(3) shall be

(c) deducted in computing the scientific research and experimental development tax credit of the taxpayer for the taxation year, and

(d) deemed to have been remitted by the taxpayer to the Receiver General on account of tax under this Part of the person to whom that payment was made.

(6) Deduction from cost — For the purposes of this Act, where at any time in a taxation year a taxpayer has acquired a share, debt obligation or right and is the first registered holder of the share or debt obligation or the first person to have acquired the right, as the case may be, other than a broker or dealer in securities, and an amount is, at any time, designated by a corporation under subsection 194(4), in respect of the share, debt obligation or right, the following rules apply:

(a) the taxpayer shall be deemed to have acquired the share, debt obligation or right at a cost to the taxpayer equal to the amount by which

(i) its cost to the taxpayer as otherwise determined

exceeds

(ii) 50% of the amount so designated in respect thereof; and

(b) where the amount determined under subparagraph (a)(ii) exceeds the amount determined under subparagraph (a)(i), the excess shall

(i) where the share, debt obligation or right, as the case may be, is a capital property to the taxpayer, be deemed to be a capital gain of the taxpayer for the year from the disposition of that property, and

(ii) in any other case, be included in computing the income of the taxpayer for the year, and the cost to the taxpayer of the share, debt obligation or right, as the case may be, shall be deemed to be nil.

Related Provisions: 194(4.1) — Computation of paid-up capital of designated share.

(7) Partnership — For the purposes of this section and Part VIII, a partnership shall be deemed to be a person and its taxation year shall be deemed to be its fiscal period.

(8) Definition of "tax otherwise payable" — In this section, "tax otherwise payable" under this Part by a taxpayer means the amount that would, but for this section and section 120.1, be the tax payable under this Part by the taxpayer.

(9) Election re first holder — Where a share or debt obligation of a public corporation has been lawfully distributed to the public in accordance with a prospectus, registration statement or similar document filed with a public authority in Canada pursuant to and in accordance with the law of Canada or of any province, and, where required by law, accepted for filing by that public authority, the corporation, if it has designated an amount under subsection 194(4) in respect of the share or debt obligation, may, in the prescribed form required to be filed under that subsection, elect that, for the purposes of this section, the first person, other than a broker or dealer in securities, to have acquired the share or debt obligation, as the case may be, (and no other person) shall be considered to be the first person to be a registered holder thereof.

(10) Calculation of consideration — For greater certainty,

(a) for the purposes of this section and Part VIII, the amount of consideration for which a share, debt obligation or right was acquired and issued or granted includes the amount of any consideration for the designation under subsection 194(4) in respect of the share, debt obligation or right; and

(b) the amount received by a corporation as consideration for a designation under subsection 194(4) in respect of a share, debt obligation or right issued or granted by it shall not be included in computing its income.

127.4 (1) [Labour-sponsored funds tax credit] Definitions — In this section,

"approved share" means a share of the capital stock of a prescribed labour-sponsored venture capital corporation, but does not include

(a) a share issued by a registered labour-sponsored venture capital corporation the venture capital business of which was discontinued before the time of the issue, and

(b) a share issued by a prescribed labour-sponsored venture capital corporation (other than a registered labour-sponsored venture capital corporation) if, at the time of the issue, every province under the laws of which the corporation is a prescribed labour-sponsored venture capital corporation has suspended or terminated its assistance in respect of the acquisition of shares of the capital stock of the corporation;

Proposed Amendment — 127.4(1)"approved share"(b)

(b) a share issued by a prescribed labour-sponsored venture capital corporation that is not a registered labour-sponsored venture capital corporation if, at the time of the issue, no province under the laws (described in section 6701 of the regulations) of which the corporation is registered or established provides assistance in respect of the acquisition of the share;

Application: The February 27, 2004 draft legislation, subsec. 67(1), will amend para. (b) of the definition "approved share" in subsec. 127.4(1) to read as above, applicable to 2003 et seq.

Technical Notes: Subsection 127.4(2) allows an individual (other than a trust) a tax credit for the acquisition of an "approved share", which is defined in subsection 127.4(1) as, generally, a share issued by a prescribed LSVCC. LSVCCs prescribed for this purpose under section 6701 of the Regulations include LSVCCs registered under Part X.3 of the Act, as well as specified provincially registered LSVCCs. Paragraph (b) of the definition "approved share" excludes from the definition certain shares issued by a provincially-registered LSVCC that is not a federally-registered LSVCC. This exclusion applies only in the event that, at the time of the issue of the shares, no assistance is available in respect of the acquisition of such shares because of a suspension or termination of assistance to the LSVCC under the laws of every province in which the LSVCC is registered.

Paragraph (b) of the definition "approved share" is amended to provide that an approved share does not include a share issued by a provincially-registered LSVCC (that is not a federally-registered LSVCC) if, at the time of the issue, no province under the laws of which the corporation is an LSVCC that is a prescribed LSVCC provides assistance in respect of the acquisition of the share. This amendment is provided to have the definition "approved share" better reflect the policy that a federal income tax credit be available in respect of a share issued by a provincially-registered LSVCC (that is not a federally-registered LSVCC) only if a provincial income tax credit is also available in respect of the share.

Paragraph (b) of the definition will continue to apply if, at the time of the issue by such an LSVCC of a share, no assistance is available in respect of the acquisition of shares of the LSVCC because of a suspension or termination of assistance to the LSVCC under the laws of every province in which the LSVCC is registered.

Amended paragraph (b) of the definition will also apply where there has not been a suspension or termination of assistance with respect to the issuance of the LSVCC's shares generally, but assistance is not available with respect to the acquisition of a particular share. For example, if under the laws of a province under which an LSVCC is a prescribed LSVCC, a taxpayer who acquires a share is not entitled to any assistance in respect of the acquisition either because of having reached the age of 65 years or because of the province of residence of the taxpayer, the share will not be treated as an approved share.

Related Provisions: 131(8) — Prescribed LSVCC is a mutual fund corporation; 204.8(2) — Determining when an RLSVCC discontinues its business; 211.7(1)"approved share" — Definition applies to Part XII.5.

History: The definition "approved share" in subsec. 127.4(1) amended by 2000, c. 19, subsec. 36(1), applicable to 1999 et seq. It formerly read:

> "approved share" means a share of the capital stock of a prescribed labour-sponsored venture capital corporation;

The definition "approved share" in subsec. 127.4(1) amended by 1997, c. 25, subsec. 37(1), applicable to 1996 et seq. It formerly read:

> "approved share" means a share of the capital stock of a prescribed labour-sponsored venture capital corporation acquired or irrevocably subscribed and paid for by an individual where the individual is or will be the first person, other than a broker or dealer in securities, to be a registered holder thereof;

"Approved share" in subsec. 127.4(1) substituted by 1994, c. 7, Sch. II (1991, c. 49), subsec. 105(1), applicable after 1988. That definition formerly read:

> "approved share" means a share of the capital stock of a prescribed labour-sponsored venture capital corporation acquired by an individual where the individual is the first person, other than a broker or dealer in securities, to be a registered holder of that share;

Regulations: 100(5) (reduction in withholding where share purchased from payroll); 6701 (prescribed labour-sponsored venture capital corporation).

"labour-sponsored funds tax credit" — [Repealed]

History: The definition "labour-sponsored funds tax credit" in subsec. 127.4(1) repealed by 1997, c. 25, subsec. 37(2), applicable to 1996 et seq. It formerly read:

> "labour-sponsored funds tax credit" of an individual for a taxation year means the amount computed under subsection (3) in respect of the individual for that year;

"net cost" to an individual of an approved share means the amount, if any, by which

(a) the amount of consideration paid by the individual to acquire or subscribe for the share

exceeds

(b) the amount of any assistance (other than an amount included in computing a tax credit of the individual in respect of that share) provided or to be provided by a government, municipality or any public authority in respect of, or for the acquisition of, the share;

Related Provisions: 211.7(1)"net cost" — Definition applies to Part XII.5.

History: "Net cost" in subsec. 127.4(1) amended to substitute that portion preceding para. (b) by 1994, c. 7, Sch. II (1991, c. 49), subsec. 105(1), applicable after 1988. That portion formerly read:

> "net cost" to an individual of an approved share means the amount by which
> (a) the amount of the consideration for which the share was issued to the individual
>

"original acquisition" of a share means the first acquisition of the share, except that

(a) where the share is irrevocably subscribed and paid for before its first acquisition, subject to paragraphs (b) and (c), the original acquisition of the share is the first transaction whereby the share is irrevocably subscribed and paid for,

(b) a share is deemed never to have been acquired and never to have been irrevocably subscribed and paid for unless the first registered holder of the share is, subject to paragraph (c), the first person to either acquire or irrevocably subscribe and pay for the share, and

(c) for the purpose of this definition, a broker or dealer in securities acting in that capacity is deemed never to acquire or subscribe and pay for the share and never to be the registered holder of the share;

Related Provisions: 127.4(5.1) — Direction for original acquisition to be deemed to occur at beginning of year; 204.8(1)"original acquisition" — Definition applies to Part X.3; 211.7(1)"original acquisition" — Definition applies to Part XII.5.

History: The definition "original acquisition" added to subsec. 127.4(1) by 1997, c. 25, subsec. 37(3), applicable after 1995.

"qualifying trust" for an individual in respect of a share means

(a) a trust governed by a registered retirement savings plan, under which the individual is the annuitant, that is not a spousal plan (in this definition having the meaning assigned by subsection 146(1)) in relation to another individual, or

(b) a trust governed by a registered retirement savings plan, under which the individual or the individual's spouse or common-law partner is the annuitant, that is a spousal plan in relation to the individual or the individual's spouse or common-law partner, if the individual and no other person claims a deduction under subsection 127.4(2) in respect of the share;

Proposed Amendment — 127.4(1)"qualifying trust"(a), (b)

(a) a trust governed by a registered retirement savings plan, under which the individual is the annuitant, that is not a spousal or common-law partner plan (in this definition having the meaning assigned by subsection 146(1)) in relation to another individual, or

(b) a trust governed by a registered retirement savings plan, under which the individual or the individual's spouse or common-law partner is the annuitant, that is a spousal or common-law partner plan in relation to the individual or the individual's spouse or common-law partner, if the individual and no other person claims a deduction under subsection 127.4(2) in respect of the share;

Application: The February 27, 2004 draft legislation, subsec. 67(2), will amend paras. (a) and (b) of the definition "qualifying trust" in subsec. 127.4(1) to read as above, applicable to 2001 et seq except that, if a taxpayer and a person have jointly elected under s. 144 of the Modernization of Benefits and Obligations Act, in respect of the 1998, 1999 or 2000 taxation years, the amendment applies to the taxpayer and the person in respect of the applicable taxation year and subsequent taxation years.

Technical Notes: Subsection 127.4(1) contains the definition of "qualifying trust". In 2000, the Act was amended to include common-law partners, but some provisions, including the English version of the definition of "qualifying trust", were overlooked. This definition is therefore amended to correct this omission. The amendment applies, in general, to the 2001 and subsequent taxation years. However, it may apply as of 1998 if the common-law partners jointly choose to be deemed as such, beginning in that year, for the purposes of the application of the Act.

Related Provisions: 127.4(6)(a) — Credit to individual for investment by qualifying trust; 211.7(1)"qualifying trust" — Definition applies to Part XII.5.

History: Para. (b) of the definition "qualifying trust" in subsec. 127.4(1) amended by 2000, c. 12, Sch. 2, s. 1, to replace "spouse" with "spouse or common-law partner", applicable to 2001 et seq., in force July 31, 2000. See also the transitional rules reproduced in the History to 248(1)"common-law partner".

The definition "qualifying trust" in subsec. 127.4(1) amended by 1999, c. 22, subsec. 49(1), applicable to 1998 et seq. It formerly read:

> "qualifying trust" for an individual in respect of a share means a trust governed by a registered retirement savings plan where
> (a) the individual makes contributions to the trust and those contributions (and no other funds) can reasonably be considered to have been used by the trust to acquire or subscribe for the share, and
> (b) the annuitant under the plan is the individual or a spouse of the individual;

The definition "qualifying trust" added to subsec. 127.4(1) by 1994, c. 8, subsec. 17(1), applicable to 1992 et seq.

"tax otherwise payable" by an individual means the amount that, but for this section, would be the individual's tax payable under this Part.

History: The definition "tax otherwise payable" in subsec. 127.4(1) amended by 2000, c. 19, subsec. 36(1), applicable to 1998 et seq.

> "tax otherwise payable" by an individual means the amount that would, but for this section and section 120.1, be the tax payable under this Part by the individual.

(1.1) Amalgamations or mergers — Subsections 204.8(2) and 204.85(3) apply for the purpose of this section.

History: Subsec. 127.4(1.1) added by 2000, c. 19, subsec. 36(2), applicable after February 16, 1999.

(2) Deduction of labour-sponsored funds tax credit — There may be deducted from the tax otherwise payable by an individual (other than a trust) for a taxation year such amount as the individual claims not exceeding the individual's labour-sponsored funds tax credit limit for the year.

Related Provisions: 127.4(5) — Determination of labour-sponsored funds tax credit limit; 211.8 — Repayment of credit on early disposition of share.

History: Subsec. 127.4(2) amended by 1999, c. 22, subsec. 49(2), applicable to 1998 et seq. It formerly read:

> (2) Subject to subsections (3) and (4), there may be deducted from the tax otherwise payable by an individual (other than a trust) for a taxation year such amount as the individual claims not exceeding the individual's labour-sponsored funds tax credit limit for the year.

Subsec. 127.4(2) amended by 1997, c. 25, subsec. 37(4), applicable to 1996 et seq. and, for the 1992 to 1995 taxation years, subsec. (2) shall be read as follows:

> (2) There may be deducted from the tax otherwise payable by an individual (other than a trust) for a taxation year the lesser of $1,000 and the individual's labour-sponsored funds tax credit (determined as if an approved share in respect of which an individual receives a payment under section 211.9 had never been either acquired nor irrevocably subscribed and paid for).

Subsec. (2) formerly read:

> (2) There may be deducted from the tax otherwise payable by an individual (other than a trust) for a taxation year the lesser of $1,000 and the individual's labour-sponsored funds tax credit for the year.

Subsec. 127.4(2) amended by 1994, c. 7, Sch. VIII (1993, c. 24), s. 69, applicable to 1992 et seq. Subsec. (2) formerly read:

> (2) There may be deducted from the tax otherwise payable by an individual (other than a trust) for a taxation year the lesser of $700 and the individual's labour-sponsored funds tax credit for the year.

Regulations: 100(5) (reduction in withholding where share purchased from payroll).

(3) [Repealed]

History: Subsec. 127.4(3) repealed by 1999, c. 22, subsec. 49(3), applicable to 1998 et seq. It formerly read:

> (3) 3-year cooling-off period — Subject to subsection (4), no amount may be deducted under subsection (2) from an individual's tax otherwise payable for a taxation year that ends after 1996 where
> (a) an approved share of the capital stock of a corporation is redeemed, acquired or cancelled by the corporation
> (i) after March 5, 1996 (otherwise than pursuant to a request in writing made to the corporation before March 6, 1996), and
> (ii) in the year or in either of the 2 preceding taxation years; and
> (b) the original acquisition of the share was by the individual or by a qualifying trust for the individual in respect of the share.

Subsec. 127.4(3) amended by 1997, c. 25, subsec. 37(4), applicable to 1996 et seq. Subsec. (3) formerly read:

> (3) Computation of tax credit — The labour-sponsored funds tax credit of an individual for a taxation year is the total of all amounts, in respect of an approved share acquired or irrevocably subscribed and paid for by the individual (or by a qualifying trust for the individual in respect of the share) in the year or within 60 days after the end of the year (to the extent that it was not deducted in computing the individual's tax payable under this Part for the preceding taxation year), each of which is

(a) where a tax credit is provided under the law of a province in respect of the acquisition of, or subscription for, the share by the individual or the trust, and the share is not a share of a registered labour-sponsored venture capital corporation (within the meaning assigned by section 204.8), the amount, if any, by which

(i) 40% of the net cost to the individual or the trust of the share

exceeds

(ii) the amount of the tax credit so provided; and

(b) in any other case, where the information return described in paragraph 204.81(6)(c) in respect of the share was filed with the individual's return of income under this Part for the year (other than a return of income filed under subsection 70(2), paragraph 104(23)(d) or 128(2)(e) or subsection 150(4)), 20% of the net cost to the individual or the trust of the share.

Subsec. 127.4(3) amended by 1994, c. 8, subsec. 17(2), applicable to 1992 et seq. Subsec. (3) formerly read:

(3) The labour-sponsored funds tax credit of an individual for a taxation year is the total of all amounts, in respect of an approved share acquired or irrevocably subscribed and paid for by the individual in the year or within 60 days after the end of the year (to the extent that it was not deducted in computing the individual's tax payable under this Part for the preceding taxation year), each of which is

(a) where a tax credit is provided under the law of a province in respect of the acquisition of, or subscription for, the share by the individual, and the share is not a share of a registered labour-sponsored venture capital corporation (within the meaning assigned by section 204.8), the amount, if any, by which

(i) 40% of the net cost to the individual of the share

exceeds

(ii) the amount of the tax credit so provided, and

(b) in any other case, where the information return described in paragraph 204.81(6)(c) in respect of the share is filed with the individual's return of income under this Part for the year (other than a return of income filed under subsection 70(2), paragraph 104(23)(d) or 128(2)(e) or subsection 150(4)), 20% of the net cost to the individual of the share.

Subsec. 127.4(3) substituted by 1994, c. 7, Sch. II (1991, c. 49), subsec. 105(2), applicable after 1988. Subsec. (3) formerly read:

(3) The labour-sponsored funds tax credit of an individual for a taxation year is the total of all amounts in respect of an approved share acquired by the individual in the year or within 60 days after the end of the year (to the extent it was not deducted in computing the individual's tax payable under this Part for the immediately preceding taxation year), each of which is

(a) where a tax credit is provided under the law of a province in respect of the acquisition of the share by the individual, the amount, if any, by which

(i) 40% of the net cost to the individual of the share

exceeds

(ii) the amount of the tax credit so provided, and

(b) in any other case, 20% of the net cost to the individual of the share.

(4) [Repealed]

History: Subsec. 127.4(4) repealed by 1999, c. 22, subsec. 49(3), applicable to 1998 et seq. It formerly read:

(4) Exceptions to cooling-off period — Subsection (3) does not apply to an individual for a taxation year as a consequence of the redemption, acquisition or cancellation of a share where

(a) the individual dies in the year and before the redemption, acquisition or cancellation;

(b) the individual's labour-sponsored funds tax credit in respect of the original acquisition of the share is nil;

(c) tax becomes payable under Part XII.5 because of the redemption, acquisition or cancellation;

(d) an amount determined under regulations made for the purpose of clause 204.81(1)(c)(v)(F) is directed to be remitted to the Receiver General in order to permit the redemption, acquisition or cancellation; or

(e) the individual becomes either disabled and permanently unfit for work or terminally ill in the year

(i) after the last original acquisition in the year of any approved share by the individual or by a qualifying trust for the individual in respect of that share, and

(ii) before the redemption, acquisition or cancellation.

Subsec. 127.4(4) amended by 1997, c. 25, subsec. 37(4), applicable to 1996 et seq. Subsec. (4) formerly read:

(4) Idem — Notwithstanding subsection (3), where paragraph (3)(a) applies in computing an individual's labour-sponsored funds tax credit for a taxation year in respect of an approved share and the amount of the tax credit referred to in that paragraph is less than 20% of the consideration for which the share was issued, the amount determined under that paragraph for the year in respect of the share shall be deemed to be nil.

Subsec. 127.4(4) amended by 1994, c. 8, subsec. 17(2), applicable to 1992 et seq. Subsec. (4) formerly read:

(4) Notwithstanding subsection (3), where paragraph (3)(a) is applicable in computing an individual's labour-sponsored fund tax credit for a taxation year in respect of an approved share acquired by the individual and the amount of the tax credit referred to in that paragraph is less than 20% of the consideration for which the share was issued, the amount determined under that paragraph for the year in respect of the share shall be deemed to be nil.

(5) Labour-sponsored funds tax credit limit — For the purpose of subsection (2), an individual's labour-sponsored funds tax credit limit for a taxation year is the lesser of

(a) $750, and

(b) the amount, if any, by which

(i) the total of all amounts each of which is the individual's labour-sponsored funds tax credit in respect of an original acquisition in the year or in the first 60 days of the following taxation year of an approved share

exceeds

(ii) the portion of the total described in subparagraph (i) that was deducted under subsection (2) in computing the individual's tax payable under this Part for the preceding taxation year.

History: Para. 127.4(5)(a) amended by 1999, c. 22, subsec. 49(4), applicable to 1998 et seq. It formerly read:

(a) $525, and

Subsec. 127.4(5) added by 1997, c. 25, subsec. 37(4), applicable to 1996 et seq., except that in its application to the 1996 taxation year, subsec. (5) shall be read as follows:

(5) For the purpose of subsection (2), an individual's labour-sponsored funds tax credit limit for a taxation year is the lesser of

(a) the total of

(i) the lesser of $1,000 and the amount, if any, by which

(A) the total of all amounts each of which is the individual's labour-sponsored funds tax credit in respect of an original acquisition after 1995 and before March 6, 1996 of an approved share

exceeds

(B) such portion of the amount deducted under subsection (2) in computing the individual's tax payable under this Part for the 1995 taxation year as is attributable to the original acquisition after 1995 of an approved share, and

(ii) the amount, if any, by which $525 exceeds the amount determined under subparagraph (i) in respect of the individual for the year, and

(b) the amount, if any, by which

(i) the total of all amounts each of which is the individual's labour-sponsored funds tax credit in respect of an original acquisition in the year or in the first 60 days of the following taxation year of an approved share

(ii) the portion of the total described in subparagraph (i) that was deducted under subsection (2) in computing the individual's tax payable under this Part for the preceding taxation year.

(5.1) Deemed original acquisition — If the Minister so directs, an original acquisition of an approved share that occurs in an individual's taxation year (other than in the first 60 days of the year) is deemed for the purpose of this section to have occurred at the beginning of the year and not at the time it actually occurred.

History: Subsec. 127.4(5.1) added by 1999, c. 22, subsec. 49(5), applicable to acquisitions that are made after 1997.

(6) Labour-sponsored funds tax credit — For the purpose of subsection (5), an individual's labour-sponsored funds tax credit in respect of an original acquisition of an approved share is equal to the least of

(a) 15% of the net cost to the individual (or to a qualifying trust for the individual in respect of the share) for the original acquisition of the share by the individual or by the trust,

(b) nil, where the share was issued by a registered labour-sponsored venture capital corporation unless the information return described in paragraph 204.81(6)(c) is filed with the individual's return of income for the taxation year for which a claim is made under subsection (2) in respect of the original acquisition of the share (other than a return of income filed under subsection 70(2), paragraph 104(23)(d) or 128(2)(e) or subsection 150(4)),

(c) nil, where the individual dies after December 5, 1996 and before the original acquisition of the share, and

(d) nil, where a payment in respect of the disposition of the share has been made under section 211.9.

Related Provisions: 211.7(1)"labour-sponsored funds tax credit" — Determination of credit for purposes of Part XII.5 where share redeemed early.

(iii) the total of all amounts otherwise so deductible, and

(iv) the total of all amounts each of which is the individual's share of any income of the partnership for the fiscal period, determined in accordance with subsection 96(1);

(c.3) the total of all amounts each of which is an amount deductible in computing the individual's income for the year in respect of a property for which an identification number is required to be, or has been, obtained under section 237.1 (other than an amount to which any of paragraphs (b) to (c.2) applies) were nil;

(d) except in respect of dispositions of property occurring before 1986 or to which section 79 applies,

(i) the references to the fraction applicable to the individual for the year in each of paragraphs 38(a), (b) and (c) and section 41 were read as a reference to "4/5", other than in the case of a capital gain from a disposition that is the making of a gift of property to a qualified donee, and

(ii) each amount (other than an amount to which subsection 104(21.4) applies) that is designated by a trust for a particular year of the trust in respect of the individual and deemed by subsection 104(21) to be a taxable capital gain for the year of the individual were equal to the amount obtained by the formula

$$4/5 (A \times 1/B)$$

where

A is the amount so deemed to be a taxable capital gain for the year of the individual, and

B is the fraction in paragraph 38(a) applicable to the trust for the particular year of the trust for which the designation is made;

Proposed Addition — 127.52(1)(d)(iii)

(iii) this Act were read without reference to subsection 104(21.6);

Application: The February 27, 2004 draft legislation, s. 68, will add para. 127.52(1)(d)(iii), applicable to 2000 et seq.

Technical Notes (December 20, 2002): Paragraph 127.52(1)(d) provides that in computing an individual's adjusted taxable income for minimum tax purposes, the total amount of capital gains and losses is to be taken into account. In some cases, because of subsection 104(21.6) (which in some cases deems a taxpayer to have realised a larger capital gain than was actually realised) more than the total amount of capital gains and losses would be taken into account. Excess capital gains are deemed by subsection 104(21.6) to have been realized in order that the inclusion rate for capital gains realized on property disposed of by a trust prior to February 28, 2000 is 3/4 and property disposed of by a trust after February 27, 2000 and before October 18, 2000 is 2/3. Paragraph 127.52(1)(d) is therefore amended to ensure that only the actual amount of the gain is included in computing the alternative minimum tax.

(e) the total of all amounts deductible under section 65, 66, 66.1, 66.2, 66.21 or 66.4 or under subsection 29(10) or (12) of the Income Tax Application Rules in computing the individual's income for the year were the lesser of the amounts otherwise so deductible by the individual for the year and the total of

(i) the individual's income for the year from royalties in respect of, and such part of the individual's income, other than royalties, for the year as may reasonably be considered as attributable to, the production of petroleum, natural gas and minerals, determined before deducting those amounts, and

(ii) all amounts included in computing the individual's income for the year under section 59;

(e.1) the total of all amounts each of which is an amount deductible under any of paragraphs 20(1)(c) to (f) in computing the individual's income for the year in respect of a property that is a flow-through share (if the individual is the person to whom the share was issued under an agreement referred to in the definition "flow-through share" in subsection 66(15)), a Canadian resource property or a foreign resource property were the lesser of the total of the amounts otherwise so determined for the year and the amount, if any, by which

(i) the total of all amounts each of which is an amount described in subparagraph (e)(i) or (ii), determined without reference to paragraphs 20(1)(c) to (f),

exceeds

(ii) the total of all amounts each of which is an amount deductible under section 65, 66, 66.1, 66.2, 66.21 or 66.4 or under subsection 29(10) or (12) of the Income Tax Application Rules in computing the individual's income for the year;

(f) subsection 82(1) were read without reference to that portion following paragraph 82(1)(a);

(g) the total of all amounts deductible under section 104 in computing the income of a trust for the year were equal to the total of

(i) the total of all amounts otherwise deductible under that section, and

(ii) the total of all amounts each of which is 3/5 of

(A) amounts designated by the trust under subsection 104(21) for the year, or

(B) that portion of a net taxable capital gain of the trust that may reasonably be considered to

(I) be part of an amount included, by virtue of subsection 104(13) or section 105, in computing the income for the year of a non-resident beneficiary of the trust, or

(II) have been paid in the year by a trust governed by an employee benefit plan to a beneficiary thereunder;

(h) the only amounts deductible under sections 110 to 110.7 in computing the individual's taxable income for the year or taxable income earned in Canada for the year, as the case may be, were

(i) the amounts deducted under any of subsections 110(2), 110.6(2), (2.1), (3) and (12) and 110.7(1),

(ii) the amount deducted under paragraph 110(1)(d), not exceeding the total of

(A) twice the amount deducted under paragraph 110(1)(d.01), and

(B) 2/5 of the amount, if any, by which

(I) the amount deducted under paragraph 110(1)(d)

exceeds

(II) the amount determined under clause (A),

(iii) the amount deducted under paragraph 110(1)(d.01),

(iv) 2/5 of the amounts deducted under any of paragraphs 110(1)(d.1) to (d.3),

(v) the amount that would be deductible under paragraph 110(1)(f) if paragraph (d) were applicable in computing the individual's income for the year; and

(vi) the amount deducted under paragraph 110(1)(g);

(h.1) the formula in paragraph 110.6(21)(a) were read as

A – B

(i) in computing the individual's taxable income for the year or the individual's taxable income earned in Canada for the year, as the case may be, the only amounts deductible under

(i) paragraphs 111(1)(a), (c), (d) and (e) were the lesser of

(A) the amount deducted under those paragraphs for the year, and

(B) the total of all amounts that would be deductible under those paragraphs for the year if

(I) paragraphs (b), (c) and (e) of this subsection, as they read in respect of taxation years that began after 1985 and before 1995, applied in computing the individual's non-capital loss, restricted farm loss, farm loss and limited partnership loss for any of those years, and

(II) paragraphs (b) to (c.3), (e) and (e.1) of this subsection applied in computing the individual's non-capital loss, restricted farm loss, farm loss and limited partnership loss for any taxation year that begins after 1994, and

(ii) paragraph 111(1)(b) were the lesser of

(A) the total of all amounts each of which is an amount that can reasonably be considered to be the amount that the individual would have deducted under paragraph 111(1)(b) had paragraph (d) of this subsection been applicable in computing the amount deductible under paragraph 111(1)(b), and

(B) the total of all amounts that would be deductible under that paragraph for the year if

(I) paragraph (d) of this subsection applied in computing the individual's net capital loss for any taxation year that began before 1995, and

(II) paragraphs (c.1) and (d) of this subsection applied in computing the individual's net capital loss for any taxation year that begins after 1994; and

(j) the Income Tax Application Rules were read without reference to section 40 of that Act.

History: Subpara. 127.52(1)(h)(vi) added by 2002, c. 9, s. 40, applicable to 1997 et seq. and, notwithstanding subsecs. 152(4) to (5), any assessment of a taxpayer's tax, interest or penalty for any taxation year shall be made that is necessary to give effect to the amendment.

Para. 127.52(1)(d) amended by 2001, c. 17, subsec. 119(1), applicable to 2000 et seq. Para. (d) formerly read:

(d) except in respect of dispositions of property occurring before 1986 or to which section 79 applies,

(i) sections 38 and 41 were read without the references therein to "3/4 of", other than in the case of a capital gain from a disposition that is the making of a gift of property to a qualified donee (as defined in subsection 149.1(1)), and

(ii) each amount deemed by subsection 104(21) to be a taxable capital gain for the year of the individual were equal to 4/3 of that amount;

The opening words of para. 127.52(1)(e) amended by the said c. 17, subsec. 119(2), to add reference to "66.21", applicable to taxation years that begin after 2000.

Subpara. 127.52(1)(e.i)(ii) amended by the said c. 17, subsec. 119(3), to add reference to "66.21", applicable to taxation years that begin after 2000.

The opening words of subpara. 127.52(1)(g)(ii) amended by the said c. 17, subsec. 119(4) to substitute "3/5" for "1/3", applicable to 2000 et seq.

Para. 127.52(1)(h) amended by the said c. 17, subsec. 119(5), applicable to 2000 et seq. except that, for the 2000 taxation year, cl. 127.52(1)(h)(ii)(A) shall be read as follows:

(A) the total of

(I) twice the amount deducted under paragraph 110(1)(d.01) in respect of benefits that the individual is deemed by paragraph 7(1)(a) to have received in the year as a result of transactions, events or circumstances that occur after October 17, 2000, and

(II) the amount deducted under paragraph 110(1)(d.01) in respect of benefits that the individual is deemed by paragraph 7(1)(a) to have received in the year as a result of transactions, events or circumstances that occur before October 18, 2000, and

Para. (h) formerly read:

(h) the only amounts deductible under sections 110 to 110.7 in computing the individual's taxable income for the year or taxable income earned in Canada for the year, as the case may be, were the amounts deducted under any of subsections 110(2), 110.6(2), (2.1), (3) and (12) and 110.7(1) and the amount that would be deductible

under paragraph 110(1)(f) if paragraph (d) were applicable in computing the individual's income for the year;

Para. 127.52(1)(a) repealed by 1999, c. 22, subsec. 50(2), applicable to 1998 et seq. The para. formerly read:

(a) the total of all amounts deductible under any of paragraphs 8(1)(m) and 60(i) to (j.2) in computing the individual's income for the year were the lesser of

(i) the total of the amounts otherwise so deductible, and

(ii) the total of

(A) the amount otherwise so deductible under paragraph 60(i) by reason of subsection 146(6.1), and

(B) all amounts each of which was included in computing the individual's income for the year and is a single payment out of or under a deferred profit sharing plan, a superannuation or pension fund or plan or a foreign retirement arrangement

(I) as a consequence of the death, withdrawal from the fund, plan or arrangement or termination of employment of a person,

(II) on the winding-up of the fund, plan or arrangement in full satisfaction of all rights of the payee in or under the fund, plan or arrangement, or

(III) to which the individual is entitled because of an amendment to the fund, plan or arrangement;

Subsec. 50(1) of the said c. 22 provides the following transitional rule, applicable to 1994 et seq. and, notwithstanding subsecs 152(4) to (5) of the Act, such assessment of an individual's tax payable under the Act for any taxation year shall be made as is necessary to take into account the application of subsec. 50(1).

(1) Where an individual's tax payable under Part I of the Act for a particular taxation year that began after 1993 and before 1998 is greater than the tax that would have been so payable if the Act were read without reference to paragraph 127.52(1)(a) and the individual was resident in Canada throughout, and was not a bankrupt at any time in, the period that began immediately after the end of the particular year and that ended at the end of 1997, the individual's minimum amount for the particular year under section 127.51 of the Act is deemed to be equal to the amount, if any, by which

(a) the amount that would be the individual's minimum amount for the particular year determined without reference to this subsection

exceeds

(b) the part of the individual's additional tax for the particular year determined under subsection 120.2(3) of the Act that can reasonably be considered to be attributable to the application of paragraph 127.52(1)(a) of the Act and not deductible in computing the individual's tax payable under Part I of the Act for any of the taxation years that began after the end of the particular year and before 1998.

Paras. 127.52(1)(b) and (c) amended, and paras. (c.1) to (c.3), (e.1), and (h.1), added, by 1998, c. 19, subsec. 150(1)–(3), paras. (b), (c) to (c.3), and (e.1) applicable to taxation years of an individual that begin after 1994, and (h.1) applicable to the 1994 and 1995 taxation years. Paras. 127.52(1)(b) and (c) formerly read:

(b) the total of all amounts deductible by the individual under paragraph 20(1)(a) for the year in respect of residential properties were the lesser of the total of all amounts otherwise so deductible by the individual for the year and the amount, if any, by which

(i) the total of the individual's incomes for the year from the renting or leasing of residential properties owned by the individual or by a partnership, computed without reference to paragraph 20(1)(a),

exceeds

(ii) the total of the individual's losses for the year from the renting or leasing of residential properties owned by the individual or by a partnership, computed without reference to paragraph 20(1)(a);

(c) the total of all amounts deductible by the individual under paragraph 20(1)(a) for the year in respect of film properties were the lesser of the total of all amounts otherwise so deductible by the individual for the year and the amount, if any, by which

(d) except in respect of dispositions of property occurring before 1986 or to which section 79 applies, sections 38 and 41 were read without the references to the fraction set out in those two sections;

Cl. 127.52(1)(a)(ii)(B) substituted by 1994, c. 7, Sch. II (1991, c. 49), subsec. 106(1), applicable to 1990 et seq. That cl. formerly read:

(B) the total of all amounts each of which was included in computing the individual's income for the year and which is a single payment out of or under a deferred profit sharing plan or a superannuation or pension fund or plan

(I) as a consequence of the death, withdrawal from the fund or plan or termination of employment of a person,

(II) on the winding-up of the fund or plan in full satisfaction of all rights of the payee in or under the fund or plan, or

(III) to which the individual is entitled by virtue of an amendment to the fund or plan;

Para. 127.52(1)(h) substituted by 1994, c. 7, Sch. II (1991, c. 49), subsec. 106(2), applicable to 1986 et seq., except that in its application to the 1986 to 1988 taxation years the para. shall be read as follows:

(h) the only amounts deductible under sections 110 to 110.7 in computing the individual's taxable income for the year or the individual's taxable income earned in Canada for the year, as the case may be, were the amounts deducted under any of paragraph 110(1)(i) and subsections 110(2), 110.6(2), (2.1), (3) and (12) and 110.7(1) of this Act and subsection 110.4(1) of the Income Tax Act, chapter 148 of the Revised Statutes of Canada, 1952, as it applied to taxation years ending before 1988 and the amount that would be deductible under paragraph 110(1)(f) if paragraph (d) were applicable in computing the individual's income for the year;

Para. (1)(h) formerly read:

(h) the only amounts deductible under sections 110 to 110.7 in computing the individual's taxable income for the year or the individual's taxable income earned in Canada for the year, as the case may be, were the amounts deducted under any of paragraphs 110(1)(f) and (i) and subsections 110(2), 110.6(2), (2.1), (3) and (12) and 110.7(1) of this Act and subsection 110.4(1) of the Income Tax Act, chapter 148 of the Revised Statutes of Canada, 1952, computed without reference to this section;

Subpara. 127.52(1)(i)(i) substituted by 1994, c. 7, Sch. II (1991, c. 49), subsec. 106(3), applicable to taxation years beginning after 1985. Subpara. (1)(i)(i) formerly read:

(i) paragraphs 111(1)(a), (c) and (d) were the lesser of

(A) the amount deducted under each of those paragraphs, and

(B) the amount that would be deductible under each of those paragraphs if paragraphs (b), (c) and (e) of this subsection were applicable in determining the amount for E in the definition "non-capital loss" in subsection 111(8) for any taxation year commencing after 1985, and

Advance Tax Rulings: ATR-28: Redemption of capital stock of family farm corporation.

(2) Partnerships — For the purposes of subsection (1) and this subsection, any amount deductible under a provision of this Act in computing the income or loss of a partnership for a fiscal period is, to the extent of a member's share of the partnership's income or loss, deemed to be deductible by the member under that provision in computing the member's income for the taxation year in which the fiscal period ends.

History: Subsec. 127.52(2) amended by 1998, c. 19, subsec. 150(6), applicable to taxation years of an individual that begin after 1994. Subsec. 127.52(2) formerly read:

(2) For the purposes of paragraphs (1)(b) and (c), where an individual was a member of that partnership at the end of its fiscal period, any amount deducted by that partnership as a deduction under paragraph 20(1)(a) in respect of a residential property or a film property in computing its income shall, to the extent of the individual's share thereof, be deemed to have been deducted by the individual under that paragraph in computing the individual's income in respect of the property for the taxation year in which the fiscal period ended.

(2.1) Specified member of a partnership — Where it can reasonably be considered that one of the main reasons that a member of a partnership was not a specified member of the partnership at all times since becoming a member of the partnership is to avoid the application of this section to the member's interest in the partnership, the member is deemed for the purpose of this section to have been a specified member of the partnership at all times since becoming a member of the partnership.

Related Provisions: 40(3.131) — Parallel rule for negative adjusted cost base of partnership interest.

History: Subsec. 127.52(2.1) added by 1998, c. 19, subsec. 150(7), applicable after April 26, 1995.

(3) Definitions — For the purposes of this section,

"film property" means a property described in paragraph (n) of Class 12, or paragraph (w) of Class 10, of Schedule II to the Income Tax Regulations;

"limited partner" has the meaning that would be assigned by subsection 96(2.4) if that subsection were read without reference to "if the member's partnership interest is not an exempt interest (within the meaning assigned by subsection (2.5)) at that time and";

History: The definition "limited partner" added to subsec. 127.52(3) by 1998, c. 19, subsec. 150(9), applicable to taxation years of an individual that begin after 1994.

127.531 Basic minimum tax credit determined — An individual's basic minimum tax credit for a taxation year is the total of amounts that may be deducted in computing the individual's tax payable for the year under this Part under any of subsections 118(1) and (2), sections 118.1 and 118.2, subsection 118.3(1) and sections 118.5 to 118.7.

Proposed Amendment — 127.531

127.531 Basic minimum tax credit determined — An individual's basic minimum tax credit for a taxation year is the total of all amounts each of which is

(a) an amount deducted under subsection 118(1) or (2) or 118.3(1) or any of sections 118.5 to 118.7 in computing the individual's tax payable for the year under this Part, or

(b) the amount that was claimed under section 118.1 or 118.2 in computing the individual's tax payable for the year under this Part, determined without reference to this Division, to the extent that the amount claimed does not exceed the maximum amount deductible under that section in computing the individual's tax payable for the year under this Part, determined without reference to this Division.

Application: The February 27, 2004 draft legislation, s. 69, will amend s. 127.531 to read as above, applicable to 2002 et seq.

Technical Notes (December 20, 2002): Section 127.51 provides for the calculation of an individual's minimum tax for a taxation year. An individual's minimum tax is determined by the formula:

$$A \times (B - C) - D$$

where

A is the appropriate percentage (16%);

B is the individual's taxable income;

C is the individual's basic minimum tax exemption; and

D is the individual's basic tax credit determined under section 127.531.

Section 127.531 permits an individual to claim a deduction in computing minimum tax for most non-refundable personal tax credits.

Section 127.531 is amended to clarify [actually to change the law by overruling David M. Sherman v. The Queen, [2000] 1 C.T.C. 2696 (TCC) — ed.] that the amount deductible for minimum tax purposes in respect of a particular tax credit referred to in that section is equal to the amount that would be deductible for regular income tax purposes if minimum tax were not applicable. For example, if the total of an individual's eligible charitable gifts for a year is $10,000 and the individual chooses to claim only $8,000 for Part I tax purposes, in computing the individual's basic credit for minimum tax purposes only $8,000 may be taken into account.

Selected Cases [s. 127.531]: Sherman v. R., [2000] 1 C.T.C. 2696 (TCC) ("May be deducted" not the same as "has been deducted").

Definitions [s. 127.531]: "amount", "individual" — 248(1); "tax payable" — 248(2); "taxation year" — 249.

127.54 (1) Definitions — In this section,

"foreign income" of an individual for a taxation year means the total of

(a) the individual's incomes for the year from businesses carried on by the individual in countries other than Canada, and

(b) the individual's incomes for the year from sources in countries other than Canada in respect of which the individual has paid non-business-income taxes, within the meaning assigned by subsection 126(7), to governments of countries other than Canada;

"foreign taxes" of an individual for a taxation year means the total of the business-income taxes, within the meaning assigned by subsection 126(7), paid by the individual for the year in respect of businesses carried on by the individual in countries other than Canada and ⅔ of the non-business-income taxes, within the meaning assigned by that subsection, paid by the individual for the year to the governments of countries other than Canada.

(2) Foreign tax credit — For the purposes of section 127.5, an individual's special foreign tax credit for a taxation year is the greater of

(a) the total of all amounts deductible under section 126 from the individual's tax for the year, and

(b) the lesser of

(i) the individual's foreign taxes for the year, and

(ii) 16% of the individual's foreign income for the year.

History: Subpara. 127.54(2)(b)(ii) amended by 2001, c. 17, s. 120, to substitute "16%" for "17%", applicable to 2001 et seq.

127.55 Application of section 127.5 — Section 127.5 does not apply in respect of

(a) a return of income of an individual filed under subsection 70(2), paragraph 104(23)(d) or 128(2)(e) or subsection 150(4);

(b) [Repealed]

(c) an individual for the taxation year in which the individual dies;

(d) an individual for the 1986 taxation year if the individual dies in 1987;

(e) a trust described in paragraph 104(4)(a) or (a.1) for its taxation year that includes the day determined in respect of the trust under that paragraph; and

(f) a taxation year of a trust throughout which the trust is

(i) a related segregated fund trust (within the meaning assigned by paragraph 138.1(1)(a)),

(ii) a mutual fund trust, or

(iii) a trust prescribed to be a master trust.

History: Para. 127.55(b) repealed by 2001, c. 17, s. 121, applicable to 1996 et seq. Para. (b) formerly read:

(b) a taxation year of an individual in respect of which the individual has made an election under section 119;

Para. 127.55(f) added by 1998, c. 19, s. 151, applicable to 1992 et seq.

Para. 127.55(e) amended by 1994, c. 7, Sch. VIII (1993, c. 24), s. 71, applicable to 1993 et seq. Para. (e) formerly read:

(e) a trust described in paragraph 104(4)(a) for its taxation year in which the spouse referred to in that paragraph dies.

Para. 127.55(e) added by 1994, c. 7, Sch. II (1991, c. 49), s. 107, applicable to 1986 et seq.

Application: Bill C-37, Federal Law — Civil Law Harmonization Act, No. 2 (First Reading May 13, 2004), subsec. 201(2), will replace "receiving order" with "bankruptcy order" in subpara. 128(2)(c)(i), in force on Royal Assent.

(ii) any dealing in the estate of the bankrupt or any act performed in the carrying on of the business of the bankrupt estate by the trustee was done as agent on behalf of the bankrupt and any income of the trustee from such dealing or carrying on is income of the bankrupt and not of the trustee;

(d) except for the purposes of subsections 146(1), 146.01(4) and 146.02(4) and Part X.1,

(i) a taxation year of the individual is deemed to have begun at the beginning of the day on which the individual became a bankrupt, and

(ii) the individual's last taxation year that began before that day is deemed to have ended immediately before that day;

(d.1) where, by reason of paragraph (d), a taxation year of the individual is not a calendar year,

(i) paragraph 146(5)(b) shall, for the purpose of the application of subsection 146(5) to the taxation year, be read as follows:

"(b) the amount, if any, by which

(i) the taxpayer's RRSP deduction limit for the particular calendar year in which the taxation year ends

exceeds

(ii) the total of the amounts deducted under this subsection and subsection (5.1) in computing the taxpayer's income for any preceding taxation year that ends in the particular calendar year.", and

(ii) paragraph 146(5.1)(b) shall, for the purpose of the application of subsection 146(5.1) to the taxation year, be read as follows:

"(b) the amount, if any, by which

(i) the taxpayer's RRSP deduction limit for the particular calendar year in which the taxation year ends

exceeds

(ii) the total of the amount deducted under subsection (5) in computing the taxpayer's income for the year and the amounts deducted under this subsection and subsection (5) in computing the taxpayer's income for any preceding taxation year that ends in the particular calendar year.";

(d.2) where, by reason of paragraph (d), the individual has two taxation years ending in a calendar year, each amount deducted in computing the individual's income for either of the taxation years shall be deemed, for the purposes of the definition "unused RRSP deduction room" in subsection 146(1) and Part X.1, to have been deducted in computing the individual's income for the calendar year;

(e) where the individual was a bankrupt at any time in a calendar year the trustee shall, within 90 days from the end of the year, file a return with the Minister, in prescribed form, on behalf of the individual of the individual's income for any taxation year occurring in the calendar year computed as if

(i) the only income of the individual for that taxation year was the income for the year, if any, arising from dealings in the estate of the bankrupt or acts performed in the carrying on of the business of the bankrupt by the trustee,

(ii) in computing the individual's taxable income for that taxation year, no deduction were permitted by Division C, other than

(A) an amount under any of paragraphs 110(1)(d) to (d.3) and section 110.6 to the extent that the amount is in respect of an amount included in income under subparagraph (i) for that taxation year, and

(B) an amount under section 111 to the extent that the amount was in respect of a loss of the individual for any taxation year that ended before the individual was discharged absolutely from bankruptcy, and

(iii) in computing the individual's tax payable under this Part for that taxation year, no deduction were allowed

(A) under section 118, 118.2, 118.3, 118.5, 118.6, 118.8 or 118.9,

(B) under section 118.1 with respect to a gift made by the individual on or after the day the individual became bankrupt,

(B.1) under section 118.62 with respect to interest paid on or after the day on which the individual became bankrupt, and

(C) under subsection 127(5) with respect to an expenditure incurred or property acquired by the individual in any taxation year that ends after the individual was discharged absolutely from bankruptcy, and the trustee is liable to pay any tax so determined for that taxation year;

(f) notwithstanding paragraph (e), the individual shall file a separate return of the individual's income for any taxation year during which the individual was a bankrupt, computed as if

(i) the income required to be reported in respect of the year by the trustee under paragraph (e) was not the income of the individual,

(ii) in computing income, the individual was not entitled to deduct any loss sustained by the trustee in the year in dealing with the estate of the bankrupt or in carrying on the business of the bankrupt,

(iii) in computing the individual's taxable income for the year, no amount were deductible under any of paragraphs 110(1)(d) to (d.3) and section 110.6 in respect of an amount included in income under subparagraph (e)(i), and no amount were deductible under section 111, and

(iv) in computing the individual's tax payable under this Part for the year, no amount were deductible under

(A) section 118.1 in respect of a gift made before the day on which the individual became bankrupt,

(B) section 118.62 in respect of interest paid before the day on which the individual became bankrupt, or

(C) section 118.61 or 120.2 or subsection 127(5), and the individual is liable to pay any tax so determined for that taxation year;

(g) notwithstanding subparagraphs (e)(ii) and (iii) and (f)(iii) and (iv), where at any time an individual was discharged absolutely from bankruptcy,

(i) in computing the individual's taxable income for any taxation year that ends after that time, no amount shall be deducted under section 111 in respect of losses for taxation years that ended before that time,

(ii) in computing the individual's tax payable under this Part for any taxation year that ends after that time,

(A) no amount shall be deducted under section 118.61 or 120.2 in respect of an amount for any taxation year that ended before that time,

(B) no amount shall be deducted under section 118.1 in respect of a gift made before the individual became bankrupt,

(B.1) no amount shall be deducted under section 118.62 in respect of interest paid before the day on which the individual became bankrupt, and

(C) no amount shall be deducted under subsection 127(5) in respect of an expenditure incurred or a property acquired by the individual in any taxation year that ended before that time, and

(iii) the individual's unused tuition and education tax credits at the end of the last taxation year that ended before that time is deemed to be nil;

(h) where, in a taxation year commencing after an order of discharge has been granted in respect of the individual, the trustee deals in the estate of the individual who was a bankrupt or performs any act in the carrying on of the business of the individual, paragraphs (e), (f) and (g) shall apply as if the individual were a bankrupt in the year; and

(i) the portion of the individual's non-capital loss for a particular taxation year in which paragraph (e) applied in respect of the individual and any preceding taxation year that does not exceed the lesser of

(i) the amount of the individual's allowable business investment losses for the particular taxation year, and

(ii) any portion of the individual's non-capital loss for that particular year that was not deducted in computing the individual's taxable income for any taxation year in which paragraph (e) applied in respect of the individual or any preceding taxation year, shall, for the purpose of determining the individual's cumulative gains limit under section 110.6 for taxation years following the taxation year in which paragraph (e) was last applicable in respect of the individual, be deemed not to have been an allowable business investment loss.

Changes in Residence

128.1 (1) Immigration — For the purposes of this Act, where at a particular time a taxpayer becomes resident in Canada,

(a) year-end, fiscal period — where the taxpayer is a corporation or a trust,

(i) the taxpayer's taxation year that would otherwise include the particular time shall be deemed to have ended immediately before the particular time and a new taxation year of the taxpayer shall be deemed to have begun at the particular time, and

(ii) for the purpose of determining the taxpayer's fiscal period after the particular time, the taxpayer shall be deemed not to have established a fiscal period before the particular time;

(b) deemed disposition — the taxpayer is deemed to have disposed, at the time (in this subsection referred to as the "time of disposition") that is immediately before the time that is immediately before the particular time, of each property owned by the taxpayer, other than, if the taxpayer is an individual,

(i) property that is a taxable Canadian property,

(ii) property that is described in the inventory of a business carried on by the taxpayer in Canada at the time of disposition,

(iii) eligible capital property in respect of a business carried on by the taxpayer in Canada at the time of disposition, and

(iv) an excluded right or interest of the taxpayer (other than an interest in a non-resident testamentary trust that was never acquired for consideration),

(v) [Repealed]

for proceeds equal to its fair market value at the time of disposition;

(c) deemed acquisition — the taxpayer shall be deemed to have acquired at the particular time each property deemed by paragraph (b) to have been disposed of by the taxpayer, at a cost equal to the proceeds of disposition of the property;

(c.1) deemed dividend to immigrating corporation — if the taxpayer is a particular corporation that immediately before the time of disposition owned a share of the capital stock of another corporation resident in Canada, a dividend is deemed to have been paid by the other corporation, and received by the particular corporation, immediately before the time of disposition, equal to the amount, if any, by which the fair market value of the share immediately before the time of disposition exceeds the total of

(i) the paid-up capital in respect of the share immediately before the time of disposition, and

(ii) if the share immediately before the time of disposition was taxable Canadian property that is not treaty-protected property, the amount by which, at the time of disposition, the fair market value of the share exceeds its cost amount;

(c.2) deemed dividend to shareholder of immigrating corporation — if the taxpayer is a corporation and an amount has been added to the paid-up capital in respect of a class of shares of the corporation's capital stock because of paragraph (2)(b),

(i) the corporation is deemed to have paid, immediately before the time of disposition, a dividend on the issued shares of the class equal to the amount of the paid-up capital adjustment in respect of the class, and

(ii) a dividend is deemed to have been received, immediately before the time of disposition, by each person (other than a person in respect of whom the corporation is a foreign affiliate) who held any of the issued shares of the class equal to that proportion of the dividend so deemed to have been paid that the number of shares of the class held by the person immediately before the time of disposition is of the number of issued shares of the class outstanding immediately before the time of disposition; and

(d) foreign affiliate — where the taxpayer was, immediately before the particular time, a foreign affiliate of another taxpayer that is resident in Canada,

(i) the affiliate shall be deemed to have been a controlled foreign affiliate (within the meaning assigned by subsection 95(1)) of the other taxpayer immediately before the particular time, and

(ii) such amount as is prescribed shall be included in the foreign accrual property income (within the meaning assigned by subsection 95(1)) of the affiliate for its taxation year ending immediately before the particular time.

Related Provisions: 44(2)(d) — Exchanges of property; 52(8) — Cost of corporation's shares on its becoming resident in Canada; 53(1)(b.1) — Addition to ACB for deemed dividend under 128.1(1)(c.2); 53(4) — Effect on ACB of share, partnership interest or trust interest; 54"superficial loss"(c) — Superficial loss rule does not apply; 66(4.3) — Foreign exploration and development expenses on becoming resident; 66.21(5) — Foreign resource expenses on becoming resident; 70(5.3) — Value of shares of corporation holding life insurance policy; 84(7) — When deemed dividend payable; 93.1(1) — Where shares are owned by partnership — effect on foreign affiliate definition; 94(3)(c), 94(4)(d) [proposed] — Application to trust deemed resident in Canada; 96(8) — Cost of properties of partnership when partner becomes resident in Canada; 106(1.1)(b) — Deemed cost of income interest in trust; 107(1.1)(b)(ii) — Deemed cost of income interest in trust; 114 — Individual resident during only part of year; 128.1(1.1) — Application of 128.1(1)(b) to a trust; 139.1(5) — Value of ownership rights in insurer during demutualization; 215(1.1) — Limitation on requirement to withhold tax on deemed dividend under 128.1(1)(c.1); Reg. 808(1.1) — Investment allowance for branch tax deemed nil before immigration.

History: Subpara. 128.1(1)(b)(i) amended by 2001, c. 17, subsec. 123(1), applicable to changes in residence that occur after October 1, 1996. The subpara. formerly read:

(i) property that would be taxable Canadian property if the taxpayer had been resident in Canada at no time in the taxpayer's last taxation year that began before the particular time,

Subpara. 128.1(1)(b)(iv) amended and subpara. (v) repealed by the said c. 17, subsec. 123(2), applicable to changes in residence that occur after October 1, 1996. The subparas. formerly read:

(iv) property in respect of which the taxpayer elected under paragraph 48(1)(c), as it read in its application before 1993, or subparagraph (4)(b)(iv) in respect of the last preceding time the taxpayer ceased to be resident in Canada, and

(v) a right to acquire shares of the capital stock of a corporation where section 7 would apply if the taxpayer disposed of the right to a person with whom the taxpayer was dealing at arm's length,

The opening words of para. 128.1(1)(b) amended, paras. 128.1(1)(c.1) and (c.2) added, by 1999, c. 22, subsecs. 52(1), (2), applicable to corporations that become resident in Canada after February 23, 1998. The opening words formerly read:

(b) the taxpayer shall be deemed to have disposed, at the time (in this subsection referred to as the "time of disposition") that is immediately before the time that is immediately before the particular time, of each property owned by the taxpayer, other than

Subsec. 128.1(1) enacted by 1994, c. 21, s. 62, applicable after 1992 except that where a corporation elects in accordance with para. 111(4)(a) of 1994, c. 21 (i.e., elects before the end of December 1994 for new subsec. 250(5.1) to apply in respect of a continuance before 1993), the section applies to the corporation from the time at which the corporation was first granted articles of continuation (or similar constitutional documents) in any jurisdiction.

Regulations: 5907(13) (prescribed amount of FAPI; expected to be amended to apply to 128.1(1)(d)(ii)).

I.T. Application Rules: 26(10) (ITAR 26 does not apply to property owned since before 1972).

Interpretation Bulletins: IT-221R3: Determination of an individual's residence status; IT-259R4: Exchanges of property.

Proposed Addition — 128.1(1.1)

(1.1) Trusts subject to subsection 94(3) — Paragraph (1)(b) does not apply, at a time in a particular taxation year of a trust, to the trust if

(a) the trust

(i) is resident in Canada for the particular taxation year for the purpose of computing its income, and

(ii) is resident in Canada immediately after the end of the particular taxation year for the purpose of computing its income; or

(b) the trust is deemed by paragraph 94(3)(c) to have disposed of property in the particular taxation year.

Application: The October 30, 2003 Notice of Ways and Means Motion (NRTs and FIEs), s. 29, will add subsec. 128.1(1.1), applicable to trust taxation years that begin after 2002, and to trust taxation years that begin

(a) after 2000, if the trust that makes a valid election under para. (a) of the Application of the amendment to s. 94; and

(b) after 2001, if the trust that makes a valid election under para. (a) or (b) of the Application of the amendment to s. 94.

Technical Notes: Subsection 128.1(1) sets out rules that apply where a taxpayer becomes resident in Canada. Paragraph 128.1(1)(b) treats a taxpayer who becomes resident in Canada as having disposed of the taxpayer's property, with certain exceptions, for proceeds equal to the property's fair market value.

New subsection 128.1(1.1) identifies two sets of circumstances in which paragraph 128.1(1)(b) does not apply to a taxpayer that is a trust.

Under paragraph 128.1(1.1)(a), paragraph 128.1(1)(b) will not apply at a time in a particular taxation year of a trust, to the trust if the trust is deemed, under paragraph 94(3)(a), to be resident in Canada for the particular taxation year for the purpose of computing its income and the trust is resident in Canada (determined, because of paragraph 94(4)(b), without reference to the deeming residency rule in paragraph 94(3)(a)) immediately after the end of the particular taxation year for the purpose of computing its income.

Under paragraph 128.1(1.1)(b), paragraph 128.1(1)(b) will not apply at a time in a particular taxation year of a trust, to the trust if the trust is deemed by paragraph 94(3)(c) to have disposed of property in the particular taxation year.

For more detail on subsections 94(3) and (4), see the commentary on those provisions.

Related Provisions: 94(4)(b) [proposed] — Deeming non-resident trust to be resident in Canada does not apply to para. (a).

(2) Paid-up capital adjustment — If a corporation becomes resident in Canada at a particular time,

(a) for the purposes of subsection (1) and this subsection, the "paid-up capital adjustment" in respect of a particular class of shares of the corporation's capital stock in respect of that acquisition of residence is the positive or negative amount determined by the formula

$$(A \times B/C) - D$$

where

A is the amount, if any, by which

(i) the total of all amounts each of which is an amount deemed by paragraph (1)(c) to be the cost to the corporation of property deemed under that paragraph to have been acquired by the corporation at the particular time

exceeds

(ii) the total of all amounts each of which is the amount of a debt owing by the corporation, or any other obligation of the corporation to pay an amount, that is outstanding at the particular time,

B is the fair market value at the particular time of all of the shares of the particular class,

C is the total of all amounts each of which is the fair market value at the particular time of all of the shares of a class of shares of the corporation's capital stock, and

D is the paid-up capital at the particular time, determined without reference to this subsection, in respect of the particular class; and

(b) for the purposes of this Act, in computing the paid-up capital in respect of a class of shares of the corporation's capital stock at any time after the particular time and before the time, if any, at which the corporation next becomes resident in Canada, there shall be

(i) added the amount of the paid-up capital adjustment in respect of the particular class, if that amount is positive and the corporation so elects for all such classes in respect of that acquisition of residence by notifying the Minister in writing within 90 days after the particular time, and

(ii) deducted, if the amount of the paid-up capital adjustment in respect of the particular class is negative, the absolute value of that amount.

Related Provisions: 128.1(1)(c.2) — Deemed dividend to shareholder of immigrating corporation; 257 — Formula cannot calculate to less than zero.

History: Subsec. 128.1(2) amended by 1999, c. 22, subsec. 52(3), applicable to corporations that become resident in Canada after February 23, 1998, except that an election made under subpara. 128.1(2)(b)(i), as amended, is deemed to have been made in a timely manner if it is made by the corporation, with the consent of all who were shareholders of the corporation immediately before the time of disposition (within the meaning assigned by para. 128.1(1)(b)), before April 1, 1999. The subsec. formerly read:

(2) Idem — paid-up capital — For the purposes of this Act, where at a particular time a corporation becomes resident in Canada, in computing the paid-up capital at any time after the particular time in respect of a particular class of shares of the capital stock of the corporation, there shall be deducted the amount determined by the formula

where

A is the paid-up capital, determined without reference to this subsection, of the particular class of shares at the particular time;

B is the paid-up capital, determined without reference to this subsection, in respect of all of the shares of the corporation at the particular time;

C is the total of

(a) the paid-up capital, determined without reference to this subsection, in respect of all of the shares of the corporation at the particular time,

(b) all amounts each of which is the amount of any debt owing by the corporation, or any other obligation of the corporation to pay an amount, that is outstanding at the particular time, and

(c) any amount claimed under paragraph 219(1)(j) by the corporation for its last taxation year that began before the particular time; and

D is the total of

(a) all amounts each of which is deemed by paragraph (1)(c) to be the cost to the corporation of property (other than property described in paragraph (d)) deemed under paragraph (1)(c) to have been acquired by the corporation at the particular time,

(b) all amounts each of which is the cost amount to the corporation, immediately after the particular time, of property (other than a Canadian resource property or property described in paragraph (a) or (d)),

(c) the total of

(i) all Canadian exploration and development expenses incurred by the corporation before the particular time, except to the extent that those expenses were deducted in computing a taxpayer's income for a taxation year that ended before the particular time,

(ii) the corporation's cumulative Canadian exploration expense at the particular time (within the meaning assigned by subsection 66.1(6)),

(iii) the corporation's cumulative Canadian development expense at the particular time (within the meaning assigned by subsection 66.2(5)), and

(iv) the corporation's cumulative Canadian oil and gas property expense at the particular time (within the meaning assigned by subsection 66.4(5)), and

(d) the total of all amounts each of which is the paid-up capital in respect of a share of the capital stock of another corporation resident in Canada and connected with the corporation (within the meaning that would be assigned by subsection 186(4) if the references therein to "payer corporation" and "particular corporation" were read as references to the other corporation and the corporation, respectively) immediately after the particular time, owned by the corporation at the particular time.

Para. (c) of the description of C in subsec. 128.1(2) amended by 1998, c. 19, s. 153, applicable to taxation years that begin after 1995 except that, in its application to taxation years that begin in 1996, the reference in para. (c) to "paragraph 219(1)(j)" shall be read as a reference to "paragraph 219(1)(h) as it read in its application to the 1995 taxation year or paragraph 219(1)(j)". Para. (c) formerly read:

(c) any amount claimed under paragraph 219(1)(h) by the corporation for its last taxation year that began before the particular time; and

Subsec. 128.1(2) enacted by 1994, c. 21, s. 62, applicable after 1992 except that where a corporation elects in accordance with para. 111(4)(a) of 1994, c. 21 (i.e., elects before the end of December 1994 for new subsec. 250(5.1) to apply in respect of a continuance before 1993), the section applies to the corporation from the time at which the corporation was first granted articles of continuation (or similar constitutional documents) in any jurisdiction.

(3) Paid-up capital adjustment — In computing the paid-up capital at any time in respect of a class of shares of the corporation's capital stock, there shall be deducted an amount equal to the lesser of A and B, and added an amount equal to the lesser of A and C, where

A is the absolute value of the difference between

(a) the total of all amounts deemed by subsection 84(3), (4) or (4.1) to be a dividend on shares of the class paid before that time by the corporation, and

(b) the total that would be determined under paragraph (a) if this Act were read without reference to subsection (2),

B is the total of all amounts required by subsection (2) to be added in computing the paid-up capital in respect of the class before that time, and

C is the total of all amounts required by subsection (2) to be subtracted in computing the paid-up capital in respect of the class before that time.

Related Provisions: 66(4.3) — Foreign exploration and development expenses on ceasing to be resident; 66.21(5) — Foreign resource expenses on ceasing to be resident.

History: Subsec. 128.1(3) amended by 1999, c. 22, subsec. 52(3), applicable to corporations that become resident in Canada after February 23, 1998. The subsec. formerly read:

(3) Idem — In computing the paid-up capital at any time in respect of a class of shares of the capital stock of a corporation, there shall be added an amount equal to the lesser of

(a) the amount, if any, by which

(i) the total of all amounts deemed by subsection 84(3), (4) or (4.1) to be a dividend on shares of the class paid before that time by the corporation

exceeds

(ii) the total that would be determined under subparagraph (i) if this Act were read without reference to subsection (2), and

(b) the total of all amounts required by subsection (2) to be deducted in computing the paid-up capital in respect of that class of shares before that time.

Subsec. 128.1(3) enacted by 1994, c. 21, s. 62, applicable after 1992 except that where a corporation elects in accordance with para. 111(4)(a) of 1994, c. 21 (i.e., elects before the end of December 1994 for new subsec. 250(5.1) to apply in respect of a continuance before 1993), the section applies to the corporation from the time at which the corporation was first granted articles of continuation (or similar constitutional documents) in any jurisdiction.

(4) Emigration — For the purposes of this Act, where at any particular time a taxpayer ceases to be resident in Canada,

(a) year-end, fiscal period — where the taxpayer is a corporation or a trust,

(i) the taxpayer's taxation year that would otherwise include the particular time shall be deemed to have ended immediately before the particular time and a new taxation year of the taxpayer shall be deemed to have begun at the particular time, and

(ii) for the purpose of determining the taxpayer's fiscal period after the particular time, the taxpayer shall be deemed not to have established a fiscal period before the particular time;

(a.1) fiscal period — if the taxpayer is an individual (other than a trust) and carries on a business at the particular time, otherwise than through a permanent establishment (as defined by regulation) in Canada,

(i) the fiscal period of the business is deemed to have ended immediately before the particular time and a new fiscal period of the business is deemed to have begun at the particular time, and

(ii) for the purpose of determining the fiscal period of the business after the particular time, the taxpayer is deemed not to have established a fiscal period of the business before the particular time;

(b) deemed disposition — the taxpayer is deemed to have disposed, at the time (in this paragraph and paragraph (d) referred to as the "time of disposition") that is immediately before the time that is immediately before the particular time, of each property owned by the taxpayer other than, if the taxpayer is an individual,

(i) real property situated in Canada, a Canadian resource property or a timber resource property,

(ii) capital property used in, eligible capital property in respect of or property described in the inventory of, a business carried on by the taxpayer through a permanent establishment (as defined by regulation) in Canada at the particular time,

(iii) an excluded right or interest of the taxpayer,

(iv) if the taxpayer is not a trust and was not, during the 120-month period that ends at the particular time, resident in Canada for more than 60 months, property that was owned by the taxpayer at the time the taxpayer last became resident in Canada or that was acquired by the taxpayer by inheritance or bequest after the taxpayer last became resident in Canada, and

(v) any property in respect of which the taxpayer elects under paragraph (6)(a) for the taxation year that includes the first time, after the particular time, at which the taxpayer becomes resident in Canada, for proceeds equal to its fair market value at the time of disposition, which proceeds are deemed to have become receivable and to have been received by the taxpayer at the time of disposition;

(c) reacquisition — the taxpayer shall be deemed to have reacquired, at the particular time, each property deemed by paragraph (b) to have been disposed of by the taxpayer, at a cost equal to the proceeds of disposition of the property;

(d) individual — elective disposition — notwithstanding paragraphs (b) to (c), if the taxpayer is an individual (other than a trust) and so elects in prescribed form and manner in respect of a property described in subparagraph (b)(i) or (ii),

(i) the taxpayer is deemed to have disposed of the property at the time of disposition for proceeds equal to its fair market value at that time and to have reacquired the property at the particular time at a cost equal to those proceeds,

(ii) the taxpayer's income for the taxation year that includes the particular time is deemed to be the greater of

(A) that income determined without reference to this subparagraph, and

(B) the lesser of

(I) that income determined without reference to this subsection, and

(II) that income determined without reference to subparagraph (i), and

(iii) each of the taxpayer's non-capital loss, net capital loss, restricted farm loss, farm loss and limited partnership loss for the taxation year that includes the particular time is deemed to be the lesser of

(A) that amount determined without reference to this subparagraph, and

(B) the greater of

(I) that amount determined without reference to this subsection, and

(II) that amount determined without reference to subparagraph (i); and

(d.1) employee CCPC stock option shares — if the taxpayer is deemed by paragraph (b) to have disposed of a share that was acquired before February 28, 2000 under circumstances to which subsection 7(1.1) applied, there shall be deducted from the taxpayer's proceeds of disposition the amount that would, if section 7 were read without reference to subsection 7(1.6), be added under paragraph 53(1)(j) in computing the adjusted cost base to the taxpayer of the share as a consequence of the deemed disposition.

Related Provisions: 7(1.6) — Deemed disposition does not apply to stock option rules; 10(12) — Non-resident ceasing to use inventory — deemed disposition; 28(4), (4.1) — Farmer or fisherman emigrating; 44(2)(d) — Exchanges of property; 53(4) — Effect on ACB of share, partnership interest or trust interest; 54"superficial loss"(c) — Superficial loss rule does not apply; 66(4)(b) — Foreign exploration and development expenses — deduction after emigration; 70(5.3) — Value of shares of corporation that owns life insurance policy; 74.2(3) — Application of spousal attribution rule to disposition on emigration; 94(4)(e), 94(5) [proposed] — When trust deemed to cease being resident in Canada; 104(4)(a.3) — Deemed disposition of property by trust on emigration of transferor; 106(1.1)(b) — Deemed cost of income interest in trust; 107(1.1)(b)(ii) — Deemed cost of income interest in trust; 114 — Individual resident during only part of year; 119 — Credit where stop-loss rule in 40(3.7) applies; 126(2.2) — Foreign tax credit on property deemed to be taxable Canadian property; 126(2.21), (2.22) — Foreign tax credit after emigration; 128.1(1)(b) — Deemed disposition on immigration; 128.1(5) — Deemed disposition does not increase instalment requirements; 128.1(6) — Returning former resident; 128.1(8) — Post-emigration loss; 128.1(9) — Information reporting; 139.1(5) — Value of ownership rights in insurer during demutualization; 219.1 — Tax on corporate emigration; 220(3.2) — Late filing of elections under 128.1(4)(b)(iv) and 128.1(4)(d); 220(4.5)–(4.54) — Deferral of payment of departure tax; 226 — Demand for payment of taxes owing when taxpayer leaving Canada, and seizure of goods; Canada-U.S. Tax Treaty:Art. History: Para. 128.1(4)(a.1) added and para. (b) amended by 2001, c. 17, subsec. 123(3), applicable to changes in residence that occur after October 1, 1996. S. 124 of the said c. 17 provides:

124. (1) If an individual ceased at any time after 1992 and before October 2, 1996 to be resident in Canada and so elects in writing and files the election with the Minister of National Revenue before the end of the sixth month [December 31, 2001] following the month in which this Act [2001, c. 17] receives royal assent, subparagraph 128.1(4)(b)(iii) of the Act as it read at that time shall, in respect of the cessation of residence, be read as enacted by this Act and as though subsection 128.1(10) of the Act, as enacted by this Act, applied.

(2) Where an individual makes an election under subsection (1), notwithstanding subsections 152(4) to (5) of the Act, any reassessment of the individual's tax, interest or penalties for any year shall be made that is necessary to take the election into account.

Para. (b) formerly read:

(b) the taxpayer shall be deemed to have disposed, at the time (in this paragraph and paragraph (d) referred to as the "time of disposition") that is immediately before the time that is immediately before the particular time, of each property owned by the taxpayer, other than

(i) where the taxpayer is an individual, property that would be taxable Canadian property if the taxpayer had been resident in Canada at no time in the taxpayer's last taxation year that began before the particular time,

(ii) where the taxpayer is an individual, property that is described in the inventory of a business carried on by the taxpayer in Canada at the particular time,

(iii) where the taxpayer is an individual, a right to receive a payment described in any of paragraphs 212(1)(h) and (j) to (q), a right under a registered education savings plan or a right to receive any payment of a benefit under the Canada Pension Plan or a provincial pension plan as defined in section 3 of that Act,

(iv) where the taxpayer is an individual other than a trust, each capital property not described in any of subparagraphs (i) to (iii) in respect of which, on or before the taxpayer's balance-due day for the taxation year in which the taxpayer ceased to be resident in Canada, the taxpayer elects in prescribed manner and furnishes to the Minister security acceptable to the Minister for the payment of the additional tax that would have been payable by the taxpayer under this Part for the year had the taxpayer not so elected,

(v) where the taxpayer is an individual other than a trust and was, during the 10 years immediately preceding the particular time, resident in Canada for a period or periods totalling 60 months or less, property that was

(A) owned by the taxpayer at the time the taxpayer last became resident in Canada, or

(B) acquired by the taxpayer by inheritance or bequest after the taxpayer last became resident in Canada, and

(vi) a right to acquire shares of the capital stock of a corporation where section 7 would apply if the taxpayer disposed of the right to a person with whom the taxpayer was dealing at arm's length, for proceeds equal to its fair market value at the time of disposition, which proceeds shall be deemed to have become receivable and to have been received by the taxpayer at the time of disposition;

Para. 128.1(4)(d) amended, para. (d.1) added, and paras. (e) and (f) repealed by the said c. 17, subsec. 123(4), applicable to changes in residence that occur after October 1, 1996 except for para. (d.1), which is applicable to changes in residence that occur after 1992. Paras. (d) to (f) formerly read:

(d) individual — notwithstanding paragraphs (b) and (c), where a taxpayer who is an individual other than a trust so elects in prescribed manner, on or before the taxpayer's balance-due day for the taxation year that includes the particular time, in respect of any property described in subparagraph (b)(i) or (ii), the taxpayer shall be deemed to have disposed of the property at the time of disposition for proceeds equal to its fair market value at that time, and to have reacquired the property at the particular time at a cost equal to those proceeds;

(e) deemed [taxable Canadian] property — capital property in respect of which a taxpayer elects under subparagraph (b)(iv) shall be deemed to be taxable Canadian property of the taxpayer from the particular time until the earlier of

(i) the time when the taxpayer disposes of the property, and

(ii) the time when the taxpayer next becomes resident in Canada; and

(f) losses on election — where a taxpayer elects under subparagraph (b)(iv) or paragraph (d),

(i) the taxpayer's income for the taxation year that includes the particular time shall be deemed to be the greater of

(A) that income otherwise determined, and

(B) the lesser of

(I) that income determined without reference to this subsection, and

(II) that income determined without reference to subparagraph (b)(iv) and paragraph (d), and

(ii) the amount of each of the taxpayer's non-capital loss, net capital loss, restricted farm loss, farm loss and limited partnership loss for the taxation year that includes the particular time shall be deemed to be the lesser of

(A) that amount otherwise determined, and

(B) the greater of

(I) that amount determined without reference to this subsection, and

(II) that amount determined without reference to subparagraph (b)(iv) and paragraph (d).

Subpara. 128.1(4)(b)(iii) amended by 1998, c. 19, s. 36, applicable to changes of residence that occur after October 1, 1996. Subpara. 128.1(4)(b)(iii) formerly read:

(iii) where the taxpayer is an individual, a right to receive a payment described in any of paragraphs 212(1)(h) and (j) to (q) or a right to receive any payment of a benefit under the Canada Pension Plan or a provincial pension plan as defined in section 3 of that Act,

Subsec. 128.1(4) enacted by 1994, c. 21, s. 62, applicable after 1992 except that where a corporation elects in accordance with para. 111(4)(a) of 1994, c. 21 (i.e., elects before the end of December 1994 for new subsec. 250(5.1) to apply in respect of a continuance before 1993), the section applies to the corporation from the time at which the corporation was first granted articles of continuation (or similar constitutional documents) in any jurisdiction.

(5) Instalment interest — If an individual is deemed by subsection (4) to have disposed of a property in a taxation year, in applying sections 155 and 156 and subsections 156.1(1) to (3) and 161(2), (4) and (4.01) and any regulations made for the purposes of those provisions, the individual's total taxes payable under this Part and Part I.1 for the year are deemed to be the lesser of

(a) the individual's total taxes payable under this Part and Part I.1 for the year, determined before taking into consideration the specified future tax consequences for the year, and

(b) the amount that would be determined under paragraph (a) if subsection (4) did not apply to the individual for the year.

History: Subsec. 128.1(5) added by 2001, c. 17, subsec. 123(5), applicable to changes in residence that occur after October 1, 1996.

(6) Returning former resident — If an individual (other than a trust) becomes resident in Canada at a particular time in a taxation year and the last time (in this subsection referred to as the "emigration time"), before the particular time, at which the individual ceased to be resident in Canada was after October 1, 1996,

(a) subject to paragraph (b), if the individual so elects in writing and files the election with the Minister on or before the individual's filing-due date for the year, paragraphs (4)(b) and (c) do not apply to the individual's cessation of residence at the emigration time in respect of all properties that were taxable Canadian properties of the individual throughout the period that began at the emigration time and that ends at the particular time;

(b) where, if a property in respect of which an election under paragraph (a) is made had been acquired by the individual at the emigration time at a cost equal to its fair market value at the emigration time and had been disposed of by the individual immediately before the particular time for proceeds of disposition equal to its fair market value immediately before the particular time, the application of subsection 40(3.7) would reduce the amount that would, but for that subsection and this subsection, be the individual's loss from the disposition,

(i) the individual is deemed to have disposed of the property at the time of disposition (within the meaning assigned by paragraph (4)(b)) in respect of the emigration time for proceeds of disposition equal to the total of

(A) the adjusted cost base to the individual of the property immediately before the time of disposition, and

(B) the amount, if any, by which that reduction exceeds the lesser of

(I) the adjusted cost base to the individual of the property immediately before the time of disposition, and

(II) the amount, if any, that the individual specifies for the purposes of this paragraph in the election under paragraph (a) in respect of the property,

(ii) the individual is deemed to have reacquired the property at the emigration time at a cost equal to the amount, if any, by which the amount determined under clause (i)(A) exceeds the lesser of that reduction and the amount specified by the individual under subclause (i)(B)(II), and

(iii) for the purpose of section 119, the individual is deemed to have disposed of the property immediately before the particular time;

(c) if the individual so elects in writing and files the election with the Minister on or before the individual's filing-due date for the year, in respect of each property that the individual owned throughout the period that began at the emigration time and that ends at the particular time and that is deemed by paragraph (1)(b) to have been disposed of because the individual became resident in Canada, notwithstanding paragraphs (1)(c) and (4)(b) the individual's proceeds of disposition at the time of disposition (within the meaning assigned by paragraph (4)(b)), and the individual's cost of acquiring the property at the particular time, are deemed to be those proceeds and that cost, determined without reference to this paragraph, minus the least of

(i) the amount that would, but for this paragraph, have been the individual's gain from the disposition of the property deemed by paragraph (4)(b) to have occurred,

(ii) the fair market value of the property at the particular time, and

(iii) the amount that the individual specifies for the purposes of this paragraph in the election; and

(d) notwithstanding subsections 152(4) to (5), any assessment of tax that is payable under this Act by the individual for any taxation year that is before the year that includes the particular time and that is not before the year that includes the emigration time shall be made that is necessary to take an election under this subsection into account, except that no such assessment shall affect the computation of

(i) interest payable under this Act to or by a taxpayer in respect of any period that is before the day on which the taxpayer's return of income for the taxation year that includes the particular time is filed, or

(ii) any penalty payable under this Act.

History: Subsec. 128.1(6) added by 2001, c. 17, subsec. 123(5), applicable to changes in residence that occur after October 1, 1996, and an election made under paras. 128.1(6)(a) and (c) by an individual who ceased to be resident in Canada before June 14, 2001 is deemed to have been made in a timely manner if it is made on or before the individual's filing-due date for the taxation year that includes June 14, 2001.

Regulations: 600(c) (late filing of elections under (6)(a) and (c)).

(7) Returning trust beneficiary — If an individual (other than a trust)

(a) becomes resident in Canada at a particular time in a taxation year,

(b) owns at the particular time a property that the individual last acquired on a trust distribution to which subsection 107(2) would, but for subsection 107(5), have applied and at a time (in this subsection referred to as the "distribution time") that was after October 1, 1996 and before the particular time, and

(c) was a beneficiary of the trust at the last time, before the particular time, at which the individual ceased to be resident in Canada,

the following rules apply:

(d) subject to paragraphs (e) and (f), if the individual and the trust jointly so elect in writing and file the election with the Minister on or before the earlier of their filing-due dates for their taxation years that include the particular time, subsection 107(2.1) does not apply to the distribution in respect of all properties acquired by the individual on the distribution that were taxable Canadian properties of the individual throughout the period that began at the distribution time and that ends at the particular time,

(e) paragraph (f) applies in respect of the individual, the trust and a property in respect of which an election under paragraph (d) is made where, if the individual

(i) had been resident in Canada at the distribution time,

(ii) had acquired the property at the distribution time at a cost equal to its fair market value at that time,

(iii) had ceased to be resident in Canada immediately after the distribution time, and

(iv) had, immediately before the particular time, disposed of the property for proceeds of disposition equal to its fair market value immediately before the particular time, the application of subsection 40(3.7) would reduce the amount that would, but for that subsection and this subsection, have been the individual's loss from the disposition,

(f) where this paragraph applies in respect of an individual, a trust and a property,

(i) notwithstanding paragraph 107(2.1)(a), the trust is deemed to have disposed of the property at the distribution time for proceeds of disposition equal to the total of

(A) the cost amount to the trust of the property immediately before the distribution time, and

(B) the amount, if any, by which the reduction under subsection 40(3.7) described in paragraph (e) exceeds the lesser of

(I) the cost amount to the trust of the property immediately before the distribution time, and

(II) the amount, if any, which the individual and the trust jointly specify for the purposes of this paragraph in the election under paragraph (d) in respect of the property, and

(ii) notwithstanding paragraph 107(2.1)(b), the individual is deemed to have acquired the property at the distribution time at a cost equal to the amount, if any, by which the amount otherwise determined under paragraph 107(2)(b) exceeds the lesser of the reduction under subsection 40(3.7) described in paragraph (e) and the amount specified under subclause (i)(B)(II),

(g) if the individual and the trust jointly so elect in writing and file the election with the Minister on or before the later of their filing-due dates for their taxation years that include the particular time, in respect of each property that the individual owned throughout the period that began at the distribution time and that ends at the particular time and that is deemed by paragraph (1)(b) to have been disposed of because the individual became resident in Canada, notwithstanding paragraphs 107(2.1)(a) and (b), the trust's proceeds of disposition under paragraph 107(2.1)(a) at the distribution time, and the individual's cost of acquiring the property at the particular time, are deemed to be those proceeds and that cost determined without reference to this paragraph, minus the least of

(i) the amount that would, but for this paragraph, have been the trust's gain from the disposition of the property deemed by paragraph 107(2.1)(a) to have occurred,

(ii) the fair market value of the property at the particular time, and

(iii) the amount that the individual and the trust jointly specify for the purposes of this paragraph in the election,

(h) if the trust ceases to exist before the individual's filing-due date for the individual's taxation year that includes the particular time,

(i) an election or specification described in this subsection may be made by the individual alone in writing if the election is filed with the Minister on or before that filing-due date, and

(ii) if the individual alone makes such an election or specification, the individual and the trust are jointly and severally liable for any amount payable under this Act by the trust as a result of the election or specification, and

(i) notwithstanding subsections 152(4) to (5), such assessment of tax payable under the Act by the trust or the individual for any year that is before the year that includes the particular time and that is not before the year that includes the distribution time shall be made as is necessary to take an election under this subsection into account, except that no such assessment shall affect the computation of

(i) interest payable under this Act to or by the trust or the individual in respect of any period that is before the individual's filing-due date for the taxation year that includes the particular time, or

(ii) any penalty payable under this Act.

History: Subsec. 128.1(7) added by 2001, c. 17, subsec. 123(5), applicable to changes in residence that occur after October 1, 1996, and an election made under paras. 128.1(7)(d) and (g) by an individual who ceased to be resident in Canada before June 14, 2001 is deemed to have been made in a timely manner if it is made on or before the individual's filing-due date for the taxation year that includes June 14, 2001.

Regulations: 600(c) (late filed elections under (7)(d), (g)).

(8) Post-emigration loss — If an individual (other than a trust)

(a) was deemed by paragraph (4)(b) to have disposed of a capital property at any particular time after October 1, 1996,

(b) has disposed of the property at a later time at which the property was a taxable Canadian property of the individual, and

(c) so elects in writing in the individual's return of income for the taxation year that includes the later time, there shall, except for the purpose of paragraph (4)(c), be deducted from the individual's proceeds of disposition of the property at the particular time, and added to the individual's proceeds of disposition of the property at the later time, an amount equal to the least of

(d) the amount specified in respect of the property in the election,

(e) the amount that would, but for the election, be the individual's gain from the disposition of the property at the particular time, and

(f) the amount that would be the individual's loss from the disposition of the property at the later time, if the loss were determined having reference to every other provision of this Act including, for greater certainty, subsection 40(3.7) and section 112, but without reference to the election.

History: Subsec. 128.1(8) added by 2001, c. 17, subsec. 123(5), applicable to changes in residence that occur after October 1, 1996, and an election made under para. 128.1(8)(c) by an individual who ceased to be resident in Canada before June 14, 2001 is deemed to have been made in a timely manner if it is made on or before the individual's filing-due date for the taxation year that includes June 14, 2001.

Regulations: 600(c) (late filed elections under (8)(c)).

(9) Information reporting — An individual who ceases at a particular time in a taxation year to be resident in Canada, and who owns immediately after the particular time one or more reportable properties the total fair market value of which at the particular time is greater than $25,000, shall file with the Minister in prescribed form, on or before the individual's filing-due date for the year, a list of all the reportable properties that the individual owned immediately after the particular time.

Related Provisions: 128.1(10)"reportable property" — Exclusions.

History: Subsec. 128.1(9) added by 2001, c. 17, subsec. 123(5), applicable to changes in residence that occur after 1995, and a form described in subsec. 128.1(9), filed by an individual who ceased to be resident in Canada before June 14, 2001, is deemed to have been filed in a timely manner if it is filed on or before the individual's filing-due date for the taxation year that includes June 14, 2001.

(10) Definitions — The definitions in this subsection apply in this section.

"excluded right or interest" of a taxpayer who is an individual means

(a) a right of the individual under, or an interest of the individual in a trust governed by,

(i) a registered retirement savings plan or a plan referred to in subsection 146(12) as an "amended plan",

(ii) a registered retirement income fund,

(iii) a registered education savings plan,

(iv) a deferred profit sharing plan or a plan referred to in subsection 147(15) as a "revoked plan",

(v) an employees profit sharing plan,

(vi) an employee benefit plan (other than a plan described in subparagraph (b)(i) or (ii)),

(vii) a plan or arrangement (other than an employee benefit plan) under which the individual has a right to receive in a year remuneration in respect of services rendered by the individual in the year or a prior year,

(viii) a superannuation or pension fund or plan (other than an employee benefit plan),

(ix) a retirement compensation arrangement,

(x) a foreign retirement arrangement, or

(xi) a registered supplementary unemployment benefit plan;

(b) a right of the individual to a benefit under an employee benefit plan that is

(i) a plan or arrangement described in paragraph (j) of the definition "salary deferral arrangement" in subsection 248(1) that would, but for paragraphs (j) and (k) of that definition, be a salary deferral arrangement, or

(ii) a plan or arrangement that would, but for paragraph 6801(c) of the Income Tax Regulations, be a salary deferral arrangement, to the extent that the benefit can reasonably be considered to be attributable to services rendered by the individual in Canada;

(c) a right of the individual under an agreement referred to in subsection 7(1);

(d) a right of the individual to a retiring allowance;

(e) a right of the individual under, or an interest of the individual in, a trust that is

(i) an employee trust,

(ii) an amateur athlete trust,

(iii) a cemetery care trust, or

(iv) a trust governed by an eligible funeral arrangement;

(f) a right of the individual to receive a payment under

(i) an annuity contract, or

(ii) an income-averaging annuity contract;

(g) a right of the individual to a benefit under

(i) the Canada Pension Plan or a provincial plan described in section 3 of that Act,

(ii) the Old Age Security Act,

(iii) a provincial pension plan prescribed for the purpose of paragraph 60(v), or

(iv) a plan or arrangement instituted by the social security legislation of a country other than Canada or of a state, province or other political subdivision of such a country;

(h) a right of the individual to a benefit described in any of subparagraphs 56(1)(a)(iii) to (vi);

(i) a right of the individual to a payment out of a NISA Fund No. 2;

(j) an interest of the individual in a personal trust resident in Canada if the interest was never acquired for consideration and did not arise as a consequence of a qualifying disposition by the individual (within the meaning that would be assigned by subsection 107.4(1) if that subsection were read without reference to paragraphs 107.4(1)(h) and (i));

(k) an interest of the individual in a non-resident testamentary trust if the interest was never acquired for consideration; or

(l) an interest of the individual in a life insurance policy in Canada, except for that part of the policy in respect of which the individual is deemed by paragraph 138.1(1)(e) to have an interest in a related segregated fund trust.

Related Provisions: 108(6) — Where terms of trust are varied; 108(7) — Meaning of "acquired for consideration"; 128.1(1)(b)(iv) — No deemed disposition on immigration; 128.1(4)(b)(iii) — No deemed disposition on emigration; 128.1(4)(d.1) — Where share acquired under stock option before emigration; 128.1(10)"reportable property" — No requirement to report most excluded personal property.

"reportable property" of an individual at a particular time means any property other than

(a) money that is legal tender in Canada and deposits of such money;

(b) property that would be an excluded right or interest of the individual if the definition "excluded right or interest" in this subsection were read without reference to paragraphs (c), (j) and (l) of that definition;

(c) if the individual is not a trust and was not, during the 120-month period that ends at the particular time, resident in Canada for more than 60 months, property described in subparagraph (4)(b)(iv) that is not taxable Canadian property; and

(d) any item of personal-use property the fair market value of which, at the particular time, is less than $10,000.

History: Subsec. 128.1(10) added by 2001, c. 17, subsec. 123(5), the definition "excluded right or interest" applicable to changes in residence that occur after October 1, 1996, and the definition "reportable property", applicable to changes in residence that occur after 1995.

128.2 (1) Cross-border mergers — Where a corporation formed at a particular time by the amalgamation or merger of, or by a plan of arrangement or other corporate reorganization in respect of, 2 or more corporations (each of which is referred to in this section as a "predecessor") is at the particular time resident in Canada, a predecessor that was not immediately before the particular time resident in Canada shall be deemed to have become resident in Canada immediately before the particular time.

(2) Idem — Where a corporation formed at a particular time by the amalgamation or merger of, or by a plan of arrangement or other corporate reorganization in respect of, 2 or more corporations is at the particular time not resident in Canada, a predecessor that was immediately before the particular time resident in Canada shall be deemed to have ceased to be resident in Canada immediately before the particular time.

(3) Windings-up excluded — For greater certainty, subsections (1) and (2) do not apply to reorganizations occurring solely because of the acquisition of property of one corporation by another corporation, pursuant to the purchase of the property by the other corporation or because of the distribution of the property to the other corporation on the winding-up of the corporation.

History [s. 128.2]: S. 128.2 enacted by 1994, c. 21, s. 62, applicable after 1992 except that where a corporation elects in accordance with para. 111(4)(a) of 1994, c. 21 (i.e., elects before the end of December 1994 for new subsec. 250(5.1) to apply in respect of a continuance before 1993), the section applies to the corporation from the time at which the corporation was first granted articles of continuation (or similar constitutional documents) in any jurisdiction.

128.3 Former resident — replaced shares — If, in a transaction to which section 51, subparagraphs 85.1(1)(a)(i) and (ii) or section 86 or 87 apply, a person acquires a share (in this section referred to as the "new share") in exchange for another share (in this section referred to as the "old share"), for the purposes of section 119, subsections 126(2.21) to (2.23), 128.1(6) to (8), 180.1(1.4) and 220(4.5) and (4.6), the person is deemed not to have disposed of the old share, and the new share is deemed to be the same share as the old share.

Letter from Dept. of Finance, June 2, 2003:

Dear [xxx]

I am writing in response to your letter dated April 25, 2003 to Mr. Lawrence Purdy of this Division asking that we consider recommending an amendment to section 128.3 of the Income Tax Act ("Act") so that this section applies for the purposes of subparagraph 128.1(4)(b)(iv).

Under the taxpayer migration rules in section 128.1 of the Act, the post-departure disposition of a property can have important tax consequences for an emigrant individual. Section 128.3 of the Act allows for a deferral of these consequences in certain circumstances, by deeming the individual not to have disposed of shares that were converted to new shares under section 51 of the Act, or subject to a share for share exchange, reorganization or amalgamation under any of sections 85.1, 86 or 87 of the Act. Section 128.3 also deems the share received by an individual to be the same as the old share for the purposes of section 119, and subsections 126(2.21) to (2.23). These provisions provide tax credits for individuals who were subject to the departure rules. As well, the new share is deemed to be the same share for the purposes of subsections 128.1(6) to (8), which allow returning former residents to "unwind" transactions subject to the departure tax rules, or in certain cases carry back future losses to the year of departure. By deeming the new share to be the same as the old share, the rule ensures that the individual does not lose access to these relieving provisions.

However, you have pointed out that section 128.3 does not apply for the purposes of subparagraph 128.1(4)(b)(iv). Under subparagraph 128.1(4)(b)(iv) property owned by an individual is not subject to the deemed disposition rules on emigration from Canada if the individual, during the last 10 years, was not resident in Canada for more than 60 months and owned the property when the individual first took up residence in Canada or inherited the property after that time. Since section 128.3 does not apply, an individual who immigrated to Canada owning shares, and received new shares after this time because of a share for share exchange, reorganization or merger, or because the shares were converted into new shares, would be deemed to dispose of these new shares upon emigration from Canada, even if the individual had resided here less than 60 months in the past 10 years. In your view this is an unfair result, and you request that we consider extending the policy of section 128.3 to include individuals who find themselves in this situation.

The policy intent of section 128.3 is to allow continuity in the migration rules' treatment of an individual where the individual's property has been replaced because of a situation that is typically beyond the individual's control, such as a corporate merger or reorganization. It is important to note that although this section is relatively new, and the previous rules, contained in section 48 of the Act, did not provide such relief, there was in the past less need for it. This was because the previous rules allowed individuals to defer departure tax on most property owned by them, by electing to treat the property as taxable Canadian property (TCP). That election meant that the property was not deemed disposed of upon emigration. Therefore, an individual who received new shares because of a reorganization or merger could elect on emigration to treat these as TCP and avoid the deemed disposition of this property on emigration. The election effectively removed the need to have something similar to section 128.3.

In my view, there is no reason in policy terms not to extend the relief provided in section 128.3 to subparagraph 128.1(4)(b)(iv), which as I have described provides an exception to the deemed disposition rules for short-term residents. The effect of the change would be that short-term residents who own shares on immigration and receive new shares on a tax deferred basis under any of sections 51, 85.1, 86 or 87 of the Act, would be deemed not to have disposed of the share and the new share would be the same as the old share, thereby allowing the share to continue to qualify for the exemption from the deemed disposition rules provided in subparagraph 128.1(4)(b)(iv).

You further request that we recommend this change be applicable for individuals who have emigrated from Canada after October 1, 1996 to ensure consistency. We do not normally recommend that changes such as this be made on such a markedly retroactive basis, since both taxpayers and the Government need to be able to rely at any particular time on the law as it exists at that time. Exceptionally, however, we do recommend linking a relieving change to the transaction or circumstance that makes the Government aware of the need for the change. In this case, we understand that this fact situation applies to your client's 2002 taxation year and therefore we are willing to recommend that this change apply to an individual's 2002 and subsequent taxation years.

I cannot offer any assurance that either the Minister of Finance or Parliament will agree with the recommendation that we intend to make in this regard. Nonetheless, I hope that this statement of our position is helpful. Thank you for bringing this issue to our attention.

Yours sincerely,

Brian Ernewein
Director, Tax Legislation Division, Tax Policy Branch

Definitions [s. 128.3]: "new share", "old share" — 128.3; "person", "share" — 248(1).

Private Corporations

129. (1) Dividend refund to private corporation — Where a return of a corporation's income under this Part for a taxation year is made within 3 years after the end of the year, the Minister

(a) may, on mailing the notice of assessment for the year, refund without application therefor an amount (in this Act referred to as its "dividend refund" for the year) equal to the lesser of

(i) 1/3 of all taxable dividends paid by the corporation on shares of its capital stock in the year and at a time when it was a private corporation, and

(ii) its refundable dividend tax on hand at the end of the year; and

(b) shall, with all due dispatch, make the dividend refund after mailing the notice of assessment if an application for it has been made in writing by the corporation within the period within which the Minister would be allowed under subsection 152(4) to assess tax payable under this Part by the corporation for the year if that subsection were read without reference to paragraph 152(4)(a).

Related Provisions: 15.1(2)(b) — Amount paid on small business development bond not a dividend for 129(1); 129(1.2) — Anti-avoidance; 129(2) — Application to other liability; 131(5) — Mutual fund corporation deemed to be a private corporation; 141.1 — Insurance corporation deemed not to be private corporation; 152(1)(a) — Determination of refund by Minister; 157(3) — Reduction in instalment obligations to reflect dividend refund; 160.1 — Where excess refunded; 186(5) — Deemed private corporation; 260(7) — Securities lending arrangement — amount deemed paid as a taxable dividend. See additional Related Provisions and Definitions at end of s. 129.

History: Para. 129(1)(b) amended by 1998, c. 19, s. 154, applicable after April 27, 1989. Para. 129(1)(b) formerly read:

(b) shall, with all due dispatch, make such a refund after mailing the notice of assessment if application therefor has been made in writing by the corporation within the period determined under paragraph 152(4)(b) or (c), as the case may be, within which the Minister may reassess tax payable by the corporation for the year.

Subpara. 129(1)(a)(i) amended by 1996, c. 21, subsec. 32(1), applicable to taxation years that end after June 1995 except that, in its application to such taxation years that began before July 1995, the subpara. shall be read as follows:

(i) an amount in respect of taxable dividends paid by the corporation on shares of its capital stock in the year and at a time when it was a private corporation equal to the total of

(A) 1/4 of all such dividends paid before July 1995, and

(B) 1/3 of all such dividends paid after June 1995,

Subpara. (a)(i) formerly read:

(i) 1/4 of all taxable dividends paid by the corporation in the year and at a time when it was a private corporation on shares of its capital stock, and

All that portion of subsec. 129(1) preceding subpara. (a)(ii) amended by 1994, c. 7, Sch. VIII (1993, c. 24), subsec. 73(1), applicable to 1993 et seq. except that in its application to taxation years beginning before 1993 and ending after 1992, subpara. 129(1)(a)(i) shall be read as follows:

(i) the total of

(A) 1/4 of all taxable dividends paid by the corporation on shares of its capital stock in the year and before 1993, where the corporation was a private corporation at the end of the year, and

(B) 1/4 of all taxable dividends paid by the corporation on shares of its capital stock in the year and at a time after 1992 when it was a private corporation, and

That portion formerly read:

129. (1) Where a corporation was, at the end of any taxation year, a private corporation and a return of its income for the year has been made within 3 years from the end of the year, the Minister

(a) may, on mailing the notice of assessment for the year, refund without application therefor an amount (in this Act referred to as its "dividend refund" for the year) equal to the lesser of

(i) 1/4 of all taxable dividends paid by it in the year on shares of its capital stock, and

Interpretation Bulletins: IT-243R4: Dividend refund to private corporations; IT-432R2: Benefits conferred on shareholders.

(1.1) Dividends paid to bankrupt controlling corporation — In determining the dividend refund for a taxation year ending after 1977 of a particular corporation, no amount may be included by virtue of subparagraph (1)(a)(i) in respect of a taxable dividend paid to a shareholder that

(a) was a corporation that controlled (within the meaning assigned by subsection 186(2)) the particular corporation at the time the dividend was paid; and

(b) was a bankrupt (within the meaning assigned by subsection 128(3)) at any time during that taxation year of the particular corporation.

Interpretation Bulletins: IT-243R4: Dividend refund to private corporations.

(1.2) Dividends deemed not to be taxable dividends — Where a dividend is paid on a share of the capital stock of a corporation and the share (or another share for which the share was substituted) was acquired by its holder in a transaction or as part of a series of transactions one of the main purposes of which was to enable the corporation to obtain a dividend refund, the dividend shall, for the purpose of subsection (1), be deemed not to be a taxable dividend.

Related Provisions: 87(2)(aa), (ii) — Amalgamations; 88(1)(e.5) — Winding-up; 129(7) — Capital gains dividend excluded; 248(10) — Series of transactions. See additional Related Provisions at end of s. 129.

Interpretation Bulletins: IT-243R4: Dividend refund to private corporations.

(2) Application to other liability — Instead of making a refund that might otherwise be made under subsection (1), the Minister may, where the corporation is liable or about to become liable to make any payment under this Act, apply the amount that would otherwise be refundable to that other liability and notify the corporation of that action.

Related Provisions: 222(1)"action" — Ten-year limitation period applies to 129(2).

Selected Cases: MNR v. 159890 Canada Inc., [1997] 3 C.T.C. 284 (FCTD) (Jeopardy orders not to be sought where other means available to Minister to secure tax).

Interpretation Bulletins: IT-243R4: Dividend refund to private corporations.

(2.1) Interest on dividend refund — Where a dividend refund for a taxation year is paid to, or applied to a liability of, a corporation, the Minister shall pay or apply interest on the refund at the prescribed rate for the period beginning on the day that is the later of

(a) the day that is 120 days after the end of the year, and

(b) the day that is 30 days after the day on which the corporation's return of income under this Part for the year was filed under section 150, unless the return was filed on or before the day on or before which it was required to be filed, and ending on the day on which the refund is paid or applied.

Related Provisions: 161.1 — Offset of refund interest against arrears interest.

History: Para. 129(2.1)(b) amended by 2003, c. 15, s. 111, applicable to taxation years that end after June 2003. The para. formerly read:

(b) the day on which the corporation's return of income under this Part for the year was filed under section 150, unless the return was filed on or before the day on or before which it was required to be filed,

Subsec. 129(2.1) added by 1994, c. 7, Sch. VIII (1993, c. 24), subsec. 73(2), applicable to dividend refunds paid or applied with respect to taxation years beginning after 1991.

Regulations: 4301(b) (prescribed rate of interest).

(2.2) Excess interest on dividend refund — Where, at any particular time, interest has been paid to, or applied to a liability of, a corporation under subsection (2.1) in respect of a dividend refund and it is determined at a subsequent time that the dividend refund was less than that in respect of which interest was so paid or applied,

(a) the amount by which the interest that was so paid or applied exceeds the interest, if any, computed in respect of the amount that is determined at the subsequent time to be the dividend refund shall be deemed to be an amount (in this subsection referred to as the "amount payable") that became payable under this Part by the corporation at the particular time;

(b) the corporation shall pay to the Receiver General interest at the prescribed rate on the amount payable, computed from the particular time to the day of payment; and

(c) the Minister may at any time assess the corporation in respect of the amount payable and, where the Minister makes such an assessment, the provisions of Divisions I and J apply, with such modifications as the circumstances require, in respect of the assessment as though it had been made under section 152.

Related Provisions: 20(1)(ll) — Deduction on repayment of interest; 161.1 — Offset of refund interest against arrears interest; 221.1 — Application of interest where legislation retroactive; 248(11) — Interest compounded daily.

History: Subsec. 129(2.2) added by 1994, c. 7, Sch. VIII (1993, c. 24), subsec. 73(2), applicable to dividend refunds paid or applied with respect to taxation years beginning after 1991.

Regulations: 4301(a) (prescribed rate of interest).

(3) Definition of "refundable dividend tax on hand" — In this section, "refundable dividend tax on hand" of a corporation at the end of a taxation year means the amount, if any, by which the total of

(a) where the corporation was a Canadian-controlled private corporation throughout the year, the least of

(i) the amount determined by the formula

$$A - B$$

where

A is 26⅔% of the corporation's aggregate investment income for the year, and

B is the amount, if any, by which

(I) the amount deducted under subsection 126(1) from the tax for the year otherwise payable by it under this Part

exceeds

(II) 9⅓% of its foreign investment income for the year,

(ii) 26⅔% of the amount, if any, by which the corporation's taxable income for the year exceeds the total of

(A) the least of the amounts determined under paragraphs 125(1)(a) to (c) in respect of the corporation for the year,

(B) 25/9 of the total of amounts deducted under subsection 126(1) from its tax for the year otherwise payable under this Part, and

(C) 10/4 of the total of amounts deducted under subsection 126(2) from its tax for the year otherwise payable under this Part, and

Proposed Amendment — 129(3)(a)(ii)(C)

(C) 3 times the total of amounts deducted under subsection 126(2) from its tax for the year otherwise payable under this Part, and

Application: The February 27, 2004 draft legislation, s. 70 will amend cl. 129(3)(a)(ii)(C) to read as above, applicable to 2003 et seq.

Technical Notes: Section 129 allows a private corporation that pays a taxable dividend to obtain a partial refund of the income taxes it has paid on its investment income. For this purpose, paragraph 129(3)(a) adds to the refundable dividend tax on hand of a Canadian-controlled private corporation at the end of a taxation year the least of three amounts.

One of these amounts, which is described in subparagraph 129(3)(a)(ii), is 26 2/3% of a corporation's taxable income, less income that either benefited from the section 125 small business deduction or supported a foreign tax credit (FTC). Income that supported an FTC is measured by multiplying both the corporation's non-business- and its business-income FTCs by factors that reflect assumed Canadian tax rates. Subparagraph 129(3)(a)(ii) is amended to adjust the factor for foreign business income. The factor for business-income FTCs will become 3. This implies an assumed tax rate of 33.3%.

(iii) the corporation's tax for the year payable under this Part determined without reference to section 123.2,

(b) the total of the taxes under Part IV payable by the corporation for the year, and

(c) where the corporation was a private corporation at the end of its preceding taxation year, the corporation's refundable dividend tax on hand at the end of that preceding year

exceeds

(d) the corporation's dividend refund for its preceding taxation year.

Related Provisions: 129(3.1) — Grandfathering for property disposed of before November 13, 1981; 141.1 — Insurance corporation deemed not to be private corporation; 257 — Formula cannot calculate to less than zero; 260(11)(c) — Amounts deemed paid where partnership of corporations enters into securities lending arrangement.

History: Subsec. 129(3) substituted by 1996, c. 21, subsec. 32(2), applicable to taxation years that end after June 1995 except that, in their application to such taxation years that began before July 1995, in computing the amount determined under each of subparas. 129(3)(a)(i) and (ii) there shall be deducted an amount equal to that proportion of 1/4 of the amount otherwise determined under the subpara. that the number of days in the year that are before July 1995 is of the number of days in the year. Subsec. 129(3) formerly read:

(3) In this section, "refundable dividend tax on hand" of a corporation at the end of any particular taxation year means the amount, if any, by which the total of

(a) the total of all amounts each of which is an amount in respect of a taxation year commencing after it last became a private corporation and ending not later than the end of the particular taxation year and, where the taxation year commences after November 12, 1981, throughout which the corporation was a Canadian-controlled private corporation, equal to, in respect of taxation years ending before 1978, the least of, in respect of taxation years ending after 1977 and commencing before 1987, 2/3 of the least of, in respect of taxation years commencing after 1986 and before 1988, the least of, and in respect of taxation years commencing after 1987, 4/5 of the least of

(i) 25% of the total of all amounts each of which is

(A) in respect of a taxation year ending before November 13, 1981, the amount, if any, by which the total of its Canadian investment income for the year and its foreign investment income for the year exceeds the amount deductible under paragraph 111(1)(b) from the corporation's income for the year, or

(B) in respect of a taxation year ending after November 12, 1981, the amount, if any, by which the total of the amounts that would, if subsection (4) were read without reference to C in the definition "Canadian investment income" in that subsection, be its Canadian investment income for the year and its foreign investment income for the year, exceeds the total of

(I) the amount, if any, deducted under paragraph 111(1)(b) from the corporation's income for the year, and

(II) the total of all amounts each of which is the amount of the corporation's loss for the year from a source that is property,

(ii) the amount, if any, by which the total of

(A) 25% of the corporation's Canadian investment income for the year, and

(B) the amount, if any, by which 30% of the corporation's foreign investment income for the year exceeds the total of amounts deducted under subsection 126(1) from the tax for the year otherwise payable by it under this Part, exceeds 25% of the amount, if any, deducted under paragraph 111(1)(b) from the corporation's income for the year,

(iii) 25% of the amount, if any, by which the corporation's taxable income for the year exceeds the total of

(A) the least of the amounts determined under paragraphs 125(1)(a) to (c) in respect of the corporation for the year,

(B) 10/3 of the total of amounts deducted under subsection 126(1) from its tax for the year otherwise payable under this Part, and

(C) 10/4 of the total of amounts deducted under subsection 126(2) from its tax for the year otherwise payable under this Part, and

(iv) 5/4 of the amount of the corporation's tax for the year payable under this Part determined without reference to section 123.2,

(b) the total of the taxes under Part IV payable by the corporation for the particular taxation year and any previous taxation years ending after it last became a private corporation, and

(b.1) the amount, if any, of the corporation's addition at December 31, 1986 of refundable dividend tax on hand

exceeds the total of

(c) the total of the corporation's dividend refunds for taxation years ending after it last became a private corporation and before the particular taxation year,

(d) the amount, if any, of the corporation's reduction at December 31, 1977 of refundable dividend tax on hand, and

(e) the amount, if any, of the corporation's reduction at December 31, 1987 of refundable dividend tax on hand.

That portion of subsec. 129(3) preceding para. (a) amended by 1994, c. 7, Sch. VIII (1993, c. 24), subsec. 73(3), applicable to 1993 et seq. That portion formerly read:

(3) In this section, "refundable dividend tax on hand" of a private corporation at the end of any particular taxation year means the amount, if any, by which the total of

Forms: T713: Addition at December 31, 1986 of RDTOH.

(3.1) Application [for taxation years that end before 2003] — Where, in a taxation year that begins after November 12, 1981, a corporation that last became a private corporation on or before that date and that was throughout the year a private corporation, other than a Canadian-controlled private corporation, has included in its income for the year an amount in respect of property that the corporation

(a) disposed of before November 13, 1981,

(b) was obligated to dispose of under the terms of an agreement in writing entered into before November 13, 1981, or

(c) is deemed by subsection 44(2) to have disposed of at any time after November 12, 1981 because of an event referred to in paragraph (b), (c) or (d) of the definition "proceeds of disposition" in section 54 in respect of the disposition that occurred before November 13, 1981, paragraph 3(a)[36] shall apply as if the corporation were a Canadian-controlled private corporation throughout the year, except that the total of the amounts determined under that paragraph in respect of the corporation for the year shall not exceed the amount that would be so determined if the only income of the corporation for the year were the amount included in respect of the disposition of such property.

History: Subsec. 129(3.1) added by 2001, c. 17, s. 126, applicable to taxation years that end after June 1995 and before 2003.

(3.1) Definition of "reduction at December 31, 1977 of refundable dividend tax on hand" — In subsection (3), "reduction at December 31, 1977 of refundable dividend tax on hand" of a corporation means the amount that is 1/3 of the amount, if any, by which the total of

(a) the amount, if any, of the corporation's refundable dividend tax on hand at the end of its 1977 taxation year, and

(b) the amount, if any, of the tax under Part IV payable by the corporation for its 1978 taxation year in respect of taxable dividends received by it in that year and before 1978,

exceeds the total of

(c) the corporation's dividend refund, if any, for its 1977 taxation year, and

(d) 1/3 of the taxable dividends, if any, paid by the corporation in its 1978 taxation year and before 1978.

(3.2) [Repealed]

History: Subsec. 129(3.2) restored as 129(3.1) by 2001, c. 17, s. 126 (see under 126(3.1)).

Subsec. 129(3.2) repealed by 1996, c. 21, subsec. 32(2), applicable to taxation years that end after June 1995.Subsec. (3.1) formerly read:

(3.2) Application — Where, in a taxation year commencing after November 12, 1981, a corporation that last became a private corporation on or before that date and that was throughout the year a private corporation, other than a Canadian-controlled private corporation, has included in its income for the year an amount in respect of property that the corporation

(a) disposed of before November 13, 1981,

(b) was obligated to dispose of under the terms of an agreement in writing entered into before November 13, 1981, or

(c) is deemed by subsection 44(2) to have disposed of at any time after November 12, 1981 by virtue of an event referred to in paragraph (b), (c) or (d) of the definition "proceeds of disposition" in section 54 in respect of the disposition that occurred before November 13, 1981,

paragraph (3)(a) shall apply as if the corporation were a Canadian-controlled private corporation throughout the year, except that the total of the amounts determined under that paragraph in respect of the year shall not exceed the amount that would be so determined if the only income of the corporation for the year were the amount included in respect of the disposition of such property.

History: Subsec. 129(3.3) repealed by 1996, c. 21, subsec. 32(2), applicable to taxation years that end after June 1995.Subsec. (3.3) formerly read:

(3.3) Definition of "addition at December 31, 1986 of refundable dividend tax on hand" — In subsection (3), "addition at December 31, 1986 of refundable dividend tax on hand" of a corporation means the amount that is 1/2 of the amount, if any, by which

(a) the amount, if any, of the corporation's refundable dividend tax on hand at the end of its last taxation year commencing before 1987, determined without reference to paragraph (3)(b.1),

exceeds the total of

(b) the amount, if any, of the tax payable under Part IV by the corporation for its last taxation year commencing before 1987 in respect of taxable dividends received by it in that year and after 1986,

(c) 1/4 of the taxable dividends, if any, paid by the corporation before 1987 in its last taxation year commencing before 1987, and

(d) any amount added under paragraph 88(1)(e.5) in computing the corporation's refundable dividend tax on hand at the end of its last taxation year commencing before 1987 in respect of the refundable dividend tax on hand of a subsidiary (within the meaning assigned by subsection 88(1)) for its 1987 or 1988 taxation year.

(3.4) [Repealed]

History: Subsec. 129(3.4) repealed by 1996, c. 21, subsec. 32(2), applicable to taxation years that end after June 1995.Subsec. (3.4) formerly read:

(3.4) Reduction under para. (3.3)(a) — Where a corporation has received a taxable dividend after February 25, 1986 and before 1987 as part of a transaction effected after February 25, 1986 or series of transactions each of which was effected after that day and it may be reasonably considered that one of the main purposes thereof was to increase the corporation's refundable dividend tax on hand at the end of a taxation year by virtue of the application of subsection (3.3), the amount otherwise determined under paragraph (3.3)(a) in respect of the corporation shall be reduced by the tax payable under Part IV by the corporation in respect of the dividend.

History: Subsec. 129(3.5) repealed by 1996, c. 21, subsec. 32(2), applicable to taxation years that end after June 1995.Subsec. (3.5) formerly read:

(3.5) Definition of "reduction at December 31, 1987 of refundable dividend tax on hand" — In subsection (3), "reduction at December 31, 1987 of refundable dividend tax on hand" of a corporation means the amount that is 1/4 of the amount, if any, by which

(a) the amount, if any, of the corporation's refundable dividend tax on hand at the end of its last taxation year commencing before 1988, determined without reference to paragraph (3)(e),

exceeds the total of

(b) the amount, if any, of the tax payable under Part IV by the corporation for its last taxation year commencing before 1988 in respect of taxable dividends received by it in that year and after 1987,

(c) 1/3 of the taxable dividends, if any, paid by the corporation before 1988 in its last taxation year commencing before 1988,

(d) any amount added, under paragraph 88(1)(e.5) in computing the corporation's refundable dividend tax on hand at the end of its last taxation year beginning before 1988, in respect of the refundable dividend tax on hand of a subsidiary (within the meaning assigned by subsection 88(1)) for a taxation year ending after 1987, and

(e) an amount equal to that proportion of 1/5 of the least of the amounts determined under subparagraphs (3)(a)(i) to (iv) in respect of its last taxation year commencing before 1988 that the number of days in the year that are after 1987 is of the number of days in the year.

Para. 129(3.5)(d) amended by 1994, c. 7, Sch. II (1991, c. 49), s. 108, applicable to 1988 et seq. Para. (d) formerly read:

(d) any amount added under paragraph 88(1)(e.5) in computing the corporation's refundable dividend tax on hand at the end of its last taxation year commencing before 1988 in respect of the refundable dividend tax on hand of a subsidiary (within the meaning assigned by subsection 88(1)) for a taxation year commencing after 1987, and

(4) Definitions — The definitions in this subsection apply in this section.

History: The opening words of subsec. 129(4) amended by 1996, c. 21, subsec. 32(2), applicable to tax years that end after June 1995. They formerly read:

(4) In subsection (3),

[36] Sic. Should read (3)(a) — ed.

"aggregate investment income" of a corporation for a taxation year means the amount, if any, by which the total of all amounts, each of which is

(a) the amount, if any, by which

(i) the eligible portion of the corporation's taxable capital gains for the year

exceeds the total of

(ii) the eligible portion of its allowable capital losses for the year, and

(iii) the amount, if any, deducted under paragraph 111(1)(b) in computing its taxable income for the year, or

(b) the corporation's income for the year from a source that is a property, other than

(i) exempt income,

(ii) an amount included under subsection 12(10.2) in computing the corporation's income for the year,

(iii) the portion of any dividend that was deductible in computing the corporation's taxable income for the year, and

(iv) income that, but for paragraph 108(5)(a), would not be income from a property, exceeds the total of all amounts, each of which is the corporation's loss for the year from a source that is a property;

"Canadian investment income" — [Repealed]

History: The definition "Canadian investment income" in subsec. 129(4) repealed by 1996, c. 21, subsec. 32(2), applicable to taxation years that end after June 1995. It formerly read:

"Canadian investment income" of a corporation for a taxation year means the amount determined by the formula

$$(A + B) - C$$

where

A is the amount determined by the formula

$$(K - L) - (M - N)$$

where

K is the total of such of the corporation's taxable capital gains for the year from dispositions of property as may reasonably be considered to be income from sources in Canada,

L is the total of all amounts each of which is the portion of a taxable capital gain referred to in the description of K in this definition from the disposition by it of a property, other than a designated property, that may reasonably be regarded as having accrued while the property, or a property for which it was substituted, was property of a corporation other than a Canadian-controlled private corporation, an investment corporation, a mortgage investment corporation or a mutual fund corporation,

M is the total of such of the corporation's allowable capital losses for the year from dispositions of property as may reasonably be considered to be losses from sources in Canada, and

N is the total of all amounts each of which is the portion of an allowable capital loss referred to in the description of M in this definition from the disposition by it of a property, other than a designated property, that may reasonably be regarded as having accrued while the property, or a property for which it was substituted, was property of a corporation other than a Canadian-controlled private corporation, an investment corporation, a mortgage investment corporation or a mutual fund corporation,

B is the total of all amounts each of which is the corporation's income for the year from a source in Canada that is property (other than exempt income, an amount included under subsection 12(10.2) in the corporation's income for the year, any dividend the amount of which was deductible in computing its taxable income for the year or income that, but for paragraph 108(5)(a), would not be income from a property), determined after deducting all outlays and expenses deductible in computing the corporation's income for the year to the extent that they can reasonably be regarded as having been made or incurred for the purpose of earning income from that property[, and]

C is the total of all amounts each of which is the corporation's loss for the year from a source in Canada that is a property;

The description of B in "Canadian investment income" in subsec. 129(4) amended by 1994, c. 7, Sch. VIII (1993, c. 24), subsec. 73(4), applicable to 1991 et seq. That description formerly read:

B is the total of all amounts each of which is the corporation's income for the year from a source in Canada that is property (other than exempt income, any dividend the amount of which was deductible in computing its taxable income for the year or income that, but for paragraph 108(5)(a), would not be income from a property), determined after deducting all outlays and expenses deductible in computing the corporation's income for the year to the extent that they may reasonably be regarded as having been made or incurred for the purpose of earning income from that property, and

"eligible portion" of a corporation's taxable capital gains or allowable capital losses for a taxation year is the total of all amounts each of which is the portion of a taxable capital gain or an allowable capital loss, as the case may be, of the corporation for the year from a disposition of a property that, except where the property was a designated property (within the meaning assigned by subsection 89(1)), cannot reasonably be regarded as having accrued while the property, or a property for which it was substituted, was property of a corporation other than a Canadian-controlled private corporation, an investment corporation, a mortgage investment corporation or a mutual fund corporation;

Related Provisions: 248(5) — Substituted property.

History: The definition "eligible portion" added to subsec. 129(4) by 1996, c. 21, subsec. 32(2), applicable to taxation years that end after June 1995.

"foreign investment income" of a corporation for a taxation year is the amount that would be its aggregate investment income for the year if

(a) every amount of its income, loss, capital gain or capital loss for the year that can reasonably be regarded as being from a source in Canada were nil,

(b) no amount were deducted under paragraph 111(1)(b) in computing its taxable income for the year, and

(c) this Act were read without reference to paragraph (a) of the definition "income" or "loss" in this subsection;

History: The definition "foreign investment income" in subsec. 129(4) amended by 1996, c. 21, subsec. 32(2), applicable to taxation years that end after June 1995. It formerly read:

"foreign investment income" of a corporation for a taxation year means the amount that would be determined under the definition "Canadian investment income" in this subsection in respect of the corporation for the year if the references in that definition to "in Canada" were read as references to "outside Canada" and this Act were read without reference to subsection (4.1).

"income" or "loss" of a corporation for a taxation year from a source that is a property

(a) includes the income or loss from a specified investment business carried on by it in Canada other than income or loss from a source outside Canada, but

(b) does not include the income or loss from any property

(i) that is incident to or pertains to an active business carried on by it, or

(ii) that is used or held principally for the purpose of gaining or producing income from an active business carried on by it.

Related Provisions: 129(4)"foreign investment income"(c) — Para. (a) ignored for purposes of determining foreign investment income.

History: The definition "income" or "loss" added to subsec. 129(4) by 1996, c. 21, subsec. 32(2), applicable to taxation years that end after June 1995.

(3) Meaning of expressions "investment corporation" and "taxed capital gains" — For the purposes of this section,

(a) a corporation is an "investment corporation" throughout any taxation year in respect of which the expression is being applied if it complied with the following conditions:

(i) it was throughout the year a Canadian corporation that was a public corporation,

(ii) at least 80% of its property throughout the year consisted of shares, bonds, marketable securities or cash,

(iii) not less than 95% of its income (determined without reference to subsection 49(2)) for the year was derived from, or from dispositions of, investments described in subparagraph (ii),

(iv) not less than 85% of its gross revenue for the year was from sources in Canada,

(v) not more than 25% of its gross revenue for the year was from interest,

(vi) at no time in the year did more than 10% of its property consist of shares, bonds or securities of any one corporation or debtor other than Her Majesty in right of Canada or of a province or a Canadian municipality,

(vii) no person would have been a specified shareholder of the corporation in the year if

(A) the portion of the definition "specified shareholder" in subsection 248(1) before paragraph (a) were read as follows:

" "specified shareholder" of a corporation in a taxation year means a taxpayer who owns, directly or indirectly, at any time in the year, more than 25% of the issued shares of any class of the capital stock of the corporation and, for the purposes of this definition,"

(B) paragraph (a) of that definition were read as follows:

"(a) a taxpayer is deemed to own each share of the capital stock of a corporation owned at that time by a person related to the taxpayer,"

(C) that definition were read without reference to paragraph (d) of that definition,

and

(D) paragraph 251(2)(a) were read as follows:

"(a) an individual and

(i) the individual's child (as defined in subsection 70(10)) who is under 19 years of age, or

(ii) the individual's spouse or common-law partner;"

(viii) an amount not less than 85% of the total of

(A) ⅔ of the amount, if any, by which its taxable income for the year exceeds its taxed capital gains for the year, and

(B) the amount, if any, by which all taxable dividends received by it in the year to the extent of the amount thereof deductible under section 112 or 113 from its income for the year exceeds the amount that the corporation's non-capital loss for the year would be if the amount determined in respect of the corporation for the year under paragraph 3(b) was nil,

(less any dividends or interest received by it in the form of shares, bonds or other securities that had not been sold before the end of the year) was distributed, otherwise than by way of capital gains dividends, to its shareholders before the end of the year; and

(b) the amount of the "taxed capital gains" of a taxpayer for a taxation year is the amount, if any, by which

(i) its taxable capital gains for the year from dispositions of property

exceeds

(ii) the total of its allowable capital losses for the year from dispositions of property and the amount, if any, deducted under paragraph 111(1)(b) for the purpose of computing its taxable income for the year.

History: Cl. 130(3)(a)(vii)(D) amended by 2000, c. 12, Sch. 2, s. 1, to replace "spouse" with "spouse or common-law partner", applicable to 2001 et seq., in force July 31, 2000. See also the transitional rules reproduced in the History to 248(1)"common-law partner".

S.C. 1999, c. 22, s. 92 amended the amendment made to subpara. 130(3)(a)(vii) by S.C. 1998, c. 19 (Bill C-28) and amended the application so that it is applicable to corporations for taxation years that begin after June 20, 1996 except that, by subsec. 155(4) of S.C. 1998, c. 19 (as amended by 1999, c. 22), where

(a) a corporation was an investment corporation on June 20, 1996,

(b) a particular person is a specified shareholder of the corporation in the year, and

(c) the particular person

(i) was a specified shareholder of the corporation on June 20, 1996, or

(ii) both

(A) was a specified shareholder of the corporation at any time after June 20, 1996 and before August 14, 1998, and

(B) would have been a specified shareholder of the corporation on June 20, 1996 if subpara 130(3)(a)(vii), as amended, were read without reference to clauses (B) and (D), subpara. 130(3)(a)(vii), as amended, does not apply to the corporation, with respect to the particular person and persons related to the particular person, except as provided in subsections 155(5) to (11) of the said c. 19, which were also amended by 1999, c. 22 (see below). These amendments by 1999, c. 22 are deemed to have come into force on June 18, 1998. The amendment made by S.C. 1998, c. 19 read:

(vii) no person would be a specified shareholder of the corporation in the year if, in the definition "specified shareholder" in subsection 248(1),

(A) the portion of that definition before paragraph (a) were read as follows:

"specified shareholder" of a corporation in a taxation year means a taxpayer who owns, directly or indirectly, at any time in the year, more than 25% of the issued shares of any class of the capital stock of the corporation and, for the purpose of this definition,

and

(B) the reference in paragraph (d) of that definition to "not less than 10%" were read as a reference to "more than 25%", and

Subsecs. 155(5) to (11) of S.C. 1998, c. 19, (as amended by 1999, c. 22, s. 92, deemed to have come into force on June 18, 1998) provide:

(5) [The amendment to subpara. 130(3)(a)(vii)] applies to a corporation that was an investment corporation on June 20, 1996 for a taxation year that begins after that day if, at any time after that day and before the end of the year, a particular person described in paragraph [155(4)(b) of the said c. 19 (above)] in respect of the corporation for the year contributes capital to the corporation or acquires a share of the capital stock of the corporation other than by a permitted acquisition.

(6) [The amendment to subpara. 130(3)(a)(vii)] applies to a corporation that was an investment corporation on June 20, 1996 for a taxation year that begins after that day where, at any time after that day and before the end of the year, a newly related person in respect of the corporation

(a) contributed capital to the corporation; or

(b) held at any particular time property (in this paragraph referred to as an "ineligible investment") that is

(i) a share of the capital stock of the corporation, or

(ii) a share of the capital stock of a corporation, or an interest in a partnership or trust, that held an ineligible investment at the particular time.

(7) For the purpose of subsection (6), a newly related person in respect of a corporation at any time means a person who, at any other time that is before that time and after June 20, 1996, became related to a particular person described in paragraph [155(4)(b) of the said c. 19 (above)] in respect of the corporation, but does not include a person who would, if the taxation year of the corporation that includes that other time had ended immediately before that other time, have been a particular person described in paragraph [155(4)(b) of the said c. 19 (above)] in respect of the corporation for the year.

(8) [Repealed by 1999, c. 22, s. 92]

(9) For the purposes of subsections (5) to (8),

(a) where at a particular time

(i) a trust that existed on June 20, 1996 distributes a share of the capital stock of a corporation to a person who was a beneficiary under the trust throughout the period from June 20, 1996 to the particular time in satisfaction of all or any part of the beneficiary's capital interest in the trust, or

(ii) a partnership that existed on June 20, 1996 distributes, on ceasing to exist, a share of the capital stock of a corporation or an interest in a share to a person who was a member of the partnership throughout the period from June 20, 1996 to the particular time, the share is deemed to have been owned by the beneficiary or member from the later of June 20, 1996 and the time the share was last acquired by the trust or partnership until the particular time; and

(b) where a person who is a beneficiary of a trust or a member of a partnership is deemed by paragraph (b), (c) or (e) of the definition "specified shareholder" in subsection 248(1) of the

Act to own a share owned by the partnership or trust, the person is deemed to have acquired the share at the later of the time the share was acquired by the trust or partnership and the time the person last became a beneficiary of the trust or a member of the partnership.

(10) At any time on or after the day of the death of a person described in paragraph [155(4)(c) of the said c. 19 (above)] in respect of a corporation and before the third anniversary of that day,

(a) the estate of the deceased person is deemed to be a person described in paragraphs (4)(b) and (c) [of the said c. 19 (above)] who is related to each person who, throughout the period that begins at the end of June 20, 1996 and ends at the time of death, was related to the deceased person;

(b) notwithstanding subsection (7), the estate is deemed not to be a newly related person in respect of the corporation;

(c) notwithstanding subsection (11), the acquisition of shares of the corporation's capital stock by the estate from the deceased person is deemed to be a permitted acquisition; and

(d) the estate is deemed not to be a trust for the purposes of subparagraph (9)(a)(i) of this Act and paragraphs (b) and (e) of the definition "specified shareholder" in subsection 248(1) of the Income Tax Act.

(11) The definitions in this subsection apply in subsections (4) to (10) [of the said c. 19 (above)] and this subsection.

"permitted acquisition" means an acquisition by a particular person of a share of a class of the capital stock of a corporation that was

(a) held, at each particular time after June 20, 1996 and before the time at which the particular person acquired it, or

(b) issued after June 20, 1996 by the corporation as a stock dividend and held, at each particular time after the time the share was issued and before the time at which the particular person acquired it, by the particular person or by a person who was related to the particular person throughout the period that begins at the end of June 20, 1996 and ends at the particular time if, immediately after the time at which the particular person acquires the share, the total percentage of the issued shares of that class held by the particular person and persons related to the particular person (or in the case of acquisitions before August 14, 1998, by the particular person and persons with whom the particular person did not deal at arm's length immediately after the acquisition) does not exceed the permitted percentage for the particular person in respect of that class of shares.

"permitted percentage" for a particular person in respect of any class of shares of the capital stock of a corporation means

(a) in respect of acquisitions of shares before August 14, 1998, the greatest percentage that is the total percentage of the issued shares of a class of the capital stock of the corporation held at the end of June 20, 1996 by the particular person and persons with whom the particular person did not at that time deal at arm's length; and

(b) in any other case, the greater of

(i) the greatest percentage that is the total percentage of the issued shares of a class of the capital stock of the corporation held at the end of June 20, 1996 by the particular person and persons related to the particular person, and

(ii) the greatest percentage that is the total percentage of the issued shares of a class of the capital stock of the corporation held at the beginning of August 14, 1998 by the particular person and persons related to the particular person.

"related persons" and persons related to each other have, for purposes other than applying the definitions "permitted acquisition" and "permitted percentage" in respect of acquisitions of shares before August 14, 1998, the meaning that would be assigned by section 251 of the Act if paragraph 251(2)(a) of the Act were read as follows:

(a) an individual and

(i) the individual's child (as defined in subsection 70(10)) who is under 19 years of age, or

(ii) the individual's spouse;

"specified shareholder" has the meaning assigned by subparagraph 130(3)(a)(vii) of the Act, as enacted by subsection (2).

Proposed Amendment — Application of 130(3)(a)(vii) — definition of "specified shareholder" in transition rules

Letter from Department of Finance, March 12, 2003:

Dear [xxx]

We are responding to your letter to me of January 8, 2003, your letter of February 3, 2003 to Stephanie Smith and subsequent discussions with Ms. Smith concerning the special transitional rules that apply to exempt from the application of subparagraph 130(3)(a)(vii) an investment corporation that had at least one "existing specified shareholder" on June 20, 1996. In general, the exemption is lost where the existing specified shareholder and certain "newly related persons" acquire more shares of the corporation after June 20, 1996, other than by certain permitted acquisitions. For this purpose, if any such person has an interest in a partnership or trust, the exemption is lost if the partnership or trust acquires a share of the investment corporation after that date.

Your letter describes an investment corporation that had an individual who was an existing specified shareholder (the "Specified Shareholder") on June 20, 1996. The transitional rules provide that in determining who is a specified shareholder of an investment corporation, a person is deemed to own the shares of any corporation that are owned by a related person. Related persons are specifically defined for the purpose of these rules. As a result of the rules, if any of the Specified Shareholder's spouse's grandchildren under 19 years of age (the "Grandchildren") acquire or are deemed to acquire a share of the investment corporation after June 20, 1996, other than in a permitted acquisition, the transitional relief afforded in the transitional rules from the application of subparagraph 130(3)(a)(vii) would be lost.

In the situation you have described, the Specified Shareholder's daughter, who is over 19 years of age, (the "Daughter") established a registered education savings plan ("RESP") in the late 1980s for a number of persons including certain of the Grandchildren. In 1997, 1998 and 1999, the Daughter transferred shares of the investment corporation to the RESP and the dividend income received on the shares held in the RESP was, in part, paid by the RESP to the Grandchildren. In 2000, the shares of the investment corporation were reacquired by the Daughter from the RESP. The deemed acquisition of shares of the investment corporation by the Grandchildren would result in the investment corporation losing its exemption from the application of subparagraph 130(3)(a)(vii) provided for in the transitional rules and, therefore, losing its status as an investment corporation in 1997. You have asked us to expand the scope of the transitional rules to accommodate your client's situation.

We are sympathetic to this request and intend to recommend to the Minister of Finance that the Income Tax Act and the transitional rules that apply to investment corporations be amended to exclude from the definition of "specified shareholder", as it applies for the purpose of investment corporations, a beneficiary's interest in a trust governed by a RESP where the beneficiary of the trust is less than 19 years of age. Furthermore, we intend to recommend that the amendment be effective only for taxation years that begin before the date detailed legislative proposals are made public.

While we cannot offer any assurance that our recommendation in this matter will be accepted, we hope our statement of intent in this letter will be helpful in responding to your concern.

Yours sincerely,

Brian Ernewein
Director, Tax Legislation Division, Tax Policy Branch

Subpara. 130(3)(a)(vii) amended by 1998, c. 19, subsec. 155(2) (but subsequently replaced by an amendment by 1999, c. 22 (see above)), applicable to corporations for taxation years that begin after June 20, 1996 except that, by subsec. 155(4) of the said c. 19, where

(a) a corporation was an investment corporation on June 20, 1996,

(b) a particular person would be a specified shareholder of the corporation in the year, within the meaning assigned by subpara. 130(3)(a)(vii) if this amendment applied to the corporation for the year, and,

(c) the particular person would have been a specified shareholder of the corporation on June 20, 1996, within the meaning assigned by subpara. 130(3)(a)(vii) if this amendment applied to the corporation for the year that includes that day, subpara. 130(3)(a)(vii) does not apply to the corporation, with respect to the particular person and persons related to the particular person, except as provided in subsections 155(5) to (8) of the said c. 19. Subpara. 130(3)(a)(vii) formerly read:

(vii) none of its shareholders at any time in the year held more than 25% of the issued shares of the capital stock of the corporation, and

Subpara. 130(3)(a)(iii) amended by 1994, c. 7, Sch. II (1991, c. 49), subsec. 109(1), to add "(determined without reference to subsection 49(2))", applicable to 1990 et seq.

Selected Cases [subsec. 130(3)]: Canadian & Foreign Securities Co. Ltd. v. MNR, [1972] C.T.C. 391 (FCTD) ("Securities" include promissory notes; requirements for investment corporation not met).

(4) Wholly owned subsidiaries — Where a corporation so elects in its return of income under this Part for a taxation year, each of the corporation's properties that is a share or indebtedness of another Canadian corporation that is at any time in the year a subsidiary wholly owned corporation of the corporation shall, for the purposes of subparagraphs (3)(a)(ii) and (vi), be deemed not to be owned by the corporation at any such time in the year, and each property owned by the other corporation at that time shall, for the purposes of those subparagraphs, be deemed to be owned by the corporation at that time.

History: Subsec. 130(4) added by 1994, c. 7, Sch. II (1991, c. 49), subsec. 109(2), applicable to 1987 et seq., and an election referred to in the subsec. in respect of a corporation's taxation year for which a return of income under Part I of the Act was made before December 18, 1991 shall be deemed to have been made in the corporation's return of income for that year if the election is filed in writing with the Minister of National Revenue before March 17, 1992.

Mortgage Investment Corporations

130.1 (1) Deduction from tax — In computing the income for a taxation year of a corporation that was, throughout the year, a mortgage investment corporation,

(a) there may be deducted the total of

(i) all taxable dividends, other than capital gains dividends, paid by the corporation during the year or within 90 days after the end of the year to the extent that those dividends were not deductible by the corporation in computing its income for the preceding year, and

(ii) ½ of all capital gains dividends paid by the corporation during the period commencing 91 days after the commencement of the year and ending 90 days after the end of the year; and

(b) no deduction may be made under section 112 in respect of taxable dividends received by it from other corporations.

Related Provisions: 142.2(1)"financial institution"(c)(ii) — Mortgage investment corporation not subject to mark-to-market rules; 181.3(3)(a) — Capital of financial institution.

History: Subpara. 130.1(1)(a)(ii) amended by 2001, c. 17, subsec. 127(1) to replace the reference to "3/4" with "1/2", applicable to taxation years that end after February 27, 2000 except that, for a corporation's taxation year that includes February 28, 2000 or October 17, 2000, or began after February 28, 2000 and ended before October 17, 2000, the reference to "1/2" shall be read as a reference to the fraction in para. 38(a), as amended by 2001, c. 17, that applies to the corporation for the year.

(2) Dividend equated to bond interest — For the purposes of this Act, any amount received from a mortgage investment corporation by a shareholder of the corporation as or on account of a taxable dividend, other than a capital gains dividend, shall be deemed to have been received by the shareholder as interest payable on a bond issued by the corporation after 1971.

Related Provisions: 130.1(3) — Application; 214(3)(e) — Non-resident withholding tax.

(3) Application of subsec. (2) — Subsection (2) applies where the taxable dividend (other than a capital gains dividend) described in that subsection was paid during a taxation year throughout which the paying corporation was a mortgage investment corporation or within 90 days thereafter.

(4) Election re capital gains dividend — Where at any particular time during the period that begins 91 days after the beginning of a taxation year of a corporation that was, throughout the year, a mortgage investment corporation and ends 90 days after the end of the year, a dividend is paid by the corporation to shareholders of the corporation, if the corporation so elects in respect of the full amount of the dividend in prescribed manner and at or before the earlier of the particular time and the first day on which any part of the dividend was paid,

(a) the dividend shall be deemed to be a capital gains dividend to the extent that it does not exceed the amount, if any, by which

(i) twice the taxed capital gains of the corporation for the year

exceeds

(ii) the total of all dividends, and parts of dividends, paid by the corporation during the period and before the particular time that are deemed by this paragraph to be capital gains dividends; and

(b) notwithstanding any other provision of this Act, any amount received by a taxpayer in a taxation year as, on account of, in lieu of payment of or in satisfaction of, the dividend shall not be included in computing the taxpayer's income for the year as income from a share of the capital stock of the corporation, and

(i) where the dividend was in respect of capital gains of the corporation from dispositions of property that occurred before February 28, 2000 and the taxation year of the taxpayer began after February 27, 2000 and ended before October 18, 2000, 9/8 of the dividend is deemed to be a capital gain of the taxpayer from the disposition by the taxpayer of a capital property in the year,

(ii) where the dividend was in respect of capital gains of the corporation from dispositions of property that occurred before February 28, 2000, and the taxation year of the taxpayer includes February 27, 2000, the dividend is deemed to be a capital gain of the taxpayer from the disposition by the taxpayer of a capital property in the year and before February 28, 2000,

(iii) where the dividend was in respect of capital gains of the corporation from dispositions of property that occurred before February 28, 2000 and the taxation year of the taxpayer began after October 17, 2000, 3/2 of the dividend is deemed to be a capital gain of the taxpayer from the disposition by the taxpayer of a capital property in the year,

(iii.1) where the dividend was in respect of capital gains of the corporation from dispositions of property that occurred before February 28, 2000 and the taxation year of the taxpayer begins after February 27, 2000 and ends after October 17, 2000, 9/8 of the dividend is deemed to be a capital gain of the taxpayer from the disposition by the taxpayer of capital property in the year and before October 18, 2000,

(iv) where the dividend was in respect of capital gains of the corporation from dispositions of property that occurred after February 27, 2000 and before October 18, 2000, and the taxation year of the taxpayer began after October 17, 2000, 4/3 of the dividend is deemed to be a capital gain of the taxpayer from the disposition by the taxpayer of a capital property in the year,

(v) where the dividend was in respect of capital gains of the corporation from dispositions of property that occurred after February 27, 2000, and before October 18, 2000 and the taxation year of the taxpayer includes October 17, 2000, the dividend is deemed to be a capital gain of the taxpayer from the disposition by the taxpayer of a capital property in the year and in the period that began after February 27, 2000 and ended before October 18, 2000,

(vi) where the dividend was in respect of capital gains of the corporation from dispositions of property that occurred after February 27, 2000, and before October 17, 2000 and the taxation year of the taxpayer began after February 27, 2000 and ended before October 17, 2000, the dividend is deemed to be a capital gain of the taxpayer from the disposition by the taxpayer of a capital property in the year, and

(vii) in any other case, the dividend is deemed to be a capital gain of the taxpayer from the disposition of capital property after October 17, 2000 and in the year.

Related Provisions: 39.1(1)"exempt capital gains balance"C(c), 39.1(6) — Reduction in gain to reflect capital gains exemption election; 111(1.1)(c) — Net capital loss carryover — transition for 2000; 130.1(4.2) — Reporting to shareholder of capital gains tax rate; 130.1(4.3) — Allocation of capital gains tax rate for 2000; 184(2) — Tax on excessive elections; 184(3) — Election to treat excess as separate dividend; 185(4) — Joint and several liability from excessive elections.

History: Subpara. 130.1(4)(a)(i) amended by 2001, c. 17, subsec. 127(2), to replace the reference to "3/4" with "1/2", applicable to taxation years that end after February 27, 2000 except that, for a corporation's taxation year that includes February 28, 2000 or October 17, 2000, or began after February 28, 2000 and ended before October 17, 2000, the word "twice" shall be read as "the fraction that is the reciprocal of the fraction in para. 38(a), as amended by 2001, c. 17, that applies to the corporation for the year, multiplied by".

Para. 130.1(4)(b) amended by the said c. 17, subsec. 127(3), applicable to taxation years that end after February 27, 2000. The para. formerly read:

(b) notwithstanding any other provision of this Act, any amount received by a taxpayer in a taxation year as, on account of, in lieu of payment of or in satisfaction of, the dividend shall not be included in computing the taxpayer's income for the year as income from a share of the capital stock of the corporation, but shall be deemed to be a capital gain of the taxpayer for the year from a disposition, in the year and after February 22, 1994, by the taxpayer of capital property.

Subsec. 130.1(4) amended by 1995, c. 3, subsec. 40(1), applicable to dividends paid after February 22, 1994. Subsec. (4) formerly read:

(4) Electing capital gains dividend — Where at any particular time during the period beginning 91 days after the beginning of a taxation year of a corporation that was, throughout the year, a mortgage investment corporation and ending 90 days after the end of the year, a dividend is paid by the corporation to shareholders of the corporation,

(a) if the corporation so elects in respect of the full amount of the dividend, in prescribed form and manner and at or before the earlier of the particular time and the first day on which any part of the dividend was paid,

(i) the dividend shall be deemed to be a capital gains dividend to the extent that it does not exceed the amount, if any, by which

(A) 4/3 of the corporation's qualifying taxed capital gains for the year

exceeds

(B) the total of all dividends, and parts of dividends, paid by the corporation during the period and before the particular time that are deemed by this subparagraph to be capital gains dividends,

(ii) notwithstanding any other provision of this Act, any amount received by a taxpayer in a taxation year as or on account of the dividend shall not be included in computing the taxpayer's income for the year as income from a share of the capital stock of the corporation, but shall be deemed to be a capital gain of the taxpayer for the year from a disposition of capital property and, for the purposes of section 110.6, that property shall be deemed to have been disposed of by the taxpayer in the year, and

(iii) any election under paragraph (b) made by the corporation in respect of the dividend shall be deemed not to have been made; and

(b) if the corporation so elects in respect of the full amount of the dividend, in prescribed form and manner and at or before the earlier of the particular time and the first day on which any part of the dividend was paid,

(i) the dividend shall be deemed to be a capital gains dividend to the extent that it does not exceed the amount, if any, by which

(A) 4/3 of the corporation's non-qualifying taxed capital gains for the year

exceeds

(B) the total of all dividends, and parts of dividends, paid by the corporation during the period and before the particular time that are deemed by this subparagraph to be capital gains dividends, and

(ii) notwithstanding any other provision of this Act, any amount received by a taxpayer in a taxation year as or on account of the dividend shall not be included in computing the taxpayer's income for the year as income from a share of the capital stock of the corporation, but shall be deemed to be a capital gain of the taxpayer for the year from a disposition of capital property and, for the purposes of section 110.6,

(A) that property shall be deemed to have been non-qualifying real property of the taxpayer, within the meaning of that section, disposed of by the taxpayer in the year, and

(B) the taxpayer's eligible real property gain for the year, within the meaning of that section, from the disposition of that property shall be deemed to be nil.

Subsec. 130.1(4) amended by 1994, c. 7, Sch. VIII (1993, c. 24), subsec. 75(1), applicable to 1992 et seq. Subsec. (4) formerly read:

(4) Where at any particular time during the period commencing 91 days after the commencement of a taxation year of a corporation that was, throughout the year, a mortgage investment corporation and ending 90 days after the end of the year, a dividend is paid by the corporation to shareholders of the corporation, if the corporation so elects in respect of the full amount of the dividend, in prescribed manner and prescribed form and at or before the particular time or the first day on which any part of the dividend was paid if that day is earlier than the particular time,

(a) the dividend shall be deemed to be a capital gains dividend to the extent that it does not exceed

(i) 4/3 of the taxed capital gains of the corporation for the year

minus

(ii) such part, if any, of each dividend paid by the corporation during the period and before the particular time as is deemed by this subsection to be a capital gains dividend; and

(b) notwithstanding any other provision of this Act, any amount received by a taxpayer in a taxation year as or on account of the dividend shall not be included in computing the taxpayer's income for the year as income from a share of the capital stock of the corporation, but shall be deemed to be a capital gain of the taxpayer for the year from a disposition of capital property and, for the purposes of section 110.6, that property shall be deemed to have been disposed of by the taxpayer in the year.

Regulations: 2104.1 (prescribed manner, prescribed form).

Forms: T5: Statement of investment income; T5 Summ: Return of investment income; T2012: Election in respect of a capital gains dividend.

(4.1) Application of subsecs. 131(1.1) to (1.4) — Where at any particular time a mortgage investment corporation paid a dividend to its shareholders and subsection (4) would have applied to the dividend except that the corporation did not make an election under subsection (4) on or before the day on or before which it was required by that subsection to be made, subsections 131(1.1) to (1.4) apply with such modifications as the circumstances require.

History: Subsec. 130.1(4.1) added by 2001, c. 17, subsec. 127(4), applicable to taxation years that end after February 27, 2000.

(4.2) Reporting [for 2000] — Where paragraph (4)(b) applies to a dividend paid by a mortgage investment corporation to a shareholder of any class of shares of its capital stock in the period that begins 91 days after the beginning of the corporation's taxation year that includes February 28, 2000 or October 17, 2000 and ends 90 days after the end of that year, the corporation shall disclose to the shareholder in prescribed form the amount of the dividend that is in respect of capital gains realized on dispositions of property that occurred

(a) before February 28, 2000,

(b) after February 27, 2000 and before October 18, 2000, and

(c) after October 17, 2000

and, if it does not do so, the dividend is deemed to be in respect of capital gains from dispositions of property that occurred before February 28, 2000.

History: Subsec. 130.1(4.2) added by 2001, c. 17, subsec. 127(4), applicable to taxation years that end after February 27, 2000.

(4.3) Allocation [for 2000] — Where subsection (4) applies in respect of a dividend paid by a mortgage investment corporation at any time in the period that begins 91 days after the beginning of the corporation's taxation year that includes February 28, 2000 or October 17, 2000 and ends 90 days after the end of that year, and the corporation does not elect under subsection (4.4), the following rules apply:

(a) the portion of the dividend that is in respect of capital gains from dispositions of property that occurred in the year and in the particular period that began at the beginning of the year and ended at the end of February 27, 2000 is deemed to be that proportion of the dividend that the net capital gains of the corporation from the dispositions of property in the particular period is of the total of the corporation's net capital gains from the dispositions of property in each of the particular periods referred to in this subsection,

(b) the portion of the dividend that is in respect of capital gains from dispositions of property that occurred in the year and in the particular period that began at the beginning of February 28, 2000 and ended at the end of October 17, 2000 is deemed to be that proportion of the dividend that the net capital gains of the corporation from the dispositions of property in the particular period is of the total of the corporation's net capital gains from the dispositions of property in each of the particular periods referred to in this subsection,

(c) the portion of the dividend that is in respect of capital gains from dispositions of property that occurred in the year and in the particular period that begins at the beginning of October 18, 2000 and ends at the end of the year, is deemed to be that proportion of the dividend that the net capital gains of the corporation from the dispositions of property in the particular period is of the total of the corporation's net capital gains from the dispositions of property in each of the periods referred to in this subsection, and in this subsection net capital gains from dispositions of property in a particular period means the amount, if any, by which the corporation's capital gains from dispositions of property in the particular period exceeds the corporation's capital losses from dispositions of property in the particular period.

History: Subsec. 130.1(4.3) added by 2001, c. 17, subsec. 127(4), applicable to taxation years that end after February 27, 2000.

(4.4) Allocation [for 2000] — Where subsection (4) applies in respect of a dividend paid by a mortgage investment corporation in the period that begins 91 days after the beginning of the corporation's taxation year that includes February 28, 2000 or October 17, 2000 and ends 90 days after the end of that year, and the corporation so elects under this subsection in its return of income for the year, the following rules apply:

(a) the portion of the dividend that is in respect of capital gains from dispositions of property that occurred in the year and before February 28, 2000 is deemed to be that proportion of the dividend that the number of days that are in that year and before February 28, 2000 is of the number of days that are in that year;

(b) the portion of the dividend that is in respect of capital gains from dispositions of property that occurred in the year and in the period that began at the beginning of February 28, 2000 and ended at the end of October 17, 2000 is deemed to be that proportion of the dividend that the number of days that are in the year and in that period is of the number of days that are in the year; and

(c) the portion of the dividend that is in respect of capital gains from dispositions of property that occurred in the year and in the period that begins at the beginning of October 18, 2000 and ends at the end of the year, is deemed to be that proportion of the dividend that the number of days that are in the year and in that period is of the number of days that are in the year.

History: Subsec. 130.1(4.4) added by 2001, c. 17, subsec. 127(4), applicable to taxation years that end after February 27, 2000.

(4.5) Allocation [for 2000] — Where no dividend to which subsection (4.4) applies is paid by a mortgage investment corporation in respect of its net taxable capital gains for its taxation year that includes February 28, 2000 or October 17, 2000, the corporation has net capital gains or net capital losses from dispositions of property in the year, and the corporation so elects under this subsection in its return of income for the year

(a) the portion of those net capital gains and net capital losses that is in respect of capital gains and losses from dispositions of property that occurred before February 28, 2000 is deemed to be that proportion of the net capital gains or net capital losses respectively

that the number of days that are in the year and before February 28, 2000 is of the number of days that are in the year,

(b) the portion of those net capital gains and net capital losses that is in respect of capital gains and losses from dispositions of property that occurred in the year and in the period that began at the beginning of February 28, 2000 and ended at the end of October 17, 2000, is deemed to be that proportion of the net capital gains or net capital losses respectively that the number of days that are in the year and in that period is of the number of days that are in the year, and

(c) the portion of those net capital gains and net capital losses that is in respect of capital gains and losses from dispositions of property that occurred in the year and in the period that began at the beginning of October 18, 2000 and ended at the end of the year, is deemed to be that proportion of the net capital gains or net capital losses respectively that the number of days that are in the year and in that period is of the number of days that are in the year,

and, for the purpose of this subsection,

(d) the net capital gains of a mortgage investment corporation from dispositions of property in a year is the amount, if any, by which the corporation's capital gains from dispositions of property in a year exceeds the corporation's capital losses from dispositions of property in the year, and

(e) the net capital losses of a mortgage investment corporation from dispositions of property in a year is the amount, if any, by which the corporation's capital losses from dispositions of property in a year exceeds the corporation's capital gains from dispositions of property in the year.

History: Subsec. 130.1(4.5) added by 2001, c. 17, subsec. 127(4), applicable to taxation years that end after February 27, 2000.

(5) Public corporation — Notwithstanding any other provision of this Act, a mortgage investment corporation shall be deemed to be a public corporation.

(6) Meaning of "mortgage investment corporation" — For the purposes of this section, a corporation is a "mortgage investment corporation" throughout a taxation year if, throughout the year,

(a) it was a Canadian corporation;

(b) its only undertaking was the investing of funds of the corporation and it did not manage or develop any real property;

(c) none of the property of the corporation consisted of

(i) debts owing to the corporation that were secured on real property situated outside Canada,

(ii) debts owing to the corporation by non-resident persons, except any such debts that were secured on real property situated in Canada,

(iii) shares of the capital stock of corporations not resident in Canada, or

(iv) real property situated outside Canada, or any leasehold interest in such property;

(d) there were 20 or more shareholders of the corporation and no person would have been a specified shareholder of the corporation at any time in the year if

(i) the portion of the definition "specified shareholder" in subsection 248(1) before paragraph (a) were read as follows:

""specified shareholder" of a corporation at any time means a taxpayer who owns, directly or indirectly, at that time, more than 25% of the issued shares of any class of the capital stock of the corporation and, for the purposes of this definition,"

(ii) paragraph (a) of that definition were read as follows:

"(a) a taxpayer is deemed to own each share of the capital stock of a corporation owned at that time by a person related to the taxpayer,"

(iii) that definition were read without reference to paragraph (d) of that definition, and

(iv) paragraph 251(2)(a) were read as follows:

"(a) an individual and

(i) the individual's child (as defined in subsection 70(10)) who is under 18 years of age, or

(ii) the individual's spouse or common-law partner;"

(e) any holders of preferred shares of the corporation had a right, after payment to them of their preferred dividends, and payment of dividends in a like amount per share to the holders of the common shares of the corporation, to participate pari passu with the holders of the common shares in any further payment of dividends;

(f) the cost amount to the corporation of such of its property as consisted of

(i) debts owing to the corporation that were secured, whether by mortgages, hypothecs or in any other manner, on houses (as defined in section 2 of the National Housing Act) or on property included within a housing project (as defined in that section), and

(ii) amounts of any deposits standing to the corporation's credit in the records of

(A) a bank or other corporation any of whose deposits are insured by the Canada Deposit Insurance Corporation or the Régie de l'assurance-dépôts du Québec, or

(B) a credit union,

plus the amount of any money of the corporation was at least 50% of the cost amount to it of all of its property;

(g) the cost amount to the corporation of all real property of the corporation, including leasehold interests in such property, (except real property acquired by the corporation by foreclosure or otherwise after default made on a mortgage, hypothec or agreement of sale of real property) did not exceed 25% of the cost amount to it of all of its property;

(h) its liabilities did not exceed 3 times the amount by which the cost amount to it of all of its property exceeded its liabilities, where at any time in the year the cost amount to it of such of its property as consisted of property described in subparagraphs (f)(i) and (ii) plus the amount of any money of the corporation was less than 2/3 of the cost amount to it of all of its property; and

(i) its liabilities did not exceed 5 times the amount by which the cost amount to it of all its property exceeded its liabilities, where paragraph (h) is not applicable.

History: Subpara. 130.1(6)(f)(i) amended by 2001 c. 17, subsec. 214(1), to add the word "hypothecs", in force June 14, 2001.

Para. 130.1(6)(g) amended by the said c. 17, subsec. 214(2), to add the word "hypothec", in force June 14, 2001.

Subpara. 130.1(6)(d)(iv) amended by 2000, c. 12, Sch. 2, s. 1, to replace "spouse" with "spouse or common-law partner", applicable to 2001 et seq., in force July 31, 2000. See also the transitional rules reproduced in the History to 248(1)"common-law partner".

Para. 130.1(6)(d) amended by 1999, c. 22, subsec. 53(1), applicable in determining whether a corporation is a mortgage investment corporation for a taxation year that begins after January 14, 1998, except that the amendment applies to the corporation, with respect to a particular person and persons related to the particular person, only as provided in subsections (4) to (10) of the amending legislation if

(a) the corporation was a mortgage investment corporation at the end of January 14, 1998,

(b) the particular person is a specified shareholder of the corporation at any time in the year, and

(c) the particular person

(i) was a specified shareholder of the corporation at the end of January 14, 1998, or

(ii) both

(A) was a specified shareholder of the corporation at any time after January 14, 1998 and before August 14, 1998, and

(B) would have been a specified shareholder of the corporation at the end of January 14, 1998 if para. 130.1(6)(d), as amended, were read without reference to subparas. (ii) and (iv).

Subsections 53(4) to (10) of the said c. 22 provide:

(4) [The amendments] apply to a corporation that was a mortgage investment corporation at the end of January 14, 1998 for a taxation year that begins after that day if a person who at any time in the year is a specified shareholder of the corporation contributes capital to the corporation, or acquires a share of the corporation's capital stock other than by a permitted acquisition, at any time after January 14, 1998 and before the end of the year.

(5) [The amendments] apply to a corporation that was a mortgage investment corporation at the end of January 14, 1998 for a taxation year that begins after that day if a newly related person in respect of a person who at any time in the year is a specified shareholder of the corporation

(a) contributes capital to the corporation, or

(b) holds property (in this paragraph referred to as an "ineligible investment") that is

(i) a share of the capital stock of the corporation, or

(ii) a share of the capital stock of a corporation that holds an ineligible investment at any time after January 14, 1998 and before the end of the year.

(6) [The amendments] apply to a corporation that was a mortgage investment corporation at the end of January 14, 1998 for a taxation year that ends after that day if

(a) at any particular time after January 14, 1998 and before the end of the year, a mortgage lender is a specified shareholder of the corporation; and

(b) at any time that is in the taxation year that includes the particular time and that is after January 14, 1998, any person contributes capital to the corporation or acquires from the corporation a share of the corporation's capital stock, other than a share that was issued to the person as a stock dividend.

(7) [The amendments] apply to a corporation that was a mortgage investment corporation at the end of January 14, 1998 for a taxation year that ends after 2007 if a mortgage lender is a specified shareholder of the corporation at any time in the year or in a taxation year that ends before the year and after 2007.

(8) For the purposes of subsections (4) to (7),

(a) if at a particular time

(i) a trust distributes a share of the capital stock of a corporation to a person who was a beneficiary under the trust throughout the period from the end of January 14, 1998 to the particular time in satisfaction of all or any part of the beneficiary's capital interest in the trust, or

(ii) a partnership distributes, to a person who was a member of the partnership throughout the period from the end of January 14, 1998 to the particular time, on the partnership ceasing to exist or on the ceasing of the person to be a member of the partnership, a share of the capital stock of a corporation or an interest in such a share, the share is deemed to have been owned by the beneficiary or member throughout the period that begins at the later of the end of January 14, 1998 and the time the share was last acquired by the trust or partnership and that ends at the particular time; and

(b) if a person who is a beneficiary under a trust or who is a member of a partnership is deemed by paragraph (b), (c) or (e) of the definition "specified shareholder" in subsection 248(1) of the Act to own a share owned by the trust or partnership, the person is deemed to own the share and to have acquired the share at the later of the time the share was acquired by the trust or partnership and the time the person last became a beneficiary under the trust or a member of the partnership.

(9) At any time on or after the day of the death of a person described in paragraph (3)(c) [see application above] in respect of a corporation and before the third anniversary of that day,

(a) the estate of the deceased person is deemed to be a person described in paragraphs (3)(b) and (c) [see application above] who is related to each person who, throughout the period that begins at the beginning of January 15, 1998 and ends at the time of death, was related to the deceased person;

(b) notwithstanding subsection (10),

(i) the estate is deemed not to be a newly related person in respect of the corporation, and

(ii) the acquisition of shares of the corporation's capital stock by the estate from the deceased person is deemed to be a permitted acquisition; and

(c) the estate is deemed not to be a trust for the purposes of subparagraph (8)(a)(i) and paragraphs (b) and (e) of the definition "specified shareholder" in subsection 248(1) of the Act.

(10) The definitions in this subsection apply in subsections (3) [i.e., the application above] to (9) and this subsection.

"mortgage lender" means a particular corporation where the ordinary business of

(a) the particular corporation, or

(b) a corporation (other than a mortgage investment corporation) or partnership affiliated with the particular corporation includes the holding of debts that are secured, whether by mortgage or in any other manner, on houses (as defined in section 2 of the National Housing Act) or on property included within a housing project (as defined in that section).

"newly related persons" means persons who are related to each other and who became so related after January 14, 1998.

"permitted acquisition" means an acquisition by a particular person of a share of a class of the capital stock of a corporation that was

(a) held, at each particular time after January 14, 1998 and before the time at which the particular person acquired it, or

(b) issued after January 14, 1998 by the corporation as a stock dividend and held, at each particular time after the time the share was issued and before the time at which the particular person acquired it,

by the particular person or by a person who was related to the particular person throughout the period that began at the beginning of January 15, 1998 and that ends at the particular time if, immediately after the time at which the particular person acquires the share, the percentage of the issued shares of that class held by the particular person and persons related to the particular person (or in the case of acquisitions before August 14, 1998, by the particular person and persons with whom the particular person did not deal at arm's length immediately after the acquisition) does not exceed the permitted percentage for the particular person in respect of that class of shares.

"permitted percentage" for a particular person in respect of a class of shares of the capital stock of a corporation means

(a) in respect of acquisitions of shares before August 14, 1998, the percentage of the issued shares of that class held at the end of January 14, 1998 by the particular person and persons with whom the particular person did not at that time deal at arm's length; and

(b) in any other case, the greater of

(i) the percentage of the issued shares of that class held at the end of January 14, 1998 by the particular person and persons related at that time to the particular person, and

(ii) the percentage of the issued shares of that class held at the beginning of August 14, 1998 by the particular person and persons related at that time to the particular person.

"related persons" and persons related to each other have, for purposes other than applying the definitions "permitted acquisition" and "permitted percentage" in respect of acquisitions of shares before August 14, 1998, the meaning that would be assigned by section 251 of the Act if paragraph 251(2)(a) of the Act were read as follows:

(a) an individual and

(i) the individual's child (as defined in subsection 70(10)) who is under 19 years of age, or

(ii) the individual's spouse;

"specified shareholder" has the meaning assigned by paragraph 130.1(6)(d) of the Act, as enacted by subsection (1).

Para. 130.1(6)(d) formerly read:

(d) subject to subsections (7) and (8), the number of shareholders of the corporation was not less than twenty and no one shareholder held more than 25% of the issued shares of the capital stock of the corporation;

Subpara. 130.1(6)(f)(i) amended by 1998, c. 19, s. 156, deemed to have come into force on June 23, 1993. It formerly read:

(i) debts owing to the corporation that were secured on residential property, as defined in the Residential Mortgage Financing Act, chapter 49 of the Statutes of Canada, 1973-74, whether by mortgages or in any other manner, and

"Residential Property": Subsec. 2(1) of the Residential Mortgage Financing Act, R.S.C. 1985, c. R-6, defines "residential property" as follows:

"residential property" means a house or the property included within a housing project.

Subsec. 2(2) defines "house" and "housing project" by reference to the National Housing Act, R.S.C. 1985, c. N-11, s.2 (as amended by c. 25 (4th Supp.), s. 1(2)), which in turn provides:

"house" means a building or movable structure intended for human habitation containing not more than two family housing units, together with the land, if any, on which the building or movable structure is situated;

"housing project" means a project consisting of one or more houses, one or more multiple-family dwellings, housing accommodation of the hostel or dormitory type, one or more condominium units or any combination thereof, together with any public space, recreational facilities, commercial space and other buildings appropriate to the project, but does not include a hotel;

(7) How shareholders counted — In paragraph (6)(d), a trust governed by a registered pension plan or deferred profit sharing plan by which shares of the capital stock of a corporation are held shall be counted as four shareholders of the corporation for the purpose of determining the number of shareholders of the corporation, but as one shareholder for the purpose of determining whether any person is a specified shareholder (as defined for the purpose of that paragraph).

History: Subsec. 130.1(7) amended by 1999, c. 22, subsec. 53(2), applicable on the same basis as the amendment to para. 130.1(6)(d). It formerly read:

(7) For the purposes of paragraph (6)(d), a trust governed by a registered pension plan or deferred profit sharing plan by which shares of the capital stock of a corporation are held shall be counted as four shareholders of the corporation, and a trust governed by a registered retirement savings plan by which shares of the capital stock of a corporation are held shall be counted as one shareholder of the corporation, but, for the purpose of calculating the limitation on the holding of shares of the capital stock of a mortgage investment corporation by a trust governed by a registered pension plan or deferred profit sharing plan, the trust shall be counted as one shareholder.

(8) First taxation year — For the purposes of subsection (6), a corporation that was incorporated after 1971 shall be deemed to have complied with paragraph (6)(d) throughout the first taxation year of the corporation in which it carried on business if it complied with that paragraph on the last day of that taxation year.

(9) Definitions — In this section,

"liabilities" of a corporation at any particular time means the total of all debts owing by the corporation, and all other obligations of the corporation to pay an amount, that were outstanding at that time;

"non-qualifying real property" — [Repealed]

History: The definition "non-qualifying real property" in subsec. 130.1(9) repealed by 1995, c. 3, subsec. 40(2.1), applicable after February 22, 1994. The definition formerly read:

Mutual Fund Corporations

131. (1) Election re capital gains dividend — Where at any particular time a dividend became payable by a corporation, that was throughout the taxation year in which the dividend became payable a mutual fund corporation, to shareholders of any class of its capital stock, if the corporation so elects in respect of the full amount of the dividend in prescribed manner and at or before the earlier of the particular time and the first day on which any part of the dividend was paid,

(a) the dividend shall be deemed to be a capital gains dividend payable out of the corporation's capital gains dividend account to the extent that it does not exceed the corporation's capital gains dividend account at the particular time; and

(b) notwithstanding any other provision of this Act, any amount received by a taxpayer in a taxation year as, on account of, in lieu of payment of or in satisfaction of, the dividend shall not be included in computing the taxpayer's income for the year as income from a share of the capital stock of the corporation, and

(i) where the dividend was in respect of capital gains of the corporation from dispositions of property that occurred before February 28, 2000, and the taxation year of the taxpayer began after February 27, 2000 and ended before October 18, 2000, 7/8 of the dividend is deemed to be a capital gain of the taxpayer from the disposition by the taxpayer of a capital property in the year,

(ii) where the dividend was in respect of capital gains of the corporation from dispositions of property that occurred before February 28, 2000, and the taxation year of the taxpayer includes February 27, 2000, the dividend is deemed to be a capital gain of the taxpayer from the disposition by the taxpayer of a capital property in the year and before February 28, 2000,

(iii) where the dividend was in respect of capital gains of the corporation from dispositions of property that occurred before February 28, 2000, and the taxation year of the taxpayer began after October 17, 2000, 1/2 of the dividend is deemed to be a capital gain of the taxpayer from the disposition by the taxpayer of a capital property in the year,

(iii.1) where the dividend was in respect of capital gains of the corporation from dispositions of property that occurred before February 28, 2000 and the taxation year of the taxpayer begins after February 27, 2000 and ends after October 17, 2000, 7/8 of the dividend is deemed to be a capital gain of the taxpayer from the disposition by the taxpayer of capital property in the year and before October 18, 2000,

(iv) where the dividend was in respect of capital gains of the corporation from dispositions of property that occurred after February 27, 2000 and before October 18, 2000, and the taxation year of the taxpayer began after October 17, 2000, 4/5 of the dividend is deemed to be a capital gain of the taxpayer from the disposition by the taxpayer of a capital property in the year,

(v) where the dividend was in respect of capital gains of the corporation from dispositions of property that occurred after February 27, 2000 and before October 18, 2000, and the taxation year of the taxpayer includes October 17, 2000, the dividend is deemed to be a capital gain of the taxpayer from the disposition by the taxpayer of a capital property in the year and in the period that began after February 27, 2000 and ended before October 18, 2000,

(vi) where the dividend was in respect of capital gains of the corporation from dispositions of property that occurred after February 27, 2000, and before October 17, 2000 and the taxation year of the taxpayer began after February 27, 2000 and ended before October 18, 2000, the dividend is deemed to be a capital gain of the taxpayer from the disposition by the taxpayer of a capital property in the year, and

and, for the purpose of this paragraph,

(viii) dividends paid by a corporation are deemed to be paid in respect of the corporation's net capital gains in the order in which those net capital gains were realized by the corporation,

(viii.1) capital gains redemptions are deemed to be made in respect of net capital gains in the order in which those net capital gains were realized by the corporation to the extent that they are not reduced by dividends, and

(ix) for the purposes of applying subparagraphs (viii) and (viii.1)

(A) net capital gains of a corporation for a year is the amount by which the corporation's capital gains from dispositions of property in the year exceed the corporation's capital losses from dispositions of property in the year,

(B) net capital losses of a corporation for a year is the amount by which the corporation's capital losses from dispositions of property in the year exceed the corporation's capital gains from dispositions of property in the year,

(C) net capital gains of a corporation for a year are deemed to be realized evenly throughout the year, and

(D) net capital losses of a corporation for a year are deemed to be a capital loss of the corporation from the disposition of property in the following year.

History: Para. 131(1)(b) amended by 2001, c. 17, subsec. 128(1), applicable to taxation years that end after February 27, 2000. The para. formerly read:

(b) notwithstanding any other provision of this Act, any amount received by a taxpayer in a taxation year as, on account of, in lieu of payment of or in satisfaction of, the dividend shall not be included in computing the taxpayer's income for the year as income from a share of the capital stock of the corporation, but shall be deemed to be a capital gain of the taxpayer for the year from a disposition, in the year and after February 22, 1994, by the taxpayer of capital property.

Subsec. 131(1) amended by 1995, c. 3, subsec. 41(1), applicable to dividends paid after February 22, 1994. Subsec. (1) formerly read:

(1) Where at any particular time a dividend became payable, by a corporation that was throughout the taxation year in which the dividend became payable a mutual fund corporation, to shareholders of any class of shares of its capital stock,

(a) if the corporation so elects in respect of the full amount of the dividend, in prescribed form and manner and at or before the earlier of the particular time and the first day on which any part of the dividend was paid,

(i) the dividend shall be deemed to be a capital gains dividend payable out of the corporation's capital gains dividend account to the extent that it does not exceed the corporation's capital gains dividend account at the particular time,

(ii) notwithstanding any other provision of this Act, any amount received by a taxpayer in a taxation year as, on account of, in lieu of payment of or in satisfaction of, the dividend shall not be included in computing the taxpayer's income for the year as income from a share of the capital stock of the corporation, but shall be deemed to be a capital gain of the taxpayer for the year from a disposition of capital property and, for the purposes of section 110.6, that property shall be deemed to have been disposed of by the taxpayer in the year, and

(iii) any election under paragraph (b) made by the corporation in respect of the dividend shall be deemed not to have been made; and

(b) if the corporation so elects in respect of the full amount of the dividend, in prescribed form and manner and at or before the earlier of the particular time and the first day on which any part of the dividend was paid,

(i) the dividend shall be deemed to be a capital gains dividend payable out of the corporation's non-qualifying real property capital gains dividend account to the extent that it does not exceed the corporation's non-qualifying real property capital gains dividend account at the particular time, and

(ii) notwithstanding any other provision of this Act, any amount received by a taxpayer in a taxation year as, on account of, in lieu of payment of or in satisfaction of, the dividend shall not be included in computing the taxpayer's income for the year as income from a share of the capital stock of the corporation, but shall be deemed to be a capital gain of the taxpayer for the year from a disposition of capital property and, for the purposes of section 110.6,

(A) that property shall be deemed to have been a non-qualifying real property of the taxpayer, within the meaning of that section, disposed of by the taxpayer in the year, and

(B) the taxpayer's eligible real property gain for the year from the disposition of that property shall be deemed to be nil.

Subsec. 131(1) amended by 1994, c. 7, Sch. VIII (1993, c. 24), subsec. 76(1), applicable to 1992 et seq. Subsec. (1) formerly read:

131. (1) Where at any particular time after 1971 a dividend has become payable by a corporation that was, throughout the taxation year in which the dividend became payable, a mutual fund corporation, to shareholders of any class of shares of its capital stock, if the corporation so elects in respect of the full amount of the dividend, in prescribed manner and prescribed form and at or before the particular time or the first day on which any part of the dividend was paid if that day is earlier than the particular time,

(a) the dividend shall be deemed to be a capital gains dividend to the extent that it does not exceed the corporation's capital gains dividend account at the particular time; and

(b) notwithstanding any other provision of this Act, any amount received by a taxpayer in a taxation year as, on account or in lieu of payment of, or in satisfaction of the dividend shall not be included in computing the taxpayer's income for the year as income from a share of the capital stock of the corporation, but shall be deemed to be a capital gain of the taxpayer for the year from a disposition of capital property and, for the purposes of section 110.6, that property shall be deemed to have been disposed of by the taxpayer in the year.

(1.1) Deemed date of election — Where at any particular time a dividend has become payable by a mutual fund corporation to shareholders of any class of shares of its capital stock and subsection (1) would have applied to the dividend except that the election referred to in that subsection was not made on or before the day on or before which the election was required by that subsection to be made, the election shall be deemed to have been made at the particular time or on the first day on which any part of the dividend was paid, whichever is the earlier, if

(a) the election is thereafter made in prescribed manner and prescribed form;

(b) an estimate of the penalty in respect of the election is paid by the corporation when the election is made; and

(c) the directors or other person or persons legally entitled to administer the affairs of the corporation have, before the time the election is made, authorized the election to be made.

Related Provisions: 130(2) — Application to investment corporation; 131(1.2) — Request to make election; 131(1.3), (1.4) — Penalty; 152(1) — Assessment.

Regulations: 2104(f) (prescribed manner).

(1.2) Request to make election — The Minister may at any time, by written request served personally or by registered mail, request that an election referred to in paragraph (1.1)(a) be made by a mutual fund corporation and where the mutual fund corporation on which such a request is served does not comply therewith within 90 days after service of the request, subsection (1.1) does not apply to such an election made thereafter by it.

Related Provisions: 248(7)(a) — Mail deemed received on day mailed.

(1.3) Penalty — For the purposes of this section, the penalty in respect of an election referred to in paragraph (1.1)(b) is an amount equal to the lesser of

(a) 1% per annum of the amount of the dividend referred to in the election for each month or part of a month during the period commencing with the time that the dividend became payable, or the first day on which any part of the dividend was paid if that day is earlier, and ending with the day on which the election was made, and

(b) the product obtained when $500 is multiplied by the proportion that the number of months or parts of months during the period referred to in paragraph (a) bears to 12.

(1.4) Assessment and payment of penalty — The Minister shall, with all due dispatch, examine each election referred to in paragraph (1.1)(a), assess the penalty payable and send a notice of assessment to the mutual fund corporation and the corporation shall pay forthwith to the Receiver General, the amount, if any, by which the penalty so assessed exceeds the total of all amounts previously paid on account of that penalty.

Related Provisions: 152(1) — Assessment.

(1.5) Reporting [for 2000] — Where paragraph (1)(b) applies to a dividend paid by a mutual fund corporation to a shareholder of any class of shares of its capital stock, the corporation shall disclose to the shareholder in prescribed form the amount of the dividend that is in respect of capital gains realized on dispositions of property that occurred

(a) before February 28, 2000,

(b) after February 27, 2000 and before October 18, 2000, and

(c) after October 17, 2000,

and if it does not do so, the dividend is deemed to be in respect of capital gains from dispositions of property that occurred before February 28, 2000.

History: Subsec. 131(1.5) added by 2001, c. 17, subsec. 128(2), applicable to taxation years that end after February 27, 2000.

(1.6) Allocation [for 2000] — Where subsection (1) applies in respect of a dividend paid by a mutual fund corporation in the period that begins 60 days after the beginning of the corporation's taxation year that includes February 28, 2000 or October 17, 2000 and ends 60 days after the end of that year, and the corporation does not elect under subsection (1.7), the following rules apply:

(a) the portion of the dividend that is in respect of capital gains of the mutual fund corporation from dispositions of property by the mutual fund corporation in the year and in the particular period that began at the beginning of the year and ended at the end of February 27, 2000 is deemed to be that proportion of the dividend that the corporation's net capital gains from dispositions of property in the particular period to which the dividend relates is of the total of the corporation's net capital gains from dispositions of property in each of the particular periods referred to in this subsection,

(b) the portion of the dividend that is in respect of capital gains of the mutual fund corporation from dispositions of property by the mutual fund corporation in the year and in the particular period that began at the beginning of February 28, 2000 and ended at the end of October 17, 2000 is deemed to be that proportion of the dividend that the corporation's net capital gains from dispositions of property in the particular period is of the total of the corporation's net capital gains from dispositions of property in each of the particular periods referred to in this subsection, and

(c) the portion of the dividend that is in respect of capital gains of the mutual fund corporation from dispositions of property by the mutual fund corporation in the year and in the particular period that begins at the beginning of October 18, 2000 and ends at the end of the year, is deemed to be that proportion of the dividend that the corporation's net capital gains from dispositions of property in the particular period is of the total of the corporation's net capital gains from dispositions of property in each of the particular periods referred to in this subsection, and, in this subsection and in subsection (1.8), net capital gains from dispositions of property in a particular period means the amount, if any, by which the corporation's capital gains from dispositions of property in the particular period exceeds the corporation's capital losses from dispositions of property in the particular period.

History: Subsec. 131(1.6) added by 2001, c. 17, subsec. 128(2), applicable to taxation years that end after February 27, 2000.

(1.7) Allocation [for 2000] — Where subsection (1) applies in respect of a dividend paid by a mutual fund corporation in the period that begins 60 days after the beginning of the corporation's taxation year that includes February 28, 2000 or October 17, 2000 and ends 60 days after the end of that year, and the corporation so elects under this paragraph in its return of income

(a) the portion of the dividend that is in respect of capital gains from dispositions of property that occurred in the year and before February 28, 2000 is deemed to be that proportion of the dividend that the number of days that are in that year and before February 28, 2000 is of the number of days that are in that year;

(b) the portion of the dividend that is in respect of capital gains from dispositions of property that occurred in the year and in the period that began at the beginning of February 28, 2000 and ended at the end of October 17, 2000 is deemed to be that proportion of the dividend that the number of days that are in the year and in that period is of the number of days that are in the year; and

(c) the portion of the dividend that is in respect of capital gains from dispositions of property that occurred in the year and in the period that begins at the beginning of October 18, 2000 and ends at the end of the year, is deemed to be that proportion of the dividend that the number of days that are in the year and in that period is of the number of days that are in the year.

History: Subsec. 131(1.7) added by 2001, c. 17, subsec. 128(2), applicable to taxation years that end after February 27, 2000.

(1.8) Allocation [for 2000] — For the purposes of subsection (1.6) and (1.7), where the total amount of dividends paid by a mutual fund corporation in the period that begins 60 days after the beginning of the corporation's taxation year that includes February 28, 2000 or October 17, 2000 and ends 60 days after the end of that year and to which subsection (1) applies exceeds the total amount of the corporation's net capital gains from dispositions of property in that year

(a) the amount of those dividends to which subsections (1.6) and (1.7) apply is the amount of the corporation's net capital gains from dispositions of property in that year, and

(b) the amount, if any, by which total amount of the dividends paid by the corporation in the period exceeds the total amount of the corporation's net capital gains from dispositions of property in that year is deemed to be a dividend in respect of capital gains from dispositions of property in the first of the periods described in subsection (1.6) that ends in the year.

History: Subsec. 131(1.8) added by 2001, c. 17, subsec. 128(2), applicable to taxation years that end after February 27, 2000.

(1.9) Allocation [for 2000] — Where no dividend to which subsection (1.7) applies is paid by a mutual fund corporation in respect of its net taxable capital gains for its taxation year that includes February 28, 2000 or October 17, 2000, the corporation has net capital gains or net capital losses from dispositions of property in the year, and the corporation so elects under this subsection in its return of income for the year

(a) the portion of those net capital gains and net capital losses that is in respect of capital gains and losses from dispositions of property that occurred before February 28, 2000 is deemed to be that proportion of the net capital gains or net capital losses respectively that the number of days that are in the year and before February 28, 2000 is of the number of days that are in the year,

(b) the portion of those net capital gains and net capital losses that is in respect of capital gains and losses from dispositions of property that occurred in the year and in the period that began at the beginning of February 28, 2000 and ended at the end of October 17, 2000, is deemed to be that proportion of the net capital gains or net capital losses respectively that the number of days that are in the year and in that period is of the number of days that are in the year, and

(c) the portion of those net capital gains and net capital losses that is in respect of capital gains and losses from dispositions of property that occurred in the year and in the period that began at the beginning of October 18, 2000 and ended at the end of the year, is deemed to be that proportion of the net capital gains or net capital losses respectively that the number of days that are in the year and in that period is of the number of days that are in the year,

and, for the purpose of this subsection,

(d) the net capital gains of a mutual fund corporation from dispositions of property in the year is the amount, if any, by which the corporation's capital gains from dispositions of property in a year exceeds the corporation's capital losses from dispositions of property in the year, and

(e) the net capital losses of a mutual fund corporation from dispositions of property in the year is the amount, if any, by which the corporation's capital losses from dispositions of property in a year exceeds the corporation's capital gains from dispositions of property in the year.

History: Subsec. 131(1.9) added by 2001, c. 17, subsec. 128(2), applicable to taxation years that end after February 27, 2000.

(2) Capital gains refund to mutual fund corporation — Where a corporation was, throughout a taxation year, a mutual fund corporation and a return of its income for the year has been made within 3 years from the end of the year, the Minister

(a) may, on sending the notice of assessment for the year, refund an amount (in this subsection referred to as its "capital gains refund" for the year) equal to the lesser of

(i) the total of

(A) 14% of the total of

(I) all capital gains dividends paid by the corporation in the period commencing 60 days after the beginning of the year and ending 60 days after the end of the year, and

(II) its capital gains redemptions for the year, and

(B) the amount, if any, that the Minister determines to be reasonable in the circumstances, after giving consideration to the percentages applicable in determining the corporation's capital gains refund for the year and preceding taxation years and the percentages applicable in determining the corporation's refundable capital gains tax on hand at the end of the year, and

(ii) the corporation's refundable capital gains tax on hand at the end of the year; and

(b) shall, with all due dispatch, make that capital gains refund after mailing the notice of assessment if an application for it has been made in writing by the corporation within the period within which the Minister would be allowed under subsection 152(4) to assess tax payable under this Part by the corporation for the year if that subsection were read without reference to paragraph 152(4)(a).

History: Para. 131(2)(a) amended by 2001, c. 17, subsec. 128(3), applicable to taxation years that end after February 27, 2000 except that, for a taxation year of a mutual fund corporation that includes February 28, 2000 or October 17, 2000, or began after February 28, 2000 and ended before October 17, 2000, the reference to "14%" in cl. 131(2)(a)(i)(A) shall be read as a reference to the percentage determined when 28% is multiplied by the fraction in para. 38(a), as amended by 2001, c. 17, that applies to the corporation for the year. Para. 131(2)(a) formerly read:

(a) may, on mailing the notice of assessment for the year, refund without application therefor an amount (in this section referred to as its "capital gains refund" for the year) equal to the lesser of

(i) 21% of the total of

(A) all capital gains dividends paid by the corporation in the period commencing 60 days after the commencement of the year and ending 60 days after the end of the year, and

(B) its capital gains redemptions for the year, and

(ii) the corporation's refundable capital gains tax on hand at the end of the year; and

Para. 131(2)(b) amended by 1998, c. 19, subsec. 157(1), applicable after April 27, 1989. Para. 131(2)(b) formerly read:

(b) shall, with all due dispatch, make such a refund after mailing the notice of assessment if application therefor has been made in writing by the corporation within the period determined under paragraph 152(4)(b) or (c), as the case may be, within which the Minister may reassess tax payable by the corporation for the year.

(3) Application to other liability — Instead of making a refund that might otherwise be made under subsection (2), the Minister may, where the corporation is liable or about to become liable to make any payment under this Act, apply the amount that would otherwise be refunded to that other liability and notify the corporation of that action.

Related Provisions: 130(2) — Application to investment corporation; 152(1) — Assessment; 222(1)"action" — Ten-year limitation period applies to 131(3).

(3.1) Interest on capital gains refund — Where a capital gains refund for a taxation year is paid to, or applied to a liability of, a corporation, the Minister shall pay or apply interest on the refund at the prescribed rate for the period beginning on the day that is the later of

(a) the day that is 120 days after the end of the year, and

(b) the day that is 30 days after the day on which the corporation's return of income under this Part for the year was filed under section 150, unless the return was filed on or before the day on or before which it was required to be filed, and ending on the day the refund is paid or applied.

History: Para. 131(3.1)(b) amended by 2003, c. 15, s. 112, applicable to taxation years that end after June 2003. It formerly read:

(b) the day on which the corporation's return of income under this Part for the year was filed under section 150, unless the return was filed on or before the day on or before which it was required to be filed,

Subsec. 131(3.1) added by 1994, c. 7, Sch. VIII (1993, c. 24), subsec. 76(2), applicable to capital gains refunds paid or applied with respect to taxation years beginning after 1991.

Regulations: 4301(b) (prescribed rate of interest).

(3.2) Excess interest on capital gains refund — Where at any particular time interest has been paid to, or applied to a liability of, a corporation under subsection (3.1) in respect of a capital gains refund and it is determined at a subsequent time that the capital gains refund was less than that in respect of which interest was so paid or applied,

(a) the amount by which the interest that was so paid or applied exceeds the interest, if any, computed in respect of the amount that is determined at the subsequent time to be the capital gains refund shall be deemed to be an amount (in this subsection referred to as the "amount payable") that became payable under this Part by the corporation at the particular time;

(b) the corporation shall pay to the Receiver General interest at the prescribed rate on the amount payable, computed from the particular time to the day of payment; and

(c) the Minister may at any time assess the corporation in respect of the amount payable and, where the Minister makes such an assessment, the provisions of Divisions I and J apply, with such modifications as the circumstances require, in respect of the assessment as though it had been made under section 152.

Related Provisions: 20(1)(ll) — Deduction on repayment of interest; 130(2) — Application to investment corporation; 161.1 — Offset of refund interest against arrears interest; 221.1 — Application of interest where legislation retroactive; 248(11) — Interest compounded daily.

(5) Dividend refund to mutual fund corporation — A corporation that was a mutual fund corporation throughout a taxation year

(a) is deemed for the purposes of paragraph 87(2)(aa) and section 129 to have been a private corporation throughout the year, except that its refundable dividend tax on hand at the end of the year (within the meaning assigned by subsection 129(3)) shall be determined without reference to paragraph 129(3)(a); and

(b) where it was not an investment corporation throughout the year, is deemed for the purposes of Part IV to have been a private corporation throughout the year except that, in applying subsection 186(1) to the corporation in respect of the year, that subsection shall be read without reference to paragraph 186(1)(b).

Related Provisions: 112 — Deduction of dividends received by resident corporation; 113 — Deduction of dividend from foreign affiliate; 131(1) — Election re capital gains dividend; 131(2) — Capital gains refund; 131(4) — Application of s. 84; 131(11)(c) — Rules re prescribed labour-sponsored venture capital corporations; 152(1) — Assessment; 157(3)(c) — Reduction in instalments to reflect dividend refund.

History: Subsec. 131(5) amended by 1998, c. 19, subsec. 157(2), applicable to 1993 et seq. Subsec. 131(5) formerly read:

(5) A corporation that was, throughout a taxation year, a mutual fund corporation other than an investment corporation shall, for the purposes of paragraph 87(2)(aa), section 129 and Part IV, be deemed to have been a private corporation throughout the year, except that

(a) its refundable dividend tax on hand at the end of the year (within the meaning assigned by subsection 129(3)) shall be determined without reference to paragraph (a) of that subsection; and

(b) in its application to the corporation in respect of the year, subsection 186(1) shall be read without reference to paragraph 186(1)(b).

Para. 131(5)(a) amended by 1996, c. 21, subsec. 33(1), applicable to taxation years that end after June 1995. Para. (a) formerly read:

(a) for the purposes of section 129, its refundable dividend tax on hand at the end of the year shall be deemed to be the amount, if any, by which the total of

(i) the total of amounts each of which is an amount in respect of the year or any preceding taxation year throughout which it is deemed by this subsection to have been a private corporation, equal to the tax under Part IV payable by it for that year, and

(i.1) the amount, if any, of the corporation's addition at December 31, 1986 of refundable dividend tax on hand (within the meaning assigned by subsection 129(3.3)),

exceeds the total of

(ii) the total of amounts each of which is the corporation's dividend refund for any previous taxation year described in subparagraph (i),

(iii) the amount, if any, of the corporation's reduction at December 31, 1977 of refundable dividend tax on hand (within the meaning assigned by subsection 129(3.1)), and

(iv) the amount, if any, of the corporation's reduction at December 31, 1987 of refundable dividend tax on hand (within the meaning assigned by subsection 129(3.5)); and

(6) Definitions — In this section,

"capital gains dividend account" of a mutual fund corporation at any time means the amount, if any, by which

(a) its capital gains, for all taxation years that began more than 60 days before that time, from dispositions of property after 1971 and before that time while it was a mutual fund corporation

exceeds

(b) the total of

(i) its capital losses, for all taxation years that began more than 60 days before that time, from dispositions of property after 1971 and before that time while it was a mutual fund corporation,

(ii) all capital gains dividends that became payable by the corporation before that time and more than 60 days after the end of the last taxation year that ended more than 60 days before that time, and

(iii) the total of all amounts each of which is

(A) an amount equal to $^{100}/_{21}$ of its capital gains refund for any taxation year throughout which it was a mutual fund corporation where the year ended

(I) more than 60 days before that time, and

(II) before February 28, 2000,

(B) an amount equal to 100/18.7 of its capital gains refund for any taxation year throughout which it was a mutual fund corporation where the year ended

(I) more than 60 days before that time, and

(II) after February 27, 2000 and before October 18, 2000, or

(C) an amount equal to $^{100}/_{14}$ of its capital gain refund[37] for any taxation year throughout which it was a mutual fund corporation where the year ended

(I) more than 60 days before that time, and

(II) after October 17, 2000;

"dividend refund [para. 131(6)(c)]" — [Repealed under former Act]

"non-qualifying real property" — [Repealed]

History: The definition "non-qualifying real property" in subsec. 131(6) repealed by 1995, c. 3, subsec. 41(2), applicable after February 22, 1994. The definition formerly read:

"non-qualifying real property" of a corporation or trust (other than a personal trust) means property disposed of by the corporation or trust after February 1992 that at the time of its disposition is

(a) real property,

(b) a share of the capital stock of a corporation, the fair market value of which is derived principally from real property, other than real property that was used

(i) throughout that part of the 24-month period immediately preceding that time while it was owned by the corporation or a corporation related to the corporation, or

(ii) throughout all or substantially all of the time in the period preceding that time during which it was owned by the corporation or a corporation related to the corporation,

principally in an active business carried on by the corporation or a corporation related to it, but not including a share of the capital stock of a corporation the fair market value of which is derived principally from real property owned by another corporation the shares of which would, if owned by the corporation or the trust, not be non-qualifying real property of the corporation or the trust,

(c) an interest in a partnership or trust, the fair market value of which is derived principally from real property, other than real property that was used

(i) throughout that part of the 24-month period immediately preceding that time while it was property of the partnership or trust, or

(ii) throughout all or substantially all of the time in the period preceding that time during which it was property of the partnership or trust, principally in an active business carried on by one or more persons as members of the partnership or by the trust, or

(d) an interest or an option in respect of property described in any of paragraphs (a) to (c), and, for the purposes of this definition, an "active business" carried on by a person at any time means a business carried on by the person at that time other than a business (other than a business carried on by a credit union or a business of leasing property that is not real property) the principal purpose of which is to derive income from property (including interest, dividends, rents or royalties), unless the person or, where the person carries on the business as a member of a partnership, the partnership

(e) employs in the business at that time more than 5 individuals on a full-time basis, or

(f) in the course of carrying on the business has managerial, administrative, financial, maintenance or other similar services provided to it at that time and the person or partnership could reasonably be expected to require more than 5 full-time employees if those services had not been so provided;

Mutual Fund Trusts

132. (1) Capital gains refund to mutual fund trust — Where a trust was, throughout a taxation year, a mutual fund trust and a return of its income for the year has been made within 3 years from the end of the year, the Minister

(a) may, on sending the notice of assessment for the year, refund an amount (in this subsection referred to as its "capital gains refund" for the year) equal to the lesser of

(i) the total of

(A) 14.5% of the total of the trust's capital gains redemptions for the year, and

(B) the amount, if any, that the Minister determines to be reasonable in the circumstances, after giving consideration to the percentages applicable in determining the trust's capital gains refunds for the year and preceding taxation years and the percentages applicable in determining the trust's refundable capital gains tax on hand at the end of the year, and

(ii) the trust's refundable capital gains tax on hand at the end of the year; and

(b) shall, with all due dispatch, make that capital gains refund after mailing the notice of assessment if an application for it has been made in writing by the trust within the period within which the Minister would be allowed under subsection 152(4) to assess tax payable under this Part by the trust for the year if that subsection were read without reference to paragraph 152(4)(a).

Proposed Amendment — Mutual fund TCP gains

Federal budget, Notice of Ways and Means Motion, March 23, 2004: Mutual Funds: Taxation of TCP Gains Distributions

(15) That, after March 22, 2004,

(a) every mutual fund, whether a trust or a corporation, be required to maintain a "TCP gains distributions account," to which it adds its gains from dispositions after March 22, 2004 of taxable Canadian properties and any TCP gains distributions (as described in subparagraphs (b) and (c)) it receives from other mutual funds, and from which it deducts its losses from dispositions after March 22, 2004 of taxable Canadian properties and any amounts its unitholders or shareholders receive from it as TCP gains distributions,

(b) if the mutual fund is a trust, and it designates an amount under subsection 104(21) of the Act for a taxation year of the trust in respect of a unitholder of the trust,

(i) the unitholder be deemed to have received from the trust as a TCP gains distribution the lesser of twice the amount designated and the unitholder's portion (determined by reference to the trust's outstanding units) of the trust's TCP gains distributions account, and

(ii) if the unitholder is non-resident, the TCP gains distribution be deemed to be received as a distribution of the trust's income to which the exception from withholding tax provided by subparagraph 212(1)(c)(i) of the Act does not apply, and

(c) if the mutual fund is a corporation, and it elects to treat a dividend paid to a shareholder as a capital gains dividend,

(i) the shareholder be deemed to have received from the corporation as TCP gains distribution the lesser of the amount of the dividend and the shareholder's portion (determined by reference to the corporation's outstanding shares) of the corporation's TCP gains distribution account, and

(ii) if the shareholder is non-resident, the TCP gains distribution be deemed, for the purpose of subsection 212(2) of the Act, to be a taxable dividend paid by the corporation that is not a capital gains dividend.

(16) That where, at any time after 2004, the value of a mutual fund trust unit, or of a mutual fund corporation share, that is listed on a prescribed stock exchange is primarily attributable to real property in Canada, Canadian resource property or timber resource property, and the mutual fund pays or makes payable an amount to a non-resident person (including a partnership other than a Canadian partnership) that holds the unit or share, as a distribution on the unit or share,

(a) the mutual fund be required to withhold and remit to the Receiver General, on account of the non-resident person's liability to tax, 15% of the amount of the distribution,

(b) to the extent that the non-resident person (or, in the case of a partnership, its non-resident members) is not otherwise subject to tax under the Act on the distribution, the person be deemed for the purposes of the Act to have disposed at that time, for proceeds equal to amount of the distribution, of a property

(i) that is a taxable Canadian property the adjusted cost base of which to the person immediately before that time is nil, and

(ii) that is in all other respects identical to the unit or share,

(c) a loss realized by the non-resident person on the disposition of the unit or share be treated as a "TCP holding loss" of the person, to the extent of all distributions, on the unit or share,

(i) to which the rule described in subparagraph (b) applies, and

(ii) that were paid or payable to the person after the person last acquired the unit or share, and at or before the time of the disposition, and

(d) for the 2005 and subsequent taxation years, a non-resident person be liable to a tax equal to 15% of the amount, if any, by which

(i) the total of all distributions, paid or payable in the year to the person, to which the rule described in subparagraph (b) applies

exceeds

(ii) the total of the person's TCP holding losses for the year and such amount as the person may claim of its unused TCP holding losses for a preceding taxation year or any of the three following taxation years.

(17) That, after March 22, 2004, Canadian resource properties and timber resource properties be taxable Canadian property for the purposes of the rules that limit the amount of such property that a mutual fund that was established, or is maintained, primarily for the benefit of non-resident persons may hold, except that this measure not apply before 2007 to an entity that would otherwise cease on March 23, 2004, as a result of this measure, to be a mutual fund trust or a mutual fund corporation.

Federal budget, Supplementary Information, March 23, 2004: Non-Residents' Investment Through Mutual Funds

In general, non-residents are subject to income tax in Canada in respect of gains arising on the disposition of taxable Canadian property (TCP). The definition of TCP in the Income Tax Act includes real property situated in Canada, shares of the capital stock of private corporations and an interest in a partnership if more than 50% of the value of the partnership's property is attributable to TCP. Canadian resource property and timber resource property are also TCP for certain purposes of the Income Tax Act.

Although Canada's tax treaties limit the extent to which Canada can tax the gains of a resident of a treaty partner country, treaties allow Canada to tax gains on certain core kinds of TCP: in particular, real property situated in Canada and Canadian resource (including timber resource) property. However, under Canada's domestic law, non-residents who invest in Canada through Canadian mutual funds are generally not taxed in Canada on any of the Canadian-source gains they realize on those investments. Nor is the mutual fund itself taxed on the gain: because it has distributed the gain, the fund can deduct it in computing its own income.

To reduce the disparity between the tax treatment of those non-residents who invest in TCP through a Canadian mutual fund and the treatment of those who invest directly, the budget proposes the following measures.

Taxation of TCP Gain Distributions

The distributions that any Canadian mutual fund pays out of its gains on taxable Canadian property will be treated, if the mutual fund is a trust, as Canadian-source trust income or, if the mutual fund is a corporation, as a taxable dividend, subject to the existing non-resident withholding tax (under Part XIII of the Income Tax Act). That tax applies at a statutory rate of 25%, but is typically reduced by tax treaty to 15%.

This measure will apply in respect of distributions of gains realized on dispositions after March 22, 2004.

Withholding on Otherwise Non-Taxable Distributions

An income tax will be applied, as a tax on capital gains, to certain otherwise tax-free distributions made after 2004 by Canadian mutual funds to their non-resident investors. The tax, at a rate of 15%, will be withheld from the distribution at source.

The distributions that will be subject to this new tax are those paid on units or shares of Canadian mutual funds that are listed on a prescribed Canadian or foreign stock exchange, and the value of which is principally attributable to Canadian real estate or Canadian resource property. To the extent that a distribution is already taxable in the hands of the investor as income (including the TCP-based distributions described above), it will not be subject to the withholding.

The new tax withheld on the distribution will be a final tax. The non-resident investor will not need to report the distribution on a Canadian income tax return, nor will the cost base of the share or unit have to be adjusted to reflect the distribution.

Losses on Disposition

In some cases, a non-resident investor may realize a loss on disposing of an investment in an exchange-traded Canadian mutual fund. Since any gain arising on the disposition would not be subject to tax in Canada, the non-resident investor is ordinarily not permitted to use that loss — for example, to offset a gain on some other taxable Canadian property. The introduction of the new tax on distributions, however, makes it appropriate that there be some recognition of these losses.

If a non-resident investor realizes a loss on the disposition of a unit or share in respect of which the investor has paid the new tax on distributions, the investor can file a special Canadian income tax return for the year the unit or share was disposed of. To the extent that the loss does not exceed the total of the distributions taxed in respect of that unit or share, the investor can apply the loss to offset those distributions — or to reduce other distributions, on other shares or units, that have been subject to the new tax on distributions. Where this occurs, a refund of some or all of the tax withheld may be claimed. This special form of capital loss, usable only for this purpose, may be carried back three taxation years or carried forward indefinitely.

Example

Facts

Units of Property Trust (PT), a Canadian real estate investment trust, trade on a prescribed stock exchange. The value of the units is always attributable to real property in Canada.

On January 1, 2005, an investor resident in the US acquires 10,000 units of PT. The investor's total cost base of the units is $100,000, or $10 per unit.

Over the course of 2005, PT makes the following distributions:

30 cents per unit as a distribution of PT's income for the year.

10 cents per unit as a distribution of gains PT realized in the year on the disposition of Canadian real estate.

20 cents per unit as a different, otherwise non-taxable distribution.

On January 2, 2006, the investor sells 5,000 units of PT. The investor's proceeds from the sale are $45,000, or $9 per unit — realizing a $5,000 loss.

Tax effects

In accordance with existing law and the Canada-U.S. tax treaty, Canada applies a 15% withholding tax to the 30-cent-per-unit income distribution. Under these proposals, the 10-cent-per-unit distribution attributable to gains on Canadian real estate will also be subject to that same tax.

The 20-cent-per-unit distribution will be subject to the new 15% tax. A distribution tax of $300 ($0.20 × 10,000 units × 15%) will be withheld from the distribution.

Having realized a $5,000 loss in 2006 on the disposition of 5,000 units of PT, the investor can choose to file the special tax return for that year. In that return, the investor can claim $1,000 of that loss against the $1,000 distributed on the sold units. This will entitle the investor to a refund of $150 of the tax collected from the distribution. (The remaining $4,000 loss is not available for carryover since the investor's distributions on the sold units totaled just $1,000.)

Investments by Mutual Funds in Resource Properties

As discussed above, non-residents who invest directly in certain TCP are subject to taxation in Canada in respect of gains arising on the disposition of that property. If such property is held in a mutual fund in which nonresidents hold units or shares, however, gains resulting from the disposition of such property can be distributed to non-resident investors at reduced levels of Canadian tax. In some cases, the gains may be distributed tax-free.

Special rules were introduced to the Income Tax Act in 1990 to restrict the use of mutual fund trusts and mutual fund corporations (mutual funds) as intermediaries through which non-residents may invest in TCP without being subject to an appropriate level of Canadian tax. In general terms, if more than 10 per cent of the mutual fund's property consists at any time of TCP and the mutual fund is established or maintained primarily for the benefit of non-residents, the fund may lose its status as a mutual fund.

The use of mutual funds to reduce Canadian tax has particular relevance to investments in Canadian real property, Canadian resource property and timber resource properties, since non-resident persons generally do not benefit from any tax treaty relief with respect to gains from such property (i.e. such properties are not treaty-protected properties).

The budget therefore proposes to clarify, for the purpose of the special rules limiting non-resident participation in mutual funds, that the properties a mutual fund must include in computing its 10-per-cent threshold will include Canadian resource properties and timber resource properties. A mutual fund that was on March 22, 2004, a mutual fund trust or corporation and that would otherwise cease, on March 23, 2004, to qualify as a mutual fund trust or corporation because of this proposal will have until January 1, 2007, to comply with the modified rule. This is intended to accommodate mutual funds and their investors in providing an orderly transition to comply with this clarification.

Improved Information Reporting

To improve the ability of trust beneficiaries to comply with the income tax law, trusts will be required to provide to their beneficiaries further information on the composition of distributions received from the trust. Trusts will be required to identify what portion, if any, of a distribution will give rise to an adjustment in the cost base of the beneficiary's interest in the trust. This measure will apply starting for information slips issued in respect of distributions made in respect of a trust's 2004 taxation year. Generally, these slips are required to be issued by a trust within 90 days after the end of its taxation year.

Monitoring

The Department of Finance will continue to evaluate the development of the income trust market as part of its ongoing monitoring and assessment of Canadian financial markets and the Canadian tax system.

(3) Application of subsec. 104(20) — In its application in respect of a mutual fund trust, subsection 104(20) shall be read as if the reference therein to "a dividend (other than a taxable dividend)" were read as a reference to "a capital dividend".

(4) Definitions — In this section,

"capital gains redemptions" of a mutual fund trust for a taxation year means the amount determined by the formula

$$(\frac{A}{B} \times (C + D)) - E$$

where

A is the total of all amounts each of which is the portion of an amount paid by the trust in the year on the redemption of a unit in the trust that is included in the proceeds of disposition in respect of that redemption,

B is the total of the fair market value at the end of the year of all the issued units of the trust and the amount determined for A in respect of the trust for the year,

C is 100/14.5 of the trust's refundable capital gains tax on hand at the end of the year,

D is the amount determined by the formula

$$(K + L) - (M + N)$$

where

K is the amount of the fair market value at the end of the year of all the issued units of the trust,

L is the total of all amounts each of which is the amount of any debt owing by the trust, or of any other obligation of the trust to pay an amount, that was outstanding at that time,

M is the total of the cost amounts to the trust at that time of all its properties, and

N is the amount of any money of the trust on hand at that time, and

E is twice the total of all amounts each of which is an amount designated under subsection 104(21) for the year by the trust in respect of a unit of the trust redeemed by the trust at any time in the year and after December 21, 2000;

Related Provisions: 132.2(1)(p) [to be repealed], 132.2(3)(m) [draft] — Mutual fund reorganizations; 257 — Formula amounts cannot calculate to less than zero.

History: The first formula in the definition "capital gains redemptions" in subsec. 132(4) amended by 2001 c. 17, subsec. 129(2) to add "– E", applicable to taxation years that end after February 27, 2000.

The description of A in the definition "capital gains redemptions" in subsec. 132(4) amended by the said c. 17, subsec. 129(3), applicable to taxation years that end after February 27, 2000. The description formerly read:

A is the total of all amounts paid by the trust in the year on the redemption of units of the trust,

The description of C in the definition "capital gains redemptions" in subsec. 132(4) amended by the said c. 17, subsec. 129(4) to replace the reference to the fraction "100/21.75" with a reference to the fraction "100/14.5", applicable to taxation years that end after February 27, 2000 except that, for a taxation year of a mutual fund trust that includes February 28, 2000 or October 17, 2000, or began after February 28, 2000 and ended before October 17, 2000, the reference to the fraction "100/14.5" shall be read as a reference to the fraction "100/29X", where "X" is the fraction in para. 38(a), as amended by 2001, c. 17, that applies to the trust for the year.

The description of E in the definition "capital gains redemptions" in subsec. 132(4) added by the said c. 17, subsec. 129(5), applicable to taxation years that end after February 27, 2000 except that, for a taxation year of a mutual fund trust that includes February 28, 2000 or October 17, 2000, or began after February 28, 2000 and ended before October 17, 2000, the word "twice" shall be read as "the fraction that is the reciprocal of the fraction in para. 38(a), as amended by 2001, c. 17, that applies to the taxpayer for the year, multiplied by".

"refundable capital gains tax on hand" of a mutual fund trust at the end of a taxation year means the amount determined by the formula

where

A is the total of all amounts each of which is an amount in respect of that or any previous taxation year throughout which the trust was a mutual fund trust, equal to the least of

(a) 29% of its taxable income for the year,

(b) 29% of its taxed capital gains for the year, and

(c) where the taxation year ended after May 6, 1974, the tax payable under this Part by it for the year, and

B is the total of all amounts each of which is an amount in respect of any previous taxation year throughout which the trust was a mutual fund trust, equal to its capital gains refund for the year.

Related Provisions: 132(5) — Taxed capital gains defined; 132.2(1)(l) [to be repealed], 132.2(3)(i) [draft] — Addition to RCGTOH on qualifying exchange of property between mutual funds; 257 — Formula cannot calculate to less than zero.

(5) Definition of "taxed capital gains" — In subsection (4), "taxed capital gains" of a taxpayer for a taxation year has the meaning assigned by subsection 130(3).

(6) Meaning of "mutual fund trust" — Subject to subsection (7), for the purposes of this section, a trust is a mutual fund trust at any time if at that time

(a) it was a unit trust resident in Canada,

(b) its only undertaking was

(i) the investing of its funds in property (other than real property or an interest in real property),

(ii) the acquiring, holding, maintaining, improving, leasing or managing of any real property (or interest in real property) that is capital property of the trust, or

(iii) any combination of the activities described in subparagraphs (i) and (ii), and

(c) it complied with prescribed conditions relating to the number of its unit holders, dispersal of ownership of its units and public trading of its units.

Proposed Amendment — 132(6)(c)

(c) it complied with prescribed conditions.

Application: The February 27, 2004 draft legislation, s. 70.1, will amend para. 132(6)(c) to read as above, applicable to 2000 et seq.

Technical Notes: Subsection 132(6) sets out the definition "mutual fund trust". Under paragraph 132(6)(c), a trust will qualify at any time as a mutual fund trust only if at that time it meets prescribed conditions relating to the number of its unit holders, dispersal of ownership of trust units issued by it and public trading of trust units issued by it.

Paragraph 132(6)(c) is amended so that the prescribed conditions that a trust may be required to satisfy in order to qualify as a mutual fund trust are not limited to those relating to ownership and trading of its units.

(6.2) Retention of status as mutual fund trust — A trust is deemed to be a mutual fund trust throughout a calendar year where

(a) at any time in the year, the trust would, if this section were read without reference to this subsection, have ceased to be a mutual fund trust

(i) because the condition described in paragraph 108(2)(a) ceased to be satisfied,

(ii) because of the application of paragraph (6)(c), or

(iii) because the trust ceased to exist;

(b) the trust was a mutual fund trust at the beginning of the year; and

(c) the trust would, throughout the portion of the year throughout which it was in existence, have been a mutual fund trust if

(i) in the case where the condition described in paragraph 108(2)(a) was satisfied at any time in the year, that condition were satisfied throughout the year,

(ii) subsection (6) were read without reference to paragraph (c) of that subsection, and

(iii) this section were read without reference to this subsection.

132.1 (1) Amounts designated by mutual fund trust [for inclusion in taxpayer's income] — Where a trust in its return of income under this Part for a taxation year throughout which it was a mutual fund trust designates an amount in respect of a particular unit of the trust owned by a taxpayer at any time in the year equal to the total of

(a) such amount as the trust may determine in respect of the particular unit for the year not exceeding the amount, if any, by which

(i) the total of all amounts that were determined by the trust under subsection 104(16) of the Income Tax Act, chapter 148 of the Revised Statutes of Canada, 1952, for taxation years of the trust commencing before 1988

exceeds

(ii) the total of all amounts determined by the trust under this paragraph for the year or a preceding taxation year in respect of all units of the trust, other than amounts determined in respect of the particular unit for the year under this paragraph, and

(b) such amount as the trust may determine in respect of the particular unit for the year not exceeding the amount, if any, by which

(i) the total of all amounts described in subparagraph 53(2)(h)(i.1) that became payable by the trust after 1987 and before the year

(2) Adjusted cost base of unit where designation made — In computing, at any time in a taxation year of a taxpayer, the adjusted cost base to the taxpayer of a unit in a mutual fund trust, there shall be added that part of the amount included under subsection (1) in computing the taxpayer's income that is reasonably attributable to the amount determined under paragraph (1)(b) by the trust for its taxation year ending in the year in respect of the unit owned by the taxpayer.

Related Provisions: 12(1)(m) — Amounts to be included from business or property — benefits from trusts; 53(1)(d.2) — Addition to adjusted cost base of share.

(3) Limitation on current year deduction — The total of amounts deductible by reason of paragraph (1)(c) in computing the income of a trust for a taxation year shall not exceed the amount that would be the income of the trust for the year if no deductions were made under this section and subsection 104(6).

Related Provisions: 132.2(1)(n) [to be repealed], 132.2(3)(k) [draft] — Mutual fund reorganization — continuation of trust.

(4) Carryover of excess — The amount, if any, by which the total of all amounts each of which is an amount designated for the year under subsection (1) exceeds the amount deductible under this section in computing the income of the trust for the year, shall, for the purposes of paragraph (1)(c) and subsection (3), be deemed designated under subsection (1) by the trust for its immediately following taxation year.

Related Provisions: 132.2(1)(n) [to be repealed], 132.2(3)(k) [draft] — Mutual fund reorganization — continuation of trust.

(5) Where designation has no effect — Where it is reasonable to conclude that an amount determined by a mutual fund trust

(a) under paragraph (1)(a) or (b) for a taxation year of the trust in respect of a unit owned at any time in the year by a taxpayer who was a person exempt from tax under this Part by reason of subsection 149(1), or

(b) under paragraph (1)(d) for the year in respect of the amount designated under subsection (1) for the year in respect of the unit

differs from the amount that would have been so determined for the year in respect of the taxpayer had the taxpayer not been a person exempt from tax under this Part by reason of subsection 149(1), the amount designated for the year in respect of the unit under subsection (1) shall have no effect for the purposes of paragraph (1)(c).

132.11 (1) Taxation year of mutual fund trust — Notwithstanding any other provision of this Act, where a trust (other than a prescribed trust) that was a mutual fund trust on the 74th day after the end of a particular calendar year so elects in writing filed with the Minister with the trust's return of income for the trust's taxation year that includes December 15 of the particular year,

(a) the trust's taxation year that began before December 16 of the particular year and, but for this paragraph, would end at the end of the particular year (or, where the first taxation year of the trust began after December 15 of the preceding calendar year and no return of income was filed for a taxation year of the trust that ended at the end of the preceding calendar year, at the end of the preceding calendar year) is deemed to end at the end of December 15 of the particular year;

(b) where the trust's taxation year ends on December 15 because of paragraph (a), subject to subsection (1.1), each subsequent taxation year of the trust is deemed to be the period that begins at the beginning of December 16 of a calendar year and ends at the end of December 15 of the following calendar year or at such earlier time as is determined under paragraph 132.2(1)(b) or subsection 142.6(1); and

Proposed Amendment — 132.11(1)(b)

(b) if the trust's taxation year ends on December 15 because of paragraph (a), subject to subsection (1.1), each subsequent taxation year of the trust is deemed to be the period that begins at the beginning of December 16 of a calendar year and ends at the end of December 15 of the following calendar year or at such earlier time as is determined under paragraph 132.2(3)(b) or subsection 142.6(1); and

Application: The February 27, 2004 draft legislation, subsec. 71(1), will amend para. 132.11(1)(b) to read as above, applicable after 1998, except that in applying the para. to taxation years that end before 2000, it is to be read without reference to the expression "subject to subsection (1.1)".

Technical Notes (December 20, 2002): Section 132.11 generally allows a mutual fund trust to elect to have taxation years that end on December 15, rather than on December 31.

Where a trust makes this election, each subsequent taxation year of the trust is deemed to start on December 16 of a calendar year and to end on December 15 of the following calendar year, unless any of certain events intervenes. One of the events that can intervene, and that results in an earlier year-end, is a qualifying exchange under section 132.2.

As a consequence of the restructuring of section 132.2, the reference in paragraph 132.11(1)(b) to paragraph 132.2(1)(b) is replaced by a reference to paragraph 132.2(3)(b).

(c) each fiscal period of the trust that begins in a taxation year of the trust that ends on December 15 because of paragraph (a) or that ends in a subsequent taxation year of the trust shall end no later than the end of the year or the subsequent year, as the case may be.

Related Provisions: 132.11(1.1) — Revocation of election; 132.11(2) — Where trust is member of partnership; 132.11(3) — Where trust is beneficiary of another trust; 132.11(6) — Additional income.

History: Para. 132.11(1)(b) amended by 2001, c. 17, subsec. 130(1), applicable to taxation years that end after 1999. The para. formerly read:

(b) where the trust's taxation year ends on December 15 because of paragraph (a), each subsequent taxation year of the trust is deemed to be the period that begins at the beginning of December 16 of a calendar year and ends at the end of December 15 of the following calendar year or at such earlier time as is determined under paragraph 132.2(1)(b) or subsection 142.6(1); and Regulations: 4801.01 (prescribed trust).

(1.1) Revocation of election — Where a particular taxation year of a trust ends on December 15 of a calendar year because of an election made under paragraph (1)(a), the trust applies to the Minister in writing before December 15 of that calendar year (or before a later time that is acceptable to the Minister) to have this subsection apply to the trust, with the concurrence of the Minister

(a) the trust's taxation year following the particular taxation year is deemed to begin immediately after the end of the particular taxation year and end at the end of that calendar year; and

(b) each subsequent taxation year of the trust is deemed to be determined as if that election had not been made.

History: Subsec. 132.11(1.1) added by 2001, c. 17, subsec. 130(2), applicable to taxation years that end after 1999.

(2) Electing trust's share of partnership income and losses — Where a trust is a member of a partnership a fiscal period of which ends in a calendar year after December 15 of the year and a particular taxation year of the trust ends on December 15 of the year because of subsection (1), each amount otherwise determined under paragraph 96(1)(f) or (g) to be the trust's income or loss for a subsequent taxation year of the trust is deemed to be the trust's income or loss determined under paragraph 96(1)(f) or (g) for the particular year and not for the subsequent year.

(3) Electing trust's income from other trusts — Where a particular trust is a beneficiary under another trust a taxation year of which (in this subsection referred to as the "other year") ends in a calendar year after December 15 of the year and a particular taxation year of the trust ends on December 15 of the year because of subsection (1), each amount determined or designated under subsection 104(13), (19), (21), (22) or (29) for the other year that would otherwise be included, or taken into account, in computing the income of the particular trust for a subsequent taxation year of the trust shall

(a) be included, or taken into account, in computing the particular trust's income for the particular year; and

(b) not be included, or taken into account, in computing the particular trust's income for the subsequent year.

(4) Amounts paid or payable to beneficiaries — For the purposes of subsections (5) and (6) and 104(6) and (13) and notwithstanding subsection 104(24), each amount that is paid, or that becomes payable, by a trust to a beneficiary after the end of a particular taxation year of the trust that ends on December 15 of a calendar year because of subsection (1) and before the end of that calendar year, is deemed to have been paid or to have become payable, as the case may be, to the beneficiary at the end of the particular year and not at any other time.

Proposed Amendment — 132.11(4)

Letter from Dept. of Finance, March 7, 2003:

Dear [xxx]

Thank you for your letter of January 8, 2003, concerning the application of subsection 132.11(4) of the Income Tax Act in the context of distributions by a mutual fund trust.

Section 132.11 of the Act generally allows a mutual fund trust to elect to have a taxation year that ends on December 15. The objective of section 132.11 of the Act is to provide mutual fund trusts with an administratively workable basis for calculating income and distributions for a taxation year and for reporting on a timely basis. Subsection 132.11(4) permits, for a number of purposes including subsections 104(6) and (13) of the Act, distributions made in the last 16 days of a calendar year in respect of a trust's taxation year that ends on December 15 of the calendar year to be treated as if they were made at the end of that taxation year.

Paragraph (d) of the definition "disposition" in subsection 248(1) of the Act provides that a taxpayer disposes of the taxpayer's capital interest in a trust upon payment of an amount, from the trust, that is in respect of the capital interest. An exception to this general rule is found in paragraph (i) of the definition, which provides that there is no such disposition if the payment is made out of the trust's income (determined without reference to subsection 104(6)) or capital gains for a taxation year and the payment was made in that taxation year or the right to the payment was acquired in that taxation year.

As subsection 132.11(4) does not apply for the purpose of paragraph (1) of the definition "disposition" in subsection 248(1) of the Act, you are concerned that, in the case of a mutual fund trust that has elected under section 132.11 to have a December 15th taxation year-end, distributions from the trust in respect of a taxpayer's capital interest made in the last 16 days of a calendar year will result in a disposition of the interest.

From a policy perspective, a disposition of the taxpayer's capital interest would be unintended in these circumstances. This is because the relevant distribution would generally be recognized in computing the taxpayer's income, such that a disposition of the taxpayer's interest upon the distribution might give rise to double taxation of the amount distributed. Therefore, we are prepared to recommend an amendment to the Act so that subsection 132.11(4) does, for payments made by a mutual fund trust after 1999, apply for the purpose of paragraph (i) of the definition "disposition" in subsection 248(1) of the Act.

Of course, we cannot offer any assurance that either the Minister of Finance or Parliament will agree with the recommendation that we intend to make in this regard. Nonetheless, we trust that this statement of our position is helpful.

Thank you for writing.

Yours sincerely,

Brian Ernewein
Director, Tax Legislation Division, Tax Policy Branch

History: Subsec. 132.11(4) amended by 2001, c. 17, subsec. 130(3), applicable to 2000 et seq. The subsec. formerly read:

> (4) For the purposes of subsections 52(6) and 104(6) and (13) and subsections (5) and (6) and notwithstanding subsection 104(24), each amount that is paid, or that becomes payable, by a trust to a beneficiary after the end of a particular taxation year of the trust that ends on December 15 of a calendar year because of subsection (1) and before the end of that calendar year is deemed to have been paid or to have become payable, as the case may be, to the beneficiary at the end of the particular taxation year and not at any other time.

(5) Special rules where change in status of beneficiary — Where an amount is deemed by subsection (4) to have been paid or to have become payable at the end of December 15 of a calendar year by a trust to a beneficiary who was not a beneficiary under the trust at that time,

(a) notwithstanding any other provision of this Act, where the beneficiary did not exist at that time, except for the purpose of this paragraph, the first taxation year of the beneficiary is deemed to include the period that begins at that time and ends immediately before the beginning of the first taxation year of the beneficiary;

(b) the beneficiary is deemed to exist throughout the period described in paragraph (a); and

(c) where the beneficiary was not a beneficiary under the trust at that time, the beneficiary is deemed to have been a beneficiary under the trust at that time.

Related Provisions: 132.11(4) — Amounts paid to beneficiary from December 16-31.

(6) Additional income of electing trust — Where a particular amount is designated under this subsection by a trust in its return of income for a particular taxation year that ends on December 15 because of subsection (1) or throughout which the trust was a mutual fund trust and the trust does not designate an amount under subsection 104(13.1) or (13.2) for the particular year,

(a) the particular amount shall be added in computing its income for the particular year; and

(b) for the purposes of subsections 104(6) and (13), each portion of the particular amount that is allocated under this paragraph to a beneficiary under the trust in the trust's return of income for the particular year in respect of an amount paid or payable to the beneficiary in the particular year shall be considered to be additional income of the trust for the particular year (determined without reference to subsection 104(6)) that was paid or payable, as the case may be, to the beneficiary at the end of the particular year.

(c) [Repealed]

Related Provisions: 132.11(4) — Amounts paid to beneficiary from December 16-31; 220(3.21)(b) — Late filing, amendment or revocation of designation or allocation.

History: Para. 132.11(6)(c) repealed by 2001, c. 17, subsec. 130(3), applicable to 2000 et seq. The para. formerly read:

> (c) for the purpose of subsection 52(6), where a portion of the particular amount is allocated to a beneficiary under paragraph (b) in respect of an amount that became payable to the beneficiary in the particular year, the right to the amount so payable shall be considered to be a right to enforce payment by the trust to the beneficiary out of the trust's income (determined without reference to the provisions of this Act) for the particular year.

Subsec. 132.11(6) added by 1999, c. 22, s. 55, applicable to 1998 et seq.

(7) Deduction — Subject to subsection (8), the lesser of the amount designated under subsection (6) by a trust for a taxation year and the total of all amounts each of which is allocated by the trust under paragraph (6)(b) in respect of the year shall be deducted in computing the trust's income for the following taxation year.

Related Provisions: 132.11(8) — Anti-avoidance rule.

(8) Anti-avoidance — Subsection (7) does not apply in computing the income of a trust for a taxation year where it is reasonable to consider that the designation under subsection (6) for the preceding taxation year was part of a series of transactions or events that includes a change in the composition of beneficiaries under the trust.

132.2 (1) Mutual funds — qualifying exchange [rollover] — Where a mutual fund corporation or a mutual fund trust has at any time disposed of a property to a mutual fund trust in a qualifying exchange,

(a) the transferee shall be deemed to have acquired the property at the time (in this subsection referred to as the "acquisition time") that is immediately after the time that is immediately after the transfer time, and not to have acquired the property at the transfer time;

(b) subject to paragraph (o), the last taxation years of the funds that began before the transfer time shall be deemed to have ended at the acquisition time, and their next taxation years shall be deemed to have begun immediately after those last taxation years ended;

(c) the transferor's proceeds of disposition of the property and the transferee's cost of the property shall be deemed to be the lesser of

(i) the fair market value of the property at the transfer time, and

(ii) the greatest of

(A) the cost amount to the transferor of the property at the transfer time or, where the property is depreciable property, the lesser of its capital cost and its cost amount to the transferor immediately before the transfer time,

(B) the amount that the funds have agreed upon in respect of the property in their election in respect of the qualifying exchange, and

(C) the fair market value at the transfer time of the consideration (other than units of the transferee) received by the transferor for the disposition of the property;

(d) where the property is depreciable property and its capital cost to the transferor exceeds the transferor's proceeds of disposition of the property under paragraph (c), for the purposes of sections 13 and 20 and any regulations made for the purposes of paragraph 20(1)(a),

(i) the property's capital cost to the transferee shall be deemed to be the amount that was its capital cost to the transferor, and

(ii) the excess shall be deemed to have been allowed to the transferee in respect of the property under regulations made for the purposes of paragraph 20(1)(a) in computing income for taxation years ending before the transfer time;

(e) where two or more depreciable properties of a prescribed class are disposed of by the transferor to the transferee in the same qualifying exchange, paragraph (c) applies as if each property so disposed of had been separately disposed of in the order designated by the transferor at the time of making the election in respect of the qualifying exchange or, if the transferor does not so designate any such order, in the order designated by the Minister;

(f) each property of a fund, other than

(i) depreciable property of a prescribed class to which paragraph (g) would, but for this paragraph, apply, and

(ii) property disposed of by the transferor to the transferee at the transfer time shall be deemed to have been disposed of, and to have been reacquired by the fund, immediately before the acquisition time for an amount equal to the lesser of

(iii) the fair market value of the property at the transfer time, and

(iv) the greater of

(A) its cost amount or, where the property is depreciable property, the lesser of its capital cost and its cost amount to the disposing fund at the transfer time, and

(B) the amount that the fund designates in respect of the property in a notification to the Minister accompanying the election in respect of the qualifying exchange;

(g) where the undepreciated capital cost to a fund of depreciable property of a prescribed class immediately before the acquisition time exceeds the total of

(i) the fair market value of all the property of that class immediately before the acquisition time, and

(ii) the amount in respect of property of that class otherwise allowed under regulations made for the purposes of paragraph 20(1)(a) or deductible under subsection 20(16) in computing the fund's income for the taxation year that includes the transfer time, the excess shall be deducted in computing the fund's income for the taxation year that includes the transfer time and shall be deemed to have been allowed in respect of property of that class under regulations made for the purposes of paragraph 20(1)(a);

(h) except as provided in paragraph (p), the transferor's cost of any particular property received by the transferor from the transferee as consideration for the disposition of the property is deemed to be

(i) nil, where the particular property is a unit of the transferee, and

(ii) the particular property's fair market value at the transfer time, in any other case;

(i) the transferor's proceeds of disposition of any units of the transferee received as consideration for the disposition of the property that were disposed of by the transferor within 60 days after the transfer time in exchange for shares of the transferor shall be deemed to be nil;

(j) where shares of the transferor have been disposed of by a taxpayer to the transferor in exchange for units of the transferee within 60 days after the transfer time,

(i) the taxpayer's proceeds of disposition of the shares and the cost to the taxpayer of the units shall be deemed to be equal to the cost amount to the taxpayer of the shares immediately before the transfer time, and

(ii) where all of the taxpayer's shares of the transferor have been so disposed of, for the purposes of applying section 39.1 in respect of the taxpayer after that disposition, the transferee shall be deemed to be the same entity as the transferor;

Proposed Amendment — 132.2(1)(j)

(j) where shares of the transferor have been disposed of by a taxpayer to the transferor in exchange for units of the transferee within 60 days after the transfer time,

(i) the taxpayer's proceeds of disposition of the shares and the cost to the taxpayer of the units are deemed to be equal to the cost amount to the taxpayer of the shares immediately before the transfer time,

(ii) if all of the taxpayer's shares of the transferor have been so disposed of, for the purposes of applying section 39.1 in respect of the taxpayer after that disposition, the transferee is deemed to be the same entity as the transferor, and

(iii) for the purpose of the definition "designated beneficiary" in section 210, the units are deemed not to have been held at any time by the transferor;

Application: The February 27, 2004 draft legislation, subsec. 72(4), will amend para. 132.2(1)(j) to read as above, applicable for qualifying exchanges that occurred after June 1994 and before 1999.

Technical Notes: See under proposed 132.2(3)(g)(iii) below.

(k) where a share to which paragraph (j) applies would, but for this paragraph, cease to be a qualified investment (within the meaning assigned by subsection 146(1), 146.1(1) or 146.3(1) or section 204) as a consequence of the qualifying exchange, the share is deemed to be a qualified investment until the earlier of the day that is 60 days after the transfer time and the time at which it is disposed of in accordance with paragraph (j);

(l) there shall be added to the amount determined under the description of A in the definition "refundable capital gains tax on hand" in subsection 132(4) in respect of the transferee for its taxation years that begin after the transfer time the amount, if any, by which

(i) the transferor's refundable capital gains tax on hand (within the meaning assigned by subsection 131(6) or 132(4), as the case may be) at the end of its taxation year that includes the transfer time

exceeds

(ii) the transferor's capital gains refund (within the meaning assigned by paragraph 131(2)(a) or 132(1)(a), as the case may be) for that year;

(m) no amount in respect of a non-capital loss, net capital loss, restricted farm loss, farm loss or limited partnership loss of a fund for a taxation year that began before the transfer time is deductible in computing its taxable income for a taxation year that begins after the transfer time;

(n) where the transferor is a mutual fund trust, for the purposes of subsections 132.1(1) and (3) to (5), the transferee shall be deemed after the transfer time to be the same mutual fund trust as, and a continuation of, the transferor;

(o) where the transferor is a mutual fund corporation,

(i) for the purposes of subsection 131(4), the transferor is deemed in respect of any share disposed of in accordance with paragraph (j) to be a mutual fund corporation at the time of the disposition, and

(ii) for the purposes of Part I.3, the transferor's taxation year that, but for this paragraph, would have included the transfer time is deemed to have ended immediately before the transfer time (except that, for greater certainty, nothing in this paragraph shall affect the computation of any amount determined under this Part);

(p) for the purpose of determining the funds' capital gains redemptions (as defined in subsection 131(6) or 132(4)), for their taxation years that include the transfer time,

(i) the total of the cost amounts to the transferor of all its properties at the end of the year is deemed to be the total of all amounts each of which is

(A) the transferor's proceeds of disposition of a property that was transferred to a transferee on the qualifying exchange, or

(B) the cost amount to the transferor at the end of the year of a property that was not transferred on the qualifying exchange, and

(ii) the transferee is deemed not to have acquired any property that was transferred to it on the qualifying exchange; and

(q) except as provided in subparagraph (o)(i), the transferor is, notwithstanding subsections 131(8) and 132(6), deemed to be neither a mutual fund corporation nor a mutual fund trust for taxation years that begin after the transfer time.

Proposed Amendment — 132.2(1)

See at end of s. 132.2.

Related Provisions: 7(1.4) — Exchange of options giving mutual fund trust employee right to acquire units; 54"superficial loss"(c) — No superficial loss on deemed disposition and reacquisition.

History: Para. 132.2(1)(k) amended by 1999, c. 22, s. 56, applicable after 1997. It formerly read:

(k) where a share to which paragraph (j) applies would, but for this paragraph, cease to be a qualified investment (within the meaning assigned by subsection 146(1) or 146.3(1) or section 204) as a consequence of the qualifying exchange, the share shall be deemed to be a qualified investment until the earlier of the day that is 60 days after the transfer time and the time at which it is disposed of in accordance with paragraph (j);

The opening words of para. 132.2(1)(h), paras. 132.2(1)(o) and (p) amended, and para. (q) added, by 1998, c. 19, subsecs. 159(1), (2), applicable after June 1994 except that, where

(a) a qualifying exchange (as defined in subsec. 132.2(2)) between funds occurs before November 1996, and

(b) the funds jointly elect in writing filed with the Minister of National Revenue before October 1998,

subsec. 132.2(1) shall be read without reference to para. 132.2(1)(p), as amended, in its application to the exchange. The opening words of para. 132.2(1)(h) and paras. 132.2(1)(o) and (p) formerly read:

(h) the transferor's cost of any particular property received by the transferor from the transferee as consideration for the disposition of the property shall be deemed to be

. . . . .

(o) where the transferor is a mutual fund corporation, for the purposes of Part I.3, the transferor's taxation year that, but for this paragraph, would have ended at the acquisition time shall be deemed to have ended immediately before the transfer time (except that, for greater certainty, nothing in this paragraph affects the computation of any amount determined under this Part); and

(p) the transferor shall, notwithstanding subsections 131(8) and 132(6), be deemed to be neither a mutual fund corporation nor a mutual fund trust for taxation years beginning after the transfer time.

Subsec. 132.2(1) added by 1995, c. 21, s. 69, applicable after June 1994.

Regulations: 1105 (prescribed classes of depreciable property).

(2) Definitions — In this section,

"qualifying exchange" means a transfer at any time (in this section referred to as the "transfer time") of all or substantially all of the property of a mutual fund corporation or mutual fund trust to a mutual fund trust (in this section referred to as the "transferor" and "transferee", respectively, and as the "funds") where

(a) all or substantially all of the shares issued by the transferor and outstanding immediately before the transfer time are within 60 days after the transfer time disposed of to the transferor,

(b) no person disposing of shares of the transferor to the transferor within that 60-day period (otherwise than pursuant to the exercise of a statutory right of dissent) receives any consideration for the shares other than units of the transferee, and

(c) the funds jointly elect, by filing a prescribed form with the Minister within 6 months after the transfer time, to have this section apply with respect to the transfer;

History: Para. (b) of the definition "qualifying exchange" in subsec. 132.2(2) amended by 1998, c. 19, subsec. 159(3), applicable after June 1994. Para. (b) formerly read:

(b) no person disposing of shares in the transferor to the transferor within that 60 day period receives any consideration for those shares other than units of the transferee, and

The definition "qualifying exchange" in subsec. 132.2(2) added by 1995, c. 21, s. 69, applicable after June 1994, except that an election referred to in para. (c) of the definition "qualifying exchange" in subsec. 132.2(2) shall be deemed to have been made in a timely manner where it is made before December 31, 1995.

Forms: T1169: Election on disposition of property by a mutual fund corporation (or a mutual fund trust) to a mutual fund trust.

"share" means a share of the capital stock of a mutual fund corporation and a unit of a mutual fund trust.

History: The definition "share" in subsec. 132.2(2) added by 1995, c. 21, s. 69, applicable after June 1994.

132.2 (1) Definitions re qualifying exchange of mutual funds — The following definitions apply in this section.

"first post-exchange year", of a fund in respect of a qualifying exchange, means the taxation year of the fund that begins immediately after the acquisition time.

"qualifying exchange" means a transfer at any time (in this section referred to as the "transfer time") of all or substantially all of the property of a mutual fund corporation or mutual fund trust to a mutual fund trust (in this section referred to as the "transferor" and "transferee", respectively, and as the "funds") if

(a) all or substantially all of the shares issued by the transferor and outstanding immediately before the transfer time are within 60 days after the transfer time disposed of to the transferor;

(b) no person disposing of shares of the transferor to the transferor within that 60-day period (otherwise than pursuant to the exercise of a statutory right of dissent) receives any consideration for the shares other than units of the transferee; and

(c) the funds jointly elect, by filing a prescribed form with the Minister on or before the election's due date.

Related Provisions: 132.2(6) — Due date for election in para. (c); 132.2(7) — Amendment or revocation of election.

"share" means a share of the capital stock of a mutual fund corporation and a unit of a mutual fund trust.

(2) Timing — In respect of a qualifying exchange, a time mentioned in the following list immediately follows the time that precedes it in the list

(a) the transfer time;

(b) the first intervening time;

(c) the acquisition time;

(d) the beginning of the funds' first post-exchange years;

(e) the depreciables disposition time;

(f) the second intervening time; and

(g) the depreciables acquisition time.

(3) General — In respect of a qualifying exchange,

(a) each property of a fund, other than property disposed of by the transferor to the transferee at the transfer time and depreciable property, is deemed to have been disposed of, and to have been reacquired by the fund, at the first intervening time, for an amount equal to the lesser of

(i) the fair market value of the property at the transfer time, and

(ii) the greater of

(A) its cost amount, and

(B) the amount that the fund designates in respect of the property in a notification to the Minister accompanying the election in respect of the qualifying exchange;

(b) subject to paragraph (l), the last taxation years of the funds that began before the transfer time are deemed to have ended at the acquisition time, and their first post-exchange years are deemed to have begun immediately after those last taxation years ended;

(c) each depreciable property of a fund (other than property to which subsection (5) applies and property to which paragraph (d) would, if this Act were read without reference to this paragraph, apply) is deemed to have been disposed of, and to have been reacquired, by the fund at the second intervening time for an amount equal to the lesser of

(i) the fair market value of the property at the depreciables disposition time, and

(ii) the greater of

(A) the lesser of its capital cost and its cost amount to the disposing fund at the depreciables disposition time, and

(B) the amount that the fund designates in respect of the property in a notification to the Minister accompanying the election in respect of the qualifying exchange;

(d) if at the second intervening time the undepreciated capital cost to a fund of depreciable property of a prescribed class exceeds the fair market value of all the property of that class, the excess is to be deducted in computing the fund's income for the taxation year that includes the transfer time and is deemed to have been allowed in respect of property of that class under regulations made for the purpose of paragraph 20(1)(a);

(e) except as provided in paragraph (m), the transferor's cost of any particular property received by the transferor from the transferee as consideration for the disposition of the property is deemed to be

(i) nil, if the particular property is a unit of the transferee, and

(ii) the particular property's fair market value at the transfer time, in any other case;

(f) the transferor's proceeds of disposition of any units of the transferee that were received by the transferor as consideration for the disposition of the property, and that were disposed of by the transferor within 60 days after the day that includes the transfer time in exchange for shares of the transferor, are deemed to be nil;

(g) if, within 60 days after the day that includes the transfer time, a taxpayer disposes of shares of the transferor to the transferor in exchange for units of the transferee

(i) the taxpayer's proceeds of disposition of the shares and the cost to the taxpayer of the units are deemed to be equal to the cost amount to the taxpayer of the shares immediately before the transfer time,

(ii) where all of the taxpayer's shares of the transferor have been so disposed of, for the purpose of applying section 39.1 in respect of the taxpayer after that disposition, the transferee is deemed to be the same entity as the transferor, and

(iii) for the purpose of the definition "designated beneficiary" in section 210, the units are deemed not to have been held at any time by the transferor;

Technical Notes: New subparagraph 132.2(3)(g)(iii) applies in determining whether a person is a "designated beneficiary" (as defined in section 210 of the Act) of a trust. Under the definition designated beneficiary, certain persons or partnerships that are beneficiaries under a trust may be treated (or may cause trusts or partnerships of which they are beneficiaries or members to be treated) as designated beneficiaries under the trust, unless the relevant interest in the trust is held at all times by the person or partnership, as the case may be, or by another person exempt because of subsection 149(1) of the Act from tax, under Part I of the Act, on all of the other person's taxable income.

In a qualifying exchange, a mutual fund trust or mutual fund corporation (transferor) transfers all or substantially all of its property to another mutual fund trust (transferee) and takes back units of the transferee. Those units are then provided by the transferor to its investors in exchange for their shares or units of the transferor. New subparagraph 132.2(3)(g)(iii) ensures that, in these circumstances, the transferor is treated, for the purpose of the definition designated beneficiary, as not having held the units of the transferee.

This amendment applies for qualifying exchanges that occur after 1998. A similar rule, in former subparagraph 132.2(1)(j)(iii), applies for qualifying exchanges that occurred after June 1994 and before 1999.

(h) where a share to which paragraph (g) applies would, if this Act were read without reference to this paragraph, cease to be a qualified investment (within the meaning assigned by subsection 146(1), 146.1(1) or 146.3(1) or section 204) as a consequence of the qualifying exchange, the share is deemed to be a qualified investment until the earlier of the day that is 60 days after the day that includes the transfer time and the time at which it is disposed of in accordance with paragraph (g);

(i) there shall be added to the amount determined under the description of A in the definition "refundable capital gains tax on hand" in subsection 132(4) in respect of the transferee for its taxation years that begin after the transfer time the amount, if any, by which

(i) the transferor's refundable capital gains tax on hand (within the meaning assigned by subsection 131(6) or 132(4), as the case may be) at the end of its taxation year that includes the transfer time

exceeds

(ii) the transferor's capital gains refund (within the meaning assigned by paragraph 131(2)(a) or 132(1)(a), as the case may be) for that year;

(j) no amount in respect of a non-capital loss, net capital loss, restricted farm loss, farm loss or limited partnership loss of a fund for a taxation year that began before the transfer time is deductible in computing the taxable income of either of the funds for a taxation year that begins after the transfer time;

(k) where the transferor is a mutual fund trust, for the purposes of subsections 132.1(1) and 132.1(3) to (5), the transferee is deemed after the transfer time to be the same mutual fund trust as, and a continuation of, the transferor;

(l) where the transferor is a mutual fund corporation, (and, for greater certainty, without having any affect on the computation of any amount determined under this Part) for the purpose of

(i) subsection 131(4), the transferor is deemed in respect of any share disposed of in accordance with paragraph (g) to be a mutual fund corporation at the time of the disposition, and

(ii) Part I.3, the transferor's taxation year that, if this Act were read without reference to this paragraph, would have included the transfer time is deemed to have ended immediately before the transfer time;

(m) for the purpose of determining the funds' capital gains redemptions (as defined in subsection 131(6) or 132(4), as the case may be), for their taxation years that include the transfer time,

(i) the total of the cost amounts to the transferor of all its properties at the end of the year is deemed to be the total of all amounts each of which is

(A) the transferor's proceeds of disposition of a property that was transferred to a transferee on the qualifying exchange, or

(B) the cost amount to the transferor at the end of the year of a property that was not transferred on the qualifying exchange, and

(ii) the transferee is deemed not to have acquired any property that was transferred to it on the qualifying exchange; and

(n) except as provided in subparagraph (l)(i), the transferor is, notwithstanding subsections 131(8) and 132(6), deemed to be neither a mutual fund corporation nor a mutual fund trust for taxation years that begin after the transfer time.

Related Provisions: 54"superficial loss"(c) — Superficial loss rule does not apply to disposition under 132.2(3)(a) or (c); 132.2(4) — Transfer of non-depreciable property; 132.2(5) — Transfer of depreciable property.

(4) Qualifying exchange — non-depreciable property — If a transferor transfers a property, other than a depreciable property, to a transferee in a qualifying exchange

(a) the transferee is deemed to have acquired the property at the acquisition time, and not to have acquired the property at the transfer time;

(b) the transferor's proceeds of disposition of the property and the transferee's cost of the property are deemed to be the lesser of

(i) the fair market value of the property at the transfer time, and

(ii) the greatest of

(A) the cost amount to the transferor of the property at the transfer time,

(B) the amount that the funds agree on in respect of the property in their election, and

(C) the fair market value at the transfer time of the consideration (other than units of the transferee) received by the transferor for the disposition of the property.

(5) Depreciable property — If a transferor transfers a depreciable property to a transferee in a qualifying exchange,

(a) the transferor is deemed to have disposed of the property at the depreciables disposition time, and not to have disposed of the property at the transfer time;

(b) the transferee is deemed to have acquired the property at the depreciables acquisition time, and not to have acquired the property at the transfer time;

(c) the transferor's proceeds of disposition of the property and the transferee's cost of the property are deemed to be the lesser of

(i) the fair market value of the property at the transfer time, and

(ii) the greatest of

(A) the lesser of its capital cost and its cost amount to the transferor immediately before the depreciables disposition time,

(B) the amount that the funds agree on in respect of the property in their election, and

(C) the fair market value at the transfer time of the consideration (other than units of the transferee) received by the transferor for the disposition of the property;

(d) where the capital cost of the property to the transferor exceeds the transferor's proceeds of disposition of the property under paragraph (c), for the purposes of sections 13 and 20 and any regulations made for the purpose of paragraph 20(1)(a),

(i) the property's capital cost to the transferee is deemed to be the amount that was its capital cost to the transferor, and

(ii) the excess is deemed to have been allowed to the transferee in respect of the property under regulations made for the purpose of paragraph 20(1)(a) in computing income for taxation years ending before the transfer time; and

(e) where two or more depreciable properties of a prescribed class are disposed of by the transferor to the transferee in the same qualifying exchange, paragraph (c) applies as if each property so disposed of had been separately disposed of in the order designated by the transferor at the time of making the election in respect of the qualifying exchange or, if the transferor does not so designate any such order, in the order designated by the Minister.

(6) Due date — The due date of an election referred to in paragraph (c) of the definition "qualifying exchange" in subsection (1) is

(a) the day that is 6 months after the day that includes the transfer time; and

(b) on joint application by the funds, any later day that the Minister accepts.

(7) Amendment or revocation of election — The Minister may, on joint application by the funds on or before the due date of an election referred to in paragraph (c) of the definition "qualifying exchange" in subsection (1), grant permission to amend or revoke the election.

Application: The February 27, 2004 draft legislation, s. 72, will amend s. 132.2 to read as above, applicable as follows:

The definition "first post-exchange year" in subsec. 132.2(1), and subsecs. 132.2(2) to (5), are applicable to qualifying exchanges that occur after 1998. The definition "share" in subsec. 132.2(1) is applicable to qualifying exchanges that occur after 1998, and where it applies it is deemed to supersede, with respect to the qualifying exchange, the definition "share" in 132.2(2).

The definition "qualifying exchange" in subsec. 132.2(1) applies to qualifying exchanges that occur after June 1994, and where it applies it is deemed to supersede, with respect to the qualifying exchange, the definition "qualifying exchange" in subsec. 132.2(2).

Subsecs. 132.2(6) and (7) apply to qualifying exchanges that occur after June 1994.

If a valid election referred to in para. (c) of the definition "qualifying exchange" in subsec. 132.2(2) was made, the election continues to have the effect of having s. 132.2, as modified from time to time, apply to the transfer.

If a valid election referred to in subsec. 159(4) of the Income Tax Amendments Act, 1997 [S.C. 1998, c. 19; see History to subsec. 132.2(1)] was made in respect of a qualifying exchange, subsec. 132.2(1) of the Act is to be read without reference to para. 132.2(1)(p), and the election is, on the application of this amendment, deemed to have the effect that subsec. 132.2(3), in respect of the qualifying exchange, is to be read without reference to para. 132.2(3)(i).

Technical Notes (December 20, 2002): Section 132.2 provides rules to allow two mutual fund trusts, or a mutual fund trust and a mutual fund corporation, to merge on a tax-deferred basis. Such a merger is referred to as a "qualifying exchange".

In addition to introducing several substantive improvements to the rules in section 132.2, these amendments restructure the provision as a whole. In general terms, the section is now organized as follows: new subsection 132.2(1) sets out definitions that apply for the section; subsection (2) describes the order in which the events that make up a qualifying exchange are considered to have occurred; subsection (3) provides a set of general rules; subsection (4) deals with non-depreciable property that is transferred on the qualifying exchange; and subsection (5) deals with depreciable property that is transferred. Subsection (6) establishes the due date for the election to treat a transfer as a qualifying exchange; and subsection (7) provides authority for the Minister of National Revenue to allow that election to be amended or revoked.

Despite this restructuring, the basic principles of section 132.2 remain unchanged, as do most aspects of its operation. The exceptions — the areas where these amendments change the provision substantively — have to do with depreciable property that is transferred on a qualifying exchange, and with the election to treat a transaction as a qualifying exchange.

Transfers of Depreciable Property

In its current form, section 132.2 does not deal comprehensively with transfers of depreciable property between mutual funds. In particular, the deemed timing of the transfer, in relation to the deemed year-end of the funds, may prevent either fund from claiming capital cost allowance (CCA) for the last taxation year that began before the qualifying exchange. The transferor has disposed of the property two moments before the end of its year, and the transferee will not acquire it until the last moment of its own year.

To ensure that one CCA claim is available for that last year, new subsection 132.2(5) provides a special regime for qualifying exchanges that include transfers of depreciable property. A key aspect of these special rules is the ordering of events in accordance with new subsection 132.2(2). That subsection provides that, starting with the actual (i.e., legal) transfer of property between a transferor fund and a transferee fund that carry out a qualifying exchange, the following series of times occurs, each immediately after the previous one:

Name of Time	Description	Reference
the transfer time	The actual transfer of the property between the funds takes place.	definition "qualifying exchange" in 132.2(1)
the first intervening time	The funds are treated as having disposed of and reacquired non-transferred property (other than depreciable property).	132.2(3)(a)
the acquisition time	The transferee is treated as having acquired transferred property (other than depreciable property); the funds' taxation years are treated as ending.	132.2(4)(a); 132.2(3)(b)
the beginning of the funds' first post-exchange years		132.2(3)(b)
the depreciables disposition time	The transferor is deemed to have disposed of any transferred property that is depreciable property.	132.2(5)(a)
the second intervening time	The funds are treated as having disposed of and reacquired any non-transferred property that is depreciable property.	132.2(3)(c)
the depreciables acquisition time	The transferee is deemed to have acquired any transferred property that is depreciable property.	132.2(5)(b)

As a result of this timing, the transferor fund will be treated as owning, until after its first post-exchange year has begun, any depreciable property that is being transferred. This will ensure that the transfer does not prevent the transferor from deducting CCA in respect of property of that class, for its taxation year that ends at the acquisition time. The new rule also ensures that the transferee does not duplicate that deduction, by treating the transferee as having acquired the property only after its new taxation year has begun.

This treatment of depreciable property applies, along with most aspects of the restructuring of section 132.2, to qualifying exchanges that take place after 1998.

Timing of Election

For section 132.2 to apply to a transfer of property between mutual funds, the definition "qualifying exchange" currently requires the funds to file their joint election in prescribed form with the Minister of National Revenue within six months after the transfer time. This timing requirement is changed to allow greater flexibility. The amended definition "qualifying exchange" requires that the funds' election be made before the election's "due date", defined in new subsection 132.2(6) to mean either the day that is six months after the day that includes the transfer time or any later day that the Minister accepts, on joint application by the funds. An example of a case in which the Minister might accept such an application would be one in which the Minister has already decided to accept a late filing of the funds' returns of income for the taxation year that includes the qualifying exchange.

In certain cases, mutual funds that have elected to treat a transfer as a qualifying exchange may wish to amend, or even revoke, their election. New subsection 132.2(7) allows the funds to do this, on joint application and with the permission of the Minister.

Non-Resident-Owned Investment Corporations

133. (1) Computation of income — In computing the income of a non-resident-owned investment corporation for a taxation year,

(a) no deduction may be made in respect of interest on its bonds, debentures, securities or other indebtedness, and

(b) no deduction may be made under subsection 65(1), and its income and taxable income shall be computed as if

(c) the only taxable capital gains and allowable capital losses referred to in paragraph 3(b) were from dispositions of taxable Canadian property,

(d) any taxable capital gain or allowable capital loss of the corporation were an amount equal to twice the amount thereof otherwise determined, and

(e) subsection 83(2) were read without reference to paragraph 83(2)(b).

Related Provisions: 104(10) — Where dividends and interest paid to trust for non-residents; 104(11) — Dividend received from NRO; 134 — NRO not a Canadian corporation etc.; 134.2 — Choice of taxation year-end on revocation of election to be NRO; 186.1(b) — NRO not subject to Part IV tax; 212(9)(a) — Dividends received by trust from NRO — no withholding tax; Canada-U.S. Tax Treaty:Art. XXIX:6(b) — Treaty provisions inapplicable to NRO.

History: Para. 133(1)(c) amended by 2001, c. 17, subsec. 131(1), applicable after October 1, 1996. The para. formerly read:

> (c) the only taxable capital gains and allowable capital losses referred to in paragraph 3(c) were taxable capital gains and allowable capital losses from dispositions of taxable Canadian property or property that would be taxable Canadian property if at no time in the year the corporation had been resident in Canada,

Para. 133(1)(d) amended by the said c. 17, subsec. 131(2), to replace the expression "4/3 of" with the word "twice", applicable to taxation years that end after February 27, 2000 except that, for a taxation year of a corporation that includes February 28, 2000 or October 17, 2000, or began after February 28, 2000 and ended before October 17, 2000, the word "twice" shall be read as "the fraction that is the reciprocal of the fraction in para. 38(a), as amended by 2001, c. 17, that applies to the taxpayer for the year, multiplied by".

Regulations: 502 (annual certificate of changes of ownership of shares and debt).

(2) Non-resident-owned investment corporations — In computing the taxable income of a non-resident-owned investment corporation for a taxation year, no deduction may be made from its income for the year, except

(a) interest received in the year from other non-resident-owned investment corporations;

(b) taxes paid to the government of a country other than Canada in respect of any part of the income of the corporation for the year derived from sources therein; and

(c) net capital losses as provided for by section 111.

Related Provisions: 88(2)(a) — Winding-up of Canadian corporation.

(3) Special tax rate — The tax payable under this Part by a corporation for a taxation year when it was a non-resident-owned investment corporation is an amount equal to 25% of its taxable income for the year.

Related Provisions: 88(2)(a) — Winding-up of Canadian corporation; 157(3)(d) — Instalments payable by NRO.

Advance Tax Rulings: ATR-43: Utilization of a non-resident-owned investment corporation as a holding corporation.

(4) No deduction for foreign taxes — No deduction from the tax payable under this Part by a non-resident-owned investment corporation may be made under section 124 or in respect of taxes paid to the government of a country other than Canada.

Related Provisions: 88(2)(a)(iv) — Winding-up of Canadian corporation; 111 — Losses deductible; 115 — Non-residents' taxable income; 133(8) — Non-resident-owned investment corporation.

(5) [Repealed under former Act]

(6) Allowable refund to non-resident-owned investment corporations — If the return of a non-resident-owned investment corporation's income for a taxation year has been made within 3 years from the end of the year, the Minister

(a) may, on mailing the notice of assessment for the year, refund without application therefor its allowable refund for the year; and

(b) shall, with all due dispatch, make that allowable refund after mailing the notice of assessment if an application for it has been made in writing by the corporation within the period within which the Minister would be allowed under subsection 152(4) to assess tax payable by the corporation for the year if that subsection were read without reference to paragraph 152(4)(a).

Related Provisions: 88(2)(a) — Winding-up of Canadian corporation; 133(7) — Application to other liability; 133(7.01), (7.02) — Interest; 134.1 — Transitional rule re elimination of NROs; 152(1) — Assessment of refund; 157(3) — Reduction in instalment obligations to reflect allowable refund; 160.1 — Where excess refunded.

History: Para. 133(6)(b) amended by 1998, c. 19, s. 160, applicable after April 27, 1989. Para. 133(6)(b) formerly read:

(b) shall, with all due dispatch, make such a refund after mailing the notice of assessment if application therefor has been made in writing by the corporation within the period determined under paragraph 152(4)(b) or (c), as the case may be, within which the Minister may reassess tax payable by the corporation for the year.

Selected Cases [subsec. 133(6)]: The Great Atlantic & Pacific Tea Co. Ltd. v. R., [1979] C.T.C. 509 (SCC) (Refund not available when dividend paid prior to end of taxation year).

(7) Application to other liability — Instead of making a refund that might otherwise be made under subsection (6), the Minister may, where the taxpayer is liable or about to become liable to make any payment under this Act, apply the amount that would otherwise be refunded to that other liability and notify the taxpayer of that action.

Related Provisions: 88(2)(a) — Winding-up of Canadian corporation; 134.1 — Transitional rule re elimination of NROs.

(7.01) Interest on allowable refund — Where an allowable refund for a taxation year is paid to, or applied to a liability of, a non-resident-owned investment corporation, the Minister shall pay or apply interest on the refund at the prescribed rate for the period beginning on the day that is the later of

(a) the day that is 120 days after the end of the year, and

(b) the day that is 30 days after the day on which the corporation's return of income under this Part for the year was filed under section 150, unless the return was filed on or before the day on or before which it was required to be filed,

and ending on the day the refund is paid or applied.

Related Provisions: 133(7.02) — Where excess interest paid; 134.1 — Transitional rule re elimination of NROs; 161.1 — Offset of refund interest against arrears interest.

History: Para. 133(7.01) amended by 2003, c. 15, s. 114, applicable to taxation years that end after June 2003. It formerly read:

(b) the day on which the corporation's return of income under this Part for the year was filed under section 150, unless the return was filed on or before the day on or before which it was required to be filed,

Subsec. 133(7.01) added by 1994, c. 7, Sch. VIII (1993, c. 24), s. 78, applicable to allowable refunds paid or applied with respect to taxation years beginning after 1991.

Regulations: 4301(b) (prescribed rate of interest).

(7.02) Excess interest on allowable refund — Where at any particular time interest has been paid to, or applied to a liability of, a corporation under subsection (7.01) in respect of an allowable refund and it is determined at a subsequent time that the allowable refund was less than that in respect of which interest was so paid or applied,

(a) the amount by which the interest that was so paid or applied exceeds the interest, if any, computed in respect of the amount that is determined at the subsequent time to be the allowable refund shall be deemed to be an amount (in this subsection referred to as the "amount payable") that became payable under this Part by the corporation at the particular time;

(b) the corporation shall pay to the Receiver General interest at the prescribed rate on the amount payable, computed from the particular time to the day of payment; and

(c) the Minister may at any time assess the corporation in respect of the amount payable and, where the Minister makes such an assessment, the provisions of Divisions I and J apply, with such modifications as the circumstances require, in respect of the assessment as though it had been made under section 152.

Related Provisions: 20(1)(ll) — Deduction on repayment of interest; 161.1 — Offset of refund interest against arrears interest; 221.1 — Application of interest where legislation retroactive; 248(11) — Interest compounded daily.

History: Subsec. 133(7.02) added by 1994, c. 7, Sch. VIII (1993, c. 24), s. 78, applicable to allowable refunds paid or applied with respect to taxation years beginning after 1991.

Regulations: 4301(a) (prescribed rate of interest).

(7.1) Election re capital gains dividend — Where at any particular time after 1971 a dividend has become payable by a non-resident-owned investment corporation to shareholders of any class of shares of its capital stock, if the corporation so elects in respect of the full amount of the dividend, in prescribed manner and prescribed form and at or before the particular time or the first day on which any part of the dividend was paid if that day is earlier than the particular time, the following rules apply:

(a) the dividend shall be deemed to be a capital gains dividend to the extent that it does not exceed the corporation's capital gains dividend account immediately before the particular time; and

(b) any amount received by another non-resident-owned investment corporation in a taxation year as, on account or in lieu of payment of, or in satisfaction of the capital gains dividend shall not be included in computing its income for the year.

Related Provisions: 83(2) — Capital dividends; 84(7) — When dividend payable; 88(2)(b)(i) — Winding-up of Canadian corporation; 133(7.2) — Simultaneous dividends; 133(7.3) — Application of subsecs. 131(1.1)–(1.4); 133(8) — Canadian property; 133(8) — Capital gains dividend account; 133(8) — Taxable dividend; 134.1 — Transitional rule re elimination of NROs; 212(2) — No withholding tax on capital gains dividends paid to non-residents.

Regulations: 2105 (prescribed manner of making election).

Forms: T5: Statement of investment income; T5 Summ: Return of investment income; T2063: Election in respect of a capital gains dividend under subsection 133(7.1).

(7.2) Simultaneous dividends — Where a dividend becomes payable at the same time on more than one class of shares of the capital stock of a non-resident-owned investment corporation, for the purposes of subsection (7.1), the dividend on any such class of shares shall be deemed to become payable at a different time than the dividend on the other class or classes of shares and to become payable in the order designated

(a) by the corporation on or before the day on or before which the election described in subsection (7.1) is required to be filed; or

(b) in any other case, by the Minister.

Related Provisions: 88(2)(a) — Winding-up of Canadian corporation; 89(3) — Simultaneous dividends.

(7.3) Application of subsecs. 131(1.1) to (1.4) — Where at any particular time a non-resident-owned investment corporation paid a dividend to its shareholders and subsection (7.1) would have applied to the dividend except that the corporation did not make an election under that subsection on or before the day on or before which it was required by that subsection to be made, subsections 131(1.1) to (1.4) apply with such modifications as the circumstances require.

(8) Definitions — In this section,

"allowable refund" of a non-resident-owned investment corporation for a taxation year means the total of amounts each of which is an amount in respect of a taxable dividend paid by the corporation in the year on a share of its capital stock, determined by the formula

$$\frac{A}{B} \times C$$

where

A is the corporation's allowable refundable tax on hand immediately before the dividend was paid,

B is the greater of the amount of the dividend so paid and the corporation's cumulative taxable income immediately before the dividend was paid, and

C is the amount of the dividend so paid;

"Canadian property" means

(a) taxable Canadian property, and

(b) any other property not being foreign property within the meaning assigned by section 206;

History: Para. (a) of the definition "Canadian property" in subsec. 133(8) amended by 2001, c. 17, subsec. 131(3), applicable after October 1, 1996. The para. formerly read:

(a) property of a corporation that would be taxable Canadian property if at no time in the year the corporation had been resident in Canada, and

"capital gains dividend account" of a non-resident-owned investment corporation at any particular time means the amount determined by the formula

where

A is the total of the following amounts in respect of the period commencing January 1, 1972 and ending immediately after the corporation's last taxation year ending before the particular time:

(a) the corporation's capital gains for taxation years ending in the period from dispositions in the period of Canadian property or shares of another non-resident-owned investment corporation, and

(b) amounts received by the corporation in the period as, on account or in lieu of payment of, or in satisfaction of capital gains dividends from other non-resident-owned investment corporations, and

B is the total of the following amounts in respect of the period referred to in the description of A:

(a) the corporation's capital losses for taxation years ending in the period from dispositions in the period of Canadian property or shares of another non-resident-owned investment corporation,

(b) all capital gains dividends that became payable by the corporation before the particular time, and

(c) the amount determined by the formula

$$0.25 \times (M - N)$$

where

M is the total of the corporation's capital gains for taxation years ending in the period from dispositions in the period of taxable Canadian property, and

N is the total of the corporation's capital losses for the taxation years ending in the period from dispositions in the period of property of the kinds referred to in the description of M;

Related Provisions: 88(2)(a) — Winding-up of Canadian corporation; 134.1 — Transitional rule re elimination of NROs; 257 — Formula amounts cannot calculate to less than zero.

History: The description of M in para. (c) of the description of B in the definition "capital gains dividend account" in subsec. 133(8) amended by 2001, c. 17, subsec. 131(4), applicable after October 1, 1996. The description formerly read:

M is the total of the corporation's capital gains for taxation years ending in the period from dispositions in the period of taxable Canadian property or property that would be taxable Canadian property if at no time in the period the corporation had been resident in Canada, and

"increase in capital" in respect of a corporation means a transaction (other than a transaction carried out pursuant to an agreement in writing made before February 28, 2000, referred to in this definition as a "specified transaction") in the course of which the corporation issues additional shares of its capital stock or incurs indebtedness, if the transaction has the effect of increasing the total of

(a) the corporation's liabilities, and

(b) the fair market value of all the shares of its capital stock to an amount that is substantially greater than that total would have been on February 27, 2000 if all specified transactions had been carried out immediately before that day;

History: The definition "increase in capital" added to subsec. 133(8) by 2001, c. 17, subsec. 131(6), applicable after February 27, 2000.

"non-resident-owned investment corporation" means a corporation incorporated in Canada that, throughout the whole of the period commencing on the later of June 18, 1971 and the day on which it was incorporated and ending on the last day of the taxation year in respect of which the expression is being applied, complied with the following conditions:

(a) all of its issued shares and all of its bonds, debentures and other funded indebtedness were

(i) beneficially owned by non-resident persons (other than any foreign affiliate of a taxpayer resident in Canada),

(ii) owned by trustees for the benefit of non-resident persons or their unborn issue, or

(iii) owned by a non-resident-owned investment corporation, all of the issued shares of which and all of the bonds, debentures and other funded indebtedness of which were beneficially owned by non-resident persons or owned by trustees for the benefit of non-resident persons or their unborn issue, or by two or more such corporations,

(b) its income for each taxation year ending in the period was derived from

(i) ownership of, or trading or dealing in, bonds, shares, debentures, mortgages, hypothecary claims, bills, notes or other similar property or any interest therein,

(ii) lending money with or without security,

(iii) rents, hire of chattels, charterparty fees or remunerations, annuities, royalties, interest or dividends,

(iv) estates or trusts, or

(v) disposition of capital property,

(c) not more than 10% of its gross revenue for each taxation year ending in the period was derived from rents, hire of chattels, charterparty fees or charterparty remunerations,

(d) its principal business in each taxation year ending in the period was not

(i) the making of loans, or

(ii) trading or dealing in bonds, shares, debentures, mortgages, hypothecary claims, bills, notes or other similar property or any interest therein,

(e) it has, on or before the earlier of February 27, 2000 and the day that is 90 days after the beginning of its first taxation year that begins after 1971, elected in prescribed manner to be taxed under this section, and

(f) it has not, before the end of the last taxation year in the period, revoked in prescribed manner its election, except that

(g) a new corporation (within the meaning assigned by section 87) formed as a result of an amalgamation after June 18, 1971 of two or more predecessor corporations is not a non-resident-owned investment corporation unless each of the predecessor corporations was, immediately before the amalgamation, a non-resident-owned investment corporation,

(h) where a corporation is a new corporation described in paragraph (g), and each of the predecessor corporations elected in a timely manner under paragraph (e), paragraph (e) shall be read, in its application to the new corporation, without reference to the words "the earlier of February 27, 2000 and", and

(i) subject to section 134.1, a corporation is not a non-resident-owned investment corporation in any taxation year that ends after the earlier of,

(i) the first time, if any, after February 27, 2000 at which the corporation effects an increase in capital, and

(ii) the corporation's last taxation year that begins before 2003;

Related Provisions: 108(1) — "excluded property"; 134.1 — Election to remain NRO for one more year for certain purposes; 134.2 — Choice of taxation year-end on revocation of election to be NRO; 248(1)"non-resident-owned investment corporation" — Definition applies to entire Act.

History: The portion of the definition "non-resident-owned investment corporation" in subsec. 133(8) after para. (d) amended by 2001, c. 17, subsec. 131(5), applicable after February 27, 2000. The portion formerly read:

(e) it has, not later than 90 days after the commencement of its first taxation year commencing after 1971, elected in prescribed manner to be taxed under this section, and

(f) it has not, before the end of the last taxation year in the period, revoked in prescribed manner the election so made by it, except that in no case shall a new corporation (within the meaning assigned by section 87) formed as a result of an amalgamation after June 18, 1971 of two or more predecessor corporations be regarded as a non-resident-owned investment corporation unless each of the predecessor corporations was, immediately before the amalgamation, a non-resident-owned investment corporation;

Subpara. (b)(i) of the definition amended by the said c. 17, subsec. 215(1), in force June 14, 2001. The subpara. formerly read:

(i) ownership of or trading or dealing in bonds, shares, debentures, mortgages, bills, notes or other similar property or any interest therein,

Subpara. (d)(ii) of the definition amended by the said c. 17, subsec. 215(2), to add the words "hypothecary claims", in force June 14, 2001.

Regulations: 500, 501 (prescribed manner of making and revoking election).

(9) Definitions — In the definition "allowable refund" in subsection (8),

"allowable refundable tax on hand" of a corporation at any particular time means the amount determined by the formula

$$(A + B + C) - (D + E + F)$$

where

A is the total of all amounts each of which is an amount in respect of any taxation year commencing after 1971 and ending before the particular time, equal to the tax under this Part payable by the corporation for the year,

B is an amount equal to 15% of the amount determined for B in the definition "cumulative taxable income" in this subsection in respect of the corporation,

C where the corporation's 1972 taxation year commenced before 1972, is an amount equal to 10% of the amount that would be determined for C in the definition "cumulative taxable income" in this subsection if the reference in the description of C in that definition to "the 1972 taxation year or any taxation year commencing after 1971 and ending before the particular time" were read as a reference to "the 1972 taxation year",

D is the total of all amounts each of which is an amount, in respect of the 1972 taxation year or any taxation year commencing after 1971 and ending before the particular time, determined by the formula

$$0.25 \times [L - (M + N)]$$

where

L is the total of the corporation's taxable capital gains for the year from dispositions after 1971 of property described in paragraph (1)(c), computed in accordance with the assumption set out in paragraph (1)(d),

M is the total of the corporation's allowable capital losses for the year from dispositions after 1971 of property described in paragraph (1)(c), computed in accordance with the same assumption, and

N is the amount deductible from the corporation's income for the year by virtue of paragraph (2)(c),

E is the total of all amounts each of which is an amount equal to 1/3 of any amount paid or credited by the corporation after the commencement of its 1972 taxation year and before the particular time, as, on account or in lieu of payment of, or in satisfaction of interest, and

F is the total of all amounts each of which is an amount in respect of any taxable dividend paid by the corporation on a share of its capital stock before the particular time and after the commencement of its first taxation year commencing after 1971, equal to the amount in respect of the dividend determined under the definition "allowable refund" in subsection (8);

Related Provisions: 88(2)(a) — Winding-up of Canadian corporation; 87(2)(cc) — Amalgamation — non-resident-owned investment corporation; 134.1 — Transitional rule re elimination of NROs; 257 — Formula amounts cannot calculate to less than zero.

"cumulative taxable income" of a corporation at any particular time means the amount determined by the formula

where

A is the total of the corporation's taxable incomes for taxation years commencing after 1971 and ending before the particular time,

B where the corporation's 1972 taxation year commenced before 1972, is the amount determined by the formula

$$L - (M + N)$$

where

L is the corporation's taxable income for its 1972 taxation year,

M is the total of all amounts received by the corporation as described in paragraph 196(4)(b), and

N is the lesser of the amount determined under paragraph 196(4)(e) in respect of the corporation and the amount, if any, by which the total of amounts determined under paragraphs 196(4)(d) to (f) in respect of the corporation exceeds the total of amounts determined under paragraphs 196(4)(a) to (c) in respect of the corporation,

C is the total of all amounts each of which is an amount, in respect of the 1972 taxation year or any taxation year commencing after 1971 and ending before the particular time, determined by the formula

where

P is the total of the corporation's taxable capital gains for the year from dispositions after 1971 of property described in paragraph (1)(c), computed in accordance with the assumption set out in paragraph (1)(d),

Q is the total of the corporation's allowable capital losses for the year from dispositions after 1971 of property described in paragraph (1)(c), computed in accordance with the same assumption, and

R is the amount deductible from the corporation's income for the year by virtue of paragraph (2)(c),

D is the total of all amounts each of which is an amount equal to 4/3 of any amount paid or credited by the corporation, after the commencement of its 1972 taxation year and before the particular time, as, on account or in lieu of payment of, or in satisfaction of interest, and

E is the total of all amounts each of which is the amount of any taxable dividend paid by the corporation on a share of its capital stock before the particular time and after the commencement of its first taxation year commencing after 1971.

134. Non-resident-owned corporation not a Canadian corporation, etc. — Notwithstanding any other provision of this Act, a non-resident-owned investment corporation that would, but for this section, be a Canadian corporation, taxable Canadian corporation or private corporation shall be deemed not to be a Canadian corporation, taxable Canadian corporation or private corporation, as the case may be, except for the purposes of section 87, subsection 88(2) and sections 212.1 and 219.

Definitions [s. 134]: "Canadian corporation" — 89(1), 248(1); "non-resident-owned investment corporation" — 133(8), 248(1); "private corporation", "taxable Canadian corporation" — 89(1), 248(1).

134.1 (1) NRO — transition — This section applies to a corporation that

(a) was a non-resident-owned investment corporation in a taxation year;

(b) is not a non-resident-owned investment corporation in the following taxation year (in this section referred to as the corporation's "first non-NRO year"); and

(c) elects in writing filed with the Minister on or before the corporation's filing-due date for its first non-NRO year to have this section apply.

(2) Application — A corporation to which this section applies is deemed to be a non-resident-owned investment corporation in its first non-NRO year for the purposes of applying, in respect of dividends paid on shares of its capital stock in its first non-NRO year to a non-resident person or a non-resident-owned investment corporation, subsections 133(6) to (9) (other than the definition "non-resident-owned investment corporation" in subsection 133(8)) and section 212 and any tax treaty.

(2) Application — For the purposes of applying subsections 104(10) and (11) and 133(6) to (9) (other than the definition "non-resident-owned investment corporation" in subsection 133(8)), section 212 and any tax treaty, a corporation described in subsection (1) is deemed to be a non-resident-owned investment corporation in its first non-NRO year in respect of dividends paid in that year on shares of its capital stock to a non-resident person, to a trust for the benefit of non-resident persons or their unborn issue or to a non-resident-owned investment corporation.

Application: The February 27, 2004 draft legislation, s. 73, will amend subsec. 134.1(2) to read as above, applicable to a corporation that ceases to be a non-resident-owned investment corporation because of a transaction or event that occurs, or a circumstance that arises, in a taxation year of the corporation that ends after February 27, 2000.

Technical Notes: Section 134.1 was enacted, along with section 134.2, in 2001 to provide transitional relief for corporations that cease to be non-resident owned investment corporations (NROs). The essence of the relief provided in section 134.1 is to allow such a corporation to recover refundable tax by paying a dividend in its "first non-NRO year". In its current form, the section applies only in respect of dividends paid to a non-resident person or another NRO. There is, however, another kind of shareholder to whom an NRO may pay a dividend in respect of which it is appropriate to apply the section — a trust for the benefit of non-resident persons or their unborn issue. Since such a trust could, under the rules that have governed NROs themselves, have held the shares and debt of an NRO, a dividend to the trust ought to support a refund of the former NRO's refundable tax. Subsection 134.1(2) is therefore amended to include such dividends within the section's scope.

In addition, subsections 104(10) and (11) are added to the list of provisions in subsection 134.1(2) for which a former NRO is deemed to be an NRO during its first non-NRO year. Prior to the repeal of the NRO system, a trust that received a dividend from an NRO and that did not in turn distribute the amount of the dividend to its non-resident beneficiaries was entitled to deduct that amount from the trust's income under subsection 104(10). Subsection 104(11) then deemed the amount deducted under subsection 104(10) to have been paid to a non-resident beneficiary, with the result that Part XIII withholding tax would typically be payable. These two subsections are included in subsection 134.1(2) in order to allow a trust to benefit from these provisions in the year it receives the final payment of dividends from the former NRO.

Letter from Dept. of Finance, November 1, 2001:

Dear [xxx]:

Thank you for your letter dated October 2, 2001 in which you request that we consider recommending an amendment to section 134.1 of the Income Tax Act, a relieving measure relating to the phase-out of non-resident-owned investment corporations (NROs). Section 134.1 treats a corporation that has ceased to be an NRO as an NRO during its first non-NRO year, so that it can claim a refund of the 25% tax paid while an NRO. The refund is based on dividends paid by the corporation during its first non-NRO year to a non-resident person or another NRO.

Your concern is that the relieving effect of section 134.1 is too narrow, given that the Income Tax Act contemplates that an NRO can be structured so that all of its shares are owned by a trust resident in Canada for the benefit of non-resident persons. In such a case, the NRO would pay dividends in its first non-NRO year to the trust, which would then allocate the dividends to the non-resident beneficiaries, but because the trust is resident in Canada the relief provided by section 134.1 would not be available.

We have reviewed your request, and I can confirm that the denial of the section 134.1 relief to a trust under the conditions you have described is unintended in policy terms. We are therefore prepared to recommend an amendment to the Income Tax Act that would allow an NRO to claim the relief available under section 134.1, where a Canadian-resident trust owns all of the shares of an NRO for the benefit of non-resident persons. We intend to recommend that this change be brought forward in a package of technical amendments at an early opportunity, and that the amendment have effect for the same time period as section 134.1 of the Act.

While I cannot offer any assurances that our recommendation in this matter will be accepted, I hope our statement of intent in this letter will be helpful in responding to your concern.

Thank you again for writing.

Yours sincerely,

Brian Ernewein, Director, Tax Legislation Division, Tax Policy Branch

History: S. 134.1 added by 2001, c. 17, s. 132, applicable to a corporation that ceases to be a non-resident-owned investment corporation because of a transaction or event that occurs, or a circumstance that arises, in a taxation year of the corporation that ends after February 27, 2000. An election under para. 134.1(1)(c) is deemed to have been made in a timely manner if it is made on or before the electing corporation's filing-due date for its first taxation year that ends after June 14, 2001.

134.2 (1) Revocation — This section applies to a corporation that

(a) revokes at any time (in this section described as the "revocation time") its election to be taxed under section 133;

(b) elects to have this section apply, by filing an election in writing with the Minister on or before the corporation's filing-due date for the taxation year of the corporation (in this section referred to as the "revocation year") that would have included the revocation time if the corporation had not so elected; and

(c) specifies in the election a time (in this section referred to as the "elected time") that is in the revocation year and is not after the revocation time.

(2) Consequences — Where this section applies to a corporation,

(a) the corporation's taxation year that would have included the elected time, if the corporation had not elected to have this section apply, is deemed to end immediately before the elected time;

(b) a new taxation year of the corporation is deemed to begin at the elected time; and

(c) notwithstanding paragraph (f) of the definition "non-resident-owned investment corporation" in subsection 133(8), the corporation is deemed to be a non-resident-owned investment corporation for the period that begins at the beginning of the revocation year and ends immediately before the elected time.

History: S. 134.2 added by 2001, c. 17, s. 132, applicable to revocations made after February 27, 2000. An election under para. 134.2(1)(b) is deemed to have been made in a timely manner if it is made on or before the electing corporation's filing-due date for its first taxation year that ends after June 14, 2001.

Patronage Dividends

135. (1) Deduction in computing income — Notwithstanding anything in this Part, there may be deducted, in computing the income of a taxpayer for a taxation year, the total of the payments made, pursuant to allocations in proportion to patronage, by the taxpayer

(a) within the year or within 12 months thereafter to the taxpayer's customers of the year; and

(b) within the year or within 12 months thereafter to the taxpayer's customers of a previous year, the deduction of which from income of a previous taxation year was not permitted.

Proposed Amendment — 135(1)

Federal budget, Notice of Ways and Means Motion, March 23, 2004: Patronage Dividends

(21) That section 135 of the Act be amended to prevent persons, other than co-operatives and credit unions, from deducting patronage dividends paid after March 22, 2004 to non-arm's length persons.

Federal budget, Supplementary Information, March 23, 2004: Patronage Dividends

Co-operatives and many credit unions regularly distribute earnings to their members or customers in the form of patronage dividends — amounts computed at a rate in proportion to the amount of business done with the member or customer. The Income Tax Act allows a corporation or other person that pays patronage dividends to deduct the payments in computing income. Patronage dividends received by a customer or member, with the exception of those with respect to certain consumer goods or services, are included in computing the recipient's income. Ordinary taxable dividends, on the other hand, are not deductible by the payor corporation.

Under certain circumstances, the current system could allow entities that are neither co-operatives nor credit unions to use patronage dividends in ways that erode the Canadian tax base. For example, a patronage dividend could be paid by a wholly-owned Canadian subsidiary to its U.S. parent company, with the intended result that all of the subsidiary's tax liability is eliminated, and the only tax applicable is non-resident withholding tax.

While the general anti-avoidance rule may address some of these cases, the budget proposes to amend the Income Tax Act to prevent persons, other than co-operatives and credit unions, from deducting patronage dividends paid after March 22, 2004, to non-arm's length persons. This amendment will prevent unintended application of the patronage dividend provisions.

(4) Definitions — For the purposes of this section,

"allocation in proportion to patronage" for a taxation year means an amount credited by a taxpayer to a customer of that year on terms that the customer is entitled to or will receive payment thereof, computed at a rate in relation to the quantity, quality or value of the goods or products acquired, marketed, handled, dealt in or sold, or services rendered by the taxpayer from, on behalf of or to the customer, whether as principal or as agent of the customer or otherwise, with appropriate differences in the rate for different classes, grades or qualities thereof, if

(a) the amount was credited

(i) within the year or within 12 months thereafter, and

(ii) at the same rate in relation to quantity, quality or value aforesaid as the rate at which amounts were similarly credited to all other customers of that year who were members or to all other customers of that year, as the case may be, with appropriate differences aforesaid for different classes, grades or qualities, and

(b) the prospect that amounts would be so credited was held out by the taxpayer to the taxpayer's customers of that year who were members or non-member customers of that year, as the case may be;

Related Provisions: 135(1) — Deduction for allocations; 212(1)(g) — Withholding tax on allocations to non-residents.

"consumer goods or services" means goods or services the cost of which was not deductible by the taxpayer in computing the income from a business or property;

"customer" means a customer of a taxpayer and includes a person who sells or delivers goods or products to the taxpayer, or for whom the taxpayer renders services;

"income of the taxpayer attributable to business done with members" of any taxation year means that proportion of the income of the taxpayer for the year (before making any deduction under this section) that the value of the goods or products acquired, marketed, handled, dealt in or sold or services rendered by the taxpayer from, on behalf of, or for members, is of the total value of goods or products acquired, marketed, handled, dealt in or sold or services rendered by the taxpayer from, on behalf of, or for all customers during the year;

"member" means a person who is entitled as a member or shareholder to full voting rights in the conduct of the affairs of the taxpayer (being a corporation) or of a corporation of which the taxpayer is a subsidiary wholly-owned corporation;

"non-member customer" means a customer who is not a member;

"payment" includes

(a) the issue of a certificate of indebtedness or shares of the taxpayer or of a corporation of which the taxpayer is a subsidiary wholly-owned corporation if the taxpayer or that corporation has in the year or within 12 months thereafter disbursed an amount of money equal to the total face value of all certificates or shares so issued in the course of redeeming or purchasing certificates of indebtedness or shares of the taxpayer or that corporation previously issued,

(b) the application by the taxpayer of an amount to a member's liability to the taxpayer (including, without restricting the generality of the foregoing, an amount applied in fulfilment of an obligation of the member to make a loan to the taxpayer and an amount applied on account of payment for shares issued to a member) pursuant to a by-law of the taxpayer, pursuant to statutory authority or at the request of the member, or

(c) the amount of a payment or transfer by the taxpayer that, under subsection 56(2), is required to be included in computing the income of a member.

Interpretation Bulletins: See list at end of s. 135.

(5) Holding out prospect of allocations — For the purpose of this section a taxpayer shall be deemed to have held out the prospect that amounts would be credited to a customer of a taxation year by way of allocation in proportion to patronage, if

(a) throughout the year the statute under which the taxpayer was incorporated or registered, its charter, articles of association or by-laws or its contract with the customer held out the prospect that amounts would be so credited to customers who are members or non-member customers, as the case may be; or

(b) prior to the commencement of the year or prior to such other day as may be prescribed for the class of business in which the taxpayer is engaged, the taxpayer has published an advertisement in prescribed form in a newspaper or newspapers of general circulation throughout the greater part of the area in which the taxpayer carried on business holding out that prospect to customers who are members or non-member customers, as the case may be, and has filed copies of the newspapers with the Minister before the end of the 30th day of the taxation year or within 30 days from the prescribed day, as the case may be.

Related Provisions: 20(1)(u) — Patronage dividends.

Interpretation Bulletins: See list at end of s. 135.

(6) Amount of payment to customer — For greater certainty, the amount of any payment pursuant to an allocation in proportion to patronage is the amount thereof determined before deducting any amount required by subsection (3) to be deducted or withheld from that payment.

Related Provisions: 20(1)(u) — Deduction — patronage dividends; 87(2)(g.5) — Amalgamation — continuing corporation; 135(3) — Amount to be deducted or withheld from payment to customer; 157(2) — Exemption from instalment obligations where taxable income not over $10,000.

Interpretation Bulletins: See list at end of s. 135.

(7) Payment to customer to be included in income — Where a payment pursuant to an allocation in proportion to patronage (other than an allocation in respect of consumer goods or services) has been received by the taxpayer, the amount of the payment shall be included in computing the recipient's income for the taxation year in which the payment was received and, without restricting the generality of the foregoing, where a certificate of indebtedness or a share was issued to a person pursuant to an allocation in proportion to patronage, the amount of the payment by virtue of the issue thereof shall be included in computing the recipient's income for the taxation year in which the certificate or share was received and not in computing the recipient's income for the year in which the indebtedness was subsequently discharged or the share was redeemed.

Related Provisions: 20(1)(u) — Patronage dividend deduction; 87(2)(g.5) — Amalgamation — continuing corporation; 212(1)(g) — Non-resident withholding tax.

Forms: RC4157(E): Employers' Guide: Filing the T4A Slip and Summary Form; T2 SCH 16: Patronage dividend deduction; T4A: Statement of pension, retirement, annuity, and other income.

(8) Patronage dividends — For the purposes of this section, where

(a) a person has sold or delivered a quantity of goods or products to a marketing board established by or pursuant to a law of Canada or a province,

(b) the marketing board has sold or delivered the same quantity of goods or products of the same class, grade or quality to a taxpayer of which the person is a member, and

(c) the taxpayer has credited that person with an amount based on the quantity of goods or products of that class, grade or quality sold or delivered to it by the marketing board, the quantity of goods or products referred to in paragraph (c) shall be deemed to have been sold or delivered by that person to the taxpayer and to have been acquired by the taxpayer from that person.

Cooperative Corporations

136. (1) Cooperative not private corporation — Notwithstanding any other provision of this Act, a cooperative corporation that would, but for this section, be a private corporation is deemed not to be a private corporation except for the purposes of sections 15.1, 125, 125.1, 127, 127.1, 152 and 157, the definition "mark-to-market property" in subsection 142.2(1) and the definition "small business corporation" in subsection 248(1) as it applies for the purpose of paragraph 39(1)(c).

Proposed Amendment — 136(1)

Application: The February 27, 2004 draft legislation, subsec. 74(1), will amend subsec. 136(1) to add a reference to s. 123.4 after the reference to s. 15.1, applicable to 2001 et seq.

Technical Notes (December 20, 2002): Subsection 136(1) provides that a cooperative corporation that would otherwise be a private corporation is treated as a private corporation for the purposes of specified provisions of the Act. The subsection is amended to include among those provisions section 123.4, which in effect provides reductions in corporate tax rates. This subsection is amended, for the 2001 and subsequent taxation years, to provide that a cooperative corporation that otherwise qualifies as a Canadian-controlled private corporation (CCPC) may use the special rate reduction provided for CCPCs.

Letter from Dept. of Finance, March 20, 2001:

Dear [xxx]

Thank you for your letter of February 26, 2001, regarding the application of proposed section 123.4 of the Income Tax Act (the "Act") to co-operative corporations.

If it is enacted as proposed, section 123.4 will provide both a general deduction from tax otherwise payable, available to most types of corporation, and a special deduction for Canadian-controlled private corporations (CCPCs). You have asked whether a co-operative corporation could also be a CCPC for the purposes of these new deductions. You identify two important results that follow from the answer to that question. First, a co-operative corporation that is a CCPC will determine its "full rate taxable income" using paragraph (b) of the definition of that term in proposed subsection 123.4(1); one that is not a CCPC will use paragraph (a). Second, a co-operative corporation that is a CCPC may be able to use the proposed 7% deduction from tax on up to $100,000 of active business income in excess of the $200,000 limit for the section 125 "small business deduction".

As you point out, although subsection 136(1) of the Act deems co-operative corporations not to be private corporations for most purposes, that deeming rule does not apply for the purposes of a number of specified provisions, including section 125 of the Act. A co-operative corporation that meets the other relevant requirements is thus not precluded from being a CCPC under the definition in subsection 125(7), nor from taking advantage of the small business deduction itself.

Given the close connection between the new special deduction for CCPCs and the existing small business deduction, in policy terms it seems clear that a co-operative corporation that is a CCPC under section 125 ought also to be treated as such for the purposes of proposed section 123.4. I agree, however, that it may not be obvious from the current version of subsection 136(1) that this is indeed the case.

To avoid any possible confusion, we are therefore prepared to recommend the addition, to the list in subsection 136(1), of a reference to proposed section 123.4. This change, if approved by the Minister of Finance, would be included in a package of draft technical amendments scheduled for release in the coming months.

Thank you for bringing this matter to our attention.

Yours sincerely,

Brian Ernewein

History: Subsec. 136(1) amended by 1998, c. 19, s. 161, applicable to taxation years that end after February 22, 1994. Subsec. 136(1) formerly read:

> 136. (1) Notwithstanding any other provision of this Act, a cooperative corporation that would, but for this section, be a private corporation shall be deemed not to be a private corporation except for the purposes of sections 15.1, 125, 125.1, 127, 127.1, 152 and 157 and the definition "small business corporation" in subsection 248(1) as it applies for the purpose of paragraph 39(1)(c).

Subsec. 136(1) amended by 1994, c. 7, Sch. II (1991, c. 49), s. 112, to substitute "125, 125.1" for "123.1, 125", applicable after June 1988 except that in its application before April 28, 1989, the subsec. shall be read without the reference to s. 152.

Interpretation Bulletins: IT-493: Agency cooperative corporations (archived).

(2) Definition of "cooperative corporation" — In this section, "cooperative corporation" means a corporation that was incorporated by or under a law of Canada or a province providing for the establishment of the corporation or respecting the establishment of cooperative corporations for the purpose of marketing (including processing incident to or connected therewith) natural products belonging to or acquired from its members or customers, of purchasing supplies, equipment or household necessaries for or to be sold to its members or customers or of performing services for its members or customers, if

(a) the statute by or under which it was incorporated, its charter, articles of association or by-laws or its contracts with its members or its members and customers held out the prospect that payments would be made to them in proportion to patronage;

(b) none of its members (except other cooperative corporations) have more than one vote in the conduct of the affairs of the corporation; and

(c) at least 90% of its members are individuals, other cooperative corporations, or corporations or partnerships that carry on the business of farming, and at least 90% of its shares, if any, are held by those persons or partnerships.

Proposed Amendment — 136(2)(c), (d)

(c) at least 90% of its members are individuals, other cooperative corporations, or corporations or partnerships that carry on the business of farming; and

(d) at least 90% of its shares, if any, are held by members described in paragraph (c) or by trusts governed by registered retirement savings plans, registered retirement income funds or registered education savings plans the annuitants or subscribers under which are members described in that paragraph.

Application: The February 27, 2004 draft legislation, subsec. 74(2), will amend para. 136(2)(c) to read as above and add para. (d), applicable to 1998 et seq.

Technical Notes (December 20, 2002): Subsection 136(2) sets out conditions that a corporation must meet in order to be a cooperative corporation. The condition in current paragraph 136(2)(c) has two parts: at least 90% of its members must be individuals, other cooperative corporations, or corporations or partnerships that carry on the business of farming; and at least 90% of its shares, if any, must be held by those persons or partnerships.

The second part of this condition is modified to accommodate cases where the shares of a cooperative are held not only by the members themselves, but also by their registered plans (RRSPs, RRIFs, or RESPs). If shares are held by a trust that is governed by such a plan, provided a member of the cooperative is the plan's subscriber or annuitant, as the case may be, those shares will be counted in the same way as if they were held by a member personally. Amended paragraph 136(2)(c) and new paragraph 136(2)(d), which give effect to this change, apply to the 1998 and subsequent taxation years.

Letter from Dept. of Finance, June 11, 1999:

Dear [xxx]

This is in response to your letter dated June 4, 1999 to Len Farber respecting paragraph 136(2)(c) of the Income Tax Act and subsection 4900(12) of the Income Tax Regulations. Paragraph 136(2)(c) of the Act provides, as part of the definition of "cooperative corporation" in section 136, that at least 90% of a cooperative's shares must be held by members who are individuals, other cooperative corporations or corporations or partnerships that carry on the business of farming. Subsection 4900(12) of the Regulations provides that shares of specified cooperative corporations are qualified investments that may be held in an RRSP. You are concerned that the ability of a cooperative's members to hold their shares in RRSPs could, because the RRSPs may not be "members", cause the corporation to lose its cooperative status under section 136.

You have been advised by officials of the Tax Legislation Division that an amendment to paragraph 136(2)(c) is anticipated which would ensure that a cooperative does not lose its status as a consequence of its members contributing their shares to their RRSPs. You are seeking confirmation in writing of this information.

I can confirm that we intend to recommend that paragraph 136(2)(c) of the Act be amended to enable individual members of a cooperative to contribute their shares to their own RRSPs without any adverse consequences to the cooperative under the Act. The details of the amendment to be recommended remain to be developed. In general terms, however, I would foresee it being structured either as a rule which attributed the shares held by an RRSP to the annuitant, or which reformed paragraph 136(2)(c) to provide that shares contributed to an RRSP by a cooperative member would be treated as shares held by individuals who are members of a cooperative. We will recommend that this amendment apply to the 1998 and subsequent taxation years.

Yours sincerely,

Brian Ernewein

Director, Tax Legislation Division, Tax Policy Branch

(3) Additional deduction [credit union] — There may be deducted from the tax otherwise payable under this Part for a taxation year by a corporation that was, throughout the year, a credit union, an amount equal to 16% of the amount, if any, by which the lesser of

(a) the corporation's taxable income for the year, and

(b) the amount, if any, by which 4/3 of the corporation's maximum cumulative reserve at the end of the year exceeds the corporation's preferred-rate amount at the end of the immediately preceding taxation year

exceeds

(c) the least of the amounts determined under paragraphs 125(1)(a) to (c) in respect of the corporation for the year.

(4.2) Deemed interest not a dividend — Notwithstanding any other provision of this Act, an amount that is deemed by subsection (4.1) to be interest shall be deemed not to be a dividend.

Related Provisions: 84(2) — Deemed dividend on winding-up; 84(3) — Deemed dividend on redemption of shares; 84(4) — Deemed dividend — reduction of paid-up capital.

History: Subsec. 137(4.2) substituted by 1994, c. 21, s. 64, applicable to transactions occurring after December 21, 1992. That subsec. formerly read:

> (4.2) Application of section 84 — Subsections 84(2), (3) and (4) do not apply to deem a dividend to have been paid by a corporation to any of its shareholders, or to deem any of the shareholders of a corporation to have received a dividend on any shares of the capital stock of the corporation, if at the time the dividend would, but for this subsection, be deemed by subsection 84(2), (3) or (4) to have been so paid or received, as the case may be, the corporation was a credit union.

Interpretation Bulletins: IT-483: Credit unions (archived).

(4.3) Determination of preferred-rate amount of a corporation — For the purposes of subsection (3),

(a) the preferred-rate amount of a corporation at the end of a taxation year is an amount equal to the total of its preferred-rate amount at the end of its immediately preceding taxation year and 25/4 of the amount deductible under section 125 from the tax for the year otherwise payable by it under this Part;

(b) where at any time a new corporation has been formed as a result of an amalgamation of two or more predecessor corporations, within the meaning of subsection 87(1), it shall be deemed to have had a taxation year ending immediately before that time and to have had, at the end of that year, a preferred-rate amount equal to the total of the preferred-rate amounts of each of the predecessor corporations at the end of their last taxation years; and

(c) where there has been a winding-up as described in subsection 88(1), the preferred-rate amount of the parent (referred to in that subsection) at the end of its taxation year immediately preceding its taxation year in which it received the assets of the subsidiary (referred to in that subsection) on the winding-up shall be deemed to be the total of the amount that would otherwise be its preferred-rate amount at the end of that year and the preferred-rate amount of the subsidiary at the end of its taxation year in which its assets were distributed to the parent on the winding-up.

Interpretation Bulletins: IT-483: Credit unions (archived).

(5) Member's income — Where a payment has been received by a taxpayer from a credit union in a taxation year in respect of an allocation in proportion to borrowing, the amount thereof shall, if the money so borrowed was used by the taxpayer for the purpose of earning income from a business or property (otherwise than to acquire property the income from which would be exempt or to acquire a life insurance policy), be included in computing the taxpayer's income for the year.

(5.1) Allocations of taxable dividends and capital gains — A credit union (referred to in this subsection and in subsection (5.2) as the "payer") may, at any time within 120 days after the end of its taxation year, elect in prescribed form to allocate in respect of the year to a member that is a credit union such portion of each of the following amounts as may reasonably be regarded as attributable to the member:

(a) the total of all amounts each of which is the amount of a taxable dividend received by the payer from a taxable Canadian corporation in the year;

(b) the amount if any, by which

(i) the total of all amounts each of which is the amount by which the payer's capital gain from the disposition of a property in the year exceeds the payer's taxable capital gain from the disposition

exceeds

(ii) the total of all amounts each of which is the amount by which the payer's capital loss from the disposition of a property in the year exceeds the payer's allowable capital loss from the disposition; and

(c) each amount deductible under paragraph (5.2)(c) in computing the payer's taxable income for the year.

Related Provisions: 137(5.2) — Allocations of taxable dividends and capital gains.

History: Para. 137(5.1)(b) substituted and para. (c) added by 1994, c. 7, Sch. II (1991, c. 49), subsec. 113(1), applicable to 1988 et seq. Para. (b) formerly read:

(b) the amount, if any, by which the total of the payer's taxable capital gains from dispositions of property in the year exceeds the total of its allowable capital losses from dispositions of property in the year.

Forms: T2004: Election by a credit union to allocate taxable dividends and taxable capital gains to member credit unions.

(5.2) Idem — Notwithstanding any other provision of this Act,

(a) there shall be deducted from the amount that would, but for this subsection, be deductible under section 112 in computing a payer's taxable income for a taxation year such portion of the total referred to in paragraph (5.1)(a) as the payer allocated to its members under subsection (5.1) in respect of the year;

(b) there shall be included in computing the income of a payer for a taxation year an amount equal to that portion of the amount referred to in paragraphs (5.1)(b) and (c) that the payer allocated under subsection (5.1) in respect of the year to its members; and

(c) each amount allocated under subsection (5.1) to a member may be deducted by that member in computing the member's taxable income for its taxation year that includes the last day of the payer's taxation year in respect of which the amount was so allocated.

History: Para. 137(5.2)(c) amended by 1994, c. 7, Sch. VIII (1993, c. 24), s. 79, applicable to 1991 et seq. Para. (c) formerly read:

(c) each amount allocated to a member under subsection (5.1) may be deducted by that member in computing its taxable income for its taxation year during which the amount was so allocated.

Para. 137(5.2)(b) amended by 1994, c. 7, Sch. II (1991, c. 49), subsec. 113(2), applicable to 1988 et seq. Para. (b) formerly read:

(b) there shall be included in computing the income of a payer for a taxation year an amount equal to that portion of the amount referred to in paragraph (5.1)(b) that the payer allocated to its members under subsection (5.1) in respect of the year; and

(6) Definitions — In this section,

"allocation in proportion to borrowing" for a taxation year means an amount credited by a credit union to a person who was a member of the credit union in the year on terms that the member is entitled to or will receive payment thereof, computed at a rate in relation to

(a) the amount of interest payable by the member on money borrowed from the credit union, or

(b) the amount of money borrowed by the member from the credit union,

if the amount was credited at the same rate in relation to the amount of interest or money, as the case may be, as the rate at which amounts were similarly credited for the year to all other members of the credit union of the same class;

"bonus interest payment" for a taxation year means an amount credited by a credit union to a person who was a member of the credit union in the year on terms that the member is entitled to or will receive payment thereof, computed at a rate in relation to

(a) the amount of interest payable in respect of the year by the credit union to the member on money standing to the member's credit from time to time in the records or books of account of the credit union, or

(b) the amount of money standing to the member's credit from time to time in the year in the records or books of account of the credit union,

if the amount was credited at the same rate in relation to the amount of interest or money, as the case may be, as the rate at which amounts were similarly credited in the year to all other members of the credit union of the same class;

"credit union" means a corporation, association or federation incorporated or organized as a credit union or cooperative credit society if

(a) it derived all or substantially all of its revenues from

(i) loans made to, or cashing cheques for, members,

(ii) debt obligations or securities of, or guaranteed by, the Government of Canada or a province, a Canadian municipality, or an agency thereof, or debt obligations or securities of a municipal or public body performing a function of government in Canada or an agency thereof,

(iii) debt obligations of or deposits with, or guaranteed by, a corporation, commission or association not less than 90% of the shares or capital of which was owned by the Government of Canada or a province or by a municipality in Canada,

(iv) debt obligations of or deposits with, or guaranteed by, a bank, or debt obligations of or deposits with a corporation licensed or otherwise authorized under a law of Canada or a province to carry on in Canada the business of offering to the public its services as trustee,

(v) charges, fees and dues levied against members or members of members,

(vi) loans made to or deposits with a credit union or cooperative credit society of which it is a member, or

(vii) a prescribed revenue source,

(b) all or substantially all the members thereof having full voting rights therein were corporations, associations or federations

(i) incorporated as credit unions or cooperative credit societies, all of which derived all or substantially all of their revenues from the sources described in paragraph (a), or all or substantially all of the members of which were credit unions, cooperatives or a combination thereof,

(ii) incorporated, organized or registered under, or governed by a law of Canada or a province with respect to cooperatives, or

(iii) incorporated or organized for charitable purposes, or were corporations, associations or federations no part of the income of which was payable to, or otherwise available for the personal benefit of, any shareholder or member thereof, or

(c) the corporation, association or federation would be a credit union by virtue of paragraph (b) if all the members (other than individuals) having full voting rights in each member thereof that is a credit union were members having full voting rights in the corporation, association or federation;

Related Provisions: 89(1)"paid-up capital"(b) — PUC of credit union; 137.1(7) — Deposit insurance corporation deemed not credit union; 157(2) — Exemption from instalment obligations where taxable income not over $10,000; 248(1)"credit union" — Definition applies to entire Act; 248(1)"share" — Share of a credit union is a share; Reg. 9002(3) — Mark-to-market rules — property held by credit union.

Interpretation Bulletins: IT-483: Credit unions (archived).

"maximum cumulative reserve" of a credit union at the end of any particular taxation year means an amount determined by the formula

$$0.05 \times (A + B)$$

where

A is the total of all amounts each of which is the amount of any debt owing by the credit union to a member thereof or of any other obligation of the credit union to pay an amount to a member thereof, that was outstanding at the end of the year, including, for greater certainty, the amount of any deposit standing to the credit of a member of the credit union in the records of the credit union, but excluding, for greater certainty, any share in the credit union of any member thereof, and

B is the total of all amounts each of which is the amount, as of the end of the year, of any share in the credit union of any member thereof;

I.T. Application Rules: 58(3.2) (reduction in maximum cumulative reserve to reflect level at end of 1971).

"member" of a credit union means a person who is recorded as a member on the records of the credit union and is entitled to participate in and use the services of the credit union.

Proposed Amendment — 137(6)"member"

"member", of a credit union, means

(a) a person who is recorded as a member on the records of the credit union and is entitled to participate in and use the services of the credit union, and

(b) a registered retirement savings plan, a registered retirement income fund or a registered education savings plan, the annuitant or subscriber under which is a person described in paragraph (a).

Application: The February 27, 2004 draft legislation, subsec. 75(1), will amend the definition "member" in subsec. 137(6) to read as above, applicable to 1996 et seq.

Technical Notes (December 20, 2002): Section 137 provides rules that apply to credit unions. Among the definitions set out in subsection 137(1) is "member," meaning essentially a member of record who is entitled to the services of the credit union. This definition is amended, for the 1996 and subsequent taxation years, to treat as a member a registered retirement savings plan, registered retirement income fund, or registered education savings plan, provided that the annuitant or subscriber under the plan is a person who meets the existing definition of "member".

Letter from Dept. of Finance, June 11, 1999: See under 136(2)(c), (d).

Related Provisions: Reg. 1404(2)"acquisition costs"(a)(iii.1) — Insurer established to provide insurance to credit union members — policy reserves.

(7) Credit union not private corporation — Notwithstanding any other provision of this Act, a credit union that would, but for this section, be a private corporation shall be deemed not to be a private corporation except for the purposes of sections 123.1, 125, 127, 127.1, 152 and 157 and the definition "small business corporation" in subsection 248(1) as it applies for the purposes of paragraph 39(1)(c).

Proposed Amendment — 137(7)

(7) Credit union not private corporation — Notwithstanding any other provision of this Act, a credit union that would, if this Act were read without reference to this section, be a private corporation is deemed not to be a private corporation except for the purposes of sections 123.1, 123.4, 125, 127, 127.1, 152 and 157 and the definition "small business corporation" in subsection 248(1) as it applies for the purpose of paragraph 39(1)(c).

Application: The February 27, 2004 draft legislation, subsec. 75(2), will amend subsec. 137(7) to read as above, applicable to 2001 et seq.

Technical Notes (December 20, 2002): Subsection 137(7) provides that a credit union that would otherwise be a private corporation is treated as a private corporation for the purposes of specified provisions of the Act. The subsection is amended to include among those provisions section 123.4, which in effect provides reductions in corporate tax rates. This amendment, which applies to the 2001 and subsequent taxation years, provides that a credit union that otherwise qualifies as a Canadian-controlled private corporation (CCPC) may use the special rate reduction provided for CCPCs.

Letter from Dept. of Finance, December 20, 2001:

Dear [xxx]:

I am writing, with the concurrence of Mr. Roger Champagne of the Fédération des caisses Desjardins du Québec, to provide you with the enclosed copy of my response to a recent letter from Mr. Champagne. In my response, I agree to recommend an Income Tax Act amendment to allow a credit union to be treated as a private corporation for purposes of the new deductions from tax otherwise payable, found in section 123.4 of the Act.

As this is a matter that may be of interest to many of your members, it seemed appropriate that you be advised of our intentions in this regard.

Yours sincerely,

Brian Ernewein, Director, Tax Legislation Division, Tax Policy Branch

Letter from Dept. of Finance, December 20, 2001:

Monsieur,

La présente fait suite à votre lettre du 5 novembre dernier au sujet de l'application [xxx] du nouvel article 123.4 de la Loi de l'impôt sur le revenu (« Loi »). Cet article, qui a pour effet de réduire l'impôt que doit payer une société sur une partie de son revenu, que l'on appelle « revenu imposable au taux complet », s'applique différemment aux sociétés privées sous contrôle canadien (SPCC) qu'aux autres sociétés. En particulier, il prévoit une déduction accélérée de l'impôt par ailleurs payable par une SPCC sur un certain montant de son revenu tiré d'une entreprise exploitée activement.

Comme vous l'indiquiez, le paragraphe [xxx] de la Loi traite une [xxx] comme une société privée à certaines fins, notamment en ce qui concerne la déduction accordée aux petites entreprises prévue à l'article 125. Le paragraphe [xxx] ne s'applique cependant pas explicitement aux fins prévues au paragraphe 123.4. Vous avez donc demandé que nous recommandions une modification pour assurer qu'[xxx] est considérée comme une société privée aux fins de l'article 123.4 et qu'elle peut donc, en supposant que les autres critères pertinents sont respectés, profiter de la déduction accélérée consentie aux SPCC.

Selon moi, une telle mesure serait appropriée sur le plan de la politique, et nous recommanderons qu'elle soit incluse dans les prochaines modifications techniques. Le changement s'appliquerait aux années d'imposition 2001 et suivantes, de manière à coïncider avec l'instauration de l'article 123.4. Je vous soulignerais aussi que le « revenu imposable au taux complet » [xxx], au sens de l'article 123.4, exclut les montants visés par la déduction additionnelle prévue au paragraphe [xxx] de la Loi, et que nous ne proposerons donc aucun changement à cet égard.

Veuillez agréer, Monsieur, l'expression de mes sentiments les meilleurs.

Directeur, Division de la législation de l'impôt, Direction de la politique de l'impôt, Brian Ernewein

137.1 (1) Amounts included in income of deposit insurance corporation — For the purpose of computing the income for a taxation year of a taxpayer that is a deposit insurance corporation, the following rules apply:

(a) the corporation's income shall, except as otherwise provided in this section, be computed in accordance with the rules applicable in computing income for the purposes of this Part; and

(b) there shall be included in computing the corporation's income such of the following amounts as are applicable:

(i) the total of profits or gains made in the year by the corporation in respect of bonds, debentures, mortgages, hypothecary claims, notes or other similar obligations owned by it that were disposed of by it in the year, and

(ii) the total of each such portion of each amount, if any, by which the principal amount, at the time it was acquired by the corporation, of a bond, debenture, mortgage, hypothecary claim, note or other similar obligation owned by the corporation at the end of the year exceeds the cost to the corporation of acquiring it as was included by the corporation in computing its profit for the year.

Related Provisions: 137.1(3) — Deductions from income of deposit insurance corporation; 137.1(5) — Deposit insurance corporation defined; 137.1(10) — Amounts paid by a deposit insurance corporation; 137.2 — Valuation of property owned since before 1975; 142.2(1)"financial institution"(c)(iv) — Deposit insurance corporation not subject to mark-to-market rules.

History: Subparas. 137.1(1)(b)(i) and (ii) amended by 2001, c. 17, subsec. 216(1) to add the words "hypothecary claims" and "hypothecary claim" respectively, in force June 14, 2001.

(2) Amounts not included in income — The amount of any premiums or assessments received or receivable by a taxpayer that is a deposit insurance corporation from its member institutions in a taxation year shall not be included in computing its income.

Proposed Amendment — 137.1(2)

(2) Amounts not included in income — The following amounts are not to be included in computing the income of a deposit insurance corporation for a taxation year:

(a) any premium or assessment received, or receivable, by it in the year from a member institution; and

(b) any amount received by it in the year from another deposit insurance corporation to the extent that that amount can reasonably be considered to have been paid out of amounts referred to in paragraph (a) received by that the other deposit insurance corporation in any taxation year.

Application: The February 27, 2004 draft legislation, subsec. 76(1), will amend subsec. 137.1(2) to read as above, applicable to 1998 et seq.

Technical Notes (December 20, 2002): Section 137.1 provides rules for the taxation of deposit insurance corporations (DICs), including rules that affect the computation of income. In general terms, the premiums that a member institution pays to a DIC are deductible in computing the member's income and are not included in computing the income of the DIC, while any assistance that the DIC provides to the member or the member's depositors is not deductible for the DIC and is included in computing the member's income.

In certain circumstances, two or more DICs may share responsibilities toward a group of members. In such a case, it may be necessary for one DIC to pay to another an amount in respect of premiums. To ensure the appropriate tax consequences of such a payment, subsections 137.1(2) and (4) are amended. New paragraph 137.1(2)(b) excludes from the income of a DIC any amount it receives from another DIC, to the extent the amount can reasonably be considered to have been paid out of premiums or assessments received or receivable by the other DIC from its member institutions. New paragraph 137.1(4)(d), on the other hand, precludes the paying DIC from deducting the amount in computing its own income.

Related Provisions: 137.1(4) — Limitation on deduction; 137.1(11) — Deductions for payments by member institution.

(3) Amounts deductible in computing income of deposit insurance corporation — There may be deducted in computing the income for a taxation year of a taxpayer that is a deposit insurance corporation such of the following amounts as are applicable:

(a) the total of losses sustained in the year by the corporation in respect of bonds, debentures, mortgages, hypothecary claims, notes or other similar obligations owned by it and issued by a person other than a member institution that were disposed of by it in the year;

(b) the total of each such portion of each amount, if any, by which the cost to the corporation of acquiring a bond, debenture, mortgage, hypothecary claim, note or other similar obligation owned by the corporation at the end of the year exceeds the principal amount of the bond, debenture, mortgage, hypothecary claim, note or other similar obligation, as the case may be, at the time it was so acquired as was deducted by the corporation in computing its profit for the year;

(c) [Repealed under former Act]

(d) the total of all expenses incurred by the taxpayer in collecting premiums or assessments from member institutions;

(e) the total of all expenses incurred by the taxpayer

(i) in the performance of its duties as curator of a bank, or as liquidator or receiver of a member institution when duly appointed as such a curator, liquidator or receiver,

(ii) in the course of making or causing to be made such inspections as may reasonably be considered to be appropriate for the purposes of assessing the solvency or financial stability of a member institution, and

(iii) in supervising or administering a member institution in financial difficulty; and

(f) the total of all amounts each of which is an amount that is not otherwise deductible by the taxpayer for the year or any other taxation year and that is

(i) an amount paid by the taxpayer in the year pursuant to a legal obligation to pay interest on borrowed money used

(A) to lend money to, or otherwise provide assistance to, a member institution in financial difficulty,

(B) to assist in the payment of any losses suffered by members or depositors of a member institution in financial difficulty,

(C) to lend money to a subsidiary wholly-owned corporation of the taxpayer where the subsidiary is deemed by subsection (5.1) to be a deposit insurance corporation,

(D) to acquire property from a member institution in financial difficulty, or

(E) to acquire shares of the capital stock of a member institution in financial difficulty, or

(ii) an amount paid by the taxpayer in the year pursuant to a legal obligation to pay interest on an amount that would be deductible under subparagraph (i) if it were paid in the year.

History: Paras. 137.1(3)(a) and (b) amended by 2001, c. 17, subsec. 216(2) to add the words "hypothecary claims" and "hypothecary claim" respectively, in force June 14, 2001.

(4) Limitation on deduction — No deduction shall be made in computing the income for a taxation year of a taxpayer that is a deposit insurance corporation in respect of

(a) any grant, subsidy or other assistance to member institutions provided by it;

(b) an amount equal to the amount, if any, by which the amount paid or payable by it to acquire property exceeds the fair market value of the property at the time it was so acquired;

(c) any amounts paid to its member institutions as allocations in proportion to any amounts described in subsection (2); or

(d) [Repealed under former Act]

Proposed Addition — 137.1(4)(d)

(d) any amount paid by it to another deposit insurance corporation that is, because of paragraph (2)(b), not included in computing the income of that other deposit insurance corporation; or

(7) Deposit insurance corporation deemed not a credit union — Notwithstanding any other provision of this Act, a deposit insurance corporation that would, but for this subsection, be a credit union shall be deemed not to be a credit union.

Related Provisions: 137 — Credit unions.

(8) Deemed compliance — For the purposes of subsection (5), a corporation shall be deemed to have complied with clause (a)(ii)(B) of the definition "deposit insurance corporation" in subsection (5) throughout the 1975 taxation year if it complied with that clause on the last day of that taxation year.

(9) Special tax rate — The tax payable under this Part by a corporation for a taxation year throughout which it was a deposit insurance corporation (other than a corporation incorporated under the Canada Deposit Insurance Corporation Act) is an amount equal to 22% of its taxable income for the year.

Related Provisions: 220(4.3), (4.4) — Security furnished by member institution of a deposit insurance corporation.

(10) Amounts paid by a deposit insurance corporation — Where in a taxation year a taxpayer is a member institution, there shall be included in computing its income for the year the total of all amounts each of which is

(a) an amount received by the taxpayer in the year from a deposit insurance corporation that is an amount described in any of paragraphs (4)(a) to (c), to the extent that the taxpayer has not repaid the amount to the deposit insurance corporation in the year,

(b) an amount received from a deposit insurance corporation in the year by a depositor or member of the taxpayer as, on account of, in lieu of payment of, or in satisfaction of, deposits with, or share capital of, the taxpayer, to the extent that the taxpayer has not repaid the amount to the deposit insurance corporation in the year, or

(c) the amount by which

(i) the principal amount of any obligation of the taxpayer to pay an amount to a deposit insurance corporation that is settled or extinguished in the year without any payment by the taxpayer or by the payment by the taxpayer of an amount less than the principal amount

exceeds

(ii) the amount, if any, paid by the taxpayer on the settlement or extinguishment of the obligation to the extent that the excess is not otherwise required to be included in computing the taxpayer's income for the year or a preceding taxation year.

(10.1) Principal amount of an obligation to pay interest — For the purposes of paragraph (10)(c), an amount of interest payable by a member institution to a deposit insurance corporation on an obligation shall be deemed to have a principal amount equal to that amount.

Related Provisions: 137.1(11) — Deduction for payments by member institution.

(11) Deduction by member institutions — There may be deducted in computing the income for a taxation year of a taxpayer that is a member institution such of the following amounts as are applicable:

(a) any amount paid or payable by the taxpayer in the year that is described in subsection (2) to the extent that it was not deducted in computing the taxpayer's income for a preceding taxation year; and

(b) any amount repaid by the taxpayer in the year to a deposit insurance corporation on account of an amount described in paragraph (10)(a) or (b) that was received in a preceding taxation year to the extent that it was not, by reason of subsection (12), excluded from the taxpayer's income for the preceding year.

(12) Repayment excluded — Where

(a) a member institution has in a taxation year repaid an amount to a deposit insurance corporation on account of an amount that was included by virtue of paragraph (10)(a) or (b) in computing its income for a preceding taxation year,

(b) the member institution has filed its return of income required by section 150 for the preceding year, and

(c) on or before the day on or before which the member institution is required by section 150 to file a return of income for the taxation year, it has filed an amended return for the preceding year excluding from its income for that year the amount repaid, the amount repaid shall be excluded from the amount otherwise included by virtue of paragraph (10)(a) or (b) in computing the member institution's income for the preceding year and the Minister shall make such reassessment of the tax, interest and penalties payable by the member institution for preceding taxation years as is necessary to give effect to the exclusion.

Insurance Corporations

138. (1) Insurance corporations — It is hereby declared that a corporation, whether or not it is a mutual corporation, that has, in a taxation year, been a party to insurance contracts or other arrangements or relationships of a particular class whereby it can reasonably be regarded as undertaking

(a) to insure other persons against loss, damage or expense of any kind, or

(b) to pay insurance moneys to other persons

(i) on the death of any person,

(ii) on the happening of an event or contingency dependent on human life,

(iii) for a term dependent on human life, or

(iv) at a fixed or determinable future time,

whether or not such persons are members or shareholders of the corporation, shall, regardless of the form or legal effect of those contracts, arrangements or relationships, be deemed, for the purposes of this Act, to have been carrying on an insurance business of that class in the year for profit, and in any such case, for the purpose of computing the income of the corporation, the following rules apply:

(c) every amount received by the corporation under, in consideration of, in respect of or on account of such a contract, arrangement or relationship shall be deemed to have been received by it in the course of that business,

(d) the income shall, except as otherwise provided in this section, be computed in accordance with the rules applicable in computing income for the purposes of this Part,

(e) all income from property vested in the corporation shall be deemed to be income of the corporation, and

(f) all taxable capital gains and allowable capital losses from dispositions of property vested in the corporation shall be deemed to be taxable capital gains or allowable capital losses, as the case may be, of the corporation.

(2) Insurer's income or loss — Notwithstanding any other provision of this Act, where a life insurer resident in Canada carries on an insurance business in Canada and in a country other than Canada in a taxation year

(a) its income or loss for the year from carrying on an insurance business is the amount of its income or loss for the year, computed in accordance with this Act, from the business in Canada; and

(b) no amount shall be included in computing its income for the year in respect of its taxable capital gains and allowable capital losses from dispositions of property (other than property disposed of in a taxation year in which it was designated insurance property) of the insurer used or held by it in the course of carrying on an insurance business.

Proposed Amendment — 138(2)

(2) Insurer's income or loss — For greater certainty,

(a) where a life insurer resident in Canada carries on an insurance business in Canada and in a country other than Canada in a taxation year, its income or loss for the year from carrying on an insurance business is the amount that would be its income or loss for the year from the business carried on in Canada if no amount were included

(i) in respect of its gross investment revenue for the year from its property (other than property that was designated insurance property for the year) used or held by it in the course of carrying on an insurance business,

(ii) in respect of taxable capital gains and allowable capital losses from dispositions of its property (other than designated insurance property for the taxation year in which it disposed of the property) used or held by it in the course of carrying on an insurance business; and

(b) where a non-resident insurer carries on an insurance business in Canada in a taxation year, its income or loss for the year from carrying on its insurance business in Canada is the amount that would be its income or loss for the year from that business carried on in Canada if no amount were included

(i) in respect of its gross investment revenue for the year from its property (other than property that was designated insurance property for the year) used or held by it in the course of carrying on an insurance business, and

(ii) in respect of taxable capital gains and allowable capital losses from dispositions of its property (other than designated insurance property for the taxation year in which it disposed of the property) used or held by it in the course of carrying on an insurance business.

Application: The February 27, 2004 draft legislation, subsec. 77(1), will amend subsec. 138(2) to read as above, applicable to taxation years that end after 1999.

Technical Notes: Subsection 138(2) provides rules relating to the calculation of the income of a resident life insurer that carries on an insurance business in Canada and in a country outside Canada in a taxation year.

Paragraph 138(2)(a) provides that the resident life insurer's income or loss for a taxation year from an insurance business carried on both inside and outside Canada by the insurer is the insurer's income or loss for the year from carrying on that insurance business in Canada. Resident life insurers are, therefore, not subject to Canadian tax on their foreign insurance business income.

Paragraph 138(2)(b) provides that taxable capital gains and allowable capital losses from dispositions of property that are not designated insurance property are not included in computing the resident life insurer's income where the property is used or held in the course of carrying on its insurance business.

The expression "designated insurance property" is defined in subsection 138(12) of the Act and in section 2401 of the Regulations.

Subsection 138(2) is amended in the following ways.

New paragraph (a) ensures that the gross investment revenue from property of a resident life insurer (used or held by it in the course of carrying on an insurance business) will be included in computing the insurer's income from its insurance business in Canada only where the property is a designated insurance property of the insurer for the year.

It also ensures that taxable capital gains and allowable losses from dispositions of the insurer's property used or held by the insurer in the course of carrying on an insurance business will be included in computing the insurer's income for a taxation year from its insurance business in Canada only where the property disposed of was designated insurance property for the taxation year in which the insurer disposed of the property.

New paragraph (b) ensures that the gross investment revenue from property of a non-resident insurer that carries on an insurance business in Canada (used or held by it in the course of carrying on an insurance business) will be included in computing the insurer's income from its insurance business in Canada only where the property is a designated insurance property of the insurer for the year.

It also ensures that taxable capital gains and allowable losses from dispositions of the insurer's property used or held by the insurer in the course of carrying on an insurance business will be included in computing the insurer's income for a taxation year from its insurance business in Canada only where the property disposed of was designated insurance property for the taxation year in which the insurer disposed of the property.

The definition "designated insurance property" in subsection 248(1) of the Act adopts the definition in subsection 138(12).

Letter from Dept. of Finance, May 7, 2001:

Dear [xxx]

We are responding to your letter of March 23, 2001 seeking confirmation that we are intending to recommend to the Minister of Finance (the "Minister") amendments to the Income Tax Act (the "Act") to ensure that gross investment revenue is included in computing the income of multinational life insurers resident in Canada (and non-resident multinational insurers) from carrying on an insurance business in Canada only to the extent such gross investment revenue is derived from "designated insurance property", as defined in the Act.

We can confirm that we are intending to recommend to the Minister that subsections 138(2) and (9) of the Act be amended. The amendment will clarify that only the gross investment revenue derived by the insurer from "designated insurance property" of the insurer in respect of the insurance business carried on in Canada will be included in the income of the insurer from that insurance business. If adopted it will be recommended that the amendments be effective for taxation years ending after 1999.

We hope this addresses your concerns.

Yours sincerely,
Brian Ernewein
Director, Tax Legislation Division, Tax Policy Branch

Letter from Dept. of Finance, January 8, 2001:

Dear [xxx]

We are responding to your letter of October 11th, 2000, to Mr. Wally Conway concerning sections 95 and 138 of the Income Tax Act (the Act).

In your letter you expressed concern about the recent decision of the Tax Court of Canada in Munich Reinsurance Company (Canada Branch) v. The Queen [affirmed by the Federal Court of Appeal, [2002] 1 C.T.C. 199 — ed.], where it interpreted subsection 138(9) as not being a complete code with respect to the inclusion of investment income in a multinational insurer's income from carrying on an insurance business in Canada. Instead the court applied the general rules in the Act in determining whether income from a property was income of the insurer from its insurance business carried on in Canada.

You are concerned that, as a result of this decision, the intent of subsections 138(2) and (9) will be ignored and a multinational insurer will be required to include in its income from an insurance business carried on in Canada, its gross investment revenue from investment property that is not designated insurance property in respect of that business but is property factually used or held in that business. Consequently, you are requesting clarifying amendments to subsections 138(2) and (9) of the Act.

We are sympathetic to this request and will recommend to the Minister of Finance that subsections 138(2) and (9) be amended. The amendment will clarify that only the gross investment revenue derived by the insurer from "designated insurance property" of the insurer in respect of the insurance business carried on in Canada will be included in the income of the insurer from that insurance business. The amendments will be effective for taxation years ending after 1999. . .

Thank you for bringing these matters to our attention.

Yours sincerely,
Brian Ernewein
Director, Tax Legislation Division, Tax Policy Branch

> (b) its loss sustained in a taxation year in carrying on an insurance business is the amount of its loss, if any, sustained in the year in carrying on that insurance business in Canada, computed by applying, with such modifications as the circumstances require, the provisions of this Act respecting the computation of income from an insurance business of the class carried on by it.

That portion of subsec. 138(2) preceding para. (a) substituted by 1994, c. 7, Sch. II (1991, c. 49), subsec. 114(1), applicable to 1990 et seq. That portion formerly read:

> (2) Notwithstanding any other provision of this Act, in the case of an insurer, other than a resident of Canada that does not carry on a life insurance business,

(3) Deductions allowed in computing income [of life insurer] — In computing a life insurer's income for a taxation year from carrying on its life insurance business in Canada, there may be deducted

(a) such of the following amounts as are applicable:

(i) any amount that the insurer claims as a policy reserve for the year in respect of its life insurance policies, not exceeding the total of amounts that the insurer is allowed by regulation to deduct in respect of the policies,

(ii) any amount that the insurer claims as a reserve in respect of claims that were received by the insurer before the end of the year under its life insurance policies and that are unpaid at the end of the year, not exceeding the total of amounts that the insurer is allowed by regulation to deduct in respect of the policies,

(ii.1) the amount included under paragraph (4)(b) in computing the insurer's income for the taxation year preceding the year,

(iii) an amount equal to the lesser of

(A) the amount, if any, by which the total of policy dividends (except the portion thereof paid out of segregated funds) that became payable by the insurer after its 1968 taxation year and before the end of the year under its participating life insurance policies exceeds the total of amounts deductible under this subparagraph

in computing its incomes for taxation years before the year, and

(B) the amount, if any, by which the total of all amounts, each of which is the insurer's income, determined in accordance with prescribed rules, for the year or a preceding taxation year ending after 1968 from its participating life insurance business carried on in Canada exceeds the total of all amounts each of which is an amount deductible under this subparagraph or subparagraph (iv) in computing its incomes for taxation years ending before the year,

(iv) an amount as a reserve for policy dividends that will become payable by the insurer in the immediately following taxation year equal to the least of

(A) that portion of policy dividends that has accrued in the year or a preceding taxation year to or for the benefit of participating life insurance policyholders of the insurer, to the extent that an amount in respect thereof has not been included, either explicitly or implicitly, in the calculation of the amount deductible by the insurer for the year under subparagraph (i) and, for the purpose of this clause, a policy dividend in respect of a life insurance policy shall be deemed to accrue in equal daily amounts between anniversary dates of the policy,

(B) 110% of the amount paid or unconditionally credited in the taxation year immediately following the year in respect of the portion referred to in clause (A) of policy dividends that has accrued in the year or a preceding taxation year, and

(C) the amount, if any, by which the amount described in clause (iii)(B) for the year exceeds the amount described in clause (iii)(A) for the year, and

(v) each amount (other than an amount credited under a participating life insurance policy) that would be deductible under section 140 in computing the insurer's income for the year if the reference in that section to "an insurance business other than a life insurance business" were read as a reference to "a life insurance business in Canada";

(b) [Repealed]

(c) [Repealed under former Act]

(d) [Repealed]

(e) the total of amounts each of which is a policy loan made by the insurer in the year and after 1977;

(f) where the taxation year is the first taxation year of the insurer ending after November 12, 1981, the total of all amounts each of which is the amount, if any, in respect of interest on a policy loan that was included in computing the insurer's income for a taxation year ending before November 13, 1981

(i) to the extent that the interest had accrued to it before the commencement of its 1969 taxation year, or

(ii) to the extent that the interest had been included in computing its income for a preceding taxation year; and

(g) the amount of tax under Part XII.3 payable by the insurer in respect of its taxable Canadian life investment income for the year.

(4.1) Idem [deemed deduction for 1976] — For the purposes of paragraph (4)(a), an insurer shall be deemed to have deducted in computing its income for its 1976 taxation year,

(a) under subparagraph (3)(a)(i), the total of

(i) the amount deducted under that subparagraph in computing its income from its life insurance business in Canada for its 1976 taxation year, and

(ii) the lesser of

(A) the amount, if any, of its 1975-76 excess policy reserves, and

(B) the amount, if any, by which its 1975 branch accounting election deficiency exceeds the total of

(I) the amount determined under subparagraph (d)(ii),

(II) the total of amounts each of which is an amount determined under paragraph 13(22)(b) with respect to depreciable property of a prescribed class of the insurer,

(III) the amount determined under subparagraph (b)(ii), and

(IV) the total of amounts each of which is a portion of a non-capital loss that is deemed by subsection 111(7.1) to have been deductible in computing the insurer's income for a taxation year ending before 1977;

(b) under subparagraph (3)(a)(ii), the total of

(i) the amount deducted under that subparagraph in computing its income from its life insurance business in Canada for its 1976 taxation year, and

(ii) the lesser of

(A) the amount, if any, of its 1975-76 excess additional group term reserves, and

(B) the amount, if any, by which its 1975 branch accounting election deficiency exceeds the total of

(I) the amount determined under subparagraph (d)(ii),

(II) the total of amounts each of which is an amount determined under paragraph 13(22)(b) with respect to depreciable property of a prescribed class of the insurer, and

(III) the total described in subclause (a)(ii)(B)(IV);

(c) under subparagraph (3)(a)(iv), the total of

(i) the amount deducted under that subparagraph in computing its income from its life insurance business in Canada for its 1976 taxation year, and

(ii) the amount, if any, of its 1975-76 excess policy dividend reserve; and

(d) under paragraph 138(3)(c) of the Income Tax Act, chapter 148 of the Revised Statutes of Canada, 1952, the total of

(i) the amount deducted under that paragraph in computing its income from its life insurance business in Canada for its 1976 taxation year, and

(ii) the lesser of

(A) the amount, if any, of its 1975-76 excess investment reserve, and

(B) the amount, if any, of its 1975 branch accounting election deficiency.

I.T. Application Rules: 69 (meaning of "chapter 148 of ...").

(4.2) Idem [deemed deduction for 1977] — For the purposes of paragraph (4)(a), a life insurer shall be deemed to have deducted the following amounts in computing its income for its 1977 taxation year

(a) under subparagraph (3)(a)(i), the amount if any, by which the total of

(i) the insurer's maximum tax actuarial reserve for its 1977 taxation year, if that reserve had been determined on the basis of the rules applicable to its 1978 taxation year,

(ii) where the insurer has deducted the amount of any policy loan made by it in the year in computing its income from its life insurance business in Canada for any taxation year before its 1978 taxation year or not included interest in respect of any such loan in computing its gross investment revenue for any taxation year before its 1978 taxation year, the total of amounts that were outstanding at the end of the insurer's 1977 taxation year each of which is an amount payable to it in respect of a policy loan, and

(iii) that portion of the amount deducted by the insurer under subparagraph (3)(a)(i) in computing its income for its 1977 taxation year that is in respect of segregated fund policies

exceeds

(iv) the amount prescribed to be its 1977 carryforward deduction;

(b) under subparagraph (3)(a)(iv), the total of

(i) the amount deducted under that subparagraph in computing its income from its life insurance business in Canada for its 1977 taxation year, and

(ii) the amount, if any, by which

(A) the amount that would have been deductible under that subparagraph for its 1977 taxation year if that subparagraph were read without reference to clause (3)(a)(iv)(C),

exceeds

(B) the amount determined under subparagraph (i) for that taxation year; and

(c) under paragraph 138(3)(c) of the Income Tax Act, chapter 148 of the Revised Statutes of Canada, 1952, the total of

(i) the amount deducted under that paragraph in computing its income from its life insurance business in Canada for its 1977 taxation year, and

(ii) the amount, if any, by which,

(A) where the insurer has made an election under subsection (9) in respect of its 1975 taxation year, the amount that would have been deductible under paragraph 138(3)(c) of that Act in computing its income for its 1977 taxation year if the insurer had claimed the maximum allowable amount in its 1977 taxation year, or

(B) where the insurer has not made an election under subsection (9) in respect of its 1975 taxation year, the amount that would have been deductible under paragraph 138(3)(c) of that Act in computing its income for its 1977 taxation year if the insurer had claimed the maximum allowable amount in each of its taxation years ending before 1978 and after 1974

(C) the amount determined under subparagraph (i).

Related Provisions: 111(7.2) — Non-capital loss of life insurer.

Regulations: 2408 (1977 carryforward deduction).

I.T. Application Rules: 69 (meaning of "chapter 148 of ...").

(4.3) Idem [deemed deduction for 1985] — For the purposes of paragraph (4)(a), in computing a life insurer's income from carrying on its life insurance business in Canada for its first taxation year ending after 1984, the amount, if any, by which

(a) the total of all amounts each of which is an amount deducted by the insurer in computing its income for a taxation year ending after 1968 and before 1985 in respect of a claim under a life insurance policy that was likely to arise after the end of the particular taxation year in respect of a death that occurred in the particular taxation year

(b) the total of all amounts each of which is an amount paid by the insurer or included in computing its income before the commencement of its first taxation year ending after 1984 in respect of amounts described in paragraph (a)

shall be deemed to be an amount that was deducted by the insurer under subparagraph (3)(a)(i) in computing its income from that business for its last taxation year ending before 1985.

(4.4) Idem [income inclusion re land, building] — Where, for a period of time in a taxation year, a life insurer

(a) owned land (other than land referred to in paragraph (c) or (d)) or an interest therein that was not held primarily for the purpose of gaining or producing income from the land for the period,

(b) had an interest in a building that was being constructed, renovated or altered,

(c) owned land subjacent to the building referred to in paragraph (b) or an interest therein, or

(d) owned land immediately contiguous to the land referred to in paragraph (c) or an interest therein that was used or was intended to be used for a parking area, driveway, yard, garden or other use necessary for the use or intended use of the building referred to in paragraph (b),

there shall be included in computing the insurer's income for the year, where the land, building or interest was designated insurance property of the insurer for the year, or property used or held by it in the year in the course of carrying on an insurance business in Canada, the total of all amounts each of which is the amount prescribed in respect of the insurer's cost or capital cost, as the case may be, of the land, building or interest for the period, and the amount prescribed shall, at the end of the period, be included in computing

(e) where the land or interest therein is property described in paragraph (a), the cost to the insurer of the land or the interest therein, and

(f) where the land, building or interest therein is property described in paragraphs (b) to (d), the capital cost to the insurer of the interest in the building described in paragraph (b).

Related Provisions: 138(4.5) — Anti-avoidance rule; 138(4.6) — Meaning of "completed"; 248(4) — Interest in real property.

History: The portion of subsec. 138(4.4) between paras. (d) and (e) amended by 1997, c. 25, subsec. 39(4), applicable to 1997 et seq. That portion formerly read:

the life insurer shall, where that land or building was property used by it in the year in, or held by it in the year in the course of, carrying on an insurance business in Canada, include a prescribed amount in computing its income for the year in respect of the cost or capital cost, as the case may be, of the land, building or interest therein to the insurer for the period, and the amount so included shall, at the end of the period, be included in computing

Regulations: 2410 (prescribed amount).

(4.5) Application [of subsec. (4.4)] — Where a life insurer transfers or lends property, directly or indirectly in any manner whatever, to a person or partnership (in this subsection referred to as the "transferee") that is affiliated with the insurer or a person or partnership that does not deal at arm's length with the insurer and

(a) that property,

(b) property substituted for that property, or

(c) property the acquisition of which was assisted by the transfer or loan of that property was property described in paragraph (4.4)(a), (b), (c) or (d) of the transferee for a period of time in a taxation year of the insurer, the following rules apply:

(d) subsection (4.4) shall apply to include an amount in the insurer's income for the year on the assumption that the property was owned by the insurer for the period, was property described in paragraph (4.4)(a), (b), (c) or (d) of the insurer and was used or held by it in the year in the course of carrying on an insurance business in Canada, and

(e) an amount included in the insurer's income for the year under subsection (4.4) by reason of the application of this subsection shall

(i) where subparagraph (ii) does not apply, be added by the insurer in computing the cost to it of shares of the capital stock of or an interest in the transferee at the end of the year, or

(ii) where the insurer and the transferee have jointly elected in prescribed form on or before the day that is the earliest of the days on or before which any taxpayer making the election is required to file a return pursuant to section 150 for the taxation year that includes the period, be added in computing

(A) where the property is land or an interest therein of the transferee described in paragraph (4.4)(a), the cost to the transferee of the land or the interest therein, and

(B) where the property is land, a building or an interest therein described in paragraphs (4.4)(b) to (d), the capital cost to the transferee of the interest in the building described in paragraph (4.4)(b).

History: The opening words of subsec. 138(4.5), and para. (d), amended by 1997, c. 25, subsecs. 39(5), (6), applicable to 1997 et seq. The opening words and para. (d) formerly read:

(4.5) Where, after 1987, a life insurer has transferred or lent property, directly or indirectly in any manner whatever, to a transferee that was a designated corporation of the insurer (within the meaning assigned by subsection 2405(3) of the Income Tax Regulations) or a person or partnership that does not deal at arm's length with the insurer and

. . . . .

(d) subsection (4.4) shall apply to the insurer to include an amount in the insurer's income for the year on the assumption that the property was owned by the insurer for the period, was property described in paragraph (4.4)(a), (b), (c) or (d) of the insurer and was used by it in the year in, or held by it in the year in the course of, carrying on an insurance business in Canada, and

(4.6) Completion [of building] — For the purposes of subsection (4.4), the construction, renovation or alteration of a building is completed at the earlier of the day on which the construction, renovation or alteration is actually completed and the day on which all or substantially all of the building is used for the purpose for which it was constructed, renovated or altered.

(5) Deductions not allowed — Notwithstanding any other provision of this Act,

(a) in the case of an insurer, no deduction may be made under paragraph 20(1)(l) in computing its income for a taxation year from an insurance business in Canada in respect of a premium or other consideration for a life insurance policy in Canada or an interest therein; and

(b) in the case of a non-resident insurer or a life insurer resident in Canada that carries on any of its insurance business in a country other than Canada, no deduction may be made under paragraph 20(1)(c) or (d) in computing its income for a taxation year from carrying on an insurance business in Canada, except in respect of

(i) interest on borrowed money used to acquire designated insurance property for the year, or to acquire property for which designated insurance property for the year was substituted property, for the period in the year during which the designated insurance property was held by the insurer in respect of the business,

(ii) interest on amounts payable for designated insurance property for the year in respect of the business, or

(iii) interest on deposits received or other amounts held by the insurer that arose in connection with life insurance policies in Canada or with policies insuring Canadian risks.

(iv) other interest that does not exceed a prescribed amount.

Para. 138(5)(b) amended by 1997, c. 25, subsec. 39(7), applicable to 1997 et seq. Para. (b) formerly read:

(b) in the case of a non-resident insurer or a life insurer resident in Canada that carries on any of its insurance business in a country other than Canada, no deduction may be made under paragraph 20(1)(c) or (d) in computing its income for a taxation year from carrying on an insurance business in Canada, except in respect of interest on

(i) borrowed money used to acquire property used by it in the year in, or held by it in the year in the course of, carrying on that insurance business in Canada, to the extent that the interest is paid or payable in respect of that portion of the year during which the property was so used or held,

(ii) amounts payable for its property used by it in the year in, or held by it in the year in the course of, carrying on that insurance business in Canada to the extent that the interest is paid or payable in respect of that portion of the year during which the property was so used or held, or

(iii) deposits received or other amounts held by the insurer that arose in connection with life insurance policies in Canada or with policies insuring Canadian risks.

Regulations: 2404 (prescribed amount for 138(5)(b)(iv)).

(5.1) No deduction — No deduction shall be made under subsection 20(12) in computing the income of a life insurer resident in Canada in respect of foreign taxes attributable to its insurance business.

Interpretation Bulletins: IT-506: Foreign income taxes as a deduction from income.

(5.2) [Repealed]

History: Subsec. 138(5.2) repealed by 1995, c. 21, subsec. 57(5), applicable to dispositions occurring after October 30, 1994, except the disposition of a debt obligation before July 1995 where

(a) the disposition is part of a series of transactions or events that began before October 31, 1994;

(b) as part of the series of transactions or events, the taxpayer who acquired the debt obligation disposed of property before October 31, 1994; and

(c) it is reasonable to consider that one of the main reasons for the acquisition of the debt obligation by the taxpayer was to obtain a deduction because, as a consequence of the disposition referred to in paragraph (b),

(i) an amount was included in the taxpayer's income for any taxation year, or

(ii) an amount was subtracted from a balance of undeducted outlays, expenses or other amounts of the taxpayer and the subtracted amount exceeded the portion, if any, of the balance that could reasonably be considered to be in respect of the property.

Subsec. (5.2) formerly read:

(5.2) Idem — Notwithstanding paragraph (3)(b) and subsection (11.4), in computing an insurer's income for a taxation year from carrying on an insurance business, no amount shall be deducted in respect of a loss sustained by the insurer on a disposition (other than a disposition occurring as a result of the application of subsection (11.3)) of property that is a share, bond, debenture, mortgage, note, agreement of sale or any other form of indebtedness that was not a capital property of the insurer and was used by it in the year in, or held by it in the year in the course of, carrying on an insurance business in any case where

(a) during the period commencing 30 days before and ending 30 days after the disposition, the insurer or a person or partnership that does not deal at arm's length with the insurer acquired or agreed to acquire the same or an identical property (in this subsection referred to as the "substituted property"), and

(b) at the end of the period referred to in paragraph (a), the insurer or the person or partnership, as the case may be, owned or had a right to acquire the substituted property, and any such loss shall be added in computing the cost to the insurer or the person or partnership, as the case may be, of the substituted property.

(6) Deduction for dividends from taxable corporations — In computing the taxable income of a life insurer for a taxation year, no deduction from the income of the insurer for the year may be made under section 112 but, except as otherwise provided by that section, there may be deducted from that income the total of taxable dividends (other than dividends on term preferred shares that are acquired in the ordinary course of the business carried on by the life insurer) included in computing the insurer's income for the year and received by the insurer in the year from taxable Canadian corporations.

(7) [Repealed]

History: Subsec. 138(7) repealed by 1997, c. 25, subsec. 39(8), applicable to 1996 et seq. Subsec. (7) formerly read:

(7) Amounts paid to shareholders included in taxable income — The taxable income for a taxation year of a life insurer resident in Canada is its taxable income for the year otherwise computed under this Part, plus 2 times the amount, if any, by which the total of amounts each of which is an amount paid by it after the end of its 1968 taxation year and before the end of the year as, on account or in lieu of payment of, or in satisfaction of dividends or stock dividends or any other amounts that, but for paragraph 84(1)(c.1), would have been dividends, exceeds the total of

(a) the insurer's undistributed income on hand at the end of its 1968 taxation year in respect of which tax under this Part has been paid by it,

(b) the surplus funds derived from operations of the insurer as of the end of the year,

(c) the total of amounts of surplus contributed to the insurer before the end of the year,

(d) ½ the total of amounts that, by virtue of this subsection, have been added to the taxable income of the insurer otherwise computed under this Part in computing its taxable income for taxation years before the year,

(e) where in the taxation year the insurer carried on an insurance business in a country other than Canada, the lesser of

(i) the total of dividends and stock dividends in respect of shares of the capital stock of the insurer paid by it in the year out of property other than property used by the insurer in the year in, or held by it in the year in the course of, carrying on an insurance business in Canada, and

(ii) the amount of tax for the year paid by the insurer to the government of a country other than Canada under the income tax laws of that country out of property other than property used by the insurer in the year in, or held by it in the year in the course of, carrying on an insurance business in Canada,

(f) where in the taxation year the insurer did not carry on an insurance business in a country other than Canada, the lesser of

(i) the total of dividends and stock dividends in respect of shares of the capital stock of the insurer paid by it in the year, and

(ii) the amount of tax for the year paid by the insurer to the government of a country other than Canada under the income tax laws of that country,

(g) the total of all amounts determined under paragraphs (e) and (f) in respect of the insurer for taxation years before the year, and

(h) the amount, if any, by which the lesser of

(i) the total of amounts paid after the end of the insurer's 1968 taxation year and before 1978 as, on account or in lieu of payment of, or in satisfaction of, dividends or stock dividends in respect of shares of the capital stock of the insurer, and

(ii) the amount, if any, determined in respect of the insurer under paragraph 138(7)(c) of the Income Tax Act, chapter 148 of the Revised Statutes of Canada, 1952, as it read in its application to the 1976 taxation year

exceeds

(iii) the total of amounts of surplus contributed to the insurer before 1978.

(8) No deduction for foreign tax — No deduction shall be made under section 126 from the tax payable under this Part for a taxation year by a life insurer resident in Canada in respect of such part of an income or profits tax as can reasonably be attributable to income from its insurance business.

(9) Computation of income — Where in a taxation year an insurer (other than an insurer resident in Canada that does not carry on a life insurance business) carries on an insurance business in Canada and in a country other than Canada, there shall be included in computing its income for the year from carrying on its insurance businesses in Canada the total of

(a) its gross investment revenue for the year from its designated insurance property for the year, and

(b) the amount prescribed in respect of the insurer for the year.

(9.1) [Repealed under former Act]

(10) Application of financial institution rules — Notwithstanding sections 142.3, 142.4 and 142.5, where in a taxation year an insurer (other than an insurer resident in Canada that does not carry on a life insurance business) carries on an insurance business in Canada and in a country other than Canada, in computing its income for the year from carrying on an insurance business in Canada,

(a) sections 142.3 and 142.5 apply only in respect of property that is designated insurance property for the year in respect of the business; and

(b) section 142.4 applies only in respect of the disposition of property that, for the taxation year in which the insurer disposed of it, was designated insurance property in respect of the business.

History: Subsec. 138(10) amended by 1997, c. 25, subsec. 39(9), applicable to 1997 et seq. Subsec. (10) formerly read:

(10) Where in a taxation year an insurer (other than an insurer resident in Canada that does not carry on a life insurance business) carried on an insurance business in Canada and in a country other than Canada, in computing the income of the insurer for the year from carrying on an insurance business in Canada,

(a) sections 142.3 and 142.5 apply with respect to property used by it in the year in, or held by it in the year in the course of, carrying on that business; and

(b) section 142.4 applies with respect to the disposition of property that, in the taxation year in which the insurer disposed of it, was property used by it in the year in, or held by it in the year in the course of, carrying on that business.

Subsec. 138(10) added by 1995, c. 21, subsec. 57(6), applicable to taxation years that end after February 22, 1994.

(11) [Repealed]

History: Subsec. 138(11) repealed by 1995, c. 21, subsec. 57(7), applicable to taxation years that begin after February 22, 1994. Subsec. (11) formerly read:

(11) Profit or loss in respect of Canada security — For the purposes of paragraphs (3)(b) and (4)(b),

(a) the profit or gain made by an insurer in a taxation year in respect of a Canada security owned by it that was disposed of by it in the year is the amount by which the proceeds of disposition to which the insurer thereby became entitled exceeds the amortized cost of the security to the insurer at the time of the disposition; and

(b) the loss sustained by an insurer in a taxation year in respect of a Canada security owned by it that was disposed of by it in the year is the amount by which the amortized cost of the security to the insurer at the time of the disposition exceeds the proceeds of the disposition to which the insurer thereby became entitled.

(11.1) Identical properties — For the purpose of section 47, any property of a life insurance corporation that would, but for this subsection, be identical to any other property of the corporation is deemed not to be identical to the other property unless both properties are

(a) designated insurance property of the insurer in respect of a life insurance business carried on in Canada; or

(b) designated insurance property of the insurer in respect of an insurance business in Canada other than a life insurance business.

Related Provisions: 248(12) — Identical properties.

History: Subsec. 138(11.1) amended by 1997, c. 25, subsec. 39(9), applicable to 1997 et seq. Subsec. (11.1) formerly read:

(11.1) For the purposes of section 47, any property of a life insurance corporation that would, but for this subsection, be identical to any other property of the corporation shall be deemed not to be identical to that other property unless both properties are

(a) non-segregated property used by it in the year in, or held by it in the year in the course of, carrying on a life insurance business in Canada; or

(b) non-segregated property used by it in the year in, or held by it in the year in the course of, carrying on an insurance business in Canada other than a life insurance business.

I.T. Application Rules: 26(8.1) (property owned since before 1972).

Interpretation Bulletins: IT-387R2: Meaning of "identical properties".

(11.2) Computation of capital gain on pre-1969 depreciable property — For the purposes of computing the amount of a capital gain from the disposition of any depreciable property acquired by a life insurer before 1969, the capital cost of the property to the insurer shall be its capital cost determined without reference to paragraph 32(1)(a) of An Act to amend the Income Tax Act, chapter 44 of the Statutes of Canada 1968-69, as it read in its application to the 1971 taxation year.

(11.3) Deemed disposition — Subject to subsection (11.31), where a property of a life insurer resident in Canada that carries on an insurance business in Canada and in a country other than Canada or of a non-resident insurer is

(a) designated insurance property of the insurer for a taxation year, was owned by the insurer at the end of the preceding taxation year and was not designated insurance property of the insurer for that preceding year, or

(b) not designated insurance property for a taxation year, was owned by the insurer at the end of the preceding taxation year and was designated insurance property of the insurer for that preceding year,

the following rules apply:

(c) the insurer is deemed to have disposed of the property at the beginning of the year for proceeds of disposition equal to its fair market value at that time and to have reacquired the property immediately after that time at a cost equal to that fair market value,

(d) where paragraph (a) applies, any gain or loss arising from the disposition is deemed not to be a gain or loss from designated insurance property of the insurer in the year, and

(e) where paragraph (b) applies, any gain or loss arising from the disposition is deemed to be a gain or loss from designated insurance property of the insurer in the year.

Related Provisions: 54"superficial loss"(c) — Superficial loss rule does not apply; 138(11.31) — Exception where mark-to-market deemed disposition has applied; 138(11.4) — Loss deductible only in year property disposed of.

History: The portion of subsec. 138(11.3) after para. (b) amended by 2001, c. 17, subsec. 133(3), applicable to 1997 et seq. The portion formerly read:

the insurer is deemed to have disposed of the property at the beginning of the year for proceeds of disposition equal to its fair market value at that time and to have immediately thereafter reacquired the property at a cost equal to that fair market value.

Subsec. 138(11.3) amended by 1997, c. 25, subsec. 39(10), applicable to 1997 et seq. Subsec. (11.3) formerly read:

(11.3) Subject to subsection (11.31), and except for the purposes of paragraph 20(1)(l), the description of A in the definition "undepreciated capital cost" in subsection 13(21) and paragraph (b) of the description of F in that definition and any regulations made for the purpose of the definition "property used by it in the year in, or held by it in the year in the course of" in subsection (12), where a life insurer resident in Canada, or a non-resident insurer, that carries on an insurance business in Canada and in a country other than Canada, at any time,

(a) acquires property for some other purpose and at a later time commences to use that property as property used by it in the year in, or held by it in the year in the course of, carrying on an insurance business in Canada, or

(b) acquires property for use as property used by it in the year in, or held by it in the year in the course of, carrying on an insurance business in Canada and at a later time commences to use the property for some other purpose,

the insurer shall be deemed to have disposed of the property at that later time for proceeds of disposition equal to its fair market value at that time and to have immediately thereafter reacquired the property at a cost equal to that fair market value.

The opening words of subsec. 138(11.3) amended by 1995, c. 21, subsec. 57(8), applicable to changes in use of property occurring in taxation years that begin after October 1994. The opening words formerly read:

(11.3) Except for the purposes of paragraphs (3)(d), (4)(c) and 20(1)(l), the description of A in the definition "undepreciated capital cost" in subsection 13(21) and paragraph (b) of the description of F in that definition and any regulations made for the purpose of the definition "property used by it in the year in, or held by it in the year in the course of" in subsection (12), where a life insurer resident in Canada, or a non-resident insurer, that carries on an insurance business in Canada and in a country other than Canada, at any time,

Paras. 138(11.3)(c) and (d) repealed by 1995, c. 21, subsec. 57(9), applicable to changes in use of property occurring after February 22, 1994. Paras. (c) and (d) formerly read:

(c) acquires property that is a bond, debenture, mortgage, agreement of sale or any other form of indebtedness for use as property used by it in the year in, or held by it in the year in the course of, carrying on a life insurance business in Canada and at a later time commences to use the property in, or hold it in the course of, carrying on a business other than a life insurance business in Canada, or

(d) acquires property that is a bond, debenture, mortgage, agreement of sale or any other form of indebtedness for use in, or to be held in the course of, carrying on a business other than a life insurance business in Canada and at a later time commences to use the property as property used by it in the year in, or held by it in the year in the course of, carrying on a life insurance business in Canada,

That portion of subsec. 138(11.3) preceding para. (a) substituted by 1994, c. 7, Sch. II (1991, c. 49), subsec. 114(2), applicable to taxation years beginning after June 17, 1987 that end after 1987. That portion formerly read:

(11.3) Except for the purposes of the definition "amortized cost" in subsection 248(1) as it applies to paragraphs (3)(d) and (4)(c), paragraph 20(1)(l), the description of A in the definition "undepreciated capital cost" in subsection 13(21) and paragraph (b) of the description of F in that definition and any regulations made for the purposes of the definition "property used by it in the year in, or held by it in the year in the course of" in subsection (12), where a life insurer resident in Canada, or a non-resident insurer, that carries on an insurance business in Canada and in a country other than Canada, at any time,

I.T. Application Rules: 26(17.1) (ITAR 26 does not apply to property owned since before 1972 where 138(11.3) applies).

(11.31) Exclusion from deemed disposition — Subsection (11.3) does not apply

(a) to deem a disposition in a taxation year of a property of an insurer where subsection 142.5(2) deemed the insurer to have disposed of the property in its preceding taxation year; nor

(b) for the purposes of paragraph 20(1)(l), the description of A and paragraph (b) of the description of F in the definition "undepreciated capital cost" in subsection 13(21) and the definition "designated insurance property" in subsection (12).

History: Subsec. 138(11.31) amended by 1997, c. 25, subsec. 39(10), applicable to 1997 et seq. Subsec. (11.31) formerly read:

(11.31) Subsection (11.3) does not apply in respect of a change in use of a property of an insurer where subsection 142.5(2) deemed the insurer to have disposed of the property in the taxation year that ended immediately before the change in use.

Subsec. 138(11.31) added by 1995, c. 21, subsec. 57(10), applicable to changes in use of property occurring in taxation years that begin after October 1994.

(11.4) Deduction of loss — Notwithstanding any other provision of this Act, where an insurer has a loss for a taxation year from the disposition, because of subsection (11.3), of a property other than a specified debt obligation (as defined in subsection 142.2(1)), and the loss would, but for this subsection, have been deductible in the year, the loss shall be deductible only in the taxation year in which the taxpayer disposes of the property otherwise than because of subsection (11.3).

History: Subsec. 138(11.4) amended by 1995, c. 21, subsec. 57(11), applicable to property deemed by subsection 138(11.3) to be disposed of after 1994. Subsec. (11.4) formerly read:

(11.4) Rules on deemed disposition and reacquisition — Where, but for this subsection, an insurer in a taxation year would, by virtue of subsection (11.3), have realized an otherwise deductible loss for the year in respect of any property, notwithstanding any other provision of this Act, that loss shall be deductible only in the taxation year in which the insurer disposes of the property otherwise than by virtue of subsection (11.3).

History: Subsec. 138(11.41) repealed by 1995, c. 21, subsec. 57(12), applicable to changes in use of property occurring after February 22, 1994. Subsec. (11.41) formerly read:

(11.41) Inclusion of gain — Where, by reason of a change in use referred to in paragraph (11.3)(c) or (d) of a property that is a bond, debenture, mortgage, agreement of sale or any other form of indebtedness, an insurer would, by reason of subsection (11.3), have realized an otherwise taxable gain at any time in respect of such property, that gain shall be included in computing the income of the insurer only in the taxation year in which the insurer disposes of or is deemed to have disposed of the property otherwise than by reason of a change in use of the property referred to in paragraph (11.3)(c) or (d).

(11.5) Transfer of insurance business by non-resident insurer — Where

(a) a non-resident insurer (in this subsection referred to as the "transferor") has, at any time in a taxation year, ceased to carry on all or substantially all of an insurance business carried on by it in Canada in that year,

(b) the transferor has, at that time or within 60 days after that time, transferred all or substantially all of the property (in this subsection referred to as the "transferred property") that is owned by it at that time and that was designated insurance property in respect of the business for the taxation year that, because of paragraph (h), ended immediately before that time

(i) to a corporation (in this subsection referred to as the "transferee") that is a qualified related corporation (within the meaning assigned by subsection 219(8)) of the transferor that began immediately after that time to carry on that insurance business in Canada, and

(ii) for consideration that includes shares of the capital stock of the transferee,

(c) the transferee has, at that time or within 60 days thereafter, assumed or reinsured all or substantially all of the obligations of the transferor that arose in the course of carrying on that insurance business in Canada, and

(d) the transferor and the transferee have jointly elected in prescribed form and in accordance with subsection (11.6),

the following rules apply:

(e) subject to paragraph (k.1), where the fair market value, at that time, of the consideration (other than shares of the capital stock of the transferee or a right to receive any such shares) received or receivable by the transferor for the transferred property does not exceed the total of the cost amounts to the transferor, at that time, of the transferred property, the proceeds of disposition of the transferor and the cost to the transferee of the transferred property shall be deemed to be the cost amount, at that time, to the transferor of the transferred property, and in any other case, the provisions of subsection 85(1) shall be applied in respect of the transfer,

(f) where the provisions of subsection 85(1) are not required to be applied in respect of the transfer, the cost to the transferor of any particular property (other than shares of the capital stock of the transferee or a right to receive any such shares) received or receivable by it as consideration for the transferred property shall be deemed to be the fair market value, at that time, of the particular property,

(g) where the provisions of subsection 85(1) are not required to be applied in respect of the transfer, the cost to the transferor of any shares of the capital stock of the transferee received or receivable by the transferor as consideration for the transferred property shall be deemed to be

(i) where the shares are preferred shares of any class of the capital stock of the transferee, the lesser of

(A) the fair market value of those shares immediately after the transfer of the transferred property, and

(B) the amount determined by the formula

$$A \times \frac{B}{C}$$

where

A is the amount, if any, by which the proceeds of disposition of the transferor of the transferred property determined under paragraph (e) exceed the fair market value, at that time, of the consideration (other than shares of the capital stock of the transferee or a right to receive any such shares) received or receivable by the transferor for the transferred property,

B is the fair market value, immediately after the transfer of the transferred property, of those preferred shares of that class, and

C is the fair market value, immediately after the transfer of the transferred property, of all preferred shares of the capital stock of the transferee receivable by the transferor as consideration for the transferred property, and

(ii) where the shares are common shares of any class of the capital stock of the transferee, the amount determined by the formula

where

A is the amount, if any, by which the proceeds of disposition of the transferor of the transferred property determined under paragraph (e) exceed the total of the fair market value, at that time, of the consideration (other than shares of the capital stock of the transferee or a right to receive any such shares) received or receivable by the transferor for the transferred property and the cost to the transferor of all preferred shares of the capital stock of the transferee receivable by the transferor as consideration for the transferred property,

B is the fair market value, immediately after the transfer of the transferred property, of those shares of that class, and

C is the fair market value, immediately after the transfer of the transferred property, of all common shares of the capital stock of the transferee receivable by the transferor as consideration for the transferred property,

(h) for the purposes of this Act, the transferor and the transferee shall be deemed to have had taxation years ending immediately before that time and, for the purposes of determining the fiscal periods of the transferor and transferee after that time, they shall be deemed not to have established fiscal periods before that time,

(i) for the purpose of determining the amount of gross investment revenue required by subsection (9) to be included in computing the transferor's income for the particular taxation year referred to in paragraph (h) and its gains and losses from its designated insurance property for its subsequent taxation years, the transferor is deemed to have transferred the business referred to in paragraph (a), the property referred to in paragraph (b) and the obligations referred to in paragraph (c) to the transferee on the last day of the particular year,

(j) for the purpose of determining the income of the transferor and the transferee for their taxation years following their taxation years referred to in paragraph (h), amounts deducted by the transferor as reserves under subparagraphs (3)(a)(i), (ii) and (iv), paragraphs 20(1)(l) and (l.1) and 20(7)(c) of this Act and section 33 and paragraph 138(3)(c) of the Income Tax Act, chapter 148 of the Revised Statutes of Canada, 1952, in its taxation year referred to in paragraph (h) in respect of the transferred property referred to in paragraph (b) or the obligations referred to in paragraph (c) shall be deemed to have been deducted by the transferee, and not the transferor, for its taxation year referred to in paragraph (h),

(j.1) for the purpose of determining the income of the transferor and the transferee for their taxation years following their taxation years referred to in paragraph (h), amounts included under paragraphs (4)(b) and 12(1)(e.1) in computing the transferor's income for its taxation year referred to in paragraph (h) in respect of the insurance policies of the business referred to in paragraph (a) are deemed to have been included in computing the income of the transferee, and not of the transferor, for their taxation years referred to in paragraph (h),

(k) for the purposes of this section, sections 12, 12.3, 12.4, 20, 138.1, 140 and 142, subsections 142.5(5) and (7), paragraphs 142.4(4)(c) and (d), section 148 and Part XII.3, the transferee shall, in its taxation years following its taxation year referred to in paragraph (h), be deemed to be the same person as, and a continuation of, the transferor in respect of the business referred to in paragraph (a), the transferred property referred to in paragraph (b) and the obligations referred to in paragraph (c),

(k.1) except for the purpose of this subsection, where the provisions of subsection 85(1) are not required to be applied in respect of the transfer,

(i) the transferor shall be deemed not to have disposed of a transferred property that is a specified debt obligation (other than a mark-to-market property), and

(ii) the transferee shall be deemed, in respect of a transferred property that is a specified debt obligation (other than a mark-to-market property), to be the same person as, and a continuation of, the transferor, and for the purpose of this paragraph, "mark-to-market property" and "specified debt obligation" have the meanings assigned by subsection 142.2(1),

(k.2) for the purposes of subsections 112(5) to (5.2) and (5.4) and the definition "mark-to-market property" in subsection 142.2(1), the transferee shall be deemed, in respect of the transferred property, to be the same person as, and a continuation of, the transferor,

(l) for the purposes of this subsection and subsections (11.7) and (11.9), the fair market value of consideration received by the transferor from the transferee in respect of the assumption or reinsurance of a particular obligation referred to in paragraph (c) shall be deemed to be the total of the amounts deducted by the transferor as a reserve under subparagraphs (3)(a)(i), (ii) and (iv) and paragraph 20(7)(c) in its taxation year referred to in paragraph (h) in respect of the particular obligation, and

(m) for the purpose of computing the income of the transferor or the transferee for their taxation years following their taxation years referred to in paragraph (h),

(i) an amount in respect of a reinsurance premium paid or payable by the transferor to the transferee in respect of the obligations referred to in paragraph (c), or

(ii) an amount in respect of a reinsurance commission paid or payable by the transferee to the transferor in respect of the amount referred to in subparagraph (i)

under a reinsurance arrangement undertaken to effect the transfer of the insurance business to which this subsection applied shall be included or deducted, as the case may be, only to the extent that may be reasonably regarded as necessary to determine the appropriate amount of income of both the transferor and the transferee.

I.T. Application Rules: 69 (meaning of "chapter 148 of ...").

Forms: T2100: Joint election in respect of an insurance business transferred by a non-resident insurer.

(11.6) Time of election — Any election under subsection (11.5) shall be made on or before the day that is the earliest of the days on or before which any taxpayer making the election is required to file a return of income pursuant to section 150 for the taxation year in which the transactions to which the election relates occurred.

(11.7) Computation of paid-up capital — Where, after December 15, 1987, subsection (11.5) is applicable in respect of a transfer of property by a non-resident insurer to a qualified related corporation of the insurer and the provisions of subsection 85(1) were not required to be applied in respect of the transfer, the following rules apply:

(a) in computing the paid-up capital, at any time after the transfer, in respect of any particular class of shares of the capital stock of the qualified related corporation, there shall be deducted an amount determined by the formula

$$(A - B) \times \frac{C}{A}$$

where

A is the increase, if any, determined without reference to this subsection as it applies to the transfer, in the paid-up capital in respect of all the shares of the capital stock of the corporation as a result of the transfer,

B is the amount, if any, by which the cost of the transferred property to the corporation, immediately after the transfer, exceeds the fair market value, immediately after the transfer, of any consideration (other than shares of the capital stock of the corporation) received or receivable by the insurer from the corporation for the property, and

C is the increase, if any, determined without reference to this subsection as it applies to the transfer, in the paid-up capital in respect of the particular class of shares as a result of the acquisition by the corporation of the transferred property; and

(b) in computing the paid-up capital, at any time after December 15, 1987, in respect of any particular class of shares of the capital stock of the qualified related corporation, there shall be added an amount equal to the lesser of

(i) the amount, if any, by which

(A) the total of all amounts each of which is an amount deemed by subsection 84(3), (4) or (4.1) to be a dividend on shares of that class paid after December 15, 1987 and before that time by the corporation

exceeds

(B) the total of such dividends that would have been determined under clause (A) if this Act were read without reference to paragraph (a), and

(ii) the total of all amounts each of which is an amount required by paragraph (a) to be deducted in computing the paid-up capital in respect of that class of shares after December 15, 1987 and before that time.

Related Provisions: 138(11.5)(l) — Transfer of insurance business by non-resident insurer; 257 — Formula cannot calculate to less than zero.

(11.8) Rules on transfers of depreciable property — Where

(a) subsection (11.5) is applicable in respect of a transfer of depreciable property by a non-resident insurer to a qualified related corporation,

(b) the provisions of subsection 85(1) were not required to be applied in respect of the transfer, and

(c) the capital cost to the insurer of the depreciable property exceeds its proceeds of disposition therefor, for the purposes of sections 13 and 20 and any regulations made under paragraph 20(1)(a), the following rules apply:

(d) the capital cost of the depreciable property to the corporation shall be deemed to be the amount that was the capital cost thereof to the insurer, and

(e) the excess shall be deemed to have been allowed to the corporation in respect of the property under regulations made under paragraph 20(1)(a) in computing its income for taxation years ending before the transfer.

(11.9) Computation of contributed surplus — Where, after December 15, 1987, subsection (11.5) or 85(1) is applicable in respect of a transfer of property by a person or partnership to an insurance corporation resident in Canada and

(a) the total of

(i) the fair market value, immediately after the transfer, of any consideration (other than shares of the capital stock of the corporation) received or receivable by the person or partnership from the corporation for the transferred property,

(ii) the increase, if any, in the paid-up capital of all the shares of the capital stock of the corporation (determined without reference to subsection (11.7) or 85(2.1) as it applies in respect of the transfer) arising on the transfer, and

(iii) the increase, if any, in the contributed surplus of the corporation (determined without reference to this subsection as it applies in respect of the transfer) arising on the transfer

exceeds

(b) the total of

(i) the total of all amounts each of which is an amount required to be deducted in computing the paid-up capital of a class of shares of the capital stock of the corporation under subsection (11.7) or 85(2.1), as the case may be, as it applies in respect of the transfer, and

(ii) the cost to the corporation of the transferred property, for the purposes of paragraph 84(1)(c.1) and subsections 219(5.2) and (5.3), the contributed surplus of the corporation arising on the transfer shall be deemed to be the amount, if any, by which the amount of the contributed surplus otherwise determined exceeds the amount, if any, by which the total determined under paragraph (a) exceeds the total determined under paragraph (b).

Related Provisions: 138(11.5)(l) — Transfer of insurance business by non-resident insurer.

(11.91) Computation of income of non-resident insurer — Where, at any time in a particular taxation year,

(a) a non-resident insurer carries on an insurance business in Canada, and

(b) immediately before that time, the insurer was not carrying on an insurance business in Canada or ceased to be exempt from tax under this Part on any income from such business by reason of any Act of Parliament or anything approved, made or declared to have the force of law thereunder, for the purpose of computing the income of the insurer for the particular taxation year,

(c) the insurer shall be deemed to have had a taxation year ending immediately before the commencement of the particular taxation year,

(d) for the purposes of paragraphs 12(1)(d) and (e), paragraph (4)(a), subsection (9) and the definition "designated insurance property" in subsection (12), the insurer is deemed to have carried on the business in Canada in that preceding year and to have claimed the maximum amounts to which it would have been entitled under paragraphs 20(1)(l) and (l.1) and 20(7)(c) and subparagraphs (3)(a)(i), (ii) and (iv) for that year,

(d.1) for the purposes of subsection 20(22) and subparagraph (3)(a)(ii.1),

(i) the insurer is deemed to have carried on the business referred to in paragraph (a) in Canada in the preceding taxation year referred to in paragraph (c), and

(ii) the amounts, if any, that would have been prescribed in respect of the insurer for the purposes of paragraphs (4)(b) and 12(1)(e.1) for that preceding year in respect of the insurance policies of that business are deemed to have been included in computing its income for that year,

(e) the insurer is deemed to have disposed, immediately before the beginning of the particular taxation year, of each property owned by it at that time that is designated insurance property in respect of the business referred to in paragraph (a) for the particular taxation year, for proceeds of disposition equal to the fair market value at that time and to have reacquired, at the beginning of the particular taxation year, the property at a cost equal to that fair market value, and

(f) where paragraph (e) applies in respect of depreciable property of the insurer and the cost thereof to the insurer immediately before the commencement of the particular taxation year exceeds the fair market value thereof at that time, for the purposes of sections 13 and 20 and any regulations made under paragraph 20(1)(a),

(i) the capital cost of the property to the insurer at that time shall be deemed to be the cost thereof to the insurer at that time, and

(ii) the excess shall be deemed to have been allowed to the insurer in respect of the property under regulations made under paragraph 20(1)(a) in computing its income for taxation years ending before the commencement of the particular taxation year.

Proposed Repeal — 138(11.91)(f)

Application: The February 27, 2004 draft legislation, subsec. 77(3), will repeal para. 138(11.91)(f), applicable to taxation years that end after 1999.

Technical Notes (December 20, 2002): Subsection 138(11.91) provides rules for the purpose of computing the income of a non-resident insurer that at any time in a particular taxation year commences to carry on business in Canada or that ceases to be exempt from tax under Part I of the Act.

Paragraph 138(11.91)(f) of the English Version of the Act applies where the non-resident insurer's capital cost of a depreciable property exceeds the property's fair market value immediately before the commencement of the particular taxation year. To ensure that on a later disposition of the property the non-resident insurer is subject to recapture of any excess capital cost allowance claimed before the particular taxation year, this paragraph preserves the property's capital cost, and treats the excess as having been allowed as capital cost allowance.

Since it is inappropriate to provide for the recapture of capital cost allowance that was claimed when the business was not carried on in Canada or when the non-resident insurer was exempt from tax under Part I of the Act, paragraph 138(11.91)(f) of the English version of the Act is repealed.

Related Provisions: 95(2)(k.1) — Application to start-up of business of foreign affiliate.

History: Para. 138(11.91)(e) amended by 2001, c. 17, subsec. 133(5), applicable to 1999 et seq. except that, where a taxpayer or a taxpayer's legal representative so elects in writing, filed with the Minister of National Revenue before 2002, the amended para. applies to the taxpayer's 1997 and subsequent taxation years. The para. formerly read:

> (e) the insurer shall, immediately before the commencement of the particular taxation year, be deemed to have disposed of each property that was owned by it at that time and used by it in the year in, or held by it in the year in the course of, carrying on the business referred to in paragraph (a) for proceeds of disposition equal to the fair market value of the property at that time and to have reacquired the property at that time at a cost equal to that fair market value, and

Para. 138(11.91)(d) amended, para. (d.1) added, by 1997, c. 25, subsec. 39(13); para. (d) applicable to 1997 et seq., and para. (d.1) applicable to 1996 et seq. Para. (d) formerly read:

> (d) for the purposes of paragraphs 12(1)(d) and (e), paragraph (4)(a) and subsection (9) and any regulations made under the definition "property used by it in the year in, or held by it in the year in the course of" in subsection (12), the insurer shall be deemed to have carried on the business referred to in paragraph (a) in Canada in the immediately preceding taxation year referred to in paragraph (c) and to have claimed the maximum amounts to which it would have been entitled under subparagraphs (3)(a)(i), (ii) and (iv), paragraphs 20(1)(l) and (l.1) and 20(7)(c) of this Act and section 33 and paragraph 138(3)(c) of the Income Tax Act, chapter 148 of the Revised Statutes of Canada, 1952, for that year,

I.T. Application Rules: 69 (meaning of "chapter 148 of ...").

(11.92) Computation of income where insurance business is transferred — Where, at any time in a taxation year, an insurer (in this subsection referred to as the "vendor") has disposed of

(a) all or substantially all of an insurance business carried on by it in Canada, or

(b) all or substantially all of a line of business of an insurance business carried on by it in Canada to a person (in this subsection referred to as the "purchaser") and obligations in respect of the business or line of business, as the case may be, in respect of which a reserve may be claimed under subparagraph (3)(a)(i) or (ii) or paragraph 20(7)(c) (in this subsection referred to as the "obligations") were assumed by the purchaser, the following rules apply:

(c) for the purpose of determining the amount of the gross investment revenue required to be included in computing the income of the vendor and the purchaser under subsection (9) and the amount of the gains and losses of the vendor and the purchaser from designated insurance property for the year

(i) the vendor and the purchaser shall, in addition to their normal taxation years, be deemed to have had a taxation year ending immediately before that time, and

(ii) for the taxation years of the vendor and the purchaser following that time, the business or line of business, as the case may be, disposed of to, and the obligations assumed by, the purchaser shall be deemed to have been disposed of or assumed, as the case may be, on the last day of the taxation year referred to in subparagraph (i),

(d) for the purpose of computing the income of the vendor and the purchaser for taxation years ending after that time,

(i) an amount paid or payable by the vendor to the purchaser in respect of the obligations, or

(ii) an amount in respect of a commission paid or payable by the purchaser to the vendor in respect of the amount referred to in subparagraph (i) shall be deemed to have been paid or payable or received or receivable, as the case may be, by the vendor or the purchaser, as the case may be, in the course of carrying on the business or line of business, as the case may be, and

(e) where the vendor has disposed of all or substantially all of an insurance business referred to in paragraph (a), the vendor shall, for the purposes of section 219, be deemed to have ceased to carry on that business at that time.

History: The opening words of para. 138(11.92)(c) amended by 1997, c. 25, subsec. 39(14), applicable to the disposition by an insurer of an insurance business or a line of business of an insurance business in its 1997 or a subsequent taxation year. The opening words formerly read:

> (c) for the purpose of determining the amount of the gross investment revenue required to be included in the income of the vendor and the purchaser under subsection (9) and the amount of the gains and losses of the vendor and the purchaser from property used by it in the year in or held by it in the year in the course of carrying on an insurance business in Canada

(11.93) Property acquired on default in payment — Where, at any time in a taxation year of an insurer, the beneficial ownership of property is acquired or reacquired by the insurer in consequence of the failure to pay all or any part of an amount (in this subsection referred to as the "insurer's claim") owing to the insurer at that time in respect of a bond, debenture, mortgage, hypothecary claim, agreement of sale or any other form of indebtedness owned by the insurer, the following rules apply to the insurer:

(a) section 79.1 does not apply in respect of the acquisition or reacquisition;

(b) the insurer shall be deemed to have acquired or reacquired, as the case may be, the property at an amount equal to the fair market value of the property, immediately before that time;

(c) the insurer shall be deemed to have disposed at that time of the portion of the indebtedness represented by the insurer's claim for proceeds of disposition equal to that fair market value and, immediately after that time, to have reacquired that portion of the indebtedness at a cost of nil;

(d) the acquisition or reacquisition shall be deemed to have no effect on the form of the indebtedness; and

(e) in computing the insurer's income for the year or a subsequent taxation year, no amount is deductible under paragraph 20(1)(l) in respect of the insurer's claim.

History: The opening words of subsec. 138(11.93) amended by 2001, c. 17, s. 218 to add the words "hypothecary claim", in force June 14, 2001.

Subsec. 138(11.93) amended by 1995, c. 21, s. 39, applicable to property acquired or reacquired after February 21, 1994, other than acquisitions or reacquisitions pursuant to a court order made before February 22, 1994. Subsec. (11.93) formerly read:

> (11.93) Notwithstanding section 79, where, at any time in a taxation year, an insurer has acquired or reacquired the beneficial ownership of property in consequence of another person's failure to pay all or any part of an amount (in this subsection referred to as the "insurer's claim") owing by the other person to the insurer in respect of a bond, debenture, mortgage, agreement of sale or any other form of indebtedness owned by the insurer, the following rules apply:

(a) in computing the other person's proceeds of disposition of the property, there shall be included the amount of the insurer's claim;

(b) any amount paid by the other person after the acquisition or reacquisition, as the case may be, of the property on account of or in satisfaction of the insurer's claim shall be deemed to be a loss of that person from the disposition of the property for that person's taxation year in which payment of that amount was made;

(c) the insurer shall be deemed to have acquired or reacquired, as the case may be, the property at an amount equal to the fair market value of the property, immediately before that time, and to have disposed of the bond, debenture, mortgage, agreement of sale or other form of indebtedness, as the case may be, for proceeds of disposition equal to that fair market value;

(d) the cost amount to the insurer of the insurer's claim shall be deemed to be nil and the insurer's claim shall be deemed to be a bond, debenture, mortgage, agreement of sale or other form of indebtedness, as the case may be; and

(e) in computing the insurer's income for the year or a subsequent year, no amount is deductible in respect of the insurer's claim by reason of paragraph 20(1)(l).

(11.94) Transfer of insurance business by resident insurer — Where

(a) an insurer resident in Canada (in this subsection referred to as the "transferor") has, at any time in a taxation year, ceased to carry on all or substantially all of an insurance business carried on by it in Canada in that year,

(b) the transferor has, at that time or within 60 days after that time,

(i) in the case of a transferor that is a life insurer and that carries on an insurance business in Canada and in a country other than Canada in the year, transferred all or substantially all of the property (in subsection (11.5) referred to as the "transferred property") that is owned by it at that time and that was designated insurance property in respect of the business for the taxation year that, because of paragraph (11.5)(h), ended immediately before that time, or

(ii) in any other case, transferred all or substantially all of the property owned by it at that time and used by it in the year in, or held by it in the year in the course of, carrying on that insurance business in Canada in that year (in subsection (11.5) referred to as the "transferred property")

to a corporation resident in Canada (in this subsection referred to as the "transferee") that is a subsidiary wholly-owned corporation of the transferor that, immediately after that time, began to carry on that insurance business in Canada for consideration that includes shares of the capital stock of the transferee,

(c) the transferee has, at that time or within 60 days thereafter, assumed or reinsured all or substantially all of the obligations of the transferor that arose in the course of carrying on that insurance business in Canada, and

(d) the transferor and the transferee have jointly elected in prescribed form and in accordance with subsection (11.6), paragraphs (11.5)(e) to (m) and subsections (11.7) to (11.9) apply in respect of the transfer.

Related Provisions: 142.6(5), (6) — Acquisition of specified debt obligation by financial institution in rollover transaction; Reg. 8101(4) — Inclusion in income of transferee re unpaid claims reserve; Reg. 8103(4) — Mark-to-market — transition inclusion; Reg. 9204(3) — Residual portion of specified debt obligation.

History: Para. 138(11.94)(b) amended by 2001, c. 17, subsec. 133(6), applicable to 1999 et seq. except that, where a taxpayer or a taxpayer's legal representative so elects in writing, filed with the Minister of National Revenue before 2002, the amended para. applies to the taxpayer's 1997 and subsequent taxation years. The para. formerly read:

(b) the transferor has, at that time or within 60 days thereafter, in the year transferred all or substantially all of the property used or held by it in the year in the course of carrying on that insurance business in Canada to a corporation resident in Canada (in this subsection referred to as the "transferee") that is a subsidiary wholly-owned corporation of the transferor which, immediately after that time, began to carry on that insurance business in Canada and the consideration for the transfer includes shares of the capital stock of the transferee,

Para. 138(11.94)(b) amended by 1997, c. 25, subsec. 39(15), applicable to 1997 et seq. Para. (b) formerly read:

(b) the transferor has, at that time or within 60 days thereafter, transferred all or substantially all of the property used by it in the year in, or held by it in the year in the course of, carrying on that insurance business in Canada in that year to a corporation resident in Canada (in this subsection referred to as the "transferee") that is a subsidiary wholly-owned corporation of the transferor which, immediately after that time, commenced to carry on that insurance business in Canada and the consideration for the transfer includes shares of the capital stock of the transferee,

(12) Definitions — In this section,

"accumulated 1968 deficit" — [Repealed]

History: The definition "accumulated 1968 deficit" in subsec. 138(12) repealed by 1997, c. 25, subsec. 39(16), applicable to 1997 et seq. The definition formerly read:

"accumulated 1968 deficit" of a life insurer means such amount as can be established by the insurer to be its deficit as of the end of its 1968 taxation year from carrying on its life insurance business in Canada on the assumption that the amounts of its assets and liabilities (including reserves of any kind)

(a) as of the end of any taxation year before its 1968 taxation year, were the amounts thereof determined for the purposes of the relevant authority, and

(b) as of the end of its 1968 taxation year, were

(i) in respect of depreciable property, the capital cost thereof as of the first day of its 1969 taxation year,

(ii) in respect of policy reserves, the insurer's maximum tax actuarial reserves for its 1968 taxation year for life insurance policies issued by it in the course of carrying on its life insurance business in Canada, and

(iii) in respect of other assets and liabilities, the amounts thereof determined as of the end of that year for the purpose of computing its income for its 1969 taxation year;

"amortized cost [para. 138(12)(b)]" — [Repealed under former Act]

"amount payable", in respect of a policy loan at a particular time, means the amount of the policy loan and the interest thereon that is outstanding at that time;

Related Provisions: 148(9) — "amount payable".

"Canada security" — [Repealed]

History: The definition "Canada security" in subsec. 138(12) repealed by 1995, c. 21, subsec. 57(15), applicable to taxation years that begin after February 22, 1994. The definition formerly read:

"Canada security" in respect of a life insurer that carried on a business in Canada in a taxation year, means a bond, debenture, mortgage, agreement of sale or any other indebtedness that was property used by it in the year in, or held by it in the year in the course of, carrying on its life insurance business in Canada, other than property included in a segregated fund;

"cost" — [Repealed]

History: The definition "cost" in subsec. 138(12) repealed by 1995, c. 21, subsec. 57(15), applicable to taxation years that begin after February 22, 1994. The definition formerly read:

> "cost" to an insurer of acquiring a mortgage includes any amount advanced by the insurer to the borrower by way of loan under the terms of the mortgage;

"designated insurance property" for a taxation year of an insurer (other than an insurer resident in Canada that at no time in the year carried on a life insurance business) that, at any time in the year, carried on an insurance business in Canada and in a country other than Canada, means property determined in accordance with prescribed rules except that, in its application to any taxation year, "designated insurance property" for the 1998 or a preceding taxation year means property that was, under this subsection as it read in its application to taxation years that ended in 1996, property used by it in the year in, or held by it in the year in the course of, carrying on an insurance business in Canada;

138.1 (1) Rules relating to segregated funds — In respect of life insurance policies for which all or any portion of an insurer's reserves vary in amount depending on the fair market value of a specified group of properties (in this section referred to as a "segregated fund"), for the purposes of this Part, the following rules apply:

(a) an inter vivos trust (in this section referred to as the "related segregated fund trust") is deemed to be created at the time that is the later of

(i) the day that the segregated fund is created, and

(ii) the day on which the insurer's 1978 taxation year commences,

and to continue in existence throughout the period during which the fund determines any portion of the benefits under those policies that vary in amount depending on the fair market value of the property in the segregated fund (in this section referred to as "segregated fund policies");

(b) property that has been allocated to and that remains a part of the segregated fund, and any income that has accrued on that property is deemed to be the property and income of the related segregated fund trust and not to be the property and income of the insurer;

(c) the insurer is deemed to be

(i) the trustee who has ownership or control of the related segregated fund trust property,

(ii) a resident of Canada in respect of the related segregated fund trust property used or held by it in the course of carrying on the insurer's life insurance business in Canada, and

(iii) a non-resident of Canada in respect of the related segregated fund trust property not used or held by it in the course of carrying on the insurer's life insurance business in Canada;

(d) where at a particular time there is property in the segregated fund that was not funded with premiums paid under a segregated fund policy,

(i) the insurer is deemed to have an interest in the related segregated fund trust that is not in respect of any particular property or source of income, and

(ii) the cost at any time of that interest to the insurer is deemed to be the total of

(A) for property of the trust at that time allocated by the insurer to the segregated fund prior to 1978, the amount that would be its adjusted cost base to the insurer if the interest had been a capital property at all relevant times prior to 1978 and if the rules in this section had been applicable for the taxation years after 1971 and before 1978, and

(B) for property of the trust at that time allocated by the insurer to the segregated fund after 1977, the fair market value of the property at the time it was last allocated to the segregated fund by the insurer;

(e) where at any particular time there is property in the segregated fund that was funded with a portion of the premiums paid before that time under a segregated fund policy,

(i) the respective segregated fund policyholder is deemed to have an interest in the related segregated fund trust that is not in respect of any particular property or source of income,

(ii) the cost of that interest is deemed to be the amount that is the total of

(A) the amount that would be its adjusted cost base to the insurer at December 31, 1977 if the interest had been a capital property at all relevant times prior to 1978 and if the rules in this section (if subsection (3) were read without reference to the expressions "or capital loss" and "or loss") had been applicable for taxation years after 1971 and before 1978, and

(B) the total of amounts each of which is that portion of a premium paid before that time and after the day referred to in subparagraph (a)(ii) under a segregated fund policy that was or is to be used by the insurer to fund property allocated to the segregated fund (other than the portion of the premium that is an acquisition fee), and

(iii) the portion of a premium included in a segregated fund is deemed not to be an amount paid in respect of a premium under the policy;

(f) the income of the related segregated fund trust is deemed for the purposes of subsections 104(6), (13) and (24) to be an amount that has become payable in the year to the beneficiaries under the segregated fund trust and the amount therefor in respect of any particular beneficiary is equal to the amount determined by reference to the terms and conditions of the segregated fund policy;

(g) where at a particular time the fair market value of property transferred by the insurer to the segregated fund results in an increase at that time in the portion of the insurer's reserves for a segregated fund policy held by a policyholder that vary with the fair market value of the segregated fund and a decrease in the portion of its reserves for the policy that do not so vary, the amount of that increase shall,

(i) for the purpose of the determination of H in the definition "adjusted cost basis" in subsection 148(9), be deemed to be proceeds of disposition that the policyholder became entitled to receive at that time,

(ii) for the purpose of computing the adjusted cost base to the policyholder of the policyholder's interest in the related segregated fund trust, be added at that time to the cost to the policyholder of that interest, and

(iii) for the purpose of computing the insurer's income, be deemed to be a payment under the terms and conditions of the policy at that time;

(h) where at a particular time the fair market value of property transferred by the insurer from the segregated fund results in an increase at that time in the portion of the insurer's reserves for a segregated fund policy that do not vary with the fair market value of the segregated fund and a decrease in the portion of its reserves for the policy that so vary, the amount of that increase shall, for the purpose of calculating the insurer's income, be deemed to be a premium received by the insurer at that time;

(i) where at a particular time the policyholder of a segregated fund policy disposes of all or a portion of the policyholder's interest in the related segregated fund trust, that proportion of the amount, if any, by which the acquisition fee with respect to the particular policy exceeds the total of amounts each of which is an amount determined under this paragraph with respect to the particular policy before that time, that

(i) the fair market value of the interest disposed of at that time

is of

(ii) the fair market value of the policyholder's interest in the particular segregated fund trust immediately before that time, is deemed to be a capital loss of the related segregated fund trust that reduces the policyholder's benefits under the particular policy by that amount for the purposes of subsection (3);

(j) the obligations of an insurer in respect of a benefit that is payable under a segregated fund policy, the amount of which benefit varies with the fair market value of the segregated fund at the time the benefit becomes payable, are deemed to be obligations of the trustee under the related segregated fund trust and not of the insurer and any amount received by the policyholder or that the policyholder became entitled to receive at any particular time in a year in respect of those obligations is deemed to be proceeds from the disposition of an interest in the related segregated fund trust;

(k) a reference to "the terms and conditions of the trust arrangement" in section 104 or subsection 127.2(3) is deemed to include a reference to the terms and conditions of the related segregated fund policy and the trustee is deemed to have designated the amounts referred to in that section in accordance with those terms and conditions; and

(l) where at any time an insurer acquires a share as a first registered holder thereof and allocates the share to a related segregated fund trust, the trust shall be deemed to have acquired the share at that time as the first registered holder thereof for the purpose of computing its share-purchase tax credit and the insurer shall be deemed not to have acquired the share for the purpose of computing its share-purchase tax credit.

(2) Rules relating to property in segregated funds at end of 1977 taxation year — Where an insurer holds property at the end of its 1977 taxation year in connection with a segregated fund, the following rules apply:

(a) the property is deemed to have been acquired by the related segregated fund trust on the day determined under paragraph (1)(a) at a cost equal to the adjusted cost base of the property to the insurer on that day and that transaction is deemed to be a transaction between persons not dealing at arm's length;

(b) the property is deemed to have been disposed of by the insurer on the day referred to in paragraph (a) for proceeds equal to the adjusted cost base of the property to the insurer on that day; and

(c) for the purpose of computing the insurer's income for its 1978 taxation year it shall be deemed to have made a payment to its policyholders in satisfaction of their rights under their segregated fund policies in that year equal to that portion of the amount deducted under subparagraph 138(3)(a)(i) in computing its income for its 1977 taxation year that is in respect of segregated fund policies.

Related Provisions: 39.1(2)B(c), 39.1(5) — Reduction in gain to reflect capital gains exemption election; 138.1(7) — Where subsections (1) to (6) not to apply.

(3) Capital gains and capital losses of related segregated fund trusts — A capital gain or capital loss of a related segregated fund trust from the disposition of any property shall, to the extent that a policyholder's benefits under a policy or the interest in the trust of any other beneficiary is affected by that gain or loss, be deemed to be a capital gain or capital loss, as the case may be, of the policyholder or other beneficiary and not that of the trust.

Related Provisions: 39.1(2)B(c), 39.1(5) — Reduction in gain to reflect 1994 capital gains exemption election; 53(1)(l)(iv), 53(2)(q)(ii) — Adjustments to cost base; 138.1(3.1), (3.2) — Transitional rules for 2000; 138.1(7) — Where subsections (1) to (6) not to apply.

(3.1) Deemed gains and losses [transition for 2000] — Where an amount is deemed under subsection (3) to be a capital gain or capital loss of a policyholder or other beneficiary (in this subsection referred to as the "taxpayer") of a related segregated fund trust, in respect of capital gains or losses realized in a taxation year of the related segregated fund trust that includes February 28, 2000 or October 17, 2000, and the related segregated fund trust so elects under this subsection in its return of income for the year,

(a) the portion of the gains and losses that are in respect of capital gains or losses from dispositions of property that occurred before February 28, 2000 is deemed to be that proportion of the gains or losses that the number of days that are in the year and before February 28, 2000 is of the number of days that are in the year;

(b) the portion of the gains and losses that is in respect of capital gains or losses from dispositions of property that occurred in the year and in the period that begins at the beginning of February 28, 2000 and ends at the end of October 17, 2000, is deemed to be that proportion of the gains or losses that the number of days that are in the year and in that period is of the number of days that are in the year; and

(c) the portion of the gains and losses that is in respect of capital gains or losses from dispositions of property that occurred in the year and in the period that begins at the beginning of October 18, 2000 and ends at the end of the year, is deemed to be that proportion of the gains or losses that the number of days that are in the year and in that period is of the number of days that are in the year.

History: Subsec. 138.1(3.1) added by 2001, c. 17, s. 134, applicable to taxation years that end after February 27, 2000.

(3.2) Deemed gains — taxpayer [transition for 2000] — Where a capital gain or a capital loss is deemed by subsection (3) to be a capital gain or a capital loss of a taxpayer and not that of a related segregated fund trust,

(a) if the capital gain or capital loss was in respect of capital gains or capital losses from dispositions of property by the related segregated fund trust that occurred before February 28, 2000 and that taxation year of the taxpayer includes February 27, 2000, the capital gain or the capital loss is deemed to be a capital gain or a capital loss, as the case may be, of the taxpayer from the disposition by the taxpayer of capital property in the taxpayer's taxation year and before February 28, 2000;

(b) if the capital gain or capital loss was in respect of capital gains or capital losses from dispositions of property by the related segregated fund trust that occurred before February 28, 2000 and the taxation year of the taxpayer began after February 27, 2000 and ended before October 18, 2000, 9/8 of the capital gain or the capital loss is deemed to be a capital gain or a capital loss, as the case may be, of the taxpayer from the disposition by the taxpayer of capital property in the taxpayer's taxation year;

(c) if the capital gain or capital loss was in respect of capital gains or capital losses from dispositions of property by the related segregated fund trust that occurred before February 28, 2000 and the taxation year of the taxpayer began after February 27, 2000 and ended after October 17, 2000, 8/8 of the capital gain or the capital loss is deemed to be a capital gain or a capital loss, as the case may be, of the taxpayer from the disposition by the taxpayer of capital property in the taxpayer's taxation year and before October 18, 2000;

(d) if the capital gain or capital loss was in respect of capital gains or capital losses from dispositions of property by the related segregated fund trust that occurred before February 28, 2000 and the taxation year of the taxpayer began after October 17, 2000, 3/2 of the capital gain or the capital loss is deemed to be a capital gain or a capital loss, as the case may be, of the taxpayer from the disposition by the taxpayer of capital property in the taxpayer's taxation year;

(e) if the capital gain or capital loss was in respect of capital gains or capital losses from dispositions of property by the related segregated fund that occurred after February 27, 2000 and before October 18, 2000 and the taxation year of the taxpayer began after October 17, 2000, 4/3 of the capital gain or capital loss is deemed to be a capital gain or a capital loss, as the case may be, of the taxpayer from the disposition by the taxpayer of capital property in the taxpayer's taxation year;

(f) if the capital gain or capital loss was in respect of capital gains or capital losses from dispositions of property by the related segregated fund trust that occurred after February 27, 2000 and before October 18, 2000 and the taxation year of the taxpayer includes February 28, 2000 and October 17, 2000, the capital gain or the capital loss is deemed to be a capital gain or a capital loss, as the case may be, of the taxpayer from the disposition by the taxpayer of capital property in the taxpayer's taxation year and in the period that began after February 27, 2000 and ended before October 18, 2000;

(g) if the capital gain or capital loss was in respect of capital gains or capital losses from dispositions of property by the related segregated fund trust that occurred after February 27, 2000 and before October 17, 2000 and the taxation year of the taxpayer began after February 27, 2000 and ended before October 17, 2000, the capital gain or the capital loss is deemed to be a capital gain or a capital loss, as the case may be, of the taxpayer from the disposition by the taxpayer of capital property in the taxpayer's taxation year; and

(h) in any other case, the capital gain or the capital loss is deemed to be a capital gain or a capital loss, as the case may be, of the taxpayer from the disposition of capital property by the taxpayer in the taxpayer's taxation year and after October 17, 2000.

Related Provisions: 111(1.1)(c) — Net capital loss carryover — transition for 2000.

History: Subsec. 138.1(3.2) added by 2001, c. 17, s. 134, applicable to taxation years that end after February 27, 2000.

(4) Election and allocation — Where at any particular time after 1977, a policyholder withdraws all or part of the policyholder's interest in a segregated fund policy, the trustee of a related segregated fund trust may elect in prescribed manner and prescribed form to treat any capital property of the trust as having been disposed of, whereupon the property shall be deemed to have been disposed of on any day designated by the trustee for proceeds of disposition equal to

(a) the fair market value of the property on that day,

(b) the adjusted cost base to the trust of the property on that day, or

(c) an amount that is neither greater than the greater of nor less than the lesser of the amounts determined under paragraphs (a) and (b), whichever is designated by the trustee, and to have been reacquired by the trust immediately thereafter at a cost equal to those proceeds, and where the trustee of a related segregated fund trust has made such an election, the following rules apply:

(d) the amount of any capital gain or capital loss resulting from the deemed disposition shall be allocated by the trustee to any policyholder withdrawing all or part of the policyholder's interest in the policyholder's policy at that time to the extent that the amount of the policyholder's benefits under the policy at that time is affected by the capital gain or capital loss in respect of property held by the related segregated fund trust at that time,

(e) the allocation referred to in paragraph (d) is deemed to have been made immediately before the withdrawal,

(f) any capital gain not so allocated is deemed to be allocated in accordance with the terms and conditions of the policy, and

(g) any capital loss not so allocated is deemed to be a superficial loss of each policyholder to the extent that the policyholder's benefits under the policy would be affected by the loss.

Related Provisions: 39.1(1)"exempt capital gains balance"C(c), 39.1(6) — Reduction in gain to reflect capital gains exemption election; 53(1)(l)(iii), 53(2)(q)(i) — Adjustments to cost base; 138.1(7) — Where subsections (1) to (6) not to apply.

Regulations: 6100 (prescribed manner and time).

Forms: T3018: Election under subsection 138.1(4) of the deemed disposition of capital property of a life insurance segregated fund.

(5) Adjusted cost base of property in related segregated fund trust — At any particular time, the adjusted cost base of each capital property of a related segregated fund trust shall be deemed to be the amount, if any, by which

(a) the adjusted cost base of the property to the trust immediately before that time

exceeds

(b) the total of amounts each of which is an amount in respect of the disposition by a policyholder of all or part of the policyholder's interest in the related segregated fund trust at that time equal to that proportion of the amount, if any, by which

(i) the adjusted cost base to the policyholder of that interest at that time

exceeds

(ii) the policyholder's proceeds of the disposition of that interest in the trust that

(iii) the fair market value of the capital property at that time

is of

(iv) the total of amounts each of which is the fair market value of a capital property of the related segregated fund trust at that time.

Related Provisions: 53(1)(l), 53(2)(q) — ACB of interest in related segregated fund trust; 138(11.5)(k) — Transfer of business by non-resident insurer; 138.1(7) — Where subsections (1) to (6) not to apply.

(6) Definition of "acquisition fee" — In this section, "acquisition fee" means the amount, if any, by which the total of amounts each of which is

(a) that portion of a premium charged by the insurer under a segregated fund policy that is not included in the related segregated fund or cannot reasonably be regarded as an amount required to fund a mortality or maturity benefit,

(b) a transfer from the segregated fund that cannot reasonably be regarded as an amount required to fund a mortality or maturity benefit other than an annual administration fee or charge, or,

(c) any amount by which the proceeds payable to the policyholder under a particular segregated fund policy is reduced on the surrender or partial surrender of the policy that may reasonably be regarded as a surrender fee,

exceeds

(d) the total of amounts each of which is that portion of an amount described in paragraph (a), (b) or (c) that may reasonably be considered to be in respect of an interest in the segregated fund that was disposed of before 1978.

(7) Where subsecs. (1) to (6) do not apply — Subsections (1) to (6) do not apply to the holder of a segregated fund policy with respect to such a policy that is issued or effected as a registered retirement savings plan or a registered retirement income fund or that is issued under a registered pension plan.

Related Provisions: 148(1) — Amounts included in computing policyholder's income.

History: Subsec. 138.1(7) amended by 1994, c. 7, Sch. VIII (1993, c. 24), s. 80, applicable to 1991 et seq. Subsec. (7) formerly read:

(7) Where policyholder deemed to be trust, etc. — For the purposes of this section, where a segregated fund policy is issued or effected as a registered retirement savings plan or is issued pursuant to a registered pension plan, the policyholder of the policy shall be deemed to be a trust or a trust or corporation described by paragraph 149(1)(r) or (o), respectively.

139. Conversion of insurance corporations into mutual corporations — Where an insurance corporation that is a Canadian corporation applies an amount in payment for shares of the corporation purchased or otherwise acquired by it under a mutualization proposal under Division III of Part VI of the Insurance Companies Act or under a law of the province under the laws of which the corporation is incorporated that provides for the conversion of the corporation into a mutual corporation by the purchase of its shares in accordance with that law,

(a) section 15 does not apply to require the inclusion, in computing the income of a shareholder of the corporation, of any part of that amount; and

(b) no part of that amount shall be deemed, for the purpose of subsection 138(7), to have been paid to shareholders or, for the purpose of section 84, to have been received as a dividend.

History: S. 139 amended by 1994, c. 7, Sch. I (1991, c. 47), s. 734, to substitute that portion preceding para. (a), deemed to have come into force June 1, 1992. That portion formerly read:

139. Conversion of provincial life insurance corporation into mutual corporation — Where a life insurance corporation that is incorporated under the laws of a province has applied an amount in payment for shares of the corporation purchased by it under the authority of a law of the province that provides for the conversion of the corporation into a mutual corporation by the purchase of its shares in accordance with the provisions of that law,

Demutualization of Insurance Corporations

139.1 (1) Definitions — The definitions in this subsection apply in this section and sections 139.2 and 147.4.

"conversion benefit" means a benefit received in connection with the demutualization of an insurance corporation because of an interest, before the demutualization, of any person in an insurance policy to which the insurance corporation has been a party.

Related Provisions: 139.1(2), (3) — Determining when benefit received; 139.1(11) — Conversion benefit is not a shareholder benefit. See also Related Provisions under "taxable conversion benefit".

"deadline" for a payment in respect of a demutualization of an insurance corporation means the latest of

(a) the end of the day that is 13 months after the time of the demutualization,

(b) where the entire amount of the payment depends on the outcome of an initial public offering of shares of the corporation or a holding corporation in respect of the insurance corporation, the end of the day that is

60 days after the day on which the offering is completed,

(c) where the payment is made after the initial deadline for the payment and it is reasonable to conclude that the payment was postponed beyond that initial deadline because there was not sufficient information available 60 days before that initial deadline with regard to the location of a person, the end of the day that is six months after such information becomes available, and

(d) the end of any other day that is acceptable to the Minister.

Related Provisions: 139.1(1)"initial deadline" — Definition.

"demutualization" means the conversion of an insurance corporation from a mutual company into a corporation that is not a mutual company.

Related Provisions: 139.1(4) — Effect of demutualization; 237(4) — Authority to communicate SIN to agent of shareholder.

"holding corporation" means a corporation that

(a) in connection with the demutualization of an insurance corporation, has issued shares of its capital stock to stakeholders; and

(b) owns shares of the capital stock of the insurance corporation acquired in connection with the demutualization that entitle it to 90% or more of the votes that could be cast in respect of shares under all circumstances at an annual meeting of

(i) shareholders of the insurance corporation, or

(ii) shareholders of the insurance corporation and holders of insurance policies to which the insurance corporation is a party.

Related Provisions: 139.1(4)(e) — Cost to holding corporation of shares acquired on demutualization; 141(3) — Holding corporation deemed to be public corporation.

"initial deadline" for a payment is the time that would, if the definition "deadline" were read without reference to paragraph (c) of that definition, be the deadline for the payment.

"mutual holding corporation" in respect of an insurance corporation, means a mutual company established to hold shares of the capital stock of the insurance corporation, where the only persons entitled to vote at an annual meeting of the mutual company are policyholders of the insurance corporation.

Related Provisions: 139.1(4)(d) — Receipt of ownership rights in MHC on demutualization; 139.2 — Deemed dividend on distribution of property by MHC.

"ownership rights" means

(a) in a particular mutual holding corporation, the following rights and interests held by a person in respect of the particular corporation because of an interest or former interest of any person in an insurance policy to which an insurance corporation, in respect of which the particular corporation is the mutual holding corporation, has been a party:

(i) rights that are similar to rights attached to shares of the capital stock of a corporation, and

(ii) all other rights with respect to, and interests in, the particular corporation as a mutual company; and

(b) in a mutual insurance corporation, the following rights and interests held by a person in respect of the mutual insurance corporation because of an interest or former interest of any person in an insurance policy to which that corporation has been a party:

(i) rights that are similar to rights attached to shares of the capital stock of a corporation,

(ii) all other rights with respect to, and interests in, the mutual insurance corporation as a mutual company, and

(iii) any contingent or absolute right to receive a benefit in connection with the demutualization of the mutual insurance corporation.

Related Provisions: 139.1(4)(a), (d) — Rollover where shares acquired in exchange for ownership rights.

"person" includes a partnership.

"share" of the capital stock of a corporation includes a right granted by the corporation to acquire a share of its capital stock.

"specified insurance benefit" means a taxable conversion benefit that is

(a) an enhancement of benefits under an insurance policy;

(b) an issuance of an insurance policy;

(c) an undertaking by an insurance corporation of an obligation to pay a policy dividend; or

(d) a reduction in the amount of premiums that would otherwise be payable under an insurance policy.

Related Provisions: 139.1(8) — Effect of stakeholder receiving specified insurance benefit.

"stakeholder" means a person who is entitled to receive or who has received a conversion benefit but, in respect of the demutualization of an insurance corporation, does not include a holding corporation in connection with the demutualization or a mutual holding corporation in respect of the insurance corporation.

Related Provisions: 139.1(4) — Effect of demutualization on stakeholder.

"taxable conversion benefit" means a conversion benefit received by a stakeholder in connection with the demutualization of an insurance corporation, other than a conversion benefit that is

(a) a share of a class of the capital stock of the corporation;

(b) a share of a class of the capital stock of a corporation that is or becomes a holding corporation in connection with the demutualization; or

(c) an ownership right in a mutual holding corporation in respect of the insurance corporation.

Related Provisions: 139.1(2), (3) — Determining when benefit received; 139.1(4)(f) — TCB deemed to be a dividend; 139.1(8)(a) — Policy dividend that is TCB deemed not to be policy dividend; 139.1(10) — Cost of TCB.

(2) Rules of general application — For the purposes of this section,

(a) subject to paragraphs (b) to (g), if in providing a benefit in respect of a demutualization, a corporation becomes obligated, either absolutely or contingently, to make or arrange a payment, the person to whom the undertaking to make or arrange the payment was given is considered to have received a benefit

(i) as a consequence of the undertaking of the obligation, and

(ii) not as a consequence of the making of the payment;

(b) where, in providing a benefit in respect of a demutualization, a corporation makes a payment (other than a payment, made pursuant to the terms of an insurance policy, that is not a policy dividend) at any time on or before the deadline for the payment,

(i) subject to paragraphs (f) and (g), the recipient of the payment is considered to have received a benefit as a consequence of the making of the payment, and

(ii) no benefit is considered to have been received as a consequence of the undertaking of an obligation, that is either contingent or absolute, to make or arrange the payment;

(c) no benefit is considered to have been received as a consequence of the undertaking of an absolute or contingent obligation of a corporation to make or arrange a payment (other than a payment, made pursuant to the terms of an insurance policy, that is not a policy dividend) unless it is reasonable to conclude that there is sufficient information with regard to the location of a person to make or arrange the payment;

(d) where a corporation's obligation to make or arrange a payment in connection with a demutualization ceases on or before the initial deadline for the payment and without the payment being made in whole or in part, no benefit is considered to have been received as a consequence of the undertaking of the obligation unless the payment was to be a payment (other than a policy dividend) pursuant to the terms of an insurance policy;

(e) no benefit is considered to have been received as a consequence of the undertaking of an absolute or contingent obligation of a corporation to make or arrange a payment where

(i) paragraph (a) would, but for this paragraph, apply with respect to the obligation,

(ii) paragraph (d) would, if that paragraph were read without reference to the words "on or before the initial deadline for the payment", apply in respect of the obligation,

(iii) it is reasonable to conclude that there was not, before the initial deadline for the payment, sufficient information with regard to the location of a person to make or arrange the payment, and

(iv) such information becomes available on a particular day after the initial deadline and the obligation ceases not more than six months after the particular day;

(f) no benefit is considered to have been received as a consequence of

(i) an undertaking of an absolute or contingent obligation of a corporation to make or arrange an annuity payment through the issuance of an annuity contract, or

(ii) a receipt of an annuity payment under the contract so issued where it is reasonable to conclude that the purpose of the undertaking or the making of the annuity payment is to supplement benefits provided under either an annuity contract to which subsection 147.4(1) or paragraph 254(a) applied or a group annuity contract that had been issued under, or pursuant to, a registered pension plan that has wound up;

(g) no benefit is considered to have been received as a consequence of

(i) an amendment to which subsection 147.4(2) would, but for subparagraph 147.4(2)(a)(ii), apply, or

(ii) a substitution to which paragraph 147.4(3)(a) applies;

(h) the time at which a stakeholder is considered to receive a benefit in connection with the demutualization of an insurance corporation is,

(i) where the benefit is a payment made at or before the time of demutualization or is a payment to which paragraph (b) applies, the time at which the payment is made, and

(ii) in any other case, the latest of

(A) the time of the demutualization,

(B) where the extent of the benefit or the stakeholder's entitlement to it depends on the outcome of an initial public offering of shares of the corporation or a holding corporation in respect of the insurance corporation and the offering is completed before the day that is 13 months after the time of the demutualization, the time at which the offering is completed,

(C) where the entire amount of the benefit depends on the outcome of an initial public offering of shares of the corporation or a holding corporation in respect of the insurance corporation, the time at which the offering is completed,

(D) where it is reasonable to conclude that the person conferring the benefit does not have sufficient information with regard to the location of the stakeholder before the later of the times determined under clauses (A) to (C), to advise the stakeholder of the benefit, the time at which sufficient information with regard to the location of the stakeholder to so advise the stakeholder was received by that person, and

(E) the end of any other day that is acceptable to the Minister;

(i) the time at which an insurance corporation is considered to demutualize is the time at which it first issues a share of its capital stock (other than shares of its capital stock issued by it when it was a mutual company if the corporation did not cease to be a mutual company because of the issuance of those shares); and

(j) subject to paragraph (3)(b), the value of a benefit received by a stakeholder is the fair market value of the benefit at the time the stakeholder receives the benefit.

Related Provisions: 49.1 — Acquisition in satisfaction of obligation deemed not to be a disposition.

(3) Special cases — For the purposes of this section,

(a) where benefits under an insurance policy are enhanced (otherwise than by way of an amendment to which subsection 147.4(2) would, but for subparagraph 147.4(2)(a)(ii), apply) in connection with a demutualization, the value of the enhancement is deemed to be a benefit received by the policyholder and not by any other person;

(b) where premiums payable under an insurance policy to an insurance corporation are reduced in connection with a demutualization, the policyholder is deemed, as a consequence of the undertaking to reduce the premiums, to have received a benefit equal to the present value at the time of the demutualization of the additional premiums that would have been payable if the premiums had not been reduced in connection with the demutualization;

(c) the payment of a policy dividend by an insurance corporation or an undertaking of an obligation by the corporation to pay a policy dividend is considered to be in connection with the demutualization of the corporation only to the extent that

(i) the policy dividend is referred to in the demutualization proposal sent by the corporation to stakeholders,

(ii) the obligation to make the payment is contingent on stakeholder approval for the demutualization, and

(iii) the payment or undertaking cannot reasonably be considered to have been made or given, as the case may be, to ensure that policy dividends are not adversely affected by the demutualization;

(d) except for the purposes of paragraphs (c), (e) and (f), where part of a policy dividend is a conversion benefit in respect of the demutualization of an insurance corporation and part of it is not, each part of the dividend is deemed to be a policy dividend that is separate from the other part;

(e) a policy dividend includes an amount that is in lieu of payment of, or in satisfaction of, a policy dividend;

(f) the payment of a policy dividend includes the application of the policy dividend to pay a premium under an insurance policy or to repay a policy loan;

(g) where the demutualization of an insurance corporation is effected by the merger of the corporation with one or more other corporations to form one corporate entity, that entity is deemed to be the same corporation as, and a continuation of, the insurance corporation;

(h) an insurance corporation shall be considered to have become a party to an insurance policy at the time that the insurance corporation becomes liable in respect of obligations of an insurer under the policy; and

(i) notwithstanding paragraph 248(7)(a), where a cheque or other means of payment sent to an address is returned to the sender without being received by the addressee, it is deemed not to have been sent.

Related Provisions: 139.1(2)(i) — Determining time of demutualization; 87(2.2) — Amalgamation of insurers.

(4) Consequences of demutualization — Where a particular insurance corporation demutualizes,

(a) each of the income, loss, capital gain and capital loss of a taxpayer, from the disposition, alteration or dilution of the taxpayer's ownership rights in the particular corporation as a result of the demutualization, is deemed to be nil;

(b) no amount paid or payable to a stakeholder in connection with the disposition, alteration or dilution of the stakeholder's ownership rights in the particular corporation is an eligible capital expenditure;

(c) no election may be made under subsection 85(1) or (2) in respect of ownership rights in the particular corporation;

(d) where the consideration given by a person for a share of the capital stock of the particular corporation or a holding corporation in connection with the demutualization (or for particular ownership rights in a mutual holding corporation in respect of the particular corporation) includes the transfer, surrender, alteration or dilution of ownership rights in the particular corporation, the cost of the share (or the particular ownership rights) to the person is deemed to be nil;

(e) where a holding corporation in connection with the demutualization acquires, in connection with the demutualization, a share of the capital stock of the particular corporation from the particular corporation and issues a share of its own capital stock to a stakeholder as consideration for the share of the capital stock of the particular corporation, the cost to the holding corporation of the share of the capital stock of the particular corporation is deemed to be nil;

(f) where at any time a stakeholder receives a taxable conversion benefit and subsection (14) does not apply to the benefit,

(i) the corporation that conferred the benefit is deemed to have paid a dividend at that time on shares of its capital stock equal to the value of the benefit, and

(ii) subject to subsection (16), the benefit received by the stakeholder is deemed to be a dividend received by the stakeholder at that time;

(g) for the purposes of this Part, where a dividend is deemed by paragraph (f) or by paragraph (16)(i) to have been paid by a non-resident corporation, that corporation is deemed in respect of the payment of the dividend to be a corporation resident in Canada that is a taxable Canadian corporation unless any amount is claimed under section 126 in respect of tax on the dividend;

(h) for the purposes of section 70, subsection 104(4) and section 128.1, the fair market value of rights to benefits that are to be received in connection with the demutualization is, before the time of the receipt, deemed to be nil; and

(i) where a person acquires an annuity contract in respect of which, because of the application of paragraph (2)(f), no benefit is considered to have been received for the purpose of this section,

(i) the cost of the annuity contract to the person is deemed to be nil, and

(ii) section 12.2 does not apply to the annuity contract.

Related Provisions: 12(1)(j), 82(1), 90 — Inclusion in income of deemed dividend; 87(2)(j.6) — Amalgamations — continuing corporation; 139 — Mutualization proposal; 139.1(2)(j) — Value of benefit; 212(2) — Non-resident withholding tax on deemed dividend.

(5) Fair market value of ownership rights — For the purposes of section 70, subsection 104(4) and section 128.1, where an insurance corporation makes, at any time, a public announcement that it intends to seek approval for its demutualization, the fair market value of ownership rights in the corporation is deemed to be nil throughout the period that

(a) begins at that time; and

(b) ends either at the time of the demutualization or, in the event that the corporation makes at any subsequent time a public announcement that it no longer intends to demutualize, at the subsequent time.

Related Provisions: 87(2)(j.6) — Amalgamations — continuing corporation.

(6) Paid-up capital — insurance corporation — Where an insurance corporation resident in Canada has demutualized, in computing the paid-up capital at any particular time in respect of a class of shares of the capital stock of the corporation,

(a) there shall be deducted the total of all amounts each of which would, but for this subsection, have been deemed by subsection 84(1) to have been paid at or before the particular time by the corporation as a dividend on a share of that class because of an increase in paid-up capital (determined without reference to this subsection) in connection with the demutualization; and

(b) there shall be added the amount, if any, by which

(i) the total of all amounts each of which is deemed by subsection 84(3), (4) or (4.1) to be a dividend on shares of that class paid by the corporation before the particular time

exceeds

(ii) the total of all amounts each of which would be deemed by subsection 84(3), (4) or (4.1) to be a dividend on shares of that class paid by the corporation before the particular time, if this Act were read without reference to this subsection.

Related Provisions: 87(2)(j.6) — Amalgamations — continuing corporation.

(7) Paid-up capital — holding corporation — Where a particular corporation resident in Canada was at any time a holding corporation in connection with the demutualization of an insurance corporation, in computing the paid-up capital at any particular time in respect of a class of shares of the capital stock of the particular corporation,

(a) there shall be deducted the total of all amounts each of which is an amount by which the paid-up capital would, but for this subsection, have increased at or before the particular time as a result of the acquisition of shares of a class of the capital stock of the insurance corporation from the corporation on its demutualization; and

(b) there shall be added the amount, if any, by which

(i) the total of all amounts each of which is deemed by subsection 84(3), (4) or (4.1) to be a dividend on shares of that class paid by the particular corporation before the particular time

exceeds

(ii) the total of all amounts each of which would be deemed by subsection 84(3), (4) or (4.1) to be a dividend on shares of that class paid by the particular corporation before the particular time, if this Act were read without reference to this subsection.

Related Provisions: 87(2)(j.6) — Amalgamations — continuing corporation.

(8) Policy dividends — Where the payment of a policy dividend by an insurance corporation is a taxable conversion benefit,

(a) for the purposes of this Act other than this section, the policy dividend is deemed not to be a policy dividend; and

(b) no amount in respect of the policy dividend may be included, either explicitly or implicitly, in the calculation of an amount deductible by the insurer for any taxation year under paragraph 20(7)(c) or subsection 138(3).

Related Provisions: 87(2)(j.6) — Amalgamations — continuing corporation.

(9) Payment and receipt of premium — Where, in connection with the demutualization of an insurance corporation, a person would, if subsection (2) were read without reference to paragraphs (f) and (g) and paragraph (3)(a) were read without reference to the application of subsection 147.4(2), receive a particular benefit that is a specified insurance benefit,

(a) the insurance corporation that is obligated to pay benefits under the policy to which the particular benefit relates is deemed to have received a premium at the time of the demutualization in respect of that policy equal to the value of the particular benefit;

(b) for the purpose of paragraph (a), to the extent that the obligations of a particular insurance corporation under the policy were assumed by another insurance corporation before the time of the demutualization, the particular corporation is deemed not to be obligated to pay benefits under the policy; and

(c) subject to paragraph (15)(e), where the person receives the particular benefit, the person is deemed to have paid, at the time of demutualization, a premium in respect of the policy to which the benefit relates equal to the value of the particular benefit.

Related Provisions: 139.1(2)(i) — Determining time of demutualization; 139.1(2)(j) — Value of benefit.

(10) Cost of taxable conversion benefit — Where, in connection with the demutualization of an insurance corporation, a stakeholder receives a taxable conversion benefit (other than a specified insurance benefit), the stakeholder is deemed to have acquired the benefit at a cost equal to the value of the benefit.

Related Provisions: 139.1(2)(j) — Value of benefit.

(11) No shareholder benefit — Subsection 15(1) does not apply to a conversion benefit.

(12) Exclusion of benefit from RRSP and other rules — Subject to subsection (14), for the purposes of the provisions of this Act (other than paragraph (9)(c)) that relate to registered retirement savings plans, registered retirement income funds, retirement compensation arrangements, deferred profit sharing plans and superannuation or pension funds or plans, the receipt of a conversion benefit shall be considered to be neither a contribution to, nor a distribution from, such a plan, fund or arrangement.

(13) RRSP registration rules, etc. — For the purposes of this Act, paragraphs 146(2)(c.4) and 146.3(2)(g) and subsection 198(6) shall be applied without reference to any conversion benefit.

(14) Retirement benefit — A conversion benefit received because of an interest in a life insurance policy held by a trust governed by a registered retirement savings plan, registered retirement income fund, deferred profit sharing plan or superannuation or pension fund or plan is deemed to be received under the plan or fund, as the case may be, if it is received by any person (other than the trust).

Related Provisions: 139.1(4)(j) — Deemed dividend where 139.1(12) does not apply.

(15) Employee-paid insurance — Where

(a) a stakeholder receives a conversion benefit because of the stakeholder's interest in a group insurance policy under which individuals have been insured in the course of or because of their employment,

(b) at all times before the payment of a premium described in paragraph (c), the full cost of a particular insurance coverage under the policy was borne by the individuals who were insured under the particular coverage,

(c) the stakeholder pays a premium under the policy in respect of the particular coverage or under another group insurance policy in respect of coverage that has replaced the particular coverage, and

(d) either

(i) the premium is deemed by paragraph (9)(c) to have been paid, or

(ii) it is reasonable to conclude that the purpose of the premium is to apply, for the benefit of the individuals who are insured under the particular coverage or the replacement coverage, all or part of the value of the portion of the conversion benefit that can reasonably be considered to be in respect of the particular coverage,

the following rules apply:

(e) for the purposes of paragraph 6(1)(f) and regulations made for the purposes of subsection 6(4), the premium is deemed to be an amount paid by the individuals who are insured under the particular coverage or the replacement coverage, as the case may be, and not to be an amount paid by the stakeholder, and

(f) no amount may be deducted in respect of the premium in computing the stakeholder's income.

Related Provisions: 87(2)(j.6) — Amalgamations — continuing corporation.

(16) Flow-through of conversion benefits to employees and others — Where

(a) a stakeholder receives a conversion benefit (in this subsection referred to as the "relevant conversion benefit") because of the interest of any person in an insurance policy,

(b) the stakeholder makes a payment of an amount (otherwise than by way of a transfer of a share that was received by the stakeholder as all or part of the relevant conversion benefit and that was not so received as a taxable conversion benefit) to a particular individual

(i) who has received benefits under the policy,

(ii) who has, or had at any time, an absolute or contingent right to receive benefits under the policy,

(iii) for whose benefit insurance coverage was provided under the policy, or

(iv) who received the amount because an individual satisfied the condition in subparagraph (i), (ii) or (iii),

(c) it is reasonable to conclude that the purpose of the payment is to distribute an amount in respect of the relevant conversion benefit to the particular individual,

(d) either

(i) the main purpose of the policy was to provide retirement benefits or insurance coverage to individuals in respect of their employment with an employer, or

(ii) all or part of the cost of insurance coverage under the policy had been borne by individuals (other than the stakeholder),

(e) subsection (14) does not apply to the relevant conversion benefit, and

(f) one of the following applies, namely,

(i) the particular individual is resident in Canada at the time of the payment, the stakeholder is a person the taxable income of which is exempt from tax under this Part and the payment would, if this section were read without reference to this subsection, be included in computing the income of the particular individual,

(ii) the payment is received before December 7, 1999 and the stakeholder elects in writing filed with the Minister, on a day that is not more than six months after the end of the taxation year in which the stakeholder receives the relevant conversion benefit (or a later day acceptable to the Minister), that this subsection applies in respect of the payment,

(iii) the payment is received after December 6, 1999, the payment would, if this section were read without reference to this subsection, be included in computing the income of the particular individual and the stakeholder elects in writing filed with the Minister, on a day that is not more than six months after the end of the taxation year in which the stakeholder receives the relevant conversion benefit (or a later day acceptable to the Minister), that this subsection applies in respect of the payment, or

(iv) the payment is received after December 6, 1999 and the payment would, if this section were read without reference to this subsection, not be included in computing the income of the particular individual,

the following rules apply:

(g) subject to paragraph (l), no amount is, because of the making of the payment, deductible in computing the stakeholder's income,

(h) except for the purpose of this subsection and without affecting the consequences to the particular individual of any transaction or event that occurs after the time that the payment was made, the payment is deemed not to have been received by, or made payable to, the particular individual,

(i) the corporation that conferred the relevant conversion benefit is deemed to have paid to the particular individual at the time the payment was made, and the particular individual is deemed to have received at that time, a dividend on shares of the capital stock of the corporation equal to the amount of the payment,

(j) all obligations that would, but for this subsection, be imposed by this Act or the Regulations on the corporation because of the payment of the dividend apply to the stakeholder as if the stakeholder were the corporation, and do not apply to the corporation,

(k) where the relevant conversion benefit is a taxable conversion benefit, except for the purpose of this subsection and the purposes of determining the obligations imposed by this Act or the Regulations on the corporation because of the conferral of the relevant conversion benefit, the stakeholder is deemed, to the extent of the fair market value of the payment, not to have received the relevant conversion benefit, and

(l) where the relevant conversion benefit was a share received by the stakeholder (otherwise than as a taxable conversion benefit),

(i) where the share is, at the time of the payment, capital property held by the stakeholder, the amount of the payment shall, after that time, be added in computing the adjusted cost base to the stakeholder of the share,

(ii) where subparagraph (i) does not apply and the share was capital property disposed of by the stakeholder before that time, the amount of the payment is deemed to be a capital loss of the stakeholder from the disposition of a property for the taxation year of the stakeholder in which the payment is made, and

(iii) in any other case, paragraph (g) shall not apply to the payment.

(17) Flow-through of share benefits to employees and others — Where

(a) because of the interest of any person in an insurance policy, a stakeholder receives a conversion benefit (other than a taxable conversion benefit) that consists of shares of the capital stock of a corporation,

(b) the stakeholder transfers some or all of the shares at any time to a particular individual

(i) who has received benefits under the policy,

(ii) who has, or had at any time, an absolute or contingent right to receive benefits under the policy,

(iii) for whose benefit insurance coverage was provided under the policy, or

(iv) who received the shares because an individual satisfied the condition in subparagraph (i), (ii) or (iii),

(c) it is reasonable to conclude that the purpose of the transfer is to distribute all or any portion of the conversion benefit to the particular individual,

(d) either

(i) the main purpose of the policy was to provide retirement benefits or insurance coverage to individuals in respect of their employment with an employer, or

(ii) all or part of the cost of insurance coverage under the policy had been borne by individuals (other than the stakeholder),

(e) subsection (14) does not apply to the conversion benefit, and

(f) one of the following applies, namely,

(i) the particular individual is resident in Canada at the time of the transfer, the stakeholder is a person the taxable income of which is exempt from tax under this Part and the amount of the transfer would, if this section were read without reference to this subsection, be included in computing the income of the particular individual,

(ii) the transfer is made before December 7, 1999 and the stakeholder elects in writing filed with the Minister, on a day that is not more than six months after the end of the taxation year in which the stakeholder receives the conversion benefit (or a later day acceptable to the Minister), that this subsection applies in respect of the transfer,

(iii) the transfer is made after December 6, 1999, the amount of the transfer would, if this section were read without reference to this subsection, be included in computing the income of the particular individual and the stakeholder elects in writing filed with the Minister, on a day that is not more than six months after the end of the taxation year in which the stakeholder receives the conversion benefit (or a later day acceptable to the Minister), that this subsection applies in respect of the transfer, or

(iv) the transfer is made after December 6, 1999 and the amount of the transfer would, if this section were read without reference to this subsection, not be included in computing the income of the particular individual,

the following rules apply:

(g) no amount is, because of the transfer, deductible in computing the stakeholder's income,

(h) except for the purpose of this subsection and without affecting the consequences to the particular individual of any transaction or event that occurs after the time that the transfer was made, the transfer is deemed not to have been made to the particular individual nor to represent an amount payable to the particular individual, and

(i) the cost of the shares to the particular individual is deemed to be nil.

Related Provisions: 87(2)(j.6) — Amalgamations — continuing corporation; 139.1(16) — Flow-through of conversion benefits.

(18) Acquisition of control — For the purposes of subsections 10(10), 13(21.2) and (24), 14(12) and 18(15), sections 18.1 and 37, subsection 40(3.4), the definition "superficial loss" in section 54, section 55, subsections 66(11), (11.4) and (11.5), 66.5(3) and 66.7(10) and (11), section 80, paragraph 80.04(4)(h), subsections 85(1.2) and 88(1.1) and (1.2), sections 111 and 127 and subsections 249(4) and 256(7), control of an insurance corporation (and each corporation controlled by it) is deemed not to be acquired solely because of the acquisition of shares of the capital stock of the insurance corporation, in connection with the demutualization of the insurance corporation, by a particular corporation that at a particular time becomes a holding corporation in connection with the demutualization where, immediately after the particular time,

(a) the particular corporation is not controlled by any person or group of persons; and

(b) 95% of the fair market value of all the assets of the particular corporation is less than the total of all amounts each of which is

(i) the amount of the particular corporation's money,

(ii) the amount of a deposit, with a financial institution, of such money standing to the credit of the particular corporation,

(iii) the fair market value of a bond, debenture, note or similar obligation that is owned by the particular corporation that had, at the time of its acquisition, a maturity date of not more than 24 months after that time, or

(iv) the fair market value of a share of the capital stock of the insurance corporation held by the particular corporation.

Financial Institutions

Interpretation

142.2 (1) Definitions — In this section and sections 142.3 to 142.7,

History: The opening words of subsec. 142.2(1) amended by 2001, c. 17, s. 136, to replace "142.6" with "142.7", applicable after June 27, 1999.

"financial institution" at any time means

(a) a corporation that is, at that time,

(i) a corporation referred to in any of paragraphs (a) to (e.1) of the definition "restricted financial institution" in subsection 248(1),

(ii) an investment dealer, or

(iii) a corporation controlled by one or more persons or partnerships each of which is a financial institution at that time, other than a corporation the control of which was acquired by reason of the default of a debtor where it is reasonable to consider that control is being retained solely for the purpose of minimizing any losses in respect of the debtor's default, and

(b) a trust or partnership more than 50% of the fair market value of all interests in which are held at that time by one or more financial institutions,

but does not include

(c) a corporation that is, at that time,

(i) an investment corporation,

(ii) a mortgage investment corporation,

(iii) a mutual fund corporation, or

(iv) a deposit insurance corporation (as defined in subsection 137.1(5)),

(d) a trust that is a mutual fund trust at that time, nor

(e) a prescribed person or partnership;

History: Subpara. (a)(i) of the definition "financial institution" in subsec. 142.2(1) amended by 1999, c. 22, s. 57, applicable to taxation years that begin after 1998. It formerly read:

(i) a corporation referred to in any of paragraphs (a) to (e) of the definition "restricted financial institution" in subsection 248(1),

Regulations: 8604 [to be repealed] (prescribed financial institutions); 9000 (prescribed person for para. (e) — segregated fund).

I.T. Technical News: No. 14 (reporting of derivative income by mutual funds); No. 25 (Silicon Graphics case — dispersed control is not control).

"investment dealer" at any time means a corporation that is, at that time, a registered securities dealer;

Related Provisions: 142.2(1)"financial institution" — Investment dealer is a financial institution; 142.2(1)"mark-to-market property"(c) — debt held by investment dealer subject to mark-to-market rules.

"mark-to-market property" of a taxpayer for a taxation year means property held by the taxpayer in the year that is

(a) a share,

(b) where the taxpayer is not an investment dealer, a specified debt obligation that

(i) was carried at fair market value in the taxpayer's financial statements

(A) for the year, where the taxpayer held the obligation at the end of the year, and

(B) for each preceding taxation year that ended after the taxpayer acquired the obligation, or

(ii) was acquired and disposed of in the year, where it is reasonable to expect that the obligation would have been carried in the taxpayer's financial statements for the year at fair market value if the taxpayer had not disposed of the obligation, other than a specified debt obligation of the taxpayer that was (or would have been) carried at fair market value

(iii) solely because its fair market value was less than its cost to the taxpayer, or

(iv) because of a default of the debtor, and

(c) where the taxpayer is an investment dealer, a specified debt obligation,

but does not include

(d) a share of a corporation in which the taxpayer has a significant interest at any time in the year, nor

(e) a prescribed property;

Proposed Amendment — 142.2(1)"mark-to-market property" — Acquisition of control

Letter from Dept. of Finance, July 25, 2002:

Dear [xxx]

I am writing in reply to your letter to Mr. Stephen Richardson dated February 21, 2002 in which you have requested that an amendment be made to the mark-to-market rules in the Income Tax Act (the "Act") to provide for an exemption from those rules in the case where a taxpayer holds shares of a corporation and is in the process of carrying out a plan of action to acquire control of the corporation.

The expression "mark-to-market property" is defined in subsection 142.2(1) of the Act. A share of a corporation in which a taxpayer has a "significant interest" at any time in a taxation year of the taxpayer is excluded from the definition "mark-to-market property" of the taxpayer for the year. In this regard, subsection 142.2(2) of the Act provides that a taxpayer is considered to have a "significant interest" in a corporation at any time if at that time the taxpayer is related to the corporation (ignoring any rights described in paragraph 251(5)(b)) or if at that time the taxpayer holds shares of the corporation the fair market value of which represents at least 10% of the fair market value of all issued shares.

In your letter, you suggested that subsection 142.2(2) be amended so that a taxpayer would be considered to have a "significant interest" in a corporation at any time at which the taxpayer is carrying out a plan of action to acquire control of the corporation. Your letter also suggested certain other amendments which would accommodate various types of plans of action. However, we understand that your direct concern relates to the acquisition of control situation. In our view, it would be appropriate to exclude, from being a mark-to-market property for a particular taxation year, shares of a corporation held by a taxpayer at any time in the particular year where control was acquired in that year or in the subsequent taxation year.

We are therefore prepared to recommend to the Minister of Finance that the Act be amended to provide that, where a taxpayer, alone or together with persons related to the taxpayer (otherwise than by reason of a right referred to in paragraph 251(5)(b)), acquires control of a corporation in a taxation year of the taxpayer that begins after 2001, the taxpayer may elect to treat any shares of the corporation held by the taxpayer in the immediately preceding taxation year as not being mark-to-market property.

Thank you for bringing this matter to our attention.

Yours sincerely,

Len Farber

Proposed Amendment — Deemed disposition on losing prescribed-property status

Letter from Dept. of Finance, August 14, 2002:

Dear [xxx]

I am writing in response to the requests made of the Department by representatives of the [xxx] in conversations with officials of the Department and in the electronic mail dated July 22, 2002 that you sent to Mr. Wallace Conway.

You have informed us that, pursuant to a Plan of Arrangement, all of the common shareholders of the [xxx] will transfer their shares of [xxx] to a new corporation, [xxx]. In exchange for the transfer of the shares of [xxx] the shareholders will receive common shares of [xxx]. Thus, initially, the common shareholders of [xxx] will become the common shareholders of [xxx] will become a wholly-owned subsidiary of [xxx]. On the same day that the share exchange is made, the class of common shares of [xxx] will be listed on the [xxx] and shares of that class will be offered to public investors through an initial public offering. At the time of listing, [xxx] will become a public corporation and, since the shares of [xxx] will not be listed on any stock exchange, [xxx] will not be a public corporation.

We are prepared to recommend to the Minister of Finance amendments to the Income Tax Act and Regulations as set out in the following paragraphs. If our recommendations are accepted, the amendments will be presented to Parliament and the Governor in Council for consideration and approval. We specifically confirm the following matters:

- Based on what we have been told by representatives of [xxx] concerning the activities of [xxx], under our recommended amendments to the Income Tax Regulations, the shares of [xxx] will qualify as prescribed property for the purposes of the definition "mark-to-market property" in subsection 142.2(1) of the Income Tax Act (Act) up until the time at which they are exchanged for the shares of [xxx]
- Based on what we have been told by representatives of [xxx] concerning the activities of [xxx], under our recommended amendments to the Income Tax Regulations, the shares of [xxx] will not qualify as prescribed property for the purposes of the definition "mark-to-market property" in subsection 142.2(1) of the Act effective as of the time at which any class of shares of [xxx] is listed on any stock exchange.
- We are prepared to recommend to the Minister of Finance that the mark-to-market property rules in the Act be modified to require a deemed disposition by a taxpayer of property at its fair market value immediately before the property loses its status as a prescribed property for the purposes of the definition "mark-to-market property" in subsection 142.2(1) of the Act. The property would be deemed to have been reacquired by the taxpayer, immediately after the time of the deemed disposition, at a cost equal to the amount of proceeds deemed to have been received by the taxpayer.
- The gains and losses of a taxpayer that arise as a result of a deemed disposition of a property (which occurs because that property loses its status as a prescribed property for the purposes of the definition "mark-to-market property" in subsection 142.2(1)) will be included in determining the taxpayer's income for the year in which the disposition occurs. Under our recommended amendments, taxpayers will not be permitted to defer the payment of any of the taxes attributable to the gains arising on the deemed disposition of the property.

I trust that this letter addresses all the requests made of the Department by [xxx]. If further assistance or clarification is required, do not hesitate to contact us.

Yours sincerely,

Len Farber
General Director, Tax Legislation Division, Tax Policy Branch

Regulations: 9003 (prescribed share for 142.2(3)(c)).

(4) Extension of meaning of "related" — For the purposes of this subsection and subsections (2) and (3), a person or partnership shall be deemed to be related to a person or partnership where they would be related if, for the purpose of section 251,

(a) every partnership and trust were considered to be a corporation;

(b) subject to paragraph (c), all decisions relating to the conduct of a trust were made by majority vote of the beneficiaries of the trust, with each beneficiary having, at any time, a number of votes equal to the number determined by the formula

$$100 \times \frac{A}{B}$$

where

A is the fair market value at that time of the beneficiary's beneficial interest in the trust, and

B is the total of all amounts each of which is the fair market value at that time of a beneficial interest in the trust; and

(c) where the amount that would be determined for B in paragraph (b) in respect of a trust is nil, the trust were considered not to be controlled by any person, partnership or group each member of which is a person or partnership.

(5) Significant interest — transition — For the purpose of the definition "mark-to-market property" in subsection (1), where

(a) on October 31, 1994, a taxpayer whose 1994 taxation year ends after October 30, 1994 held a share of a corporation in which the taxpayer did not have a significant interest at any time in the year, and

(b) at any time after the end of the year and before May 1995, the taxpayer has a significant interest in the corporation, the taxpayer has a significant interest in the corporation in the year and in any subsequent taxation year ending before the earliest time referred to in paragraph (b).

Disposition of Specified Debt Obligations

142.4 (1) Definitions — In this section,

"tax basis" of a specified debt obligation at any time to a taxpayer means the amount, if any, by which the total of all amounts each of which is

(a) the cost of the obligation to the taxpayer,

(b) an amount included under subsection 12(3) or 16(2) or (3), paragraph 142.3(1)(a) or subsection 142.3(2) in respect of the obligation in computing the taxpayer's income for a taxation year that began before that time,

(c) subject to subsection 138(13), where the taxpayer acquired the obligation in a taxation year ending before February 23, 1994, the part of the amount, if any, by which

(i) the principal amount of the obligation at the time it was acquired

exceeds

(ii) the cost to the taxpayer of the obligation

that was included in computing the taxpayer's income for a taxation year ending before February 23, 1994,

(d) subject to subsection 138(13), where the taxpayer is a life insurer, an amount in respect of the obligation that was deemed by paragraph 142(3)(a) of the Income Tax Act, chapter 148 of the Revised Statutes of Canada, 1952, as it read in its application to the 1977 taxation year, to be a gain for a taxation year ending before 1978,

(e) where the obligation is an indexed debt obligation, an amount determined under subparagraph 16(6)(a)(i) in respect of the obligation and included in computing the income of the taxpayer for a taxation year beginning before that time,

(f) an amount in respect of the obligation that was included in computing the taxpayer's income for a taxation year ending at or before that time in respect of changes in the value of the obligation attributable to the fluctuation in the value of a currency of a country other than Canada relative to Canadian currency, other than an amount included under paragraph 142.3(1)(a),

(g) an amount in respect of the obligation that was included under paragraph 12(1)(i) in computing the taxpayer's income for a taxation year beginning before that time, or

(h) where the obligation was a capital property of the taxpayer on February 22, 1994, an amount required by paragraph 53(1)(f) or (f.1) to be added in computing the adjusted cost base of the obligation to the taxpayer on that day

exceeds the total of all amounts each of which is

(i) an amount deducted under paragraph 142.3(1)(b) in respect of the obligation in computing the taxpayer's income for a taxation year beginning before that time,

(j) the amount of a payment received by the taxpayer under the obligation at or before that time, other than

(i) a fee or similar payment, and

(ii) proceeds of disposition of the obligation,

(k) subject to subsection 138(13), where the taxpayer acquired the obligation in a taxation year ending before February 23, 1994, the part of the amount, if any, by which

(i) the cost to the taxpayer of the obligation

exceeds

(ii) the principal amount of the obligation at the time it was acquired that was deducted in computing the taxpayer's income for a taxation year ending before February 23, 1994,

(l) subject to subsection 138(13), where the taxpayer is a life insurer, an amount in respect of the obligation that was deemed by paragraph 142(3)(b) of the Income Tax Act, chapter 148 of the Revised Statutes of Canada, 1952, as it read in its application to the 1977 taxation year, to be a loss for a taxation year ending before 1978,

(m) an amount that was deducted under subsection 20(14) in respect of the obligation in computing the taxpayer's income for a taxation year beginning before that time,

(n) where the obligation is an indexed debt obligation, an amount determined under subparagraph 16(6)(a)(ii) in respect of the obligation and deducted in computing the income of the taxpayer for a taxation year beginning before that time,

(o) an amount in respect of the obligation that was deducted in computing the taxpayer's income for a taxation year ending at or before that time in respect of changes in the value of the obligation attributable to the fluctuation in the value of a currency of a country

other than Canada relative to Canadian currency, other than an amount deducted under paragraph 142.3(1)(b),

(p) an amount in respect of the obligation that was deducted under paragraph 20(1)(p) in computing the taxpayer's income for a taxation year ending at or before that time, or

(q) where the obligation was a capital property of the taxpayer on February 22, 1994, an amount required by paragraph 53(2)(b.2) or (g) to be deducted in computing the adjusted cost base of the obligation to the taxpayer on that day;

Related Provisions: 138(13) — Variation in tax basis of certain insurers; 248(1)"cost amount"(d.2) — Cost amount of specified debt obligation is tax basis.

History: Paras. (b) and (j) of the definition "tax basis" in subsec. 142.4(1) amended by 1998, c. 19, subsecs. 165(1), (2), applicable to taxation years that end after February 22, 1994. Paras. (b) and (j) formerly read:

(b) an amount included under subsection 12(3) or 16(2) or (3) or paragraph 142.3(1)(a) in respect of the obligation in computing the taxpayer's income for a taxation year beginning before that time,

. . . . .

(j) the amount of a payment (other than proceeds of disposition of the obligation) received by the taxpayer under the obligation at or before that time in respect of an amount included by any of paragraphs (a) to (f) in determining the tax basis of the obligation to the taxpayer at that time,

Subsec. 142.4(1)"tax basis" added by 1995, c. 21, s. 58, applicable to taxation years that end after February 22, 1994.

(2) Scope of section — This section applies to the disposition of a specified debt obligation by a taxpayer that is a financial institution, except that this section does not apply to the disposition of a specified debt obligation that is a mark-to-market property for the taxation year in which the disposition occurs.

Related Provisions: 87(2)(e.3) — Amalgamations — continuing corporation; 138(10)(b) — Application to insurance corporation; 142.3(1)(c) — Amount deductible in respect of specified debt obligation; 142.4(9) — Disposition of part of obligation.

(3) Rules applicable to disposition — Where a taxpayer has disposed of a specified debt obligation after February 22, 1994,

(a) except as provided by paragraph 79.1(7)(d) or this section, no amount shall be included or deducted in respect of the disposition in computing the taxpayer's income; and

(b) except where the obligation is an indexed debt obligation (other than a prescribed obligation), paragraph 20(14)(a) shall not apply in respect of the disposition.

Related Provisions: 142.4(2) — Scope of section.

History: Para. 142.4(3)(a) amended by 1998, c. 19, subsec. 165(3), applicable to taxation years that end after February 22, 1994. Para. 142.4(3)(a) formerly read:

(a) except as provided by this section, no amount shall be included or deducted in respect of the disposition in computing the income of the taxpayer; and

Subsec. 142.4(3) added by 1995, c. 21, s. 58, applicable to taxation years that end after February 22, 1994.

(4) Inclusions and deductions re disposition — Subject to subsection (5), where after 1994 a taxpayer disposes of a specified debt obligation in a taxation year,

(a) where the transition amount in respect of the disposition of the obligation is positive, it shall be included in computing the income of the taxpayer for the year;

(b) where the transition amount in respect of the disposition of the obligation is negative, the absolute value of the transition amount shall be deducted in computing the income of the taxpayer for the year;

(c) where the taxpayer has a gain from the disposition of the obligation,

(i) the current amount of the gain shall be included in computing the income of the taxpayer for the year, and

(ii) there shall be included in computing the taxpayer's income for taxation years that end on or after the day of disposition the amount allocated, in accordance with prescribed rules, to the year in respect of the residual portion of the gain; and

(d) where the taxpayer has a loss from the disposition of the obligation,

(i) the current amount of the loss shall be deducted in computing the taxpayer's income for the year, and

(ii) there shall be deducted in computing the taxpayer's income for taxation years that end on or after the day of disposition the amount allocated, in accordance with prescribed rules, to the year in respect of the residual portion of the loss.

Regulations: 9203, 9204 (prescribed rules — residual portion).

(5) Gain or loss not amortized — Where after February 22, 1994 a taxpayer disposes of a specified debt obligation in a taxation year, and

(a) the obligation is

(i) an indexed debt obligation (other than a prescribed obligation), or

(ii) a debt obligation prescribed in respect of the taxpayer,

(b) the disposition occurred

(i) before 1995,

(ii) after 1994 in connection with the transfer of all or part of a business of the taxpayer to a person or partnership, or

(iii) because of paragraph 142.6(1)(c), or

(c) in the case of a taxpayer other than a life insurance corporation,

(i) the disposition occurred before 1996, and

(ii) the taxpayer elects in writing, filed with the Minister before July 1997, to have this paragraph apply,

the following rules apply:

(d) subsection (4) does not apply to the disposition,

(e) there shall be included in computing the taxpayer's income for the year the amount, if any, by which the taxpayer's proceeds of disposition exceed the tax basis of the obligation to the taxpayer immediately before the disposition, and

(f) there shall be deducted in computing the taxpayer's income for the year the amount, if any, by which the tax basis of the obligation to the taxpayer immediately before the disposition exceeds the taxpayer's proceeds of disposition.

Related Provisions: 39(1)(a)(ii.2) — No capital gain on disposition; 142.4(2) — Scope of section; Reg. 2411(4)A(c.1), 2411(4)B(a.1) — Inclusion in insurer's net investment revenue.

History: Subsec. 142.4(5) amended by 1998, c. 19, subsec. 165(4), applicable to taxation years that end after February 22, 1994. Subsec. 142.4(5) formerly read:

(5) Where a taxpayer has, in a taxation year and after February 22, 1994, disposed of a specified debt obligation, and either

(a) the obligation is

(i) an indexed debt obligation (other than a prescribed obligation), or

(ii) a debt obligation prescribed in respect of the taxpayer, or

(b) the disposition occurred

(i) before 1995,

(ii) after 1994 in connection with the transfer of all or part of a business of the taxpayer to a person or partnership, or

(iii) because of paragraph 142.6(1)(c),

the following rules apply:

(c) subsection (4) does not apply to the disposition,

(d) where the taxpayer has a gain from the disposition of the obligation, the gain shall be included in computing the income of the taxpayer for the year, and

(e) where the taxpayer has a loss from the disposition of the obligation, the loss shall be deducted in computing the income of the taxpayer for the year.

Subsec. 142.4(5) added by 1995, c. 21, s. 58, applicable to taxation years that end after February 22, 1994.

Regulations: 9202(2), (4), (5) (debt obligations prescribed for 142.2(5)(a)(ii)).

(6) Gain or loss from disposition of obligation — For the purposes of this section,

(a) where the amount determined under paragraph (c) in respect of the disposition of a specified debt obligation by a taxpayer is positive, that amount is the taxpayer's gain from the disposition of the obligation;

(b) where the amount determined under paragraph (c) in respect of the disposition of a specified debt obligation by a taxpayer is negative, the absolute value of that amount is the taxpayer's loss from the disposition of the obligation; and

(c) the amount determined under this paragraph in respect of the disposition of a specified debt obligation by a taxpayer is the positive or negative amount determined by the formula

where

A is the taxpayer's proceeds of disposition,

B is the tax basis of the obligation to the taxpayer immediately before the time of disposition, and

C is the taxpayer's transition amount in respect of the disposition.

Related Provisions: 257 — Formula cannot calculate to less than zero.

History: Para. 142.4(6)(b) and the description of C in para. 142.4(6)(c) amended by 1998, c. 19, subsec. 165(5), (6), applicable to taxation years that end after February 22, 1994. Para. 142.4(6)(b) and the description of C formerly read:

(b) where the amount determined under paragraph (c) in respect of the disposition of a specified debt obligation by a taxpayer is negative, that amount is the taxpayer's loss from the disposition of the obligation; and

. . . . .

C is

(i) where subsection (4) applies to the disposition, the taxpayer's transition amount in respect of the disposition, and

(ii) in any other case, nil.

Subsec. 142.4(6) added by 1995, c. 21, s. 58, applicable to taxation years that end after February 22, 1994.

(7) Current amount — For the purposes of subsections (4) and (8), the current amount of a taxpayer's gain or loss from the disposition of a specified debt obligation is

(a) where the taxpayer has a gain from the disposition of the obligation, the part, if any, of the gain that is reasonably attributable to a material increase in the probability, or perceived probability, that the debtor will make all payments as required by the obligation; and

(b) where the taxpayer has a loss from the disposition of the obligation, the amount that the taxpayer claims not exceeding the part, if any, of the loss that is reasonably attributable to a default by the debtor or a material decrease in the probability, or perceived probability, that the debtor will make all payments as required by the obligation.

History: Subsec. 142.4(7) amended by 1998, c. 19, subsec. 165(7), applicable to taxation years that end after February 22, 1994. Subsec. 142.4(7) formerly read:

(7) For the purpose of subsection (4), the current amount in respect of the disposition of a specified debt obligation by a taxpayer is the positive or negative amount determined by the formula

$$A + B$$

where

A is the taxpayer's transition amount in respect of the disposition, and

B is

(a) where the taxpayer has a gain from the disposition of the obligation, the part, if any, of the gain that is reasonably attributable to a material increase in the probability, or perceived probability, that the debtor will make all payments as required by the obligation, and

(b) where the taxpayer has a loss from the disposition of the obligation, the negative amount that the taxpayer claims not exceeding in magnitude the part, if any, of the loss that is reasonably attributable to a default by the debtor or a material decrease in the probability, or perceived probability, that the debtor will make all payments as required by the obligation.

Subsec. 142.4(7) added by 1995, c. 21, s. 58, applicable to taxation years that end after February 22, 1994.

(8) Residual portion of gain or loss — For the purpose of subsection (4), the residual portion of a taxpayer's gain or loss from the disposition of a specified debt obligation is the amount, if any, by which the gain or loss exceeds the current amount of the gain or loss.

Related Provisions: 142.4(7) — Current amount.

History: Subsec. 142.4(8) amended by 1998, c. 19, subsec. 165(7), applicable to taxation years that end after February 22, 1994. Subsec. 142.4(8) formerly read:

(8) For the purpose of subsection (4), where a taxpayer has a gain or loss from the disposition of a specified debt obligation, the residual portion of the gain or loss is the part of the gain or loss that is not included in determining the amount B in the formula in subsection (7) in respect of the disposition.

Subsec. 142.4(8) added by 1995, c. 21, s. 58, applicable to taxation years that end after February 22, 1994.

(9) Disposition of part of obligation — Where a taxpayer disposes of part of a specified debt obligation, section 142.3 and this section apply as if the part disposed of and the part retained were separate specified debt obligations.

Related Provisions: 248(27) — Partial forgiveness of debt obligation — effect on debtor.

History: Subsec. 142.4(9) amended by 1998, c. 19, subsec. 165(7), applicable to taxation years that end after February 22, 1994. Subsec. 142.4(9) formerly read:

(9) Where a taxpayer disposed of part of a specified debt obligation, this section and any regulations made for the purpose of this section apply as if the part disposed of and the part retained were separate specified debt obligations.

Subsec. 142.4(9) added by 1995, c. 21, s. 58, applicable to taxation years that end after February 22, 1994.

(10) Penalties and bonuses — Notwithstanding subsection 18(9.1), where a taxpayer that holds a specified debt obligation receives a penalty or bonus because of the repayment before maturity of all or part of the principal amount of the debt obligation, the payment is deemed to be received by the taxpayer as proceeds of disposition of the specified debt obligation.

History: Subsec. 142.4(10) added by 1998, c. 19, subsec. 165(7), applicable to taxation years that end after February 22, 1994.

(11) Payments received on or after disposition — For the purposes of this section, where at any time a taxpayer receives a payment (other than proceeds of disposition) under a specified debt obligation on or after the disposition of the obligation, the payment is deemed not to have been so received at that time but to have been so received immediately before the disposition.

Mark-to-Market Properties

142.5 (1) Income treatment for profits and losses — Where, in a taxation year that begins after October 1994, a taxpayer that is a financial institution in the year disposes of a property that is a mark-to-market property for the year,

(a) there shall be included in computing the taxpayer's income for the year the profit, if any, from the disposition; and

(b) there shall be deducted in computing the taxpayer's income for the year the loss, if any, from the disposition.

Related Provisions: 39(1)(a)(ii.2) — No capital gain on disposition; 138(10)(a) — Application to insurance corporation; 142.5(2) — Deemed disposition at year-end.

(2) Mark-to-market requirement — Where a taxpayer that is a financial institution in a taxation year holds, at the end of the year, a mark-to-market property for the year, the taxpayer shall be deemed

(a) to have disposed of the property immediately before the end of the year for proceeds equal to its fair market value at the time of disposition, and

(b) to have reacquired the property at the end of the year at a cost equal to those proceeds.

Related Provisions: 54"superficial loss"(c) — Superficial loss rule does not apply; 88(1)(i) — Windup of subsidiary into parent; 112(5.6)(a)(i) — Stop-loss rules inapplicable; 138(10)(a) — Application to insurance corporation; 138(11.31)(a) — Change in use rules for insurer do not apply; 142.5(4)–(9) — Transitional rules; 142.6(2) — Acquisition date under 142.5(2) to be ignored; 142.6(8)–(10) — Transitional election re year that includes February 22, 1994; Reg. 2405(5) — 142.5(2) to be ignored for definitions in Reg. 2405(3).

(3) Mark-to-market debt obligation — Where a taxpayer is a financial institution in a particular taxation year that begins after October 1994, the following rules apply with respect to a specified debt obligation that is a mark-to-market property of the taxpayer for the particular year:

(a) paragraph 12(1)(c) and subsections 12(3) and 20(14) and (21) do not apply to the obligation in computing the taxpayer's income for the particular year;

(b) there shall be included in computing the taxpayer's income for the particular year an amount received by the taxpayer in the particular year as, on account of, in lieu of payment of, or in satisfaction of, interest on the obligation, to the extent that the interest was not included in computing the taxpayer's income for a preceding taxation year; and

(c) for the purpose of paragraph (b), where the taxpayer was deemed by subsection (2) or paragraph 142.6(1)(b) to have disposed of the obligation in a preceding taxation year, no part of an amount included in computing the income of the taxpayer for that preceding year because of the disposition shall be considered to be in respect of interest on the obligation.

Related Provisions: 138(10)(a) — Application to insurance corporation.

(4) Transition — deduction re non-capital amounts — There may be deducted in computing the income of a taxpayer for the taxpayer's taxation year that includes October 31, 1994 such amount as the taxpayer claims not exceeding a prescribed amount in respect of properties (other than capital properties) disposed of by the taxpayer because of subsection (2).

Related Provisions: 138(11.5)(k) — Transfer of business by non-resident insurer; 142.5(5) — Inclusion re non-capital amounts.

Regulations: 8102(2) (prescribed amount).

(5) Transition — inclusion re non-capital amounts — Where an amount is deducted under subsection (4) in computing a taxpayer's income, there shall be included, in computing the taxpayer's income for each taxation year that begins before 1999 and ends after October 30, 1994, the total of all amounts prescribed for the year.

Related Provisions: 87(2)(g.2) — Amalgamations — continuing corporation; 138(11.5)(k) — Transfer of business by non-resident insurer; Reg. 2402(a.1)A — Inclusion in income from participating life insurance business.

Regulations: 8103 (prescribed amount).

(6) Transition — deduction re net capital gains — Such amount as a taxpayer elects, not exceeding a prescribed amount in respect of capital properties disposed of by the taxpayer because of subsection (2), is deemed to be an allowable capital loss of the taxpayer for its taxation year that includes October 31, 1994 from the disposition of property (or, where the taxpayer is non-resident throughout the year, from the disposition of taxable Canadian property).

Related Provisions: 138(11.5)(k) — Transfer of business by non-resident insurer; 142.5(7) — Inclusion re net capital gains.

Regulations: 8104(2) (prescribed amount).

(7) Transition — inclusion re net capital gains — A taxpayer that elects an amount under subsection (6) is deemed, for each taxation year that begins before 1999 and ends after October 30, 1994, to have a taxable capital gain for the year from the disposition of property (or, where the taxpayer is non-resident throughout the year, from the disposition of taxable Canadian property) equal to the total of all amounts prescribed for the year.

Related Provisions: 87(2)(g.2) — Amalgamations — continuing corporation; 138(11.5)(k) — Transfer of business by non-resident insurer; Reg. 2402(a.1)B — Inclusion in income from participating life insurance business.

Regulations: 8105(2) (prescribed amount).

(8) First deemed disposition of debt obligation — Where

(a) in a particular taxation year that ends after October 30, 1994, a taxpayer disposed of a specified debt obligation that is a mark-to-market property of the taxpayer for the following taxation year, and

(b) either

(i) the disposition occurred because of subsection (2) and the particular year includes October 31, 1994, or

(ii) the disposition occurred because of paragraph 142.6(1)(b),

the following rules apply:

(c) subsection 20(21) does not apply to the disposition, and

(d) where

(i) an amount has been deducted under paragraph 20(1)(p) in respect of the obligation in computing the taxpayer's income for the particular year or a preceding taxation year, and

(ii) section 12.4 does not apply to the disposition, there shall be included in computing the taxpayer's income for the particular year the amount, if any, by which

(iii) the total of all amounts referred to in subparagraph (i)

exceeds

(iv) the total of all amounts included under paragraph 12(1)(i) in respect of the obligation in computing the taxpayer's income for the particular year or a preceding taxation year.

(9) Transition — property acquired on rollover — Where

(a) a taxpayer acquired a property before October 31, 1994 at a cost less than the fair market value of the property at the time of acquisition,

(b) the property was transferred, directly or indirectly, to the taxpayer by a person that would never have been a financial institution before the transfer if the definition "financial institution" in subsection 142.2(1) had always applied,

(c) the cost is less than the fair market value because subsection 85(1) applied in respect of the disposition of the property by the person, and

(d) subsection (2) deemed the taxpayer to have disposed of the property in its particular taxation year that includes October 31, 1994,

the following rules apply:

(e) where the taxpayer would, but for this paragraph, have a taxable capital gain for the particular year from the disposition of the property, the part of the taxable capital gain that can reasonably be considered to have arisen while the property was held by a person described in paragraph (b) shall be deemed to be a taxable capital gain of the taxpayer from the disposition of the property for the taxation year in which the taxpayer disposes of the property otherwise than because of subsection (2), and not to be a taxable capital gain for the particular year, and

(f) where the taxpayer has a profit (other than a capital gain) from the disposition of the property, the part of the profit that can reasonably be considered to have arisen while the property was held by a person described in paragraph (b) shall be included in computing the taxpayer's income for the taxation year in which the taxpayer disposes of the property otherwise than because of subsection (2), and shall not be included in computing the taxpayer's income for the particular year.

History [s. 142.5]: Subsecs. 142.5(5), (6) and (7) amended by 1998, c. 19, s. 166, applicable to taxation years that end after October 30, 1994. Subsecs. 142.5(5), (6) and (7) formerly read:

(5) Transition — inclusion re non-capital amounts — Where a taxpayer deducts an amount under subsection (4), there shall be included in computing the taxpayer's income for each taxation year that begins before 1999 and ends after October 30, 1994, the prescribed portion for the year of the amount so deducted.

(6) Transition — deduction re net capital gains — Such amount as a taxpayer elects, not exceeding a prescribed amount in respect of capital properties disposed of by the taxpayer because of subsection (2), shall be deemed to be an allowable capital loss of the taxpayer for its taxation year that includes October 31, 1994 from the disposition of property.

(7) Transition — inclusion re net capital gains — Where a taxpayer elects an amount under subsection (6), the taxpayer shall be deemed, for each taxation year that begins before 1999 and ends after October 30, 1994, to have a taxable capital gain for the year from the disposition of property equal to the prescribed portion for the year of the amount so elected.

S. 142.5 added by 1995, c. 21, s. 58, applicable to taxation years that end after October 30; 1994.

Additional Rules

142.6 (1) Becoming or ceasing to be a financial institution — Where, at a particular time after February 22, 1994, a taxpayer becomes or ceases to be a financial institution,

(a) where a taxation year of the taxpayer would not, but for this paragraph, end immediately before the particular time,

(i) except for the purpose of subsection 132(6.1), the taxpayer's taxation year that would otherwise have included the particular time is deemed to have ended immediately before that time and a new taxation year of the taxpayer is deemed to have begun at that time, and

(ii) for the purpose of determining the taxpayer's fiscal period after the particular time, the taxpayer shall be deemed not to have established a fiscal period before that time;

(b) where the taxpayer becomes a financial institution, the taxpayer shall be deemed to have disposed, immediately before the end of its taxation year that ends immediately before the particular time, of each property held by the taxpayer that is

(i) a specified debt obligation (other than a mark-to-market property for the year), or

(ii) where the year ends after October 30, 1994, a mark-to-market property for the year for proceeds equal to its fair market value at the time of disposition;

Proposed Amendment — 142.6(1)(b)

(b) if the taxpayer becomes a financial institution, the taxpayer is deemed to have disposed, immediately before the end of its particular taxation year that ends immediately before the particular time and for proceeds equal to its fair market value at the time of that disposition, of each property held by the taxpayer that is

(i) a specified debt obligation, or

(ii) a mark-to-market property of the taxpayer for the particular taxation year or for the taxpayer's taxation year that includes the particular time.

Application: The February 27, 2004 draft legislation, subsec. 78(1), will amend para. 142.6(1)(b) to read as above, applicable to taxation years that end after 1998.

Technical Notes: Subsection 142.6(1) contains rules that apply where a taxpayer becomes (or ceases to be) a financial institution. This is most likely to happen where the change of status occurs because the taxpayer becomes (or ceases to be) controlled by a financial institution.

If a taxation year of the taxpayer does not end immediately before the time at which its status as a financial institution changes, subparagraph 142.6(1)(a)(i) deems the taxpayer's taxation year that would otherwise have included that time to end immediately before that time. A new taxation year begins at that time, and the taxpayer is permitted to adopt a new fiscal period. One purpose for the deemed year-end is to ensure the proper application, in taxation years in which the taxpayer is a financial institution, of the rules, commonly known as the mark-to-market rules,

- in section 142.3 for specified debt obligations, and
- in section 142.5 for market-to-market properties.

The expressions "financial institution", "specified debt obligation" and "mark-to-market property" are defined in section 142.2.

Paragraph 142.6(1)(b) applies where a taxpayer becomes a financial institution. This paragraph generally provides for a deemed disposition at fair market value of each property held by the taxpayer that is

- a specified debt obligation (other than a specified debt obligation that is a mark-to-market property to which subparagraph 142.6(1)(b)(ii) applies) (subpara. 142.6(1)(b)(i)), or
- a mark-to-market property for the taxpayer's taxation year that ends immediately before the time of the change of status (subpara. 142.6(1)(b)(ii)).

This deemed disposition under paragraph 142.6(1)(b) is intended to ensure that amounts brought, because of the mark-to-market rules in sections 142.3 and 142.5, into the taxpayer's income for the taxpayer's subsequent taxation year (i.e., the taxation year that includes the time of the change of status) do not include gains or losses accrued before the beginning of that subsequent taxation year.

Paragraph 142.6(1)(b) is amended to ensure that this is achieved in connection with mark-to-market properties. Amended paragraph 142.6(1)(b) results in the taxpayer being deemed to have disposed of, immediately before the end of its particular taxation year that ends immediately before the time of the change of status, and for proceeds equal to its fair market value at the time of that disposition, a mark-to-market property of the taxpayer

- for the particular taxation year, or
- for the subsequent taxation year.

(c) where the taxpayer ceases to be a financial institution, the taxpayer shall be deemed to have disposed, immediately before the end of its taxation year that ends immediately before the particular time, of each property held by the taxpayer that is a specified debt obligation (other than a mark-to-market property of the taxpayer for the year), for proceeds equal to its fair market value at the time of disposition; and

(d) the taxpayer shall be deemed to have reacquired, at the end of the taxation year referred to in paragraph (b) or (c), each property deemed by that paragraph to have been disposed of by the taxpayer, at a cost equal to the proceeds of disposition of the property.

Proposed Amendment — 142.6(1)(d)

(d) the taxpayer is deemed to have reacquired, at the end of its taxation year that ends immediately before the particular time, each property deemed by paragraph (b) or (c) to have been disposed of by the taxpayer, at a cost equal to the proceeds of disposition of the property.

Application: The February 27, 2004 draft legislation, subsec. 78(2), will amend para. 142.6(1)(d) to read as above, applicable to taxation years that end after 1998.

Technical Notes: Paragraph 142.6(1)(c) provides for a deemed disposition of specified debt obligations (other than mark-to-market property) in the opposite situation of change of status, i.e., where the taxpayer ceases to be a financial institution. Paragraph 142.6(1)(d) provides that the taxpayer is deemed to have reacquired, at the end of the taxation year referred to in paragraph 142.6(1)(b) or (c), each property deemed by that paragraph to have been disposed of by the taxpayer, at a cost equal to the proceeds of disposition of the property.

Consequential to the amendments to paragraph 142.6(1)(b), paragraph 142.6(1)(d) is amended to provide that the taxpayer is deemed to have reacquired, at the end of its taxation year that ends immediately before the time of the change of status, each property deemed by paragraph 142.6(1)(b) or (c) to have been disposed of by the taxpayer, at a cost equal to the proceeds of disposition of the property.

Related Provisions: 54"superficial loss"(c) — Superficial loss rule does not apply to disposition under 142.6(1)(b); 87(2)(g.2) — Application of rule to predecessors corporation on amalgamation; 112(5.6)(a)(ii) — Stop-loss rules inapplicable; 142.4(5)(b)(iii) — Gain or loss not amortized; 142.5(8)(b)(ii) — First deemed disposition of debt obligation; 142.6(2) — Acquisition date under 142.6(1) to be ignored.

History: Subsecs. 142.6(1), (1.1) and (1.2) added and subsec. (2) amended by 2001, c. 17, s. 137,

Subpara. 142.6(1)(a)(i) amended by 1999, c. 22, s. 58, applicable after 1997. It formerly read:

(i) the taxation year of the taxpayer that would otherwise have included the particular time shall be deemed to have ended immediately before that time and a new taxation year of the taxpayer shall be deemed to have begun at that time, and

Subsecs. 142.6(8) to (10) added by 1998, c. 19, s. 167, applicable to 1993 et seq.

S. 142.6 added by 1995, c. 21, s. 58; subsec. 142.6(1) applicable after February 22, 1994; subsecs. 142.6(2) to (6) applicable to taxation years that end after February 22, 1994; and subsec. 142.6(7) applicable to dispositions occurring after October 30, 1994, except the disposition of a debt obligation before July 1995 where

(a) the disposition is part of a series of transactions or events that began before October 31, 1994;

(b) as part of the series of transactions or events, the taxpayer who acquired the debt obligation disposed of property before October 31, 1994; and

(c) it is reasonable to consider that one of the main reasons for the acquisition of the debt obligation by the taxpayer was to obtain a deduction because, as a consequence of the disposition referred to in paragraph (b),

(i) an amount was included in the taxpayer's income for any taxation year, or

(ii) an amount was subtracted from a balance of undeducted outlays, expenses or other amounts of the taxpayer and the subtracted amount exceeded the portion, if any, of the balance that could reasonably be considered to be in respect of the property.

(1.1) Ceasing to use property in Canadian business — If at a particular time in a taxation year a taxpayer that is a non-resident financial institution (other than a life insurance corporation) ceases to use, in connection with a business or part of a business carried on by the taxpayer in Canada immediately before the particular time, a property that is a mark-to-market property of the taxpayer for the year or a specified debt obligation, but that is not a property that was disposed of by the taxpayer at the particular time,

(a) the taxpayer is deemed

(i) to have disposed of the property immediately before the time that was immediately before the particular time for proceeds equal to its fair market value at the time of disposition and to have received those proceeds at the time of disposition in the course of carrying on the business or the part of the business, as the case may be, and

(ii) to have reacquired the property at the particular time at a cost equal to those proceeds; and

(b) in determining the consequences of the disposition in subparagraph (a)(i), subsection 142.4(11) does not apply to any payment received by the taxpayer after the particular time.

Related Provisions: 10(12) — Parallel rule for inventory; 14(14) — Parallel rule for eligible capital property; 142.6(1.3) — Specified debt obligation market to market; 142.6(2) — No effect on determination of when share acquired.

History: Subsec. 142.6(1.1) added by 2001, c. 17, s. 137, applicable after June 27, 1999 in respect of an authorized foreign bank, and after August 8, 2000 in any other case.

(1.2) Beginning to use property in a Canadian business — If at a particular time a taxpayer that is a non-resident financial institution (other than a life insurance corporation) begins to use, in connection with a business or part of a business carried on by the taxpayer in Canada, a property that is a mark-to-market property of the taxpayer for the year that includes the particular time or a specified debt obligation, but that is not a property that was acquired by the taxpayer at the particular time, the taxpayer is deemed

(a) to have disposed of the property immediately before the time that was immediately before the particular time for proceeds equal to its fair market value at the time of disposition; and

(b) to have reacquired the property at the particular time at a cost equal to those proceeds.

Related Provisions: 10(14) — Parallel rule for inventory; 14(15) — Parallel rule for eligible capital property; 142.6(2) — No effect on determination of when share acquired.

History: Subsec. 142.6(1.2) added by 2001, c. 17, s. 137, applicable after June 27, 1999 in respect of an authorized foreign bank, and after August 8, 2000 in any other case.

(1.3) Specified debt obligation marked to market — In applying subsection (1.1) to a taxpayer in respect of a property in a taxation year,

(a) the definition "mark-to-market property" in subsection 142.2(1) shall be applied as if the year ended immediately before the particular time referred to in subsection (1.1); and

(b) if the taxpayer does not have financial statements for the period ending immediately before the particular time referred to in subsection (1.1), references in the definition to financial statements for the year shall be read as references to the financial statements that it is reasonable to expect would have been prepared if the year had ended immediately before the particular time.

History: Subsec. 142.6(1.3) added by 2001, c. 17, s. 137, applicable after June 27, 1999 in respect of an authorized foreign bank, and after August 8, 2000 in any other case.

(2) Deemed disposition not applicable — For the purposes of this Act, the determination of when a taxpayer acquired a share shall be made without regard to a disposition or acquisition that occurred because of subsection 142.5(2) or subsection (1), (1.1) or (1.2).

History: Subsec. 142.6(2) amended by 2001, c. 17, s. 137, applicable after June 27, 1999 in respect of an authorized foreign bank, and after August 8, 2000 in any other case. The subsec. formerly read:

> (2) For the purposes of this Act, the determination of when a taxpayer acquired a share shall be made without regard to a disposition or acquisition that occurred because of subsection (1) or 142.5(2).

(3) Property not inventory — Where a taxpayer is a financial institution in a taxation year, inventory of the taxpayer in the year does not include property that is

(a) a specified debt obligation (other than a mark-to-market property for the year); or

(b) where the year begins after October 1994, a mark-to-market property for the year.

Related Provisions: 66.3(1)(a)(ii) — Rule in 142.6(3) overrides rule for certain exploration and development shares; 142.6(4) — Property that was inventory before introduction of new rules.

(4) Property that ceases to be inventory — Where a taxpayer that was a financial institution in its particular taxation year that includes February 23, 1994 held, on that day, a specified debt obligation (other than a mark-to-market property for the year) that was inventory of the taxpayer at the end of its preceding taxation year,

(a) the taxpayer shall be deemed to have disposed of the property at the beginning of the particular year for proceeds equal to

(i) where subparagraph (ii) does not apply, the amount at which the property was valued at the end of the preceding taxation year for the purpose of computing the taxpayer's income for the year, and

(ii) where the taxpayer is a bank and the property is prescribed property for the particular year, the cost of the property to the taxpayer (determined without reference to paragraph (b));

(b) for the purpose of determining the taxpayer's profit or loss from the disposition, the cost of the property to the taxpayer shall be deemed to be the amount referred to in subparagraph (a)(i); and

(c) the taxpayer shall be deemed to have reacquired the property, immediately after the beginning of the particular year, at a cost equal to the proceeds of disposition of the property.

(5) Debt obligations acquired in rollover transactions — Where,

(a) on February 23, 1994, a financial institution that is a corporation held a specified debt obligation (other than a mark-to-market property for the taxation year that includes that day) that was at any particular time before that day held by another corporation, and

(b) between the particular time and February 23, 1994, the only transactions affecting the ownership of the property were rollover transactions, the financial institution shall be deemed, in respect of that obligation, to be the same corporation as, and a continuation of, the other corporation.

Related Provisions: 87(2)(e), (e.2) — Rule overrides normal rules on amalgamation; 87(2)(e.3) — Continuity of corporation on amalgamation; 138(11.5)(k.1) — Continuity of corporation on rollover of insurance business by non-resident; 142.6(6) — Rollover transaction.

(6) Definition of "rollover transaction" — For the purpose of subsection (5), "rollover transaction" means a transaction to which subsection 87(2), 88(1) or 138(11.5) or (11.94) applies, other than a transaction to which paragraph 138(11.5)(e) requires the provisions of subsection 85(1) to be applied.

(7) Superficial loss rule not applicable — Subsection 18(13) does not apply to the disposition of a property by a taxpayer after October 30, 1994 where

(a) the taxpayer is a financial institution when the disposition occurs and the property is a specified debt obligation or a mark-to-market property for the taxation year in which the disposition occurs; or

(b) the disposition occurs because of paragraph (1)(b).

(8) Accrued capital gains and losses election — Where a taxpayer that is a financial institution in its first taxation year that ends after February 22, 1994 so elects by notifying the Minister in writing before July 1998 or within 90 days after the day on which a notice of assessment of tax payable under this Part for the year, notification that no tax is payable under this Part for the year or notification that an election made by the taxpayer under this subsection is deemed by subsection (9) or (10) not to have been made is mailed to the taxpayer,

(a) each property of the taxpayer

(i) that was a capital property (other than a depreciable property) of the taxpayer at the end of the taxpayer's last taxation year that ended before February 23, 1994,

(ii) that was a mark-to-market property for, or a specified debt obligation in, the taxpayer's first taxation year that begins after that time,

(iii) that had a fair market value at that time greater than its adjusted cost base to the taxpayer at that time, and

(iv) that is designated by the taxpayer in the election

is deemed to have been disposed of by the taxpayer at that time for proceeds of disposition equal to, and to have been reacquired by the taxpayer immediately after that time at a cost equal to, the lesser of

(v) the fair market value of the property at that time, and

(vi) the greater of the adjusted cost base to the taxpayer of the property immediately before that time and the amount designated by the taxpayer in the election in respect of the property;

(b) each property of the taxpayer

(i) that was a capital property (other than a depreciable property) of the taxpayer at the end of the taxpayer's last taxation year that ended before February 23, 1994,

(ii) that was not a mark-to-market property for, or a specified debt obligation in, the taxpayer's first taxation year that begins after that time,

(iii) that had an adjusted cost base to the taxpayer at that time greater than its fair market value at that time, and

(iv) that is designated by the taxpayer in the election

is deemed to have been disposed of by the taxpayer at that time for proceeds of disposition equal to, and to have been reacquired by the taxpayer immediately after that time at a cost equal to, the greater of

(v) the fair market value of the property at that time, and

(vi) the lesser of the adjusted cost base to the taxpayer of the property immediately before that time and the amount designated by the taxpayer in the election in respect of the property; and

(c) notwithstanding subsections 152(4) to (5), such assessment of the taxpayer's tax payable under this Act for the taxpayer's last taxation year that ended before February 23, 1994 shall be made as is necessary to take the election into account.

Related Provisions: 142.6(9) — Accrued capital gains election limit; 142.6(10) — Accrued capital losses election limit.

History: Subsec. 142.6(8) added by 1998, c. 19, s. 167, applicable to 1993 et seq.

(9) Accrued capital gains election limit — Where a taxpayer has made an election under subsection (8) in which a property was designated under subparagraph (8)(a)(iv), the election is deemed not to have been made where

(a) the amount that would be the taxpayer's taxable capital gains from dispositions of property for the taxpayer's last taxation year that ended before February 23, 1994 if this subsection and subsection (10) did not apply

(b) the amount that would be the taxpayer's allowable capital losses for the year from dispositions of property if this subsection and subsection (10) did not apply,

(c) the maximum amount that would have been deductible in computing the taxpayer's taxable income for the year in respect of the taxpayer's net capital losses for preceding taxation years if there were sufficient taxable capital gains for the year from dispositions of property, and

(d) the amount, if any, by which

(i) the amount that would be the taxpayer's taxable capital gains for the taxpayer's last taxation year that ended before February 23, 1994 from dispositions of property if no election were made under subsection (8)

exceeds the total of

(ii) the amount that would be the taxpayer's allowable capital losses for the year from dispositions of property if no election were made under subsection (8), and

(iii) the maximum amount that would have been deductible in computing the taxpayer's taxable income for the year in respect of the taxpayer's net capital losses for preceding taxation years if no election were made under subsection (8).

History: Subsec. 142.6(9) added by 1998, c. 19, s. 167, applicable to 1993 et seq.

(10) Accrued capital losses election limit — Where a taxpayer has made an election under subsection (8) in which a property was designated under subparagraph (8)(b)(iv), the election is deemed not to have been made where

(a) the total of the amounts determined under paragraphs (9)(b) and (c) in respect of the taxpayer exceeds the amount determined under paragraph (9)(a) in respect of the taxpayer; or

(b) the total of all amounts each of which would, if this subsection did not apply, be the taxpayer's allowable capital loss for the taxpayer's last taxation year that ended before February 23, 1994 from the disposition of a property deemed to have been disposed of under paragraph (8)(b) exceeds the total of all amounts each of which is the taxpayer's taxable capital gain for the year from the disposition of a property deemed to have been disposed of under paragraph (8)(a).

History: Subsec. 142.6(10) added by 1998, c. 19, s. 167, applicable to 1993 et seq.

History [s. 142.6]: S. 142.6 added by 1995, c. 21, s. 58; subsec. 142.6(1) applicable after February 22, 1994; subsecs. 142.6(2) to (6) applicable to taxation years that end after February 22, 1994; and subsec. 142.6(7) applicable to dispositions occurring after October 30, 1994, except the disposition of a debt obligation before July 1995 where

(a) the disposition is part of a series of transactions or events that began before October 31, 1994;

(b) as part of the series of transactions or events, the taxpayer who acquired the debt obligation disposed of property before October 31, 1994; and

(c) it is reasonable to consider that one of the main reasons for the acquisition of the debt obligation by the taxpayer was to obtain a deduction because, as a consequence of the disposition referred to in paragraph (b),

(i) an amount was included in the taxpayer's income for any taxation year, or

(ii) an amount was subtracted from a balance of undeducted outlays, expenses or other amounts of the taxpayer and the subtracted amount exceeded the portion, if any, of the balance that could reasonably be considered to be in respect of the property.

Conversion of Foreign Bank Affiliate to Branch

142.7 (1) Definitions — The definitions in this subsection apply in this section.

"Canadian affiliate" of an entrant bank at any particular time means a Canadian corporation that was, immediately before the particular time, affiliated with the entrant bank and that was, at all times during the period that began on February 11, 1999 and ended immediately before the particular time,

(a) affiliated with either

(i) the entrant bank, or

(ii) a foreign bank (within the meaning assigned by section 2 of the Bank Act) that is affiliated with the entrant bank at the particular time; and

(b) either

(i) a bank,

(ii) a corporation authorized under the Trust and Loan Companies Act to carry on the business of offering to the public its services as trustee, or

(iii) a corporation of which the principal activity in Canada consists of any of the activities referred to in subparagraphs 518(3)(a)(i) to (v) of the Bank Act and in which the entrant bank or a non-resident person affiliated with the entrant bank holds shares under the authority, directly or indirectly, of an order issued by the Minister of Finance or the Governor in Council under subsection 521(1) of that Act.

Related Provisions: 142.7(2)(a) — Effect of qualifying foreign merger.

"eligible property" of a Canadian affiliate at any time means a property described in any of paragraphs 85(1.1)(a) to (g.1) that is, immediately before that time, used or held by it in carrying on its business in Canada.

"entrant bank" means a non-resident corporation that is, or has applied to the Superintendent of Financial Institutions to become, an authorized foreign bank.

"qualifying foreign merger" means a merger or combination of two or more corporations that would be a "foreign merger" within the meaning assigned by subsection 87(8.1) if that subsection were read without reference to the words "and otherwise than as a result of the distribution of property to one corporation on the winding-up of another corporation.

(2) Qualifying foreign merger — Where an entrant bank was formed as the result of a qualifying foreign merger, after February 11, 1999, of two or more corporations (referred to in this subsection as "predecessors"), and at the time immediately before the merger, there were one or more Canadian corporations (referred to in this subsection as "predecessor affiliates"), each of which at that time would have been a Canadian affiliate of a predecessor if the predecessor were an entrant bank at that time,

(a) for the purpose of the definition "Canadian affiliate" in subsection (1),

(i) each predecessor affiliate is deemed to have been affiliated with the entrant bank throughout the period that began on February 11, 1999 and ended at the time of the merger,

(ii) the expression "entrant bank" in subparagraph (b)(iii) of the definition is deemed to include a predecessor, and

(iii) if two or more of the predecessor affiliates are amalgamated or merged at any time after February 11, 1999 to form a new corporation, the new corporation is deemed to have been affiliated with the entrant bank throughout the period that began on February 11, 1999 and ended at the time of the amalgamation or merger of the predecessor affiliates; and

(b) if at least one of the predecessors complied with the terms of subsection[38] (11)(a), the entrant bank is deemed to have complied with those terms.

(3) Branch-establishment rollover — If a Canadian affiliate of an entrant bank transfers an eligible property to the entrant bank, the entrant bank begins immediately after the transfer to use or hold the transferred property in its Canadian banking business and the Canadian affiliate and the entrant bank jointly elect, in accordance with subsection (11), to have this subsection apply in respect of the transfer, subsections 85(1) (other than paragraph (e.2)), (1.1), (1.4) and (5) apply, with any modifications that the circumstances require, in respect of the transfer, except that the portion of subsection 85(1) before paragraph (a) shall be read as follows:

"85. (1) Where a taxpayer that is a Canadian affiliate of an entrant bank (within the meanings assigned by subsection 142.7(1)) has, in a taxation year, disposed of any of the taxpayer's property to the entrant bank (referred to in this subsection as the "corporation"), if the taxpayer and the corporation have jointly elected under subsection 142.7(3), the following rules apply:".

Related Provisions: 142.7(4) — Deemed fair market value; 142.7(5) — Transfers of specified debt obligations; 142.7(11) — Requirements for election; 142.7(13) — Stop-loss rule on windup of affiliate; Reg. 5301(8) — Effect of transfer on instalment base of transferee.

(4) Deemed fair market value — If a Canadian affiliate of an entrant bank and the entrant bank make an election under subsection (3) in respect of a transfer of property by the Canadian affiliate to the entrant bank, for the purposes of subsections 15(1), 52(2), 69(1), (4) and (5), 246(1) and 247(2) in respect of the transfer, the fair market value of the property is deemed to be the amount agreed by the Canadian affiliate and the entrant bank in their election.

(5) Specified debt obligations — If a Canadian affiliate of an entrant bank transfers a specified debt obligation to the entrant bank in a transaction in respect of which an election is made under subsection (3), the Canadian affiliate is a financial institution in its taxation year in which the transfer is made, and the amount that the Canadian affiliate and the entrant bank agree on in their election in respect of the obligation is equal to the tax basis of the obligation within the meaning assigned by subsection 142.4(1), the entrant bank is deemed, in respect of the obligation, for the purposes of sections 142.2 to 142.4 and 142.6, to be the same corporation as, and a continuation of, the Canadian affiliate.

(6) Mark-to-market property — If a Canadian affiliate of an entrant bank described in paragraph (11)(a) transfers at any time within the period described in paragraph (11)(c) to the entrant bank a property that is, for the Canadian affiliate's taxation year in which the property is transferred, a mark-to-market property of the Canadian affiliate,

(a) for the purposes of subsections 112(5) to (5.21) and (5.4), the definition "mark-to-market property" in subsection 142.2(1) and subsection 142.5(9), the entrant bank is deemed, in respect of the property, to be the same corporation as and a continuation of, the Canadian affiliate; and

(b) for the purpose of applying subsection 142.5(2) in respect of the property, the Canadian affiliate's taxation year in which the property is transferred is deemed to have ended immediately before the time the property was transferred.

Related Provisions: 87(2)(e.5) — Parallel rule on amalgamations.

(7) Reserves — If

(a) at a particular time,

(i) a Canadian affiliate of an entrant bank transfers to the entrant bank property that is a loan or lending asset, or a right to receive an unpaid amount in respect of a disposition before the particular time of property by the affiliate, or

[38] Sic. Should be "paragraph" — ed.

(ii) the entrant bank assumes an obligation of the Canadian affiliate that is an instrument or commitment described in paragraph 20(1)(l.1) or an obligation in respect of goods, services, lands or chattels described in subparagraph 20(1)(m)(i), (ii) or (iii),

(b) the property is transferred or the obligation is assumed for an amount equal to its fair market value at the particular time,

(c) the entrant bank begins immediately after the particular time to use or hold the property or owe the obligation in its Canadian banking business, and

(d) the Canadian affiliate and the entrant bank jointly elect in accordance with subsection (11) to have this subsection apply in respect of the transfer or assumption, then

(e) in applying paragraphs 20(1)(l), (l.1), (m), (n) and (p) in respect of the obligation or property, the taxation year of the affiliate that would, but for this paragraph, include the particular time is deemed to end immediately before the particular time, and

(f) in computing the income of the Canadian affiliate and the entrant bank for taxation years that end on or after the particular time,

(i) any amount deducted under paragraph 20(1)(l), (l.1), (m) or (n) by the Canadian affiliate in respect of the property or obligation in computing its income for its taxation year that ended immediately before the particular time, or under paragraph 20(1)(p) in computing its income for that year or for a preceding taxation year (to the extent that the amount has not been included in the affiliate's income under paragraph 12(1)(i)), is deemed to have been so deducted by the entrant bank in computing its income for its last taxation year that ended before the particular time and not to have been deducted by the Canadian affiliate,

(ii) in applying paragraph 20(1)(m), an amount in respect of the goods, services, land or chattels that was included under paragraph 12(1)(a) in computing the Canadian affiliate's income from a business is deemed to have been so included in computing the entrant bank's income from its Canadian banking business for a preceding taxation year,

(iii) in applying paragraph 20(1)(n) in respect of a property described in subparagraph (a)(i) and paragraphs (b), (c) and (d) sold by the Canadian affiliate in the course of a business, the property is deemed to have been disposed of by the entrant bank (and not by the Canadian affiliate) at the time it was disposed of by the Canadian affiliate, and the amount in respect of the sale that was included in computing the Canadian affiliate's income from a business is deemed to have been included in computing the entrant bank's income from its Canadian banking business for its taxation year that includes the time at which the property was so disposed of, and

(iv) in applying paragraph 40(1)(a) or 44(1)(e) in respect of a property described in subparagraph (a)(i) and paragraphs (b), (c) and (d) disposed of by the Canadian affiliate, the property is deemed to have been disposed of by the entrant bank (and not by the Canadian affiliate) at the time it was disposed of by the Canadian affiliate, the amount determined under subparagraph 40(1)(a)(i) or 44(1)(e)(i) in respect of the Canadian affiliate is deemed to be the amount determined under that subparagraph in respect of the entrant bank, and any amount claimed by the Canadian affiliate under subparagraph 40(1)(a)(iii) or 44(1)(e)(iii) in computing its gain from the disposition of the property for its last taxation year that ended before the particular time is deemed to have been so claimed by the entrant bank for its last taxation year that ended before the particular time.

Related Provisions: 142.7(11) — Requirements for election.

(8) Assumption of debt obligation — If a Canadian affiliate of an entrant bank described in paragraph (11)(a) transfers at any time within the period described in paragraph (11)(c) property to the entrant bank, and any part of the consideration for the transfer is the assumption by the entrant bank in respect of its Canadian banking business of a debt obligation of the Canadian affiliate,

(a) where the Canadian affiliate and the entrant bank jointly elect in accordance with subsection (11) to have this paragraph apply,

(i) both

(A) the value of that part of the consideration for the transfer of the property, and

(B) for the purpose of determining the consequences of the assumption of the obligation and any subsequent settlement or extinguishment of it, the value of the consideration given to the entrant bank for the assumption of the obligation, are deemed to be an amount (in this paragraph referred to as the "assumption amount") equal to the amount outstanding on account of the principal amount of the obligation at that time, and

(ii) the assumption amount shall not be considered a term of the transaction that differs from that which would have been made between persons dealing at arm's length solely because it is not equal to the fair market value of the obligation at that time;

(b) where the obligation is denominated in a foreign currency, and the Canadian affiliate and the entrant bank jointly elect in accordance with subsection (11) to have this paragraph apply,

(i) the amount of any income, loss, capital gain or capital loss in respect of the obligation due to the fluctuation in the value of the foreign currency relative to Canadian currency realized by

(A) the Canadian affiliate on the assumption of the obligation is deemed to be nil, and

(B) the entrant bank on the settlement or extinguishment of the obligation shall be determined based on the amount of the obligation in Canadian currency at the time it became an obligation of the Canadian affiliate, and

(ii) for the purpose of an election made in respect of the obligation under paragraph (a), the amount outstanding on account of the principal amount of the obligation at that time is the total of all amounts each of which is an amount that was advanced to the Canadian affiliate on account of principal, that remains outstanding at that time, and that is determined using the exchange rate that applied between the foreign currency and Canadian currency at the time of the advance; and

(c) for the purpose of applying paragraphs 20(1)(e) and (f) in respect of the debt obligation, the obligation is deemed not to have been settled or extinguished by virtue of its assumption by the entrant bank and the entrant bank is deemed to be the same corporation as, and a continuation of, the Canadian affiliate.

Proposed Addition — 142.7(8)(d)

(d) for the purpose of applying subparagraph 212(1)(b)(vii) in respect of the debt obligation, the obligation is deemed to have been issued by the entrant bank at the time that the obligation was issued by the Canadian affiliate.

Application: The February 27, 2004 draft legislation, s. 79, will add para. 142.7(8)(d), applicable after June 27, 1999.

Technical Notes (December 20, 2002): Section 142.7 provides time-limited rules to facilitate foreign banks' transformation of certain Canadian operations, currently carried out through subsidiaries, into Canadian branches (known as "authorized foreign banks") of the foreign banks themselves.

When an authorized foreign bank assumes certain debt obligations of its Canadian affiliates, subsection 142.7(8) applies to govern the tax consequences of the assumption.

Subparagraph 212(1)(b)(vii) provides an exemption from Part XIII tax in respect of interest payments on certain long- and medium-term corporate debt. The exemption can depend upon, among other things, the time at which a debt is issued. New paragraph 142.7(8)(d) is added to treat, for the purpose of subparagraph 212(1)(b)(vii), a debt obligation assumed by an authorized foreign bank from its Canadian affiliate as having been issued at the time that the debt was issued by the Canadian affiliate.

Letter from Dept. of Finance, December 18, 2001:

Dear [xxx]:

I am writing in reply to your letter of October 24, 2001, regarding the conversion rules of foreign bank branches, particularly subsection 142.7(8) and subparagraph 212(1)(b)(vii) of the Income Tax Act, as well as your letter of November 13, 2001 regarding the application of section 116 of the Act where an authorized foreign bank disposes of its property to a Canadian resident.

Conversion Rules

Subsection 142.7(8) provides the conversion rules for debt obligations assumed by an authorized foreign bank from its Canadian subsidiary, and subparagraph 212(1)(b)(vii) exempts from Part XIII non-resident withholding tax the interest paid to a non-resident by a corporation resident in Canada on certain long-term debts. Subsection 212(13.3), meanwhile, treats the branch as a resident of Canada for the purposes of Part XIII.

In your October letter, you note that paragraph 142.7(8)(c) deems the assumed debt not to have been settled or extinguished for the purposes of paragraphs 20(1)(e) and (f), but it does not do the same for the purposes of subparagraph 212(1)(b)(vii). You also suggest that the assumption of debt by an authorized foreign bank would result in a novation of that debt as the Canadian affiliate would have been totally discharged from it. In your opinion, when the novation took place there would be a new debt, which would not qualify for the exemption in subparagraph 212(1)(b)(vii) if there were less than 5 years left on the debt.

You consider this to be an inappropriate result, and you request an amendment to subsection 142.7(8) to provide specifically that the above-described debt be deemed to continue in order to qualify for the subparagraph 212(1)(b)(vii) exemption.

We agree with your views on this point and are prepared to recommend amendments to ensure that, where an authorized foreign bank assumes the debts of its subsidiary, such debt will be deemed for the purposes of the subparagraph 212(1)(b)(vii) exemption to have been issued by the entrant bank at the same time that it was issued by the Canadian affiliate under the original terms and conditions.

I trust that the above will satisfy your requirements.

Yours sincerely,

Brian Ernewein, Director, Tax Legislation Division, Tax Policy Branch

Related Provisions: 142.7(11) — Requirements for election.

(9) Branch-establishment dividend — Notwithstanding any other provision of this Act, the rules in subsection (10) apply if

(a) a dividend is paid by a Canadian affiliate of an entrant bank to the entrant bank or to a person that is affiliated with the Canadian affiliate and that is resident in the country in which the entrant bank is resident, or

(b) a dividend is deemed to be paid for the purposes of this Part or Part XIII (other than by paragraph 214(3)(a)) as a result of a transfer of property from the Canadian affiliate to such a person, and the Canadian affiliate and the entrant bank jointly elect in accordance with subsection (11) to have subsection (10) apply in respect of the dividend.

(10) Treatment of dividend — If the conditions in subsection (9) are met,

(a) the dividend is deemed (except for the purposes of subsections 112(3) to (7)) not to be a taxable dividend; and

(b) there is added to the amount otherwise determined under paragraph 219(1)(g) in respect of the entrant bank for its first taxation year that ends after the time at which the dividend is paid, the amount of the dividend less, where the dividend is paid by means of, or arises as a result of, a transfer of eligible property in respect of which the Canadian affiliate and the entrant bank have jointly elected under subsection (3), the amount by which the fair market value of the property transferred exceeds the amount the Canadian affiliate and the entrant bank have agreed on in their election.

Related Provisions: 142.7(11) — Requirements for election.

(11) Elections — An election under subsection (3) or (7), paragraph (8)(a) or (b) or subsection (10), (12) or (14) is valid only if

(a) the entrant bank by which the election is made has, on or before the day that is 6 months after the day on which the Income Tax Amendments Act, 2000 [2001, c. 17] receives royal assent [June 14, 2001], complied with paragraphs 1.1(b) and (c) of the "Guide to Foreign Bank Branching" in respect of the establishment and commencement of business of a foreign bank branch in Canada issued by the Office of the Superintendent of Financial Institutions, as it read on December 31, 2000;

(b) the election is made in prescribed form on or before the earlier of the filing-due date of the Canadian affiliate and the filing-due date of the entrant

bank, for the taxation year that includes the time at which

(i) in the case of an election under subsection (3) or (7), paragraph (8)(a) or (b) or subsection (10), the dividend, transfer or assumption to which the election relates is paid, made or effected, or

(ii) in the case of an election under subsection (12), the dissolution order was granted or the winding up commenced; and

(c) in the case of an election under subsection (3) or (7), paragraph (8)(a) or (b) or subsection (10), the dividend, transfer or assumption to which the election relates is paid, made or effected within the period that

(i) begins on the day on which the Superintendent makes an order in respect of the entrant bank under subsection 534(1) of the Bank Act, and

(ii) ends on the later of

(A) the earlier of

(I) the day that is one year after the day referred to subparagraph (i), and

(II) the day that is three years after the day on which the Income Tax Amendments Act, 2000 [2001, c. 17] receives royal assent [June 14, 2001], and

(B) the day that is one year after the day on which the Income Tax Amendments Act, 2000 [2001, c. 17] receives royal assent [June 14, 2001].

(12) Winding-up of Canadian affiliate: losses — If

(a) within the period described in paragraph (11)(c) in respect of the entrant bank,

(i) the Minister of Finance has issued letters patent under section 342 of the Bank Act or section 347 of the Trust and Loan Companies Act dissolving the Canadian affiliate or an order under section 345 of the Bank Act or section 350 of the Trust and Loan Companies Act approving the Canadian affiliate's application for dissolution (such letters patent or order being referred to in this subsection as the "dissolution order"), or

(ii) the affiliate has been wound up under the terms of the corporate law that governs it,

(b) the entrant bank carries on all or part of the business in Canada that was formerly carried on by the Canadian affiliate, and

(c) the Canadian affiliate and the entrant bank jointly elect in accordance with subsection (11) to have this section apply

then in applying section 111 for the purpose of computing the taxable income earned in Canada of the entrant bank for any taxation year that begins after the date of the dissolution order or the commencement of the winding up, as the case may be,

(d) subject to paragraphs (e) and (h), the portion of a non-capital loss of the Canadian affiliate for a taxation year (in this paragraph referred to as the "Canadian affiliate's loss year") that can reasonably be regarded as being its loss from carrying on a business in Canada (in this paragraph referred to as the "loss business") or being in respect of a claim made under section 110.5, to the extent that it

(i) was not deducted in computing the taxable income of the Canadian affiliate or any other entrant bank for any taxation year, and

(ii) would have been deductible in computing the taxable income of the Canadian affiliate for any taxation year that begins after the date of the dissolution order or the commencement of the winding up, as the case may be, on the assumption that it had such a taxation year and that it had sufficient income for that year,

is deemed, for the taxation year of the entrant bank in which the Canadian affiliate's loss year ended, to be a non-capital loss of the entrant bank from carrying on the loss business (or, in respect of a claim made under section 110.5, to be a non-capital loss of the entrant bank in respect of a claim under subparagraph 115(1)(a)(vii)) that was not deductible by the entrant bank in computing its taxable income earned in Canada for any taxation year that began before the date of the dissolution order or the commencement of the winding up, as the case may be,

(e) if at any time control of the Canadian affiliate or entrant bank has been acquired by a person or group of persons, no amount in respect of the Canadian affiliate's non-capital loss for a taxation year that ends before that time is deductible in computing the taxable income earned in Canada of the entrant bank for a particular taxation year that ends after that time, except that the portion of the loss that can reasonably be regarded as the Canadian affiliate's loss from carrying on a business in Canada and, where a business was carried on by the Canadian affiliate in Canada in the earlier year, the portion of the loss that can reasonably be regarded as being in respect of an amount deductible under paragraph 110(1)(k) in computing its taxable income for the year are deductible only

(i) if that business is carried on by the Canadian affiliate or the entrant bank for profit or with a reasonable expectation of profit throughout the particular year, and

(ii) to the extent of the total of the entrant bank's income for the particular year from that business, and where properties were sold, leased, rented or developed or services rendered in the course of carrying on that business before that time, from any other business substantially all of the income of which was derived from the sale, leasing, rental or development, as the case may be, of similar properties or the rendering of similar services, and, for the purpose of this paragraph, where subsection 88(1.1) applied to the dissolution of another corporation in respect of which the Canadian affiliate was the parent and paragraph 88(1.1)(e) applied in respect of losses of that other corporation, the Canadian affiliate is deemed to be the same corporation as, and a continuation of, that other corporation with respect to those losses,

(f) subject to paragraphs (g) and (h), a net capital loss of the Canadian affiliate for a taxation year (in this paragraph referred to as the "Canadian affiliate's loss year") is deemed to be a net capital loss of the entrant

bank for its taxation year in which the Canadian affiliate's loss year ended to the extent that the loss

(i) was not deducted in computing the taxable income of the Canadian affiliate or any other entrant bank for any taxation year, and

(ii) would have been deductible in computing the taxable income of the Canadian affiliate for any taxation year beginning after the date of the dissolution order or the commencement of the winding-up, as the case may be, on the assumption that the Canadian affiliate had such a taxation year and that it had sufficient income and taxable capital gains for that year,

(g) if at any time control of the Canadian affiliate or the entrant bank has been acquired by a person or group of persons, no amount in respect of the Canadian affiliate's net capital loss for a taxation year that ends before that time is deductible in computing the entrant bank's taxable income earned in Canada for a taxation year that ends after that time, and

(h) any loss of the Canadian affiliate that would otherwise be deemed by paragraph (d) or (f) to be a loss of the entrant bank for a particular taxation year that begins after the date of the dissolution order or the commencement of the winding-up, as the case may be, is deemed, for the purpose of computing the entrant bank's taxable income earned in Canada for taxation years that begin after that date, to be such a loss of the entrant bank for its immediately preceding taxation year and not for the particular year, if the entrant bank so elects in its return of income for the particular year.

(13) Winding-up of Canadian affiliate: stop loss — If a Canadian affiliate and its entrant bank have at any time made a joint election under either of subsection (3) or (12),

(a) in respect of any transfer of property, directly or indirectly, by the Canadian affiliate to the entrant bank or a person with whom the entrant bank does not deal at arm's length,

(i) subparagraph 13(21.2)(e)(iii) shall be read without reference to clause (E) of that subparagraph,

(ii) subsection 14(12) shall be read without reference to paragraph (g) of that subsection,

(iii) paragraph 18(15)(b) shall be read without reference to subparagraph (iv) of that paragraph, and

(iv) paragraph 40(3.4)(b) shall be read without reference to subparagraph (v) of that paragraph;

(b) in respect of any property of the Canadian affiliate appropriated to or for the benefit of the entrant bank or any person with whom the entrant bank does not deal at arm's length, section 69(5) shall be read without reference to paragraph (d); and

(c) for the purposes of applying subsection 13(21.2), 14(12), 18(15) and 40(3.4) to any property that was disposed of by the affiliate, after the dissolution or winding-up of the affiliate, the entrant bank is deemed to be the same corporation as, and a continuation of, the affiliate.

Regulations: 9204(2.1) (winding-up into authorized foreign bank).

(14) Winding-up of Canadian affiliate: SDOs — If a Canadian affiliate of an entrant bank and the entrant bank meet the conditions set out in paragraphs (12)(a) and (b) and jointly elect in accordance with subsection (11) to have this subsection apply, and the Canadian affiliate has not made an election under this subsection with any other entrant bank, the entrant bank is deemed to be the same corporation as, and a continuation of, the Canadian affiliate for the purposes of paragraphs 142.4(4)(c) and (d) in respect of any specified debt obligation disposed of by the Canadian affiliate.

Communal Organizations

143. (1) Communal [religious] organizations — Where a congregation, or one or more business agencies of the congregation, carries on one or more businesses for purposes that include supporting or sustaining the congregation's members or the members of any other congregation, the following rules apply:

(a) an inter vivos trust is deemed to be created on the day that is the later of

(i) December 31, 1976, and

(ii) the day the congregation came into existence;

(b) the trust is deemed to have been continuously in existence from the day determined under paragraph (a);

(c) the property of the congregation is deemed to be the property of the trust;

(d) the property of each business agency of the congregation in a calendar year is deemed to be property of the trust throughout the portion of the year throughout which the trust exists;

(e) where the congregation is a corporation, the corporation is deemed to be the trustee having control of the trust property;

(f) where the congregation is not a corporation, its council, committee of leaders, executive committee, administrative committee, officers or other group charged with its management are deemed to be the trustees having control of the trust property;

(g) the congregation is deemed to act and to have always acted as agent for the trust in all matters relating to its businesses and other activities;

(h) each business agency of the congregation in a calendar year is deemed to have acted as agent for the trust in all matters in the year relating to its businesses and other activities;

(i) the members of the congregation are deemed to be the beneficiaries under the trust;

(j) tax under this Part is payable by the trust on its taxable income for each taxation year;

(k) in computing the income of the trust for any taxation year,

(i) subject to paragraph (l), no deduction may be made in respect of salaries, wages or benefits of any kind provided to the members of the congregation, and

(ii) no deduction may be made under subsection 104(6), except to the extent that any portion of the trust's income (determined without reference to that subsection) is allocated to the members of the congregation in accordance with subsection (2);

(l) for the purpose of applying section 20.01 to the trust,

(i) each member of the congregation is deemed to be a member of the trust's household, and

(ii) section 20.01 shall be read without reference to paragraphs 20.01(2)(b) and (c) and subsection 20.01(3); and

(m) where the congregation or one of the business agencies is a corporation, section 15.1 shall, except for the purposes of paragraphs 15.1(2)(a) and (c) (other than subparagraphs 15.1(2)(c)(i) and (ii)), apply as if this subsection were read without reference to paragraphs (c), (d), (g) and(h).

(2) Election in respect of income — Where the inter vivos trust referred to in subsection (1) in respect of a congregation so elects in respect of a taxation year in writing filed with the Minister on or before the trust's filing-due date for the year and all the congregation's participating members are specified in the election in accordance with subsection (5), the following rules apply:

(a) for the purposes of subsections 104(6) and (13), the amount payable in the year to a particular participating member of the congregation out of the income of the trust (determined without reference to subsection 104(6)) is the amount determined by the formula

$$0.8\ (A \times B/C) + D + (0.2A - E)/F$$

where

A is the taxable income of the trust for the year (determined without reference to subsection 104(6) and specified future tax consequences for the year),

B is

(i) where the particular member is identified in the election as a person to whom this subparagraph applies (in this subsection referred to as a "designated member"), 1, and

(ii) in any other case, 0.5,

C is the total of

(i) the number of designated members of the congregation, and

(ii) ½ of the number of other participating members of the congregation in respect of the year,

D is the amount, if any, that is specified in the election as an additional allocation under this subsection to the particular member,

E is the total of all amounts each of which is an amount specified in the election as an additional allocation under this subsection to a participating member of the congregation in respect of the year, and

F is the number of participating members of the congregation in respect of the year;

(b) the designated member of each family at the end of the year is deemed to have supported the other members of the family during the year and the other members of the family are deemed to have been wholly dependent on the designated member for support during the year; and

(c) the taxable income for the year of each member of the congregation shall be computed without reference to subsection 110(2).

Related Provisions: 143(3) — Election not binding unless taxes paid; 143(5) — Specification of family members; 220(3.2), Reg. 600(b) — Late filing of election; 257 — Formula cannot calculate to less than zero.

History: Subsec. 143(2) amended by 2000, c. 19, subsec. 41(1), applicable to 1998 et seq. The subsec. formerly read:

> (2) Election in respect of taxable income — Where the inter vivos trust referred to in subsection (1) in respect of a congregation so elects in respect of a taxation year, the amount determined under paragraph (a) for that taxation year shall be deemed to have been payable by the trust in the year to the beneficiaries thereunder in accordance with the following rules:
>
> (a) determine the amount that would be the taxable income of the trust for the year if no deductions were made in respect of expenses incurred for the support, maintenance and satisfaction or personal needs of its members,
>
> (b) determine the amount that is the quotient obtained when the amount so determined is divided by 1¼ times the number of adults who are members of the congregation at the end of the year,
>
> (c) allocate to each family in the congregation at the end of the year the amount equal to the product obtained when the amount determined under paragraph (b) is multiplied by the number of adults in the family at the end of the year, and
>
> (d) allocate among the families in the congregation at the end of the year in such manner as the congregation determines the amount by which the amount determined under paragraph (a) exceeds the total of amounts allocated under paragraph (c) or, if such an allocation is not made and specified in the election under this subsection in respect of the year, allocate to each of the families in the congregation at the end of the year the amount equal to the proportion of the excess that the number of adults in the family at that time is of the number of adults in all of the families in the congregation at that time,
> and the total of amounts so allocated to a family shall be deemed to be payable in the year to, and to be received in the year by, the adult member of the family who is specified in the election under this subsection in respect of the year and that member of the family shall be deemed to have supported each of the other members of the family during that taxation year and the other members of the family shall be deemed to have been wholly dependent on that member for support during that taxation year.

(3.1) Election in respect of gifts — For the purposes of section 118.1, where the fair market value of a gift made in a taxation year by an inter vivos trust referred to in subsection (1) in respect of a congregation would, but for this subsection, be included in the total charitable gifts, total Crown gifts, total cultural gifts or total ecological gifts of the trust for the year and the trust so elects in its return of income under this Part for the year,

(a) the trust is deemed not to have made the gift; and

(b) each participating member of the congregation is deemed to have made, in the year, such a gift the fair market value of which is the amount determined by the formula

$$A \times B/C$$

where

A is the fair market value of the gift made by the trust,

Proposed Amendment — 143(3.1) before (b)B

(3.1) Election in respect of gifts — For the purposes of section 118.1, where the eligible amount of a gift made in a taxation year by an inter vivos trust referred to in subsection (1) in respect of a congregation would, but for this subsection, be included in the total charitable gifts, total Crown gifts, total cultural gifts or total ecological gifts of the trust for the year and the trust so elects in its return of income under this Part for the year,

(a) the trust is deemed not to have made the gift; and

(b) each participating member of the congregation is deemed to have made, in the year, such a gift the eligible amount of which is the amount determined by the formula

$$A \times B/C$$

where

A is the eligible amount of the gift made by the trust,

Application: The February 27, 2004 draft legislation, s. 80, will amend the portion of subsec. 143(3.1) before the description of B to read as above, applicable to gifts made after December 20, 2002.

Technical Notes (December 20, 2002): Subsection 143(3.1) allows a communal organization that makes an election under subsection 143(2) to elect to have its total charitable, Crown, cultural and ecological gifts flowed through to those members (the "participating" members) of the congregation for whom an amount is included in income for the year under subsection 143(2).

Subsection 143(3.1) is amended consequential to the addition of new subsection 248(30), in respect of gifts made after December 20, 2002, to refer to the "eligible amount" of a gift made because of a person being a participating member in the communal organization.

B is the amount determined for the year in respect of the member under paragraph (2)(a) as a consequence of an election under subsection (2) by the trust, and

C is the total of all amounts each of which is an amount determined for the year in respect of a participating member of the congregation under paragraph (2)(a) as a consequence of an election under subsection (2) by the trust.

Related Provisions: 248(30)–(33) — Determination of eligible amount.

History: Subsec. 143(3.1) amended by 2000, c. 19, subsec. 41(2), the opening words applicable to 1995 et seq. and paras. (a), (b) applicable to 1998 et seq. The subsec. formerly read:

> (3.1) For the purposes of section 118.1, where the fair market value of a gift made in a taxation year by an inter vivos trust referred to in subsection (1) would, but for this subsection, be included in the total charitable gifts, total Crown gifts or total cultural gifts of the trust for the year and the trust so elects in its return of income under this Part for the year,
> (a) the trust shall be deemed not to have made the gift; and

(b) each adult member of a family to whom an amount is deemed under subsection (2) to be payable in the year shall be deemed to have made, in the year, such a gift the fair market value of which is the amount determined by the formula

$$A \times \frac{B}{C}$$

where

A is the fair market value of the gift made by the trust,

B is the amount deemed under subsection (2) to be payable in the year in respect of the trust to the adult member, and

C is the total of all amounts deemed under subsection (2) to be payable in the year in respect of the trust to an adult member of a family.

Subsec. 143(3.1) added by 1994, c. 7, Sch. II (1991, c. 49), subsec. 116(1), applicable to 1990 et seq.

"total Crown gifts" has the meaning assigned by subsection 118.1(1);

"total cultural gifts" has the meaning assigned by subsection 118.1(1).

"total ecological gifts" has the same meaning as in subsection 118.1(1).

History: The definition "adult" in subsec. 143(4) amended by 2000, c. 12, Sch. 2, s. 11, to replace "married" with "married or in a common-law partnership", applicable to 2001 et seq., in force July 31, 2000. See also the transitional rules reproduced in the History to 248(1)"common-law partner".

The definition "family" in subsec. 143(4) amended by 2000, c. 12, subsec. 134(1), applicable to 2001 et seq., in force July 31, 2000. See also the transitional rules reproduced in the History to 248(1)"common-law partner". The definition formerly read:

"family" means,

(a) in the case of an unmarried adult, that person and the person's unmarried children who are not adults, and

(b) in the case of a married adult, that person and the person's spouse and the unmarried children of either or both of them who are not adults

but does not include an individual who is included in any other family or who is not a member of the congregation in which the family is included;

Para. (b) of the definition "member of the congregation" in subsec. 143(4) amended by 2000, c. 12, subsec. 134(2) (as amended by 2001, c. 17, s. 263), applicable to 2001 et seq., in force July 31, 2000. See also the transitional rules reproduced in the History to 248(1)"common-law partner". The para. formerly read:

(b) an unmarried child, other than an adult, of an adult referred to in paragraph (a), if the child lives with the members of the congregation;

The definition "congregation" in subsec. (4) amended, and the definitions "business agency", "participating member" and "total ecological gifts" added to subsec. (4) by 2000, c. 19, subsecs. 41(3), (4), the definitions "congregation", "business agency" and "participating member" applicable to 1998 et seq. except that, for taxation years that end before 2001, the definition "business agency" shall be read as follows:

"business agency", of a congregation at any time in a particular calendar year, means

(a) a corporation, trust or other person, where the congregation owned all the shares of the capital stock of the corporation (except directors' qualifying shares) or every interest in the trust or other person, as the case may be, throughout the portion of the particular year throughout which both the congregation and the corporation, trust or other person, as the case may be, existed, or

(b) a corporation, trust or other person of which the congregation

(i) has effective management or control throughout the portion of the particular year throughout which both the congregation and the corporation, trust or other person, as the case may be, were in existence, and

(ii) had effective management or control during a taxation year of the corporation, trust or other person that began before March 1999 and ended in the particular year; and the definition "total ecological gifts", applicable to gifts made after February 27, 1995. The definition "congregation" formerly read:

> "congregation" means a community, society or body of individuals, whether or not incorporated, that adheres to the practices and beliefs of, and operates according to the principles of, the religious organization of which it is a constituent part;

The definitions "total charitable gifts", "total Crown gifts" and "total cultural gifts" added by 1994, c. 7, Sch. II (1991, c. 49), subsec. 116(2), applicable to 1990 et seq.

(5) Specification of family members — For the purpose of applying subsection (2) to a particular election by the inter vivos trust referred to in subsection (1) in respect of a congregation for a particular taxation year,

(a) subject to paragraph (b), a participating member of the congregation is considered to have been specified in the particular election in accordance with this subsection only if the member is identified in the particular election and

(i) where the member's family includes only one adult at the end of the particular year, the member is identified in the particular election as a person to whom subparagraph (i) of the description of B in subsection (2) (in this subsection referred to as the "relevant subparagraph") applies, and

(ii) in any other case, only one of the adults in the member's family is identified in the particular election as a person to whom the relevant subparagraph applies; and

(b) an individual is considered not to have been specified in the particular election in accordance with this subsection if

(i) the individual is one of two individuals who were married to each other, or in a common-law partnership, at the end of a preceding taxation year of the trust and at the end of the particular year,

(ii) one of those individuals was

(A) where the preceding year ended before 1998, specified in an election under subsection (2) by the trust for the preceding year, and

(B) in any other case, identified in an election under subsection (2) by the trust for the preceding year as a person to whom the relevant subparagraph applied, and

(iii) the other individual is identified in the particular election as a person to whom the relevant subparagraph applies.

History [subsec. 143(5)]: Subpara. 143(5)(b)(i) amended by 2001, c. 17, s. 245 to add the words "or in a common-law partnership", applicable to 2001 et seq. except that, if a taxpayer and a person have jointly elected pursuant to s. 144 of 2000, c. 12 in respect of the 1998, 1999 or 2000 taxation years, the amendment applies to the taxpayer and the person in respect of the applicable taxation year and subsequent taxation years.

Subsec. 143(5) amended by 2000, c. 19, subsec. 41(5), applicable to 1998 et seq. The subsec. formerly read:

> (5) Effect of specification of member of family — Where an adult member (in this subsection referred to as a "specified person") of a family is specified in an election under subsection (2) in respect of a taxation year, no other member of that family may be specified in an election in respect of any subsequent taxation year at the end of which the specified person was a member of that family.

143.1 (1) Amateur athletes' reserve funds — Where a national sport organization that is a registered Canadian amateur athletic association receives an amount for the benefit of an individual under an arrangement made under rules of an international sport federation that require amounts to be held, controlled and administered by the organization in order to preserve the eligibility of the individual to compete in a sporting event sanctioned by the federation,

(a) an inter vivos trust (in this section referred to as an "amateur athlete trust") shall be deemed to be created on the day that is the later of

(i) the day on which the first such amount is received by the organization, and

(ii) January 1, 1992, and to exist continuously thereafter until subsection (3) or (4) applies in respect of the trust;

(b) all property required to be held after 1991 under the arrangement shall be deemed to be property of the trust and not property of any other person;

(c) any amount received at any time under the arrangement by the organization shall, to the extent that it would, but for this subsection, be included in computing the individual's income for the taxation year that includes that time, be deemed to be income of the trust for the taxation year and not to be income of the individual;

(d) all amounts paid at any time by the organization under the arrangement to or for the benefit of the individual shall be deemed to be amounts distributed at that time to the individual by the trust;

(e) the individual shall be deemed to be the beneficiary under the trust;

(f) the organization shall be deemed to be the trustee of the trust; and

(g) no tax is payable under this Part by the trust on its taxable income for any taxation year.

(3) Termination of amateur athlete trust — Where an amateur athlete trust holds property on behalf of a beneficiary who has not competed in an international sporting event as a Canadian national team member for a period of

8 years that ends in a particular taxation year and begins in the year that is the later of

(a) where the beneficiary has competed in such an event, the year in which the beneficiary last so competed, and

(b) the year in which the trust was created,

the trust shall be deemed to have distributed, at the end of the particular taxation year to the beneficiary, an amount equal to

(c) where the trust is liable to pay tax under Part XII.2 in respect of the particular year, 64% of the fair market value of all property held by it at that time, and

(d) in any other case, the fair market value of all property held by it at that time.

Related Provisions: 210.2(1.1) — Application of Part XII.2 tax to amateur athlete trusts.

(4) Death of beneficiary — Where an amateur athlete trust holds property on behalf of a beneficiary who dies in a year, the trust shall be deemed to have distributed, immediately before the death, to the beneficiary, an amount equal to

(a) where the trust is liable to pay tax under Part XII.2 in respect of the year, 64% of the fair market value of all property held by it at that time; and

(b) in any other case, the fair market value of all property held by it at that time.

Related Provisions: 210.2(1.1) — Application of Part XII.2 tax to amateur athlete trusts.

Cost of Tax Shelter Investments

Proposed Amendment — Heading before 143.2

Application: The February 27, 2004 draft legislation, subsec. 80.1(1), will amend the heading before s. 143.2 to read "Cost of Tax Shelter Investments and Limited-Recourse Debt in respect of Gifting Arrangements", applicable in respect of expenditures, gifts and monetary contributions made after February 18, 2003.

143.2 (1) Definitions — The definitions in this subsection apply in this section.

"expenditure" means an outlay or expense or the cost or capital cost of a property.

Related Provisions: 143.2(2) — At-risk adjustment in respect of expenditures; 143.2(6) — Expenditures reduced by at-risk adjustment.

"limited partner" has the meaning that would be assigned by subsection 96(2.4) if that subsection were read without reference to "if the member's partnership interest is not an exempt interest (within the meaning assigned by subsection (2.5)) at that time and".

"limited-recourse amount" means the unpaid principal amount of any indebtedness for which recourse is limited, either immediately or in the future and either absolutely or contingently.

Related Provisions: 143.2(7), (8), (13) — Whether unpaid principal deemed to be limited-recourse amount; 248(1) — Definition of "principal amount"; 248(1)"limited-recourse amount" — Definition applies to entire Act; Reg. 231(6.1) — Limited-recourse amount may be prescribed benefit for purposes of definition of tax shelter.

"taxpayer" includes a partnership.

"tax shelter investment" means

(a) a property that is a tax shelter for the purpose of subsection 237.1(1); or

(b) a taxpayer's interest in a partnership where

(i) an interest in the taxpayer

(A) is a tax shelter investment, and

(B) the taxpayer's partnership interest would be a tax shelter investment if

(I) this Act were read without reference to this paragraph and to the words "having regard to statements or representations made or proposed to be made in connection with the property" in the definition "tax shelter" in subsection 237.1(1),

(II) the references in that definition to "represented" were read as references to "that can reasonably be expected", and

(III) the reference in that definition to "is represented" were read as a reference to "can reasonably be expected",

(ii) another interest in the partnership is a tax shelter investment, or

(iii) the taxpayer's interest in the partnership entitles the taxpayer, directly or indirectly, to a share of the income or loss of a particular partnership where

(A) another taxpayer holding a partnership interest is entitled, directly or indirectly, to a share of the income or loss of the particular partnership, and

(B) that other taxpayer's partnership interest is a tax shelter investment.

Related Provisions: 18.1(13) — Matchable expenditure deemed to be a tax shelter investment; 53(2)(c)(i.3) — Tax shelter investment excluded from certain ACB reductions; 125.4(4) — No Canadian film credit for a tax shelter investment; 143.2(6) — Limitation on cost of tax shelter investment; 150(1)(d)(ii)(A) — Tax shelter investment does not entitle individual to June 15 filing deadline; 249.1(5) — Election for non-calendar year-end not permitted for tax shelters; Reg. 1100(20.1) — limitation on CCA claim for computer software tax shelter property.

I.T. Technical News: No. 22 (tax shelter news release — rulings position).

(2) At-risk adjustment — For the purpose of this section, an at-risk adjustment in respect of an expenditure of a particular taxpayer, other than the cost of a partnership interest to which subsection 96(2.2) applies, means any amount or benefit that the particular taxpayer, or another taxpayer not dealing at arm's length with the particular taxpayer, is entitled, either immediately or in the future and either absolutely or contingently, to receive or to obtain, whether by way of reimbursement, compensation, revenue guarantee, proceeds of disposition, loan or any other form of indebtedness, or in any other form or manner whatever, granted or to be granted for the purpose of reducing the impact, in whole or in part, of any loss that the particular taxpayer may sustain in respect of the expenditure or, where the expenditure is the cost or capital cost of a property, any loss from the holding or disposition of the property.

Related Provisions: 96(2.2) — At-risk amount for limited partnership; 143.2(3) — Exclusions from at-risk adjustment; 143.2(4) — Determination of amount or benefit; 143.2(6) — Expenditures reduced by at-risk adjustment; 143.2(9) — Timing.

(3) Amount or benefit not included — For the purpose of subsection (2), an at-risk adjustment in respect of a taxpayer's expenditure does not include an amount or benefit

(a) to the extent that it is included in determining the value of J in the definition "cumulative Canadian exploration expense" in subsection 66.1(6), of M in the definition "cumulative Canadian development expense" in subsection 66.2(5) or of I in the definition "cumulative Canadian oil and gas property expense" in subsection 66.4(5) in respect of the taxpayer; or

(b) the entitlement to which arises

(i) because of a contract of insurance with an insurance corporation dealing at arm's length with the taxpayer (and, where the expenditure is the cost of an interest in a partnership, with each member of the partnership) under which the taxpayer is insured against any claim arising as a result of a liability incurred in the ordinary course of carrying on the business of the taxpayer or the partnership,

(ii) as a consequence of the death of the taxpayer,

(iii) in respect of an amount not included in the expenditure, determined without reference to subparagraph (6)(b)(ii), or

(iv) because of an excluded obligation (as defined in subsection 6202.1(5) of the Income Tax Regulations) in relation to a share issued to the taxpayer or, where the expenditure is the cost of an interest in a partnership, to the partnership.

(4) Amount or benefit — For the purposes of subsections (2) and (3), where the amount or benefit to which a taxpayer is entitled at any time is provided by way of an agreement or other arrangement under which the taxpayer has a right, either immediately or in the future and either absolutely or contingently (otherwise than as a consequence of the death of the taxpayer), to acquire property, for greater certainty the amount or benefit to which the taxpayer is entitled under the agreement or arrangement is considered to be not less than the fair market value of the property at that time.

(5) Amount or benefit — For the purposes of subsections (2) and (3), where the amount or benefit to which a taxpayer is entitled at any time is provided by way of a guarantee, security or similar indemnity or covenant in respect of any loan or other obligation of the taxpayer, for greater certainty the amount or benefit to which the taxpayer is entitled under the guarantee or indemnity at any particular time is considered to be not less than the total of the unpaid amount of the loan or obligation at that time and all other amounts outstanding in respect of the loan or obligation at that time.

(6) Amount of expenditure — Notwithstanding any other provision of this Act, the amount of any expenditure that is, or is the cost or capital cost of, a taxpayer's tax shelter investment, and the amount of any expenditure of a taxpayer an interest in which is a tax shelter investment, shall be reduced to the amount, if any, by which

(a) the amount of the taxpayer's expenditure otherwise determined

exceeds

(b) the total of

(i) the limited-recourse amounts of

(A) the taxpayer, and

(B) all other taxpayers not dealing at arm's length with the taxpayer that can reasonably be considered to relate to the expenditure,

(ii) the taxpayer's at-risk adjustment in respect of the expenditure, and

(iii) each limited-recourse amount and at-risk adjustment, determined under this section when this section is applied to each other taxpayer who deals at arm's length with and holds, directly or indirectly, an interest in the taxpayer, that can reasonably be considered to relate to the expenditure.

Related Provisions: 18.1(13) — Subpara. (6)(b)(ii) inapplicable for matchable expenditures; Reg. 1100(20.1) — limitation on CCA claim for computer software tax shelter property.

Proposed Addition — 143.2(6.1)

(6.1) Limited-recourse debt in respect of a gift or monetary contribution — The limited-recourse debt in respect of a gift or monetary contribution of a taxpayer, at the time the gift or monetary contribution is made, is the total of

(a) each limited-recourse amount at that time, of the taxpayer and of all other taxpayers not dealing at arm's length with the taxpayer, that can reasonably be considered to relate to the gift or monetary contribution,

(b) each limited-recourse amount at that time, determined under this section when this section is applied to each other taxpayer who deals at arm's length with and holds, directly or indirectly, an interest in the taxpayer, that can reasonably be considered to relate to the gift or monetary contribution, and

(c) each amount that is the unpaid amount at that time of any other indebtedness, of any taxpayer referred to in paragraph (a) or (b), that can reasonably be considered to relate to the gift or monetary contribution if there is a guarantee, security or similar indemnity or covenant in respect of that or any other indebtedness.

Application: The February 27, 2004 draft legislation, subsec. 80.1(2), will add subsec. 143.2(6.1), applicable in respect of expenditures, gifts and monetary contributions made after February 18, 2003.

Technical Notes: New subsection 143.2(6.1) describes limited-recourse debt in respect of a gift or monetary contribution made after February 18, 2003. Such an amount is an advantage under subsection 248(31), such that it reduces the eligible amount of a gift or political contribution determined under subsection 248(30). For additional details regarding the amount of an advantage, see the commentary to new subsection 248(31).

A limited-recourse debt includes the unpaid principal of any indebtedness for which recourse is limited, even if that limitation applies only in the future or contingently. It also includes any other indebtedness of the taxpayer, related to the gift or contribution, if there is a guarantee, security or similar indemnity or covenant in respect of that or any other indebtedness. For example, if a donor (or any other person mentioned below) enters into a contract of insurance whereby all or part of a debt will be paid upon the occurrence of either a certain or contingent event, the debt is a limited-recourse debt in respect of a gift if it is in any way related to the gift.

Such an indebtedness is also a limited-recourse debt if it is owed by a person dealing non-arm's length with the taxpayer or by a person who holds an interest in the taxpayer.

Department of Finance news release, December 5, 2003: These measures implement proposals introduced in Budget 2003 that address charitable donation arrangements that were promoted in recent years involving the use of limited-recourse debt. [See under 248(35)–(37) for full text of news release — ed.]

Notice of Ways and Means Motion, federal budget, February 18, 2003: (17) That, after February 18, 2003, . . .

(c) in respect of gifts and contributions, and representations, made after that date, an arrangement in respect of the making of a gift referred to in section 110.1 or 118.1 of the Act or a contribution referred to in subsection 127(4.1) of the Act be deemed to be a tax shelter if it may reasonably be considered that, having regard to representations made concerning the arrangement, a person will incur an indebtedness in respect of which recourse is limited; and

(d) for gifts and contributions made after that date pursuant to an arrangement described in subparagraph (c), the amount of the gift or contribution be reduced by the amount of any associated indebtedness in respect of which recourse is limited, and the value of any repayment of the limited recourse debt be treated as a gift or contribution in the year the repayment is made.

Federal budget, Supplementary Information, February 18, 2003: Tax Shelter Definition

Generally, a tax shelter is any property in respect of which it is represented that a potential purchaser will be able to claim, within four years, deductions from income or taxable income which equal or exceed the net cost of the property to the purchaser (that is, net of certain prescribed benefits such as limited-recourse debt).

Promoters of tax shelter properties are not permitted to sell a tax shelter without first obtaining an identification number from the Canada Customs and Revenue Agency (CCRA). This identification number does not constitute confirmation by the CCRA of entitlement to any tax benefits that may have been described to potential purchasers; rather, the CCRA uses the number for administrative purposes such as identifying tax shelters for audit.

If an identification number is not obtained in advance, no person may claim any deduction in respect of the tax shelter until the number is obtained.

While the existing definition of "tax shelter" in the Income Tax Act applies to arrangements promoted as providing deductions in computing income or taxable income, it may not currently apply to those that are promoted as providing only the deduction of tax credits. The budget proposes to eliminate this technical distinction so that promoters will be required to register a property as a tax shelter if representations are made that a potential purchaser will be able to claim, within four years, any combination of deductions in computing income or taxable income and federal tax credits which in total equal or exceed the purchaser's net cost of the property. The definition of tax shelter will also be amended to clarify its application to property acquired under an arrangement in respect of which it is represented that a donation or contribution of the property would generate tax credits or deductions (such as charitable donations tax credits or deductions) equal to or exceeding the net cost to the donor of the property.

In order to avoid a double counting of tax credits in the formula used to determine if a property or an arrangement is a tax shelter, it is proposed that the definition of "prescribed benefits" in paragraph 231(6)(b) of the Income Tax Regulations be amended to exclude any federal tax credit already taken into account in determining whether tax credits and deductions exceed net cost. Provincial tax credits would continue to be considered prescribed benefits.

Further, the budget proposes to treat as a tax shelter any arrangement that involves a transfer of property in respect of which it is represented that a donation or contribution of the property would generate tax credits or deductions, if it may reasonably be considered that a person will incur limited-recourse debt in connection with the arrangement. If the transfer otherwise qualifies for a tax credit or deduction, the amount of the donation or contribution will be reduced for the purposes of calculating the amount of the credit or deduction to the extent of the associated limited-recourse debt. A repayment of the limited-recourse debt will be treated as a donation or contribution in the year it is repaid.

These amendments will generally apply in respect of property acquired, and gifts, contributions and representations made, after February 18, 2003.

Related Provisions: 237.1(1)"gifting arrangement"(b) — Incurring limited-recourse debt may require tax shelter registration; 248(31)(b) — Limited-recourse debt reduces value of donation; 248(34) — Repayment of limited-recourse debt.

(7) Repayment of indebtedness — For the purpose of this section, the unpaid principal of an indebtedness is deemed to be a limited-recourse amount unless

(a) bona fide arrangements, evidenced in writing, were made, at the time the indebtedness arose, for repayment by the debtor of the indebtedness and all interest on the indebtedness within a reasonable period not exceeding 10 years; and

(b) interest is payable at least annually, at a rate equal to or greater than the lesser of

(i) the prescribed rate of interest in effect at the time the indebtedness arose, and

(ii) the prescribed rate of interest applicable from time to time during the term of the indebtedness, and is paid in respect of the indebtedness by the debtor no later than 60 days after the end of each taxation year of the debtor that ends in the period.

Related Provisions: 143.2(12) — Series of loans or repayments; Reg. 4301(c) (prescribed rate of interest).

(8) Limited-recourse amount — For the purpose of this section, the unpaid principal of an indebtedness is deemed to be a limited-recourse amount of a taxpayer where the taxpayer is a partnership and recourse against any member of the partnership in respect of the indebtedness is limited, either immediately or in the future and either absolutely or contingently.

(9) Timing — Where at any time a taxpayer has paid an amount (in this subsection referred to as the "repaid amount") on account of the principal amount of an indebtedness that was, before that time, the unpaid principal amount of a loan or any other form of indebtedness to which subsection (2) applies (in this subsection referred to as the "former amount or benefit") relating to an expenditure of the taxpayer,

(a) the former amount or benefit is considered to have been an amount or benefit under subsection (2) in respect of the taxpayer at all times before that time; and

(b) the expenditure is, subject to subsection (6), deemed to have been made or incurred at that time to the extent of, and by the payment of, the repaid amount.

(10) Timing — Where at any time a taxpayer has paid an amount (in this subsection referred to as the "repaid amount") on account of the principal amount of an indebtedness which was, before that time, an unpaid principal amount that was a limited-recourse amount (in this subsection referred to as the "former limited-recourse indebtedness") relating to an expenditure of the taxpayer,

(a) the former limited-recourse indebtedness is considered to have been a limited-recourse amount at all times before that time; and

(b) the expenditure is, subject to subsection (6), deemed to have been made or incurred at that time to the extent of, and by the amount of, the repaid amount.

Related Provisions: 231.6 — Foreign-based information.

(11) Short-term debt — Where a taxpayer pays all of the principal of an indebtedness no later than 60 days after that indebtedness arose and the indebtedness would otherwise be considered to be a limited-recourse amount solely because of the application of subsection (7) or (8), that subsection does not apply to the indebtedness unless

(a) any portion of the repayment is made with a limited-recourse amount; or

(b) the repayment can reasonably be considered to be part of a series of loans or other indebtedness and repayments that ends more than 60 days after the indebtedness arose.

Related Provisions: 231.6 — Foreign-based information; 251(1) — Arm's length.

(12) Series of loans or repayments — For the purpose of paragraph (7)(a), a debtor is considered not to have made arrangements to repay an indebtedness within 10 years where the debtor's arrangement to repay can reasonably be considered to be part of a series of loans or other indebtedness and repayments that ends more than 10 years after it begins.

(13) Information located outside Canada — For the purpose of this section, where it can reasonably be considered that information relating to indebtedness that relates to a taxpayer's expenditure is available outside Canada and the Minister is not satisfied that the unpaid principal of the indebtedness is not a limited-recourse amount, the unpaid principal of the indebtedness relating to the taxpayer's expenditure is deemed to be a limited-recourse amount relating to the expenditure unless

Proposed Amendment — 143.2(13) opening words

(13) Information located outside Canada — For the purpose of this section, where it can reasonably be considered that information relating to indebtedness that relates to a taxpayer's expenditure, gift or monetary contribution is available outside Canada and the Minister is not satisfied that the unpaid principal of the indebtedness is not a limited-recourse amount, the unpaid principal of the indebtedness relating to the taxpayer's expenditure, gift or monetary contribution is deemed to be a limited-recourse amount relating to the expenditure, gift or monetary contribution unless

Application: The February 27, 2004 draft legislation, subsec. 80.1(3), will amend the opening words of subsec. 143.2(13), applicable in respect of expenditures, gifts and monetary contributions made after February 18, 2003.

Technical Notes: Subsection 143.2(13) applies where information related to an indebtedness in respect of an expenditure is located outside Canada, and the Minister of National Revenue is not satisfied that the indebtedness is not a limited-recourse amount. In such a case, the indebtedness is deemed to be a limited-recourse amount in respect of the expenditure. Subsection 143.2(13) is extended to also apply in respect of an indebtedness that relates to a gift or political contribution made after February 18, 2003.

(a) the information is provided to the Minister; or

(b) the information is located in a country with which the Government of Canada has entered into a tax convention or agreement that has the force of law in Canada and includes a provision under which the Minister can obtain the information.

(14) Information located outside Canada — For the purpose of this section, where it can reasonably be considered that information relating to whether a taxpayer is not dealing at arm's length with another taxpayer is available outside Canada and the Minister is not satisfied that the taxpayer is dealing at arm's length with the other taxpayer, the taxpayer and the other taxpayer are deemed not to be dealing with each other at arm's length unless

(a) the information is provided to the Minister; or

(b) the information is located in a country with which the Government of Canada has entered into a tax convention or agreement that has the force of law in Canada and includes a provision under which the Minister can obtain the information.

(15) Assessments — Notwithstanding subsections 152(4) to (5), such assessments, determinations and redeterminations may be made as are necessary to give effect to this section.

Related Provisions: 237.1(6.2) — Late assessment to deny deduction when penalty unpaid.

History [s. 143.2]: S. 143.2 added by 1998, c. 19, s. 168, applicable to property acquired and to outlays and expenses made or incurred by a taxpayer after November 1994, except that

(a) it does not apply where

(i) the property was acquired, or the outlay or expense was made or incurred, before 1995 pursuant to an agreement in writing made by the taxpayer before December 1994, or

(ii) the property is

(A) a film production prescribed for the purpose of subpara. 96(2.2)(d)(ii) where

(I) the principal photography of the production began before 1995, or, in the case of a production that is a television series, one episode of the series began before 1995, and

(II) the principal photography of the production was completed before March 2, 1995, or

(B) an interest in a partnership (all or substantially all of the property of which is a film production referred to in clause (A)) acquired before 1995 by a taxpayer that is a partnership and the following conditions are met:

(iii) in the case of an interest that is a tax shelter for which s. 237.1 requires an identification number to be obtained, an identification number was obtained before December 1994, and

(iv) there is no agreement or other arrangement under which the taxpayer's obligations with respect to the interest can be changed, reduced or waived if there is a change to the Act or if there is an adverse assessment under the Act;

(b) it does not apply to revenue guarantees prescribed for the purpose of subpara. 96(2.2)(d)(ii) that were granted before 1996;

(c) subpara. 143.2(6)(b)(ii) does not apply

(i) to property acquired, or outlays or expenses made or incurred, by a taxpayer before April 27, 1995, or

(ii) to property acquired, or outlays or expenses made or incurred, by a taxpayer before 1996 pursuant to a particular agreement in writing made by the taxpayer before April 27, 1995 where the following conditions are met:

(A) in the case of a property that is a tax shelter for which s. 237.1 requires an identification number, an identification number was obtained before April 27, 1995, and

(B) there is no agreement or other arrangement under which the taxpayer's obligations under the particular agreement can be changed, reduced or waived if there is a change to the Act or if there is an adverse assessment under the Act;

(d) para. 143.2(7)(a) shall be read without reference to "not exceeding 10 years" where

(i) the indebtedness arises

(A) pursuant to the terms of an agreement in writing made by the taxpayer before April 27, 1995,

(B) before 1996, in respect of the acquisition of a film production prescribed for the purpose of subpara. 96(2.2)(d)(ii) or an interest in a partnership all or substantially all of the property of which is either a film production prescribed for the purpose of that subparagraph or an interest in one or more partnerships all or substantially all of the property of each of which is such a film production, where

(I) the principal photography of the production began before 1996, or, in the case of a production that is a television series, the principal photography of one episode of the series began before 1996, and

(II) the principal photography of the production was completed before March 1996, or

(C) before July 1995

(I) pursuant to the terms of a document that is a prospectus, preliminary prospectus or registration statement filed before April 27, 1995 with a public authority in Canada pursuant to and in accordance with the securities legislation of Canada or of any province and, where required by law, accepted for filing by the public authority, and the funds so raised were expended before 1996 on expenditures contemplated by the document, or

(II) pursuant to the terms of an offering memorandum distributed as part of an offering of securities where

1. the memorandum contained a complete or substantially complete description of the securities contemplated in the offering as well as the terms and conditions of the offering,

2. the memorandum was distributed before April 27, 1995,

3. solicitations in respect of the sale of the securities contemplated by the memorandum were made before April 27, 1995,

4. the sale of the securities was substantially in accordance with the memorandum, and

5. the funds were expended before 1996 in accordance with the memorandum, and

(ii) the following conditions are met:

(A) in the case of an interest to which clause (i)(A) or (C) applies that is a tax shelter for which s. 237.1 requires an identification number to be obtained, an identification number was obtained before April 27, 1995, and

(B) there is no agreement or other arrangement under which the taxpayer's obligations with respect to the interest can be changed, reduced or waived if there is a change to the Act or if there is an adverse assessment under the Act; and

(e) subsec. 143.2(8) does not apply to a taxpayer in respect of an indebtedness

(i) where the indebtedness

(A) arose, and

(B) is related to property acquired, or outlays or expenses made or incurred, by the taxpayer

before April 27, 1995, nor

(ii) where the indebtedness

(A) arose, and

before 1996 pursuant to a particular agreement in writing made by the taxpayer before April 27, 1995 and there is no agreement or other arrangement under which the taxpayer's obligations under the particular agreement can be changed, reduced or waived if there is a change to the Act or if there is an adverse assessment under the Act.

"employees profit sharing plan" at a particular time means an arrangement

(a) under which payments computed by reference to

(i) an employer's profits from the employer's business,

(ii) the profits from the business of a corporation with which the employer does not deal at arm's length, or

(iii) any combination of the amounts described in subparagraphs (i) and (ii)

are required to be made by the employer to a trustee under the arrangement for the benefit of employees of the employer or of a corporation with which the employer does not deal at arm's length; and

(b) in respect of which the trustee has, since the later of the beginning of the arrangement and the end of 1949, allocated, either contingently or absolutely, to those employees

(i) in each year that ended at or before the particular time, all amounts received in the year by the trustee from the employer or from a corporation with which the employer does not deal at arm's length,

(ii) in each year that ended at or before the particular time, all profits for the year from the property of the trust (determined without regard to any capital gain made by the trust or capital loss sustained by it at any time after 1955),

(iii) in each year that ended after 1971 and at or before the particular time, all capital gains and capital losses of the trust for the year,

(iv) in each year that ended after 1971, before 1993 and at or before the particular time, 100/15 of the total of all amounts each of which is deemed by subsection (9) to be paid on account of tax under this Part in respect of an employee because the employee ceased to be a beneficiary under the plan in the year, and

(v) in each year that ended after 1991 and at or before the particular time, the total of all amounts each of which is an amount that may be deducted under subsection (9) in computing the employee's income because the employee ceased to be a beneficiary under the plan in the year.

"unused portion of a beneficiary's exempt capital gains balance" in respect of a trust governed by an employees profit sharing plan, at any particular time in a taxation year of the beneficiary, means

(a) where the year ends before 2005, the amount, if any, by which the beneficiary's exempt capital gains balance (in this paragraph having the same meaning as in subsection 39.1(1)) in respect of the trust for the year exceeds the total of all amounts each of which is an amount by which a capital gain is reduced under section 39.1 in the year because of the beneficiary's exempt capital gains balance in respect of the trust; or

(b) where the year ends after 2004, the amount, if any, by which

(i) the amount, if any, that would, if the definition "exempt capital gains balance" in subsection 39.1(1) were read without reference to "that ends before 2005", be the beneficiary's exempt capital gains balance in respect of the trust for the year

exceeds

(ii) where there has been a disposition of an interest or a part of an interest of the beneficiary in the trust after the beneficiary's 2004 taxation year (other than a disposition that is a part of a transaction described in paragraph (7.1)(c) in which property is received in satisfaction of all or a portion of the beneficiary's interests in the trust), the total of all amounts each of which is an amount by which the adjusted cost base of an interest or a part of an interest disposed of by the beneficiary (other than an interest or a part of an interest that is all or a portion of the beneficiary's interests referred to in paragraph (7.1)(c)) was increased because of paragraph 53(1)(p), and

(iii) in any other case, nil.

History: Subsec. 144(1) amended by 1998, c. 19, subsecs. 169(1) and (2), applicable to 1994 et seq., except that subpara. (a)(iii) is applicable to 1992 et seq. Subsec. 144(1) formerly read:

(1) In this section, an "employees profit sharing plan" at a particular time means an arrangement

(a) under which payments computed by reference to

(i) an employer's profits from the employer's business,

(ii) the profits from the business of a corporation with which the employer does not deal at arm's length, or

(iii) any combination of the amounts described in paragraphs (a) and (b)

are required to be made by the employer to a trustee under the arrangement for the benefit of employees of the employer or of a corporation with which the employer does not deal at arm's length, and

(b) in respect of which the trustee has, since the later of the beginning of the arrangement and the end of 1949, allocated, either contingently or absolutely, to those employees

(i) in each year that ended at or before the particular time, all amounts received in the year by the trustee from the employer or from a corporation with which the employer does not deal at arm's length,

(ii) in each year that ended at or before the particular time, all profits for the year from the property of the trust (determined without regard to any capital gain made by the trust or capital loss sustained by it at any time after 1955),

(iii) in each year that ended after 1971 and at or before the particular time, all capital gains and capital losses of the trust for the year,

(iv) in each year that ended after 1971, before 1993 and at or before the particular time, 100/15 of the total of all amounts each of which is deemed by subsection (9) to be paid on account of tax under this Part in respect of an employee because the employee ceased to be a beneficiary under the plan in the year, and

(v) in each year that ended after 1991 and at or before the particular time, the total of all amounts each of which is an amount that an employee is entitled to deduct under subsection (9) in computing income because the employee ceased to be a beneficiary under the plan in the year.

Subsec. 144(1) substituted by 1994, c. 21, subsec. 68(1), applicable to 1992 et seq. and, where an amount was paid to a person before 1993 without first having been allocated to that person, it shall be deemed for the purposes of the subsec. to have been allocated to that person. Subsec. 144(1) formerly read:

(1) Definition of "employees profit sharing plan" — In this section, an "employees profit sharing plan" means an arrangement under which payments computed by reference to an employer's profits from the employer's business or by reference to an employer's profits from the employer's business and the profits, if any, from the business of a corporation with whom an employer does not deal at arm's length are made by the employer to a trustee in trust for the benefit of officers or employees of the employer or of a corporation with whom the employer does not deal at arm's length (whether or not payments are also made to the trustee by the officers or employees), and under which the trustee has, since the commencement of the plan or the end of 1949, whichever is the later, each year allocated either contingently or absolutely to individual officers or employees,

(a) all amounts received by the trustee from the employer or from a corporation with whom the employer does not deal at arm's length,

(b) all profits from the trust property (computed without regard to any capital gain made by the trust or capital loss sustained by it at any time since the end of 1955),

(c) all capital gains and capital losses of the trust for taxation years ending after 1971, and

(d) all amounts in respect of which employees who have, after 1971, ceased to be beneficiaries under the arrangement are deemed by subsection (9) to have made a payment on account of tax under this Part, in such a manner that the total of all those amounts, profits, gains and losses, minus such portion thereof as has been paid to beneficiaries under the trust, is allocated either contingently or absolutely to officers or employees who are beneficiaries thereunder.

(2) No tax while trust governed by a plan — No tax is payable under this Part by a trust on the taxable income of the trust for a taxation year throughout which the trust is governed by an employees profit sharing plan.

Related Provisions: 149(1)(p) — Exemption from tax.

History: Subsec. 144(2) substituted by 1994, c. 21, subsec. 68(1), applicable to 1993 et seq. That subsec. formerly read:

(2) No tax is payable under this Part by a trust on the taxable income of the trust for a period during which the trust was governed by an employees profit sharing plan.

(3) Allocation contingent or absolute taxable — There shall be included in computing the income for a taxation year of an employee who is a beneficiary under an employees profit sharing plan each amount that is allocated to the employee contingently or absolutely by the trustee under the plan at any time in the year otherwise than in respect of

(a) a payment made by the employee to the trustee;

(b) a capital gain made by the trust before 1972;

(c) a capital gain of the trust for a taxation year ending after 1971;

(d) a gain made by the trust after 1971 from the disposition of a capital property except to the extent that the gain is a capital gain described in paragraph (c); or

(e) a dividend received by the trust from a taxable Canadian corporation.

(f) [Repealed]

Related Provisions: 6(1)(d) — Inclusion in income from employment; 144(8) — Allocation of credit for dividends; 147(11) — Portion of receipts deductible where EPSP later becomes a DPSP.

History: Para. 144(3)(f) repealed by 1994, c. 21, subsec. 68(2), applicable to 1992 et seq., except that a taxpayer may elect that the repeal not apply to the taxpayer's 1992 taxation year by so notifying Revenue Canada in writing before the end of December 1994. That para. formerly read:

(f) interest received by the trust.

(4) Allocated capital gains and losses — Each capital gain and capital loss of a trust governed by an employees profit sharing plan from the disposition of any property shall, to the extent that it is allocated by the trust to an employee who is a beneficiary under the plan, be deemed to be a capital gain or capital loss, as the case may be, of the employee from the disposition of that property for the taxation year of the employee in which the allocation was made and, for the purposes of section 110.6, the property shall be deemed to have been disposed of by the employee on the day on which it was disposed of by the trust.

Related Provisions: 6(1)(d) — Allocations etc. under profit sharing plan; 39.1(1)"exempt capital gains balance"C(c), 39.1(6) — Reduction in gain to reflect capital gains exemption election.

History: Subsec. 144(4) amended by 1995, c. 3, s. 42, applicable to 1994 et seq. Subsec. (4) formerly read:

(4) Any capital gain of a trust governed by an employees profit sharing plan or any capital loss of the trust for a taxation year ending after 1971 from the disposition of any property shall, to the extent that it has been allocated by the trust to an employee who is a beneficiary under the plan, be deemed to be a capital gain or capital loss, as the case may be, of the employee from the disposition of that property, for the taxation year of the employee in which the allocation was made.

Interpretation Bulletins: IT-379R: Employees profit sharing plans — allocations to beneficiaries.

(4.1) Idem — Notwithstanding subsection 26(6) of the Income Tax Application Rules, where at any time before 1976 the trustee of a trust governed by an employees profit sharing plan so elects in prescribed manner, the trust shall be deemed

(a) to have, on December 31, 1971, disposed of each property owned by the trust on that day for proceeds of disposition equal to the fair market value of the property on that day, and

(b) to have, on January 1, 1972, reacquired each property described in paragraph (a) for the amount referred to in that paragraph, if the trustee under the plan has, before 1976, allocated the total of all capital gains and capital losses resulting from the deemed dispositions among the employees or other beneficiaries under the plan to the extent that the trustee under the plan has not previously so allocated them.

Related Provisions: 54"superficial loss"(c) — Superficial loss rule does not apply.

Regulations: 1500(1) (prescribed manner).

Interpretation Bulletins: IT-379R: Employees profit sharing plans — allocations to beneficiaries.

(4.2) Idem — Where a trust governed by an employees profit sharing plan

(a) was governed by an employees profit sharing plan on December 31, 1971, and the trustee of the trust has made an election under subsection (4.1), or

(b) was not governed by an employees profit sharing plan on December 31, 1971, the trustee of the trust may, in any taxation year after 1973, elect in prescribed manner and prescribed form to treat any capital property of the trust as having been disposed of, in which event the property shall be deemed to have been disposed of on any day designated by the trustee for proceeds of disposition equal to

(c) the fair market value of the property on that day,

(d) the adjusted cost base to the trust of the property on that day, or

(e) an amount that is neither greater than the greater of the amounts determined under paragraphs (c) and (d) nor less than the lesser of the amounts determined under those paragraphs whichever is designated by the trustee and to have been reacquired by the trust immediately thereafter at a cost equal to those proceeds.

Related Provisions: 54"superficial loss"(c) — Superficial loss rule does not apply.

Regulations: 1500(2) (prescribed manner).

Interpretation Bulletins: IT-379R: Employees profit sharing plans — allocations to beneficiaries.

Forms: T3009: Election for deemed disposition and reacquisition of any capital property of an employees profit sharing plan under subsection 144(4.2).

(5) Employer's contribution to trust deductible — An amount paid by an employer to a trustee under an employees profit sharing plan during a taxation year or within 120 days thereafter may be deducted in computing the employer's income for the taxation year to the extent that it was not deductible in computing income for a previous taxation year.

Related Provisions: 12(1)(n) — Benefits from employees profit sharing plan — income to employer; 18(1)(k) — Limitation re employer's contribution under profit sharing plan; 20(1)(w) — Employer's contribution under profit sharing plan.

(6) Beneficiary's receipts deductible — An amount received in a taxation year by a beneficiary from a trustee under an employees profit sharing plan shall not be included in computing the beneficiary's income for the year.

Related Provisions: 12(1)(n) — Benefits from employees profit sharing plan — income to employer; 18(1)(k)(i), 20(1)(w) — Deduction for employer's contribution.

(7) Beneficiary's receipts that are not deductible — Notwithstanding subsection (6), such portion of an amount received in a taxation year by a beneficiary from the trustee under an employees profit sharing plan as cannot be established to be attributable to

(a) payments made by the employee to the trustee,

(b) amounts required to be included in computing the income of the employee for that or a previous taxation year,

(c) a capital gain made by the trust before 1972,

(d) a capital gain made by the trust for a taxation year ending after 1971, to the extent allocated by the trust to the beneficiary,

(e) a gain made by the trust after 1971 from the disposition of a capital property, except to the extent that the gain is a capital gain made by the trust for a taxation year ending after 1971,

(f) the portion, if any, of the increase in the value of property transferred to the beneficiary by the trustee that would have been considered to be a capital gain made by the trust in 1971 if the trustee had sold the property on December 31, 1971 for its fair market value at that time, or shall be included in computing the beneficiary's income for the year in which the amount was received, except that in determining the amount of any payments or other things described in any paragraph of this subsection, the amount thereof otherwise determined shall be reduced by such portion of the total of all capital losses of the trust for taxation years ending after 1971 as has been allocated by the trust to the beneficiary and has not been applied to reduce the amount of any payments or other things described in any other paragraph of this subsection.

(g) a dividend received by the trust from a taxable Canadian corporation other than a dividend described in subsection 83(1), to the extent allocated by the trust to the beneficiary,

(7.1) Where property other than money received by beneficiary — Where, at any particular time in a taxation year of a trust governed by an employees profit sharing plan, an amount was received by a beneficiary from the trustee under the plan and the amount so received was property other than money, the following rules apply in respect of each such property so received by the beneficiary at the particular time:

(a) the amount that was the cost amount to the trust of the property immediately before the particular time shall be deemed to be the trust's proceeds of disposition of the property; and

(b) that proportion of

(i) such portion of the amount received by the beneficiary as can be established to be attributable to the payments or other things described in paragraphs (7)(a) to (g) (on the assumption that the amount of any payments or other things described in any such paragraph is the amount thereof determined as provided in subsection (7))

that

(ii) the cost amount to the trust of the property immediately before the particular time

is of

(iii) the cost amounts to the trust of all properties, other than money, so received by the beneficiary at the particular time, is, subject to paragraph (c), deemed to be

(iv) the cost to the beneficiary of the property, and

(v) for the purposes of subsection (7) but not for the purposes of this subsection, the amount so received by the beneficiary by virtue of the receipt by the beneficiary of the property.

(c) where a particular property received is all or a portion of property received in satisfaction of all or a portion of the beneficiary's interests in the trust and the beneficiary files with the Minister on or before the beneficiary's filing-due date for the taxation year that includes the particular time an election in respect of the particular property in prescribed form, there shall be included in the cost to the beneficiary of the particular property determined under paragraph (b) the least of

(i) the amount, if any, by which the unused portion of the beneficiary's exempt capital gains balance in respect of the trust at the particular time exceeds the total of all amounts each of which is an amount included because of this paragraph in the cost to the beneficiary of another property received by the beneficiary at or before the particular time in the year,

(ii) the amount, if any, by which the fair market value of the particular property at the particular time exceeds the amount deemed by subparagraph (b)(iv) to be the cost to the beneficiary of the particular property, and

(iii) the amount designated in the election in respect of the particular property.

(8) Allocation of credit for dividends — Where there has been included in computing the income of a trust for a taxation year during which the trust was governed by an employees profit sharing plan taxable dividends from taxable Canadian corporations and there has been allocated by the trustee under the plan for the purposes of this subsection an amount for the year to one or more of the employees who are beneficiaries under the plan, which amount or the total of which amounts does not exceed the amount of the taxable dividends so included, each of the employees who are beneficiaries under the plan shall be deemed to have received a taxable dividend from a taxable Canadian corporation equal to the lesser of

(a) the amount, if any, that would be included in computing the employee's income for the year by virtue of this section, if this section were read without reference to paragraph (3)(e), and

(b) the amount, if any, so allocated for the purposes of this subsection to the employee.

Interpretation Bulletins: IT-379R: Employees profit sharing plans — allocations to beneficiaries.

(8.1) Foreign tax deduction [foreign tax credit] — For the purpose of subsection 126(1), the following rules apply:

(a) such portion of the income for a taxation year of a trust governed by an employees profit sharing plan from sources (other than businesses carried on by it) in a foreign country as

(i) may reasonably be considered (having regard to all the circumstances including the terms and conditions of the plan) to be part of

(A) the income that, by virtue of subsection (3), was included in computing the income for a taxation year of a particular employee who was a beneficiary under the plan, or

(B) the amount, if any, by which

(I) the total of amounts each of which is a capital gain of the trust that, by virtue of subsection (4), was deemed to be a capital gain of the particular employee for a taxation year

exceeds

(II) the total of amounts each of which is a capital loss of the trust that, by virtue of subsection (4), was deemed to be a capital loss of the particular employee for the taxation year, and

(ii) was not designated by the trust in respect of any other employee who was a beneficiary under the plan, shall, if so designated by the trust in respect of the particular employee in its return of income for the year under this Part, be deemed to be income of the particular employee for the taxation year from sources in that country; and

(b) an employee who is a beneficiary under an employees profit sharing plan shall be deemed to have paid as non-business-income tax for a taxation year, on the income that the employee is deemed by paragraph (a) to have for the year from sources in a foreign country, to the government of that country an amount equal to that proportion of the non-business-income tax paid by the trust governed by the plan for the year to the government of that country, or to the government of a state, province or other political subdivision of that country (except such portion of that tax as was deductible under subsection 20(11) in computing its income for the year) that

(i) the income that the employee is deemed by paragraph (a) to have for the year from sources in that country

is of

(ii) the income of the trust for the year from sources (other than businesses carried on by it) in that country.

(8.2) [Repealed]

History: Subsec. 144(8.2) repealed by 1994, c. 21, subsec. 68(3), applicable to 1992 et seq., except that a taxpayer may elect that the repeal not apply to the taxpayer's 1992 taxation year by so notifying Revenue Canada in writing before the end of December 1994. That subsec. formerly read:

(8.2) Where interest has been included in computing the income of a trust for a taxation year during which the trust was governed by an employees profit sharing plan, and there has been allocated by the trustee under the plan for the purposes of this subsection an amount for the year to one or more of the employees who are beneficiaries under the plan, which amount or the total of which amounts does not exceed the amount of the interest so included, each of the employees who are beneficiaries under the plan shall be deemed to have received interest equal to the lesser of

(a) the amount, if any, that would be included in computing the employee's income for the year by virtue of this section, if this section were read without reference to paragraph (3)(f), and

(b) the amount, if any, so allocated for the purposes of this subsection to the employee.

(9) Deduction for forfeited amounts — Where a person ceases at any time in a taxation year to be a beneficiary under an employees profit sharing plan and does not become a beneficiary under the plan after that time and in the year, there may be deducted in computing the person's income for the year the amount determined by the formula

$$A - B - \frac{C}{4} - D$$

where

A is the total of all amounts each of which is an amount included in computing the person's income for the year or a preceding taxation year (other than an amount received before that time under the plan or an amount under the plan that the person is entitled at that time to receive) because of an allocation (other than an allocation to which subsection (4) applies) to the person made contingently under the plan before that time;

B is the portion, if any, of the value of A that is included in the value of A because of paragraph 82(1)(b);

C is the total of all taxable dividends deemed to be received by the person because of allocations under subsection (8) in respect of the plan; and

D is the total of all amounts deductible under this subsection in computing the person's income for a preceding taxation year because the person ceased to be a beneficiary under the plan in a preceding taxation year.

History: Subsec. 144(9) substituted by 1994, c. 21, subsec. 68(4), applicable to 1992 et seq., except that a taxpayer may elect that the subsec. not apply to the taxpayer's 1992 taxation year by notifying Revenue Canada in writing before the end of December 1994. That subsec. formerly read:

(9) Refunds — For the purposes of section 164, where an employee who is a beneficiary under an employees profit sharing plan ceases, at any time in a taxation year, to be a beneficiary thereunder, and it is established that

(a) there has been included in computing the income of the employee for that or a previous taxation year an amount by virtue of any allocation made to the employee contingently by the trustee under the plan prior to the time the employee ceased to be a beneficiary thereunder, and

(b) the employee has not at any time received that amount from the trustee under the plan and is not, under the plan, entitled to receive that amount,

the employee shall be deemed to have made, at the time the employee ceased to be a beneficiary under the plan, a payment equal to 15% of that amount on account of tax under this Part for the taxation year in which the employee ceased to be a beneficiary under the plan.

(10) Payments out of profits — Where the terms of an arrangement under which an employer makes payments to a trustee specifically provide that the payments shall be made "out of profits", the arrangement shall, if the employer so elects in prescribed manner, be deemed, for the purpose of subsection (1), to be an arrangement under which payments computed by reference to the employer's profits are required.

Registered Retirement Savings Plans

146. (1) Definitions — In this section,

"annuitant" means

(a) until such time after maturity of the plan as an individual's spouse or common-law partner becomes entitled, as a consequence of the individual's death, to receive benefits to be paid out of or under the plan, the individual referred to in paragraph (a) or (b) of the definition "retirement savings plan" in this subsection for whom, under a retirement savings plan, a retirement income is to be provided, and

(b) thereafter, the spouse or common-law partner referred to in paragraph (a);

Related Provisions: 60(l) — Transfer of RRSP premium refunds; 128.1(10)"excluded right or interest"(a)(i), (a)(ii) — No deemed disposition on emigration of annuitant; 146(16) — RRSP — deduction on transfer of funds; 160.2(1) — Joint and several liability in respect of amounts received out of or under RRSP; 248(8) — Occurrences as a consequence of death.

History: The definition "annuitant" in subsec. 146(1) amended by 2000, c. 12, Sch. 2, s. 1, to replace "spouse" with "spouse or common-law partner", applicable to 2001 et seq., in force July 31, 2000. See also the transitional rules reproduced in the History to 248(1)"common-law partner".

Para. (a) of the definition "annuitant" in subsec. 146(1) amended by 1998, c. 19, subsec. 170(1), applicable to taxation years that end after November 1991. Para. (a) formerly read:

> (a) until such time after maturity of the plan as his or her spouse becomes entitled, as a consequence of the spouse's death, to receive benefits to be paid out of or under the plan, the individual referred to in paragraph (a) or (b) of the definition "retirement savings plan" in this subsection for whom, under a retirement savings plan, a retirement income is to be provided, and

"benefit" includes any amount received out of or under a retirement savings plan other than

(a) the portion thereof received by a person other than the annuitant that can reasonably be regarded as part of the amount included in computing the income of an annuitant by virtue of subsections (8.8) and (8.9),

(b) an amount received by the person with whom the annuitant has the contract or arrangement described in the definition "retirement savings plan" in this subsection as a premium under the plan,

(c) an amount, or part thereof, received in respect of the income of the trust under the plan for a taxation year for which the trust was not exempt from tax by virtue of paragraph (4)(c), and

(c.1) a tax-paid amount described in paragraph (b) of the definition "tax-paid amount" in this subsection that relates to interest or another amount included in computing income otherwise than because of this section and without restricting the generality of the foregoing includes any amount paid to an annuitant under the plan

(d) in accordance with the terms of the plan,

(e) resulting from an amendment to or modification of the plan, or

(f) resulting from the termination of the plan;

Related Provisions: 160.2(1) — Joint and several liability in respect of amounts received out of or under RRSP.

"earned income" of a taxpayer for a taxation year means the amount, if any, by which the total of all amounts each of which is

(a) the taxpayer's income for a period in the year throughout which the taxpayer was resident in Canada from

(i) an office or employment, determined without reference to paragraphs 8(1)(c), (m) and (m.2),

(ii) a business carried on by the taxpayer either alone or as a partner actively engaged in the business, or

(iii) property, where the income is derived from the rental of real property or from royalties in respect of a work or invention of which the taxpayer was the author or inventor,

(b) an amount included under paragraph 56(1)(b), (c), (c.1), (c.2), (g) or (o) in computing the taxpayer's income for a period in the year throughout which the taxpayer was resident in Canada,

Proposed Amendment — 146(1)"earned income"(b)

Application: The February 27, 2004 draft legislation, subsec. 81(1), will amend para. (b) of the definition "earned income" in subsec. 146(1) to delete the reference to para. 56(1)(c), applicable to 1997 et seq.

Technical Notes (December 20, 2002): Subsection 146(1) defines "earned income", which is relevant in determining the maximum tax-deductible contributions that a taxpayer may make to RRSPs. The definition includes references to a number of provisions that have previously been repealed or renumbered. The definition is amended to remove these references and update the numbering, with application from the time the provisions were repealed or renumbered.

(b.1) an amount received by the taxpayer in the year and at a time when the taxpayer is resident in Canada as, on account of, in lieu of payment of or in satisfaction of, a disability pension under the Canada Pension Plan or a provincial pension plan as defined in section 3 of that Act,

(c) the taxpayer's income for a period in the year throughout which the taxpayer was not resident in Canada from

(i) the duties of an office or employment performed by the taxpayer in Canada, determined without reference to paragraphs 8(1)(c), (m) and (m.2), or

(ii) a business carried on by the taxpayer in Canada, either alone or as a partner actively engaged in the business except to the extent that the income is exempt from income tax in Canada by reason of a provision contained in a tax convention or agreement with another country that has the force of law in Canada, or

(d) in the case of a taxpayer described in subsection 115(2), the total that would be determined under paragraph 115(2)(e) in respect of the taxpayer for the year if

(i) that paragraph were read without reference to subparagraphs 115(2)(e)(iii) and (iv), and

Proposed Amendment — 146(1)"earned income"(d)(i)

Application: The February 27, 2004 draft legislation, subsec. 81(3), will amend subpara. (d)(i) of the definition "earned income" in subsec. 146(1) to delete the reference to subpara. 115(2)(e)(iii), applicable to 1993 et seq.

Technical Notes (December 20, 2002): See under 146(1)"earned income"(b).

(ii) subparagraph 115(2)(e)(ii) were read without any reference therein to paragraph 56(1)(n), except any part thereof included in the total determined under this definition by reason of paragraph (c) or exempt from income tax in Canada by reason of a provision contained in a tax convention or agreement with another country that has the force of law in Canada,

exceeds the total of all amounts each of which is

(e) the taxpayer's loss for a period in the year throughout which the taxpayer was resident in Canada from

(i) a business carried on by the taxpayer, either alone or as a partner actively engaged in the business, or

(ii) property, where the loss is sustained from the rental of real property,

(f) an amount deductible under paragraph 60(b), (c) or (c.1), or deducted under paragraph 60(c.2), in computing the taxpayer's income for the year,

Proposed Amendment — 146(1)"earned income"(f)

Application: The February 27, 2004 draft legislation, subsec. 81(4), will amend para. (f) of the definition "earned income" in subsec. 146(1) to delete the reference to para. 60(c), applicable to 1997 et seq.

Technical Notes (December 20, 2002): See under 146(1)"earned income"(b).

(g) the taxpayer's loss for a period in the year throughout which the taxpayer was not resident in Canada from a business carried on by the taxpayer in Canada, either alone or as a partner actively engaged in the business, or

(h) the portion of an amount included under subparagraph (a)(ii) or (c)(ii) in determining the taxpayer's earned income for the year because of subparagraph 14(1)(a)(v)

Proposed Amendment — 146(1)"earned income"(h)

Application: The February 27, 2004 draft legislation, subsec. 81(5), will amend para. (h) of the definition "earned income" in subsec. 146(1) to replace "subparagraph 14(1)(a)(v)" with "paragraph 14(1)(b)", applicable to amounts included in computing income for taxation years in respect of business fiscal periods that end after February 27, 2000.

Technical Notes (December 20, 2002): See under 146(1)"earned income"(b).

"qualified investment" for a trust governed by a registered retirement savings plan means

(a) an investment that would be described in any of paragraphs (a), (b), (d) and (f) to (h) of the definition "qualified investment" in section 204 if the references in that definition to a trust were read as references to the trust governed by the registered retirement savings plan,

(b) a bond, debenture, note or similar obligation

(i) issued by a corporation the shares of which are listed on a prescribed stock exchange in Canada, or

(ii) issued by an authorized foreign bank and payable at a branch in Canada of the bank,

(c) an annuity described in the definition "retirement income" in respect of the annuitant under the plan, if purchased from a licensed annuities provider,

(c.1) a contract for an annuity issued by a licensed annuities provider where

(i) the trust is the only person who, disregarding any subsequent transfer of the contract by the trust, is or may become entitled to any annuity payments under the contract, and

(ii) the holder of the contract has a right to surrender the contract at any time for an amount that would, if reasonable sales and administration charges were ignored, approximate the value of funds that could otherwise be applied to fund future periodic payments under the contract,

(c.2) a contract for an annuity issued by a licensed annuities provider where

(i) annual or more frequent periodic payments are or may be made under the contract to the holder of the contract,

(ii) the trust is the only person who, disregarding any subsequent transfer of the contract by the trust, is or may become entitled to any annuity payments under the contract,

(iii) neither the time nor the amount of any payment under the contract may vary because of the length of any life, other than the life of the annuitant under the plan (in this definition referred to as the "RRSP annuitant"),

(iv) the day on which the periodic payments began or are to begin (in this paragraph referred to as the "start date") is not later than the end of the year in which the RRSP annuitant attains 70 years of age,

(v) either

(A) the periodic payments are payable for the life of the RRSP annuitant and either there is no guaranteed period under the contract or there is a guaranteed period that begins at the start date and does not exceed a term equal to 90 years minus the lesser of

(I) the age in whole years at the start date of the RRSP annuitant (determined on the assumption that the RRSP annuitant is alive at the start date), and

(II) the age in whole years at the start date of a spouse or common-law partner of the RRSP annuitant (determined on the assumption that a spouse or common-law partner of the RRSP annuitant at the time the contract was acquired is a spouse or common-law partner of the RRSP annuitant at the start date), or

(B) the periodic payments are payable for a term equal to

(I) 90 years minus the age described in subclause (A)(I), or

(II) 90 years minus the age described in subclause (A)(II), and

(vi) the periodic payments

(A) are equal, or

(B) are not equal solely because of one or more adjustments that would, if the contract were an annuity under a retirement savings plan, be in accordance with subparagraphs (3)(b)(iii) to (v) or that arise because of a uniform reduction in the entitlement to the periodic payments as a consequence of a partial surrender of rights to the periodic payments, and

(d) such other investments as may be prescribed by regulations of the Governor in Council made on the recommendation of the Minister of Finance;

Para. (b) of the definition "refund of premiums" in subsec. 146(1) amended by 2000, c. 19, subsec. 42(1), applicable (by subsec. 42(4)) to deaths that occur after 1995 except that, in respect of the death of an individual that occurred after 1995 and before 1999, the para. shall be read as it did before being amended in connection with an amount paid at a particular time out of a registered retirement savings plan or registered retirement income fund, unless the following persons jointly elect otherwise in writing filed with the Minister of National Revenue before May 2000 (or before such later day as is acceptable to the Minister):

(a) the legal representative of the deceased individual; and

(b) the individual in whose income an amount would be required to be included as a result of the election, or would be so required to be included if Part I of the Act applied.

Subsec. 42(5) of the said c. 19 reads as follows:

(5) Notwithstanding subsections 152(4) to (5) of the Act, the Minister of National Revenue shall make such assessments, reassessments and additional assessments of tax, interest and penalties and such determinations and redeterminations as are necessary to give effect to an election under subsection (4).

Para. (b) of the definition formerly read:

(b) if the annuitant had no spouse at the time of the annuitant's death, any amount paid out of or under a registered retirement savings plan of the annuitant (other than any part of the amount that is a tax-paid amount in respect of the plan) after the death to a child or grandchild (in this definition referred to as a "dependant") of the annuitant, who was, at the time of the death, financially dependent on the annuitant for support,

The closing words of the definition "refund of premiums" in subsec. 146(1) amended by the said c. 19, subsec. 42(2), applicable to 2000 et seq. except that, in its application to the 2000 taxation year, the reference to "the amount used under paragraph (c) of the description of B in subsection 118(1) for that preceding taxation year" shall be read as a reference to "$7,044". The closing words formerly read:

and for the purpose of paragraph (b), it is assumed, unless the contrary is established, that a dependant was not financially dependent on the annuitant for support at the time of the annuitant's death if the dependant's ncome for the year preceding the taxation year in which the annuitant died exceeded the total of $500 and the amount used under paragraph (c) of the description of B in subsection 118(1) for that preceding year;

The closing words of the definition "refund of premiums" in subsec. 146(1) amended by 1999, c. 22, subsec. 59(2), applicable to 1999 et seq. The closing words formerly read:

and for the purpose of paragraph (b), it is assumed, unless the contrary is established, that a dependant was not financially dependent on the annuitant for support at the time of the annuitant's death if the income of the dependant for the taxation year preceding the taxation year in which the annuitant died exceeded the amount used under paragraph (c) of the description of B in subsection 118(1) for that preceding year;

Paras. (a) and (b) of the definition "refund of premiums" in subsec. 146(1) amended by 1998, c. 19, subsec. 170(5), applicable to deaths occurring after 1992. Paras. (a) and (b) formerly read:

(a) any amount paid to a spouse of the annuitant out of or under a registered retirement savings plan of the annuitant, where the annuitant died before the maturity of the plan and that amount was paid as a consequence of the death, or

(b) if the annuitant had no spouse at the time of the annuitant's death, any amount paid out of or under a registered retirement savings plan of the annuitant after the death to a child or grandchild (in this definition referred to as a "dependant") of the annuitant, who was, at the time of the death, financially dependent on the annuitant for support,

Paras. (a) and (b) of the definition of "refund of premiums" in subsec. 146(1) substituted by 1994, c. 21, subsec. 69(2), applicable to deaths occurring after 1992. Those paras. formerly read:

(a) any amount paid to a spouse of the annuitant, as a consequence of the annuitant's death, out of or under a registered retirement savings plan of the annuitant prior to its maturity, or

(b) if the annuitant had no spouse at the time of the annuitant's death, any amount paid out of or under a registered retirement savings plan of the annuitant to a child or grandchild (in this definition referred to as a "dependant") of the annuitant, who was, at the time of the death, financially dependent on the annuitant for support,

All that portion of the definition "refund of premiums" in subsec. 146(1) following para. (b) substituted by 1994, c. 7, Sch. VII (1992, c. 48), s. 13, applicable to 1993 et seq. That portion formerly read:

and for the purpose of paragraph (b), it shall be assumed, unless the contrary is established, that a dependant was not financially dependent on the annuitant for support at the time of the annuitant's death if

(c) any person other than the annuitant was permitted a deduction under paragraph 118(1)(d) in respect of the dependant in computing that other person's tax payable under this Part for the taxation year immediately preceding the taxation year in which the annuitant died, or

(d) the income of the dependant for the year referred to in paragraph (c) exceeded $5,000;

"spousal or common-law partner plan", in relation to a taxpayer, means

(a) a registered retirement savings plan

(i) to which the taxpayer has, at a time when the taxpayer's spouse or common-law partner was the annuitant under the plan, paid a premium, or

(ii) that has received a payment out of or a transfer from a registered retirement savings plan or a registered retirement income fund that was a spousal or common-law partner plan in relation to the taxpayer, or

(b) a registered retirement income fund that has received a payment out of or a transfer from a spousal or common-law partner plan in relation to the taxpayer;

Related Provisions: 74.5(12) — Application; 146(5.1) — Deduction for contribution to spousal RRSP; 146(8.3) — Attribution on withdrawal from spousal RRSP; 146.3(5.1) — Amount included in income.

History: The definition "spousal or common-law partner plan" in subsec. 146(1) added, and "spousal plan" repealed, by 2001, c. 17, subsecs. 246(2) and (1), applicable to 2001 et seq. except that, if a taxpayer and a person have jointly elected pursuant to s. 144 of 2000, c. 12 in respect of the 1998, 1999 or 2000 taxation years, the amendment applies to the taxpayer and the person in respect of the applicable taxation year and subsequent taxation years. "Spousal plan" formerly read:

"spousal plan", in relation to a taxpayer, means

(a) a registered retirement savings plan

(i) to which the taxpayer has, at a time when the taxpayer's spouse or common-law partner was the annuitant under the plan, paid a premium, or

(ii) that has received a payment out of or a transfer from a registered retirement savings plan or a registered retirement income fund that was a spousal plan in relation to the taxpayer, or

(b) a registered retirement income fund that has received a payment out of or a transfer from a spousal plan in relation to the taxpayer;

Subpara. (a)(i) of the definition "spousal plan" in subsec. 146(1) amended by 2000, c. 12, Sch. 2, s. 1, to replace "spouse" with "spouse or common-law partner", applicable to 2001 et seq., in force July 31, 2000. See also the transitional rules reproduced in the History to 248(1)"common-law partner".

"tax-paid amount" paid to a person in respect of a registered retirement saving plan means

(a) an amount paid to the person in respect of the amount that would, if this Act were read without reference to subsection 104(6), be income of a trust governed by the plan for a taxation year for which the trust was subject to tax because of paragraph (4)(c), or

(b) where

(i) the plan is a deposit with a depositary referred to in clause (b)(iii)(B) of the definition "retirement savings plan" in this subsection, and

(ii) an amount is received at any time out of or under the plan by the person,

the portion of the amount that can reasonably be considered to relate to interest or another amount in respect of the deposit that was required to be included in computing the income of any person (other than the annuitant) otherwise than because of this section;

Related Provisions: 146(1)"benefit"(c.1) — Whether tax-paid amount is a "benefit"; 146(1)"refund of premiums" — Exclusion of tax-paid amount; 146(8.9) — RRSP income inclusion on death; 146.3(5)(c) — Tax-paid amount from RRIF excluded from income; 146.3(6.2) — RRIF income inclusion on death.

History: The definition "tax-paid amount" added to subsec. 146(1) by 1998, c. 19, subsec. 170(6), applicable to deaths occurring after 1992.

"unused RRSP deduction room" of a taxpayer at the end of a taxation year means,

(a) for taxation years ending before 1991, nil, and

(b) for taxation years that end after 1990, the amount, which can be positive or negative, determined by the formula

$$A + B + R - (C + D)$$

where

A is the taxpayer's unused RRSP deduction room at the end of the preceding taxation year,

B is the amount, if any, by which

(i) the lesser of the RRSP dollar limit for the year and 18% of the taxpayer's earned income for the preceding taxation year

exceeds the total of all amounts each of which is

(ii) the taxpayer's pension adjustment for the preceding taxation year in respect of an employer, or

(iii) a prescribed amount in respect of the taxpayer for the year,

C is the taxpayer's net past service pension adjustment for the year,

D is the total of the amounts deducted by the taxpayer under subsections (5) and (5.1) and paragraph 60(v) in computing the taxpayer's income for the year, and

R is the taxpayer's total pension adjustment reversal for the year.

Related Provisions: 128(2)(d), (d.2) — Where individual bankrupt; 146(1) — RRSP deduction limit; 146(5.21) — Anti-avoidance; 204.2(1.1) — Cumulative excess amount re RRSPs; 248(1)"unused RRSP deduction room" — Definition applies to entire Act; 257 — Formula cannot calculate to less than zero.

History: Para. (b) of the definition "unused RRSP deduction room" in subsec. 146(1) amended 1998, c. 19, subsec. 37(2), applicable after 1988 except that, for taxation years before 1998, the description of "R" shall be read as "R is nil". Para. (b) formerly read:

(b) for taxation years that end after 1990,

(i) the amount, which can be positive or negative, determined by the formula

$$A + B - (C + D)$$

where

A is the taxpayer's unused RRSP deduction room at the end of the immediately preceding taxation year,

B is the amount, if any, by which the lesser of the RRSP dollar limit for the year and 18% of the taxpayer's earned income for the immediately preceding taxation year exceeds the total of all amounts each of which is the taxpayer's pension adjustment for the immediately preceding taxation year in respect of an employer, or a prescribed amount in respect of the taxpayer for the year,

C is the taxpayer's net past service pension adjustment for the year, and

D is the total of the amounts deducted by the taxpayer under subsections (5) and (5.1) and paragraph 60(v) in computing the taxpayer's income for the year.

(ii) [Repealed]

The opening words of para. (b) of the definition "unused RRSP deduction room" in subsec. 146(1) amended, and subpara. (b)(ii) repealed, by 1997, c. 25, subsecs. 41(1), (2), applicable April 25, 1997. The opening words of para. (b), and subpara. (b)(ii), formerly read:

(b) for taxation years ending after 1990, the lesser of

. . . . .

(ii) the greater of

(A) the total of all amounts each of which is the amount, determined in respect of a particular taxation year that is the year or such of the six taxation years immediately preceding the year as end after 1990, that is the lesser of 18% of the taxpayer's earned income for the taxation year immediately preceding the particular taxation year and the RRSP dollar limit for the particular taxation year, and

(B) 7/2 of the RRSP dollar limit for the year.

(1.1) Restriction — financially dependent — For the purpose of paragraph (b) of the definition "refund of premiums" in subsection (1), clause 60(l)(v)(B.01) and subparagraph 104(27)(e)(i), it is assumed, unless the contrary is established, that an individual's child or grandchild was not financially dependent on the individual for support immediately before the individual's death if the income of the child or grandchild for the taxation year preceding the taxation year in which the individual died exceeded the amount determined by the formula

$$A + B$$

where

A is the amount used under paragraph (c) of the description of B in subsection 118(1) for that preceding taxation year; and

B is nil, unless the financial dependency was because of mental or physical infirmity, in which case it is $6,180 adjusted for each such preceding taxation year that is after 2002 in the manner set out in section 117.1.

History: Subsec. 146(1.1) added by 2003, c. 15, subsec. 82(3), applicable in respect of deaths that occur after 2002.

History [former subsec. 146(1.1)]: Subsec. 146(1.1) repealed by 1994, c. 7, Sch. VIII (1993, c. 24), subsec. 82(5), applicable after 1992. [See now subsec. 252(4).] Subsec. (1.1) formerly read:

(1.1) Definition of "spouse" — For the purposes of the definitions "annuitant", "refund of premiums" and "retirement income" in subsection (1), paragraph (3)(b) and subsections (8.8), (8.91) and (16), "spouse" of an individual means a person of the opposite sex

(a) who is married to the individual; or

(b) who is cohabiting with the individual in a conjugal relationship and

(i) has so cohabited for a period of at least one year, or

(ii) is a parent of a child of whom the individual is a parent.

(2) Acceptance of plan for registration [— conditions] — The Minister shall not accept for registration for the purposes of this Act any retirement savings plan unless, in the Minister's opinion, it complies with the following conditions:

(a) the plan does not provide for the payment of any benefit before maturity except

(i) a refund of premiums, and

(ii) a payment to the annuitant;

(b) the plan does not provide for the payment of any benefit after maturity except

(i) by way of retirement income to the annuitant,

(ii) to the annuitant in full or partial commutation of retirement income under the plan, and

(iii) in respect of a commutation referred to in paragraph (c.2);

(b.1) the plan does not provide for a payment to the annuitant of a retirement income except by way of equal annual or more frequent periodic payments until such time as there is a payment in full or partial commutation of the retirement income and, where that commutation is partial, equal annual or more frequent periodic payments thereafter;

(b.2) the plan does not provide for periodic payments in a year under an annuity after the death of the first annuitant, the total of which exceeds the total of the payments under the annuity in a year before that death;

(b.3) the plan does not provide for the payment of any premium after maturity;

(b.4) the plan does not provide for maturity after the end of the year in which the annuitant attains 69 years of age;

(c) the plan provides that retirement income under the plan may not be assigned in whole or in part;

(c.1) notwithstanding paragraph (a), the plan permits the payment of an amount to a taxpayer where the amount is paid to reduce the amount of tax otherwise payable under Part X.1 by the taxpayer;

(c.2) the plan requires the commutation of each annuity payable thereunder that would otherwise become payable to a person other than an annuitant under the plan;

(c.3) the plan, where it involves a depositary, includes provisions stipulating that

(i) the depositary has no right of offset as regards the property held under the plan in connection with any debt or obligation owing to the depositary, and

(ii) the property held under the plan cannot be pledged, assigned or in any way alienated as security for a loan or for any purpose other than that of providing for the annuitant, commencing at maturity, a retirement income;

(c.4) the plan requires that no advantage, other than

(i) a benefit,

(i.1) an amount described in paragraph (a) or (c) of the definition "benefit" in subsection (1),

(ii) the payment or allocation of any amount to the plan by the issuer,

(iii) an advantage from life insurance in effect on December 31, 1981, or

(iv) an advantage derived from the provision of administrative or investment services in respect of the plan, that is conditional in any way on the existence of the plan may be extended to the annuitant or to a person with whom the annuitant was not dealing at arm's length; and

(d) the plan in all other respects complies with regulations of the Governor in Council made on the recommendation of the Minister of Finance.

Related Provisions: 139.1(13) — Para. 146(2)(c.4) inapplicable to conversion benefit on demutualization of insurer; 146(3) — Minister may accept plan despite certain other conditions; 146(12) — Change in plan after registration; 146(13.1) — Effect of extending an advantage; 146(13.2) — Where pre-1997 plan does not mature by age 69; 204.2(1.2) — Undeducted RRSP premiums; 248(1)"disposition"(g) — Transfer with same annuitant not a disposition.

History: Para. 146(2)(b.4) amended by 1997, c. 25, subsec. 41(3), applicable after 1996, except that

(a) the amended para. does not apply to a retirement savings plan accepted for registration before 1997;

(b) the amended para. does not apply to a retirement savings plan where the annuitant under the plan attained 70 years of age before 1997;

(c) in applying the para. to a retirement savings plan where the annuitant under the plan attained 69 years of age in 1996, the reference to "69 years of age" shall be read as "70 years of age".

Para. (b.4) formerly read:

(b.4) the plan does not provide for maturity after the end of the year in which the annuitant attains 71 years of age;

(3) Idem — The Minister may accept for registration for the purposes of this Act any retirement savings plan notwithstanding that the plan

(a) provides for the payment of a benefit after maturity by way of dividend;

(b) provides for any annual or more frequent periodic amount payable

(i) to the annuitant referred to in subparagraph (a)(ii) of the definition "retirement income" in subsection (1) by way of an annuity described in paragraph (a) of that definition to be reduced, in the event of the death of the annuitant's spouse or common-law partner during the lifetime of the annuitant, in such manner as to provide for the payment of equal annual or more frequent periodic amounts throughout the lifetime of the annuitant thereafter,

(ii) to any person by way of an annuity, to be reduced if a pension becomes payable to that person under the Old Age Security Act, by an annual or other periodic amount not exceeding the amount payable to that person in that period under that Act,

(iii) to any person by way of an annuity, to be increased or reduced depending on the increase or reduction in the value of a specified group of assets constituting the assets of a separate and distinct account or fund maintained in respect of a variable annuities business by a person licensed or otherwise authorized under the laws of Canada or a province to carry on in Canada that business,

(iii.1) to any person by way of an annuity under a contract that provides for the increase or reduction of the annuity in accordance only with a change in the interest rate on which the annuity is based, if the interest rate, as increased or reduced, equals or approximates a generally available Canadian market interest rate,

(iv) that may be adjusted annually to reflect

(A) in whole or in part increases in the Consumer Price Index, as published by Statistics Canada under the authority of the Statistics Act, or

(B) increases at a rate specified in the annuity contract, not exceeding 4% per annum, or

(v) to the annuitant by way of an annuity to be increased annually to the extent the amount or rate of return that would have been earned on a pool of investment assets (available for purchase by the public and specified in the annuity contract) exceeds an amount or rate specified in the plan and provides that no other increase may be made in the amount payable;

(c) [Repealed under former Act]

(d) provides for the payment of any amount after the death of an annuitant thereunder;

(e) is adjoined to a contract or other arrangement that is not a retirement savings plan; or

(f) contains such other terms and provisions, not inconsistent with this section, as are authorized or permitted by regulations of the Governor in Council made on the recommendation of the Minister of Finance.

(4) No tax while trust governed by plan — Except as provided in subsection (10.1), no tax is payable under this Part by a trust on the taxable income of the trust for a taxation year if, throughout the period in the year during which the trust was in existence, the trust was governed by a registered retirement savings plan, except that

(a) if the trust has borrowed money (other than money used in carrying on a business) in the year or has, after June 18, 1971, borrowed money (other than money used in carrying on a business) that it has not repaid before the commencement of the year, tax is payable under this Part by the trust on its taxable income for the year;

(b) in any case not described in paragraph (a), if the trust has carried on any business or businesses in the year, tax is payable under this Part by the trust on the amount, if any, by which

(i) the amount that its taxable income for the year would be if it had no incomes or losses from sources other than from that business or those businesses, as the case may be,

exceeds

(ii) such portion of the amount determined under subparagraph (i) in respect of the trust for the year as can reasonably be considered to be income from, or from the disposition of, qualified investments for the trust; and

(c) if the last annuitant under the plan has died, tax is payable under this Part by the trust on its taxable income for each year after the year following the year in which the last annuitant died.

(5) Amount of RRSP premiums deductible — There may be deducted in computing a taxpayer's income for a taxation year such amount as the taxpayer claims not exceeding the lesser of

(a) the amount, if any, by which the total of all amounts each of which is a premium paid by the taxpayer after 1990 and on or before the day that is 60 days after the end of the year under a registered retirement savings plan under which the taxpayer was the annuitant at the time the premium was paid, other than the portion, if any, of the premium

(i) that was deducted in computing the taxpayer's income for a preceding taxation year,

(ii) that was designated for any taxation year for the purposes of paragraph 60(j), (j.1) or (l),

(iii) in respect of which the taxpayer received a payment that was deducted under subsection (8.2) in computing the taxpayer's income for a preceding taxation year,

(iv) that was deductible under subsection (6.1) in computing the taxpayer's income for any taxation year, or

(iv.1) that would be considered to be withdrawn by the taxpayer as an eligible amount (as defined in subsection 146.01(1) or 146.02(1)) less than 90 days after it was paid, if earnings in respect of a registered retirement savings plan were considered to be withdrawn before premiums paid under that plan and premiums were considered to be withdrawn in the order in which they were paid

exceeds

(v) the amount, if any, by which

(A) the total of all amounts deducted under subsection 147.3(13.1) in computing the taxpayer's income for the year or a preceding taxation year

exceeds

(B) the total of all amounts, in respect of transfers occurring before 1991 from registered pension plans, deemed by paragraph 147.3(10)(b) or (c) to be a premium paid by the taxpayer to a registered retirement savings plan, and

(5.1) Amount of spousal RRSP premiums deductible — There may be deducted in computing a taxpayer's income for a taxation year such amount as the taxpayer claims not exceeding the lesser of

(a) the total of all amounts each of which is a premium paid by the taxpayer after 1990 and on or before the day that is 60 days after the end of the year under a registered retirement savings plan under which the taxpayer's spouse or common-law partner (or, where the taxpayer died in the year or within 60 days after the end of the year, an individual who was the taxpayer's spouse or common-law partner immediately before the death) was the annuitant at the time the premium was paid, other than the portion, if any, of the premium

(i) that was deducted in computing the taxpayer's income for a preceding taxation year,

(ii) that was designated for any taxation year for the purposes of paragraph 60(j.2),

(iii) in respect of which the taxpayer or the taxpayer's spouse or common-law partner has received a payment that has been deducted under subsection (8.2) in computing the taxpayer's income for a preceding taxation year, or

(iv) that would be considered to be withdrawn by the taxpayer's spouse or common-law partner as an eligible amount (as defined in subsection 146.01(1) or 146.02(1)) less than 90 days after it was paid, if earnings in respect of a registered retirement savings plan were considered to be withdrawn before premiums paid under that plan and premiums were considered to be withdrawn in the order in which they were paid, and

(5.2) [Repealed under former Act]

(5.21) Anti-avoidance — Notwithstanding any other provision of this section, where

(a) a registered pension plan is amended or administered in such a manner as to terminate, suspend or delay

(i) the membership of an individual in the plan for the individual's 1990 taxation year,

(ii) contributions under the plan by or for the benefit of the individual in respect of the year, or

(iii) the accrual of retirement benefits under the plan for the individual in respect of the year, or

(b) a deferred profit sharing plan is amended or administered in such a manner as to terminate, suspend or delay contributions under the plan for the year in respect of an individual, and one of the main reasons for the termination, suspension or delay may reasonably be considered to be to reduce the pension adjustment of the individual for the year in respect of an employer, the only amount that may be deducted in computing the income for the year of the individual, in respect of premiums paid to registered retirement savings plans, is the amount that would have been deductible had that termination, suspension or delay not occurred.

(5.3)–(5.5) [Repealed under former Act]

(6) Disposition of non-qualified investment — Where in a taxation year a trust governed by a registered retirement savings plan disposes of a property that, when acquired, was a non-qualified investment, there may be deducted, in computing the income for the taxation year of the taxpayer who is the annuitant under the plan, an amount equal to the lesser of

(a) the amount that, by virtue of subsection (10), was included in computing the income of that taxpayer in respect of the acquisition of that property, and

(b) the proceeds of disposition of the property.

(7) Recovery of property used as security — Where in a taxation year a loan, for which a trust governed by a registered retirement savings plan has used or permitted to be used trust property as security, ceases to be extant, and the fair market value of the property so used was included by virtue of subsection (10) in computing the income of the taxpayer who is the annuitant under the plan, there may be deducted, in computing the income of the taxpayer for the taxation year, an amount equal to the amount, if any, remaining when

(a) the net loss (exclusive of payments by the trust as or on account of interest) sustained by the trust in consequence of its using the property, or permitting it to be used, as security for the loan and not as a result of a change in the fair market value of the property

is deducted from

(b) the amount so included in computing the income of the taxpayer in consequence of the trust's using the property, or permitting it to be used, as security for the loan.

History: Subsec. 146(8.1) amended by 2000, c. 19, subsec. 42(3), applicable to 1999 et seq. The subsec. formerly read:

> (8.1) Such portion of an amount paid in a taxation year out of or under a registered retirement savings plan of a deceased annuitant to the annuitant's legal representative as, had that portion been paid under the plan to a beneficiary of the deceased's estate, would have been a refund of premiums shall, to the extent it is so designated jointly by the legal representative and the beneficiary in prescribed form filed with the Minister, be deemed to be received by the beneficiary in the year as a benefit that is a refund of premiums.

(8.2) Amount deductible — Where

(a) all or any portion of the premiums paid in a taxation year by a taxpayer to one or more registered retirement savings plans under which the taxpayer or the taxpayer's spouse or common-law partner was the annuitant was not deducted in computing the taxpayer's income for any taxation year,

(b) the taxpayer or the taxpayer's spouse or common-law partner can reasonably be regarded as having received a payment from a registered retirement savings plan or a registered retirement income fund in respect of such portion of the undeducted premiums as

(i) was not paid by way of a transfer of an amount from a registered pension plan to a registered retirement savings plan,

(ii) was not paid by way of a transfer of an amount from a deferred profit sharing plan to a registered retirement savings plan in accordance with subsection 147(19), and

(iii) was not paid by way of a transfer of an amount from a provincial pension plan prescribed for the purpose of paragraph 60(v) to a registered retirement savings plan in circumstances to which subsection (21) applied,

(c) the payment is received by the taxpayer or the taxpayer's spouse or common-law partner in a particular taxation year that is

(i) the year in which the premiums were paid by the taxpayer,

(ii) the year in which a notice of assessment for the taxation year referred to in subparagraph (i) was sent to the taxpayer, or

(iii) the year immediately following the year referred to in subparagraph (i) or (ii), and

(d) the payment is included in computing the taxpayer's income for the particular year, the payment (except to the extent that it is a prescribed withdrawal) may be deducted in computing the taxpayer's income for the particular year unless it is reasonable to consider that

(e) the taxpayer did not reasonably expect that the full amount of the premiums would be deductible in the taxation year in which the premiums were paid or in the immediately preceding taxation year, and

(f) the taxpayer paid all or any portion of the premiums with the intent of receiving a payment that, but for this paragraph and paragraph (e), would be deductible under this subsection.

Related Provisions: 60(i) — Deduction for RRSP premiums paid; 146(5) — Deduction for contribution to own RRSP; 146(5.1) — Deduction for contribution to spousal RRSP; 146(8.21) — Excess premium deemed not paid; 146(16) — Deduction on transfer of funds; 147.3(13.1) — Withdrawal of excessive transfers to RRSPs and RRIFs; Reg. 8307(4) — Eligibility of withdrawn amount for designation.

(8.7) Where subsec. (8.3) does not apply — Subsection (8.3) does not apply

(a) in respect of a taxpayer at any time during the year in which the taxpayer died;

(b) in respect of a taxpayer where either the taxpayer or the taxpayer's spouse or common-law partner is a non-resident at the particular time referred to in that subsection;

(c) in respect of amounts paid out of or under a plan referred to in subsection (12) as an "amended plan" to which paragraph (12)(a) applied before May 26, 1976;

(d) to any payment that is received in full or partial commutation of a registered retirement income fund or a registered retirement savings plan and in respect of which a deduction was made under paragraph 60(l) if, where the deduction was in respect of the acquisition of an annuity, the terms of the annuity provide that it cannot be commuted, and it is not commuted, in whole or in part within 3 years after the acquisition; or

(e) in respect of an amount that is deemed by subsection (8.8) to have been received by an annuitant under a registered retirement savings plan immediately before the annuitant's death.

History: Para. 146(8.7)(b) amended by 2000, c. 12, Sch. 2, s. 1, to replace "spouse" with "spouse or common-law partner", applicable to 2001 et seq., in force July 31, 2000. See also the transitional rules reproduced in the History to 248(1)"common-law partner".

(8.8) Effect of death where person other than spouse [or common-law partner] becomes entitled — Where the annuitant under a registered retirement savings plan (other than a plan that had matured before June 30, 1978) dies after June 29, 1978, the annuitant shall be deemed to have received, immediately before the annuitant's death, an amount as a benefit out of or under a registered retirement savings plan equal to the amount, if any, by which

(a) the fair market value of all the property of the plan at the time of death

exceeds

(b) where the annuitant died after the maturity of the plan, the fair market value at the time of the death of the portion of the property described in paragraph (a) that, as a consequence of the death, becomes receivable by a person who was the annuitant's spouse or common-law partner immediately before the death, or would become so receivable should that person survive throughout all guaranteed terms contained in the plan.

(8.9) Idem — There may be deducted from the amount deemed by subsection (8.8) to have been received by an annuitant as a benefit out of or under a registered retirement savings plan an amount not exceeding the amount determined by the formula

where

A is the total of

(a) all refunds of premiums in respect of the plan,

(b) all tax-paid amounts in respect of the plan paid to individuals who, otherwise than because of subsection (8.1), received refunds of premiums in respect of the plan, and

(c) all amounts each of which is a tax-paid amount in respect of the plan paid to the legal representative of the annuitant under the plan, to the extent that the legal representative would have been entitled to designate that tax-paid amount under subsection (8.1) if tax-paid amounts were not excluded in determining refunds of premiums;

B is the fair market value of the property of the plan at the particular time that is the later of

(a) the end of the first calendar year that begins after the death of the annuitant, and

(b) the time immediately after the last time that any refund of premiums in respect of the plan is paid out of or under the plan;

C is the total of all amounts paid out of or under the plan after the death of the annuitant and before the particular time; and

D is the lesser of

(a) the fair market value of the property of the plan at the time of the annuitant's death, and

(b) the sum of the values of B and C in respect of the plan.

(10) Where acquisition of non-qualified investment by trust — Where at any time in a taxation year a trust governed by a registered retirement savings plan

(a) acquires a non-qualified investment, or

(b) uses or permits to be used any property of the trust as security for a loan,

the fair market value of

(c) the non-qualified investment at the time it was acquired by the trust, or

(d) the property used as security at the time it commenced to be so used, as the case may be, shall be included in computing the income for the year of the taxpayer who is the annuitant under the plan at that time.

(10.1) Where tax payable [income from non-qualified investment] — Where in a taxation year a trust governed by a registered retirement savings plan holds a property that is a non-qualified investment,

(a) tax is payable under this Part by the trust on the amount that its taxable income for the year would be if it had no incomes or losses from sources other than non-qualified investments and no capital gains or losses other than from dispositions of non-qualified investments; and

(b) for the purposes of paragraph (a),

(i) "income" includes dividends described in section 83, and

(ii) paragraphs 38(a) and (b) shall be read without reference to the fractions set out in those paragraphs.

Proposed Amendment — 146(10.1)(b)(ii)

(ii) paragraphs 38(a) and (b) are to read with the fraction set out in each of those paragraphs replaced by the word "all".

Application: The February 27, 2004 draft legislation, subsec. 81(6), will amend subpara. 146(10.1)(b)(ii) to read as above, in force on Royal Assent.

Technical Notes (December 20, 2002): Subsection 146(10.1) provides that income earned by a trust governed by a retirement savings plan from non-qualified investments is taxable under Part I. Subparagraph 146(10.1)(b)(ii) provides that income for this purpose includes the full amount of capital gains in excess of capital losses. This subparagraph is reworded for clarity, applicable on Royal Assent.

History: Subsec. 146(11.1) added by 1998, c. 19, subsec. 170(8), applicable after 1997.

(12) Change in plan after registration — Where, on any day after a retirement savings plan has been accepted by the Minister for registration for the purposes of this Act, the plan is revised or amended or a new plan is substituted for it, and the plan as revised or amended or the new plan, as the case may be (in this subsection referred to as the "amended plan"), does not comply with the requirements of this section for its acceptance by the Minister for registration for the purposes of this Act, subject to subsection (13.1), the following rules apply:

(a) the amended plan shall be deemed, for the purposes of this Act, not to be a registered retirement savings plan; and

(b) the taxpayer who was the annuitant under the plan before it became an amended plan shall, in computing the taxpayer's income for the taxation year that includes that day, include as income received at that time an amount equal to the fair market value of all the property of the plan immediately before that time.

History: Subsecs. 146(13.2) added by 1997, c. 25, subsec. 41(4), applicable after 1996, except that

(a) it does not apply to a retirement savings plan where the annuitant under the plan attained 70 years of age before 1997;

(b) in applying the subsec. to a retirement savings plan where the annuitant under the plan attained 69 years of age in 1996, the references in that provisions to "69 years of age" shall be read as "70 years of age";

(c) it does not apply to a retirement savings plan where an annuity contract was issued before March 6, 1996 under, pursuant to or as the plan to provide the retirement income under the plan and, under the terms and conditions of the contract as they read immediately before that day,

(i) the day on which annuity payments are to begin under the plan is fixed and determined and is after the year in which the annuitant attains

(A) 69 years of age, where the annuitant had not attained that age before 1997, or

(B) 70 years of age, where the annuitant attained 69 years of age in 1996, and

(ii) the amount and timing of each annuity payment are fixed and determined; and

(d) it does not apply to a retirement savings plan that is part of a life insurance policy that was issued before March 6, 1996 and that has a life insurance component that is not a retirement savings plan where, under the terms and conditions of the policy as they read immediately before that day,

(i) the amount of each premium, if any, subsequently payable in respect of the life insurance component of the policy, and a date by which each such premium is to be paid, are fixed and determined,

(ii) the amount payable under the policy because of the death of the annuitant (determined without reference to any amount payable as, on account of, in lieu of payment of or in satisfaction of, a policy dividend or related interest) is fixed and determined, and

(iii) insurance on the life of the annuitant is provided under the policy for a period of time after the year in which the annuitant attains

(A) 69 years of age, where the annuitant had not attained that age before 1997, or

(B) 70 years of age, where the annuitant attained 69 years of age in 1996.

Where, because of (d) above, the subsec. does not apply to a retirement savings plan that is part of a life insurance policy, any part of a premium paid under the policy after March 5, 1996 that was not fixed and determined under the terms and conditions of the policy as they read at the end of that day is deemed, for the purposes of subsecs. 146(5), (5.1) and (8.2), not to have been paid under the policy.

(13.3) Notice — Where a retirement savings plan accepted for registration before 1997 does not prevent maturity after the particular year in which the annuitant under the plan attains 69 years of age, the issuer of the plan shall, before July of the particular year, notify the annuitant in writing that, pursuant to subsections (12) and (13.2), the plan will cease to be a registered retirement savings plan if it does not mature by the end of the particular year, except that no such notification is required where, before that month,

(a) the plan has matured; or

(b) arrangements have been made for the plan to mature, or for the property under the plan to be transferred or otherwise paid out of the plan, by the end of the particular year.

Related Provisions: 162(7) — Penalty for failure to comply.

History: Subsecs. 146(13.3) added by 1997, c. 25, subsec. 41(4), applicable on the same basis as subsec. 146(13.2)

(14) Premiums paid in taxation year — Where any amount has been paid in a taxation year as a premium under a retirement savings plan that was, at the end of that taxation year, a registered retirement savings plan, the amount so paid shall be deemed, for the purposes of this Act, to have been paid in that year as a premium under a registered retirement savings plan.

Related Provisions: 146(1) — "Retirement savings plan".

(15) Plan not registered at end of year entered into — Notwithstanding anything in this section, where an amount is received in a taxation year as a benefit under a registered retirement savings plan that was not, at the end of the year in which the plan was entered into, a registered retirement savings plan, such part, if any, of the amount so received as may be prescribed shall be deemed, for the purposes of this Act, to have been received in the taxation year otherwise than as a benefit or other payment under a registered retirement savings plan.

Regulations: Part I.

(16) Transfer of funds — Notwithstanding any other provision in this section, a registered retirement savings plan may at any time be revised or amended to provide for the payment or transfer before the maturity of the plan, on behalf of the annuitant under the plan (in this subsection referred to as the "transferor"), of any property thereunder by the issuer thereof

(a) to a registered pension plan for the benefit of the transferor or to a registered retirement savings plan or registered retirement income fund under which the transferor is the annuitant, or

(b) to a registered retirement savings plan or registered retirement income fund under which the spouse or common-law partner or former spouse or common-law partner of the transferor is the annuitant, where the transferor and the transferor's spouse or common-law partner or former spouse or common-law partner are living separate and apart and the payment or transfer is made under a decree, order or judgment of a competent tribunal, or under a written separation agreement, relating to a division of property between the transferor and the transferor's spouse or common-law partner or former spouse or common-law partner in settlement of rights arising out of, or on the breakdown of, their marriage or common-law partnership, and, where there has been such a payment or transfer of such property on behalf of the transferor before the maturity of the plan,

(c) the amount of the payment or transfer shall not, solely because of the payment or transfer, be included in computing the income of the transferor or the transferor's spouse or common-law partner or former spouse or common-law partner,

(d) no deduction may be made under subsection (5), (5.1) or (8.2) or section 8 or 60 in respect of the payment or transfer in computing the income of any taxpayer, and

(e) where the payment or transfer was made to a registered retirement savings plan, for the purposes of subsection (8.2), the amount of the payment or transfer shall be deemed not to be a premium paid to that plan by the taxpayer.

Related Provisions: 60(l) — Transfer of RRSP premium refunds; 146.3(14)(a) — Transfer of RRIF on marriage breakdown; 160.2(1) — Joint and several liability in respect of amounts received out of or under RRSP; 204.2(1) — Excess amount for a year for RRSP; 204.2(2) — Where terminated plan deemed to continue to exist; 248(23.1)(a) — Where property transferred to spouse after death; 252(3) — Extended meaning of "spouse" and "former spouse"; Reg. 8300(1)"excluded contribution" — Amount transferred is excluded contribution.

History: Subsec. 146(16) amended by 2000, c. 12, Sch. 2, s. 2, to replace "spouse" with "spouse or common-law partner", and by Sch. 2, s. 9, to replace "marriage" with "marriage or common-law partnership", applicable to 2001 et seq., in force July 31, 2000. See also the transitional rules reproduced in the History to 248(1)"common-law partner".

Para. 146(16)(b) amended applicable after 1992, and all that portion of subsec. (16) following para. (b) amended applicable to 1991 et seq., by 1994, c. 7, Sch. VIII (1993, c. 24), subsecs. 82(9) and (10). Those portions formerly read:

> (b) to a registered retirement savings plan or registered retirement income fund under which the spouse or former spouse of the transferor is the annuitant, where the transferor and the transferor's spouse or former spouse are living separate and apart and the payment or transfer is made pursuant to a decree, order or judgment of a competent tribunal, or a written separation agreement, relating to a division of property between the transferor and the transferor's spouse or former spouse in settlement of rights arising out of their marriage or other conjugal relationship, on or after the breakdown of the marriage or other relationship, > and on the payment or transfer of such property before the maturity of the plan,
>
>
> (c) the amount so paid or transferred on behalf of the transferor shall not by reason only of that payment or transfer be included by virtue of subsection (8) in computing the income of the transferor or the spouse or former spouse, and
>
> (d) no deduction may be made under subsection (5), (5.1) or (8.2) or section 8 or 60, in respect of the amount so paid or transferred, in computing the income of any taxpayer.

(17)–(19) [Repealed under former Act]

(20) Credited or added amount deemed not received — Where

(a) an amount is credited or added to a deposit with a depositary referred to in subparagraph (b)(iii) of the definition "retirement savings plan" in subsection (1) as interest or income in respect of the deposit,

(b) the deposit is a registered retirement savings plan at the time the amount is credited or added to the deposit, and

(c) during the calendar year in which the amount is credited or added or during the preceding calendar year, the annuitant under the plan was alive,

the amount shall be deemed not to be received by the annuitant or any other person solely because of the crediting or adding.

Related Provisions: 81(1)(r) — No income inclusion where amount credited or added to foreign retirement arrangement; 146(8) — Tax on withdrawals from plan.

History: Subsec. 146(20) substituted by 1994, c. 21, subsec. 69(9), applicable to deaths occurring after 1992. That subsec. formerly read:

> (20) Where amount credited or added deemed not received — Where an amount is credited or added to a deposit with a depositary referred to in subparagraph (b)(iii) of the definition "retirement savings plan" in subsection (1) as interest or income in respect of the deposit, and where
>
> (a) the deposit is a registered retirement savings plan at the time the amount is credited or added to the deposit, and
>
> (b) the annuitant under the plan is alive during the year in which the amount is credited or added,

(21) Prescribed provincial pension plans — Where

(a) an amount (other than an amount that is part of a series of periodic payments) is transferred directly from an individual's account under a provincial pension plan prescribed for the purpose of paragraph 60(v)

(i) to a registered retirement savings plan or registered retirement income fund under which the individual, or a spouse or common-law partner or former spouse or common-law partner of the individual, is the annuitant,

(ii) to acquire from a licensed annuities provider an annuity that would be described in subparagraph 60(l)(ii) if the individual, or a spouse or common-law partner or former spouse or common-law partner of the individual, were the taxpayer referred to in that subparagraph and if that subparagraph were read without reference to clause 60(l)(ii)(B), or

(iii) to an account under the plan of a spouse or common-law partner or former spouse or common-law partner of the individual, and

(b) if the transfer is in respect of a spouse or common-law partner or former spouse or common-law partner of the individual,

(i) the individual and the spouse or common-law partner or former spouse or common-law partner are living separate and apart and the transfer is made under a decree, order or judgment of a competent tribunal, or under a written separation agreement, relating to a division of property in settlement of rights arising out of, or on the breakdown of, their marriage or common-law partnership, or

(ii) the amount is transferred as a consequence of the individual's death,

the following rules apply:

(c) the amount shall not, solely because of the transfer, be included because of subparagraph 56(1)(a)(i) in computing the income of a taxpayer, and

(d) no deduction may be made under any provision of this Act in respect of the transfer in computing the income of a taxpayer.

Related Provisions: 56(1)(d.2) — Income inclusion; 70(3.1)(a) — "Rights or things" treatment on death ; 146.3(2)(f)(vii) — Conditions for RRIF — transfer of funds under 146(21); 148(1)(e) — Amounts included in computing policyholder's income; 204.2(1.2)I(a)(iii) — Transfer under 146(21) excluded from cumulative excess RRSP amount; 212(1)(h)(iii.1)(A), 212(1)(h)(iv.1) — Transfers under 146(21) excluded from withholding tax on pension benefits.

History: Subsec. 146(21) amended by 2000, c. 12, Sch. 2, s. 2, to replace "spouse" with "spouse or common-law partner", and by Sch. 2, s. 9, to replace "marriage" with "marriage or common-law partnership", applicable to 2001 et seq., in force July 31, 2000. See also the transitional rules reproduced in the History to 248(1)"common-law partner".

Subsec. 146(21) amended by 1999, c. 22, subsec. 59(6), applicable to transfers made after 1994. It formerly read:

(21) Where an amount (other than an amount that is part of a series of periodic payments) is transferred on behalf of a particular individual directly from a provincial pension plan prescribed for the purpose of paragraph 60(v)

(a) to a registered retirement savings plan or a registered retirement income fund under which the particular individual is the annuitant,

(b) to a registered retirement savings plan or registered retirement income fund under which the spouse or former spouse of the particular individual is the annuitant, where the particular individual and the spouse or former spouse are living separate and apart and the transfer is made under a decree, order or judgment of a competent tribunal, or under a written separation agreement, relating to a division of property between the particular individual and the spouse or former spouse in settlement of rights arising out of, or on the breakdown of, their marriage,

(c) to acquire, from a person licensed or otherwise authorized under the laws of Canada or a province to carry on in Canada an annuities business, an annuity that would be described in subparagraph 60(l)(ii) if the particular individual were the taxpayer referred to therein and if that subparagraph were read without reference to clause (B) thereof, or

(d) to acquire, from a person licensed or otherwise authorized under the laws of Canada or a province to carry on in Canada an annuities business, an annuity that would be described in subparagraph 60(l)(ii) if the particular individual's spouse or former spouse were the taxpayer referred to therein and if that subparagraph were read without reference to clause (B) thereof, where the particular individual and the spouse or former spouse are living separate and apart and the transfer is made under a decree, order or judgment of a competent tribunal, or under a written separation agreement, relating to a division of property between the individual and the spouse or former spouse in settlement of rights arising out of, or on the breakdown of, their marriage, except where the amount arose as a consequence of the death of an individual (other than the particular individual or a spouse or former spouse of the particular individual),

(e) the amount shall not, solely because of that transfer, be included because of subparagraph 56(1)(a)(i) in computing the income of a taxpayer, and

(f) no deduction may be made under any provision of this Act in respect of the transfer in computing the income of a taxpayer.

Subsec. 146(21) added by 1994, c. 21, subsec. 69(10), applicable to transfers occurring after 1991, except that

(a) where a taxpayer elects under subsec. 26(10) of 1994, c. 21 [i.e. with respect to subpara. 60(l)(v)], subsec. 146(21) does not apply in respect of transfers made on behalf of the taxpayer in 1992; and

(b) with respect to transfers made in 1992,

(i) the word "spouse", wherever it appears in subsec. 146(21), shall have the meaning assigned by subsec. 146(1.1) as it read in its application to that year, and

(ii) the word "marriage" in paras. 146(21)(b) and (d), shall be read as "marriage or other conjugal relationship".

Regulations: 7800(1) (prescribed provincial pension plan is the Saskatchewan Pension Plan).

Interpretation Bulletins: IT-528: Transfers of funds between registered plans.

(22) Deemed payment of RRSP premiums and provincial pension plan contributions [extension of contribution deadline] — If the Minister so directs,

(a) except for the purposes of subparagraphs (5)(a)(iv.1) and (5.1)(a)(iv), an amount paid by an individual in a taxation year (other than an amount paid in the first 60 days of the year) as a contribution to an account under a prescribed provincial pension plan or as a premium is deemed to have been paid at the beginning of the year and not at the time it was actually paid;

(b) all or part of the amount may be designated in writing by the individual for the purpose of paragraph 60(j), (j.1) or (l) or subsection 146.01(3) or 146.02(3); and

(c) the designation is deemed to have been made in the individual's return of income for the preceding taxation year or in a prescribed form filed with that return, as the case may be.

Possible Future Amendment — Tax pre-paid savings plans

Federal budget, Supplementary Information, February 18, 2003: Tax Pre-Paid Savings Plans

This budget contains proposals to increase registered pension plan and registered retirement savings plan limits to support saving by Canadians. It is important that the tax system continue to provide and improve upon mechanisms to support saving. The Government has received numerous representations from individuals, researchers and businesses that Canada's tax system should be more conducive to saving. In particular, some of these have proposed the creation of tax pre-paid savings plans (TPSPs).

TPSPs are savings vehicles that, like RRSPs, increase the after-tax return to saving compared to saving in unregistered plans. TPSPs, however, are structured differently than RRSPs. In a TPSP, no deduction is provided on contributions (in this sense, the income tax on contributions is "pre-paid") but the investment income in the plan and withdrawals are not subject to income tax. A number of other countries provide for availability to taxpayers of a combination of RRSP-type and TPSP-type vehicles that improve the tax treatment of savings.

There are a number of important issues that would have to be considered in examining any proposal to introduce TPSPs, for example: their effect on savings behaviour, impact on government revenues, and whether such plans could be effectively administered.

The Government intends to review and consult with respect to these issues in order to assess whether TPSPs could be a useful and appropriate mechanism to provide additional savings opportunities for Canadians.

Federal budget, Supplementary Information, March 23, 2004: Tax Treatment of Savings

A tax system that encourages private saving is important both to support investment and economic growth and to allow Canadians to meet their individual savings needs. Budget 2003 announced increases in the registered pension plan (RPP) and registered retirement savings plan (RRSP) limits to $18,000 by 2005 and 2006 respectively. It also noted that it is important that the tax system continue to provide effective mechanisms to support saving. In this regard, it was stated that representations received on the tax treatment of savings would be reviewed and analysis conducted in order to identify possible approaches for future improvements. In particular, the Budget stated an intention to examine and consult on the question of whether tax pre-paid savings plans (TPSPs) could be a useful and appropriate additional savings vehicle for Canadians.

Finance officials consulted with interested groups, experts and academics on the tax treatment of savings and TPSPs. The discussions were helpful in gathering views on how the tax treatment of savings could be improved and on TPSPs in particular. The Department is reviewing the views brought forward and is continuing to examine and assess TPSPs and other approaches to improve the tax treatment of savings. In the consultation, the question of whether a new type of savings plan such as a TPSP could be appropriate for Canada raised a number of important issues which require further consideration.

Home Buyers' Plan

146.01 (1) Definitions — In this section,

"annuitant" has the meaning assigned by subsection 146(1);

"benefit" has the meaning assigned by subsection 146(1);

"completion date", in respect of an amount received by an individual, is

(a) where the amount was received before March 2, 1993, October 1, 1993,

(b) where the amount was received after March 1, 1993 and before March 2, 1994, October 1, 1994, and

(c) in any other case, October 1 of the calendar year following the calendar year in which the amount was received;

History: Paras. (b) and (c) substituted for para. (b) in the definition "completion date" in subsec. 146.01(1) by 1995, c. 3, subsec. 44(1), applicable to 1994 et seq. Para. (b) formerly read:

(b) in any other case, October 1, 1994;

The definition "completion date" added to subsec. 146.01(1) by 1994, c. 8, subsec. 19(3), applicable to 1992 et seq.

"designated withdrawal" of an individual is an amount received by the individual, as a benefit out of or under a registered retirement savings plan, pursuant to the individual's written request in the prescribed form referred to in paragraph (a) of the definition "eligible amount" (as that definition read in its application to amounts received before 1999), paragraph (a) of the definition "regular eligible amount" or paragraph (a) of the definition "supplemental eligible amount";

History: The definition "designated withdrawal" added to subsec. 146.01(1) by 1999, c. 22, subsec. 60(4), applicable after 1998.

"eligible amount" of an individual is a regular eligible amount or supplemental eligible amount of the individual;

Related Provisions: 146(5)(a)(iv.1), 146(5.1)(a)(iv) — Amount withdrawn within 90 days under Home Buyers' Plan ineligible for RRSP contribution; 146.01(2) — Interpretation; 146.01(3), (4) — Repayment of eligible amounts to RRSP.

History: The definition "eligible amount" in subsec. 146.01(1) amended by 1999, c. 22, subsec. 60(1), applicable to amounts received after 1998. It formerly read:

"eligible amount" in respect of an individual means an amount received at a particular time by the individual as a benefit out of or under a registered retirement savings plan where

(a) the amount is received after February 25, 1992 pursuant to the written request of the individual in prescribed form in which the individual sets out the location of a qualifying home that the individual has begun, or intends not later than one year after its acquisition by the individual to begin, using as a principal place of residence,

(b) the individual is resident in Canada at the particular time and entered into an agreement in writing before the particular time for the acquisition of the qualifying home or with respect to its construction,

(c) the individual acquires the qualifying home (or replacement property for the qualifying home) after February 25, 1992 and before the completion date in respect of the amount,

(d) neither the individual nor the individual's spouse acquired the qualifying home more than 30 days before the particular time,

(d.1) if the particular time is after March 1, 1994,

(i) the individual did not have an owner-occupied home in the period that began at the beginning of the fourth preceding calendar year that ended before the particular time and ended on the 31st day before the particular time, and

(ii) the individual's spouse did not have an owner-occupied home in the period referred to in subparagraph (i)

(A) that is inhabited by the individual during the spouse's marriage to the individual, or

(B) that is a share of the capital stock of a cooperative housing corporation that relates to a housing unit that is inhabited by the individual during the spouse's marriage to the individual,

(e) unless the individual acquired the qualifying home before the particular time, the individual is resident in Canada throughout the period beginning immediately after the particular time and ending at the earliest of any time at which the individual acquired the qualifying home or any replacement property for the qualifying home,

(f) the total of the amount and all eligible amounts received by the individual at or before the particular time does not exceed $20,000,

(g) if the particular time is after March 1, 1993 and before March 2, 1994, neither the individual, nor another individual who was, at any time after February 25, 1992 and before the particular time, a spouse of the individual, received an eligible amount before March 2, 1993,

(h) if the particular time is after March 1, 1994 and before 1995, the individual did not receive an eligible amount before March 2, 1994, and

(i) if the particular time is after 1994, the individual did not receive an eligible amount before the calendar year that includes the particular time;

Para. (a) of the definition "eligible amount" in subsec. 146.01(1) amended and (d.1) added by 1995, c. 3, subsecs. 44(2) and (3), applicable to 1994 et seq. Para. (a) formerly read:

(a) the amount is received after February 25, 1992 and before March 2, 1994 pursuant to the written request of the individual in prescribed form in which the individual sets out the location of a qualifying home that the individual has begun, or intends not later than one year after its acquisition by the individual to begin, using as a principal place of residence,

Paras. (g) to (i) substituted for para. (g) in the definition "eligible amount" in subsec. 146.01(1) by 1995, c. 3, subsec. 44(4); para. (g) applicable to 1992 et seq., and paras. (h) and (i) applicable to 1994 et seq. Para. (g) formerly read:

(g) if the particular time is after March 1, 1993, neither the individual, nor another individual who was, at any time after February 25, 1992 and before the particular time, a spouse of the individual, received an eligible amount before March 2, 1993;

The definition of "eligible amount" in subsec. 146.01(1) amended by 1994, c. 8, subsec. 19(1), applicable to 1992 et seq. The definition formerly read:

"eligible amount" in respect of an individual means an amount received at a particular time by the individual as a benefit out of or under a registered retirement savings plan where

(a) the amount is received after February 25, 1992 and before March 2, 1993 pursuant to the written request of the individual in prescribed form in which the individual sets out the location of a qualifying home that the individual has begun, or intends not later than one year after its acquisition by the individual to begin, using as a principal place of residence,

(b) the individual is resident in Canada at the particular time and entered into an agreement in writing before the particular time for the acquisition of the qualifying home or with respect to its construction,

(c) the individual acquires the qualifying home (or replacement property for the qualifying home) after February 25, 1992 and before October 1, 1993,

(d) neither the individual nor the individual's spouse acquired the qualifying home more than 30 days before the particular time,

(e) unless the individual acquired the qualifying home before the particular time, the individual is resident in Canada throughout the period beginning immediately after the particular time and ending at the earliest of any time at which the individual acquired the qualifying home or any replacement property for the qualifying home, and

(f) the total of the amount and all eligible amounts received by the individual at or before the particular time does not exceed $20,000;

Regulations: 214(1) (information return).

Forms: T1036: Home buyers' plan — request to withdraw funds from an RRSP; RC4135: Home Buyers' Plan [guide].

"excluded premium" in respect of an individual means a premium under a registered retirement savings plan where the premium

(a) was designated by the individual for the purposes of paragraph 60(j), (j.1), (j.2) or (l),

(b) was an amount transferred directly from a registered retirement savings plan, registered pension plan, registered retirement income fund, deferred profit sharing plan or a provincial pension plan prescribed for the purpose of paragraph 60(v),

(c) was deductible under subsection 146(6.1) in computing the individual's income for any taxation year, or

(d) was deducted in computing the individual's income for the 1991 taxation year;

History: Para. (b) of "excluded premium" in subsec. 146.01(1) substituted by 1994, c. 21, s. 70, applicable to 1992 et seq. That para. formerly read:

(b) was an amount transferred directly from a registered retirement savings plan, registered pension plan, registered retirement income fund or deferred profit sharing plan,

"excluded withdrawal" of an individual means

(a) an eligible amount received by the individual,

(b) a particular amount (other than an eligible amount) received while the individual was resident in Canada and in a calendar year if

(i) the particular amount would be an eligible amount of the individual if the definition "regular eligible amount" were read without reference to paragraphs (c) and (g) of that definition and the definition "supplemental eligible amount" were read without reference to paragraphs (d) and (f) of that definition,

(ii) a payment (other than an excluded premium) equal to the particular amount is made by the individual under a retirement saving plan that is, at the end of the taxation year of the payment, a registered retirement savings plan under which the individual is the annuitant,

(iii) the payment is made before the particular time that is

(A) if the individual was not resident in Canada at the time the individual filed a return of income for the taxation year in which the particular amount was received, the earlier of

(I) the end of the following calendar year, and

(II) the time at which the individual filed the return,

(B) where clause (A) does not apply and the particular amount would, but for subclause (2)(c)(ii)(A)(II), be an eligible amount, the end of the second following calendar year, and

(C) in any other case, the end of the following calendar year, and

(iv) either

(A) if the particular time is before 2000, the payment is made, as a repayment of the particular amount, to the issuer of the registered retirement savings plan from which the particular amount was received, no other payment is made as a repayment of the particular amount and that issuer is notified of the payment in prescribed form submitted to the issuer at the time the payment is made, or

(B) the payment is made after 1999 and before the particular time and the payment (and no other payment) is designated under this clause as a repayment of the particular amount in prescribed form filed with the Minister on or before the particular time (or before such later time as is acceptable to the Minister), or

(c) an amount (other than an eligible amount) that is received in a calendar year before 1999 and that would be an eligible amount of the individual if the definition "eligible amount", as it applied to amounts received before 1999, were read without reference to paragraphs (c) and (e) of that definition, where the individual

(i) died before the end of the following calendar year, and

(ii) was resident in Canada throughout the period that began immediately after the amount was received and ended at the time of the death;

Related Provisions: 146(1)"premium" — Definition excludes repayment described in para. (b); 146(8) — Home Buyers' Plan withdrawal not to be included in income; 146.01(2)(c) — Special rules.

History: The definition "excluded withdrawal" in subsec. 146.01(1) amended by 1999, c. 22, subsec. 60(2), applicable to amounts received after 1996, except that the portion of para. (b) of the definition before subpara. (ii), as amended, shall in its application to amounts received before 1999 be read as follows:

(b) a particular amount (other than an eligible amount), received in a calendar year, that would be an eligible amount of the individual if

(i) the definition "eligible amount" were read without reference to paragraphs (c) and (e) of that definition,

The definition formerly read:

"excluded withdrawal" in respect of an individual means

(a) an eligible amount received by the individual, or

(b) an amount (other than an eligible amount) that would, if the definition "eligible amount" were read without reference to paragraphs (c) and (e) thereof, be an eligible amount received by the individual out of or under a registered retirement savings plan in respect of which a person is the issuer, where either

(i) the individual

(A) died before the end of the calendar year that includes the completion date in respect of the amount, and

(B) was resident in Canada throughout the period beginning immediately after the amount was received and ending at the time of the death, or

(ii) the amount is repaid before the end of the calendar year described in clause (i)(A) to a registered retirement savings plan in respect of which the person is the issuer (or, where the individual was not resident in Canada at the time the individual filed a return of income under this Part for the taxation year in which the amount was received by the individual, before the earlier of the end of the calendar year described in clause (i)(A) and the time at which the individual filed that return) and the issuer is notified of the repayment in prescribed form submitted to the issuer at the time the repayment is made,

except that where an amount would, but for subclause (2)(c)(ii)(A)(II), be an eligible amount, subparagraph (b)(ii) applies in respect of the amount as if the first reference therein to "described in clause (i)(A)" were read as "following the calendar year described in clause (i)(A)";

That portion of the definition of "excluded withdrawal" in subsec. 146.01(1) following para. (a) amended by 1994, c. 8, subsec. 19(2), applicable to 1992 et seq. That portion formerly read:

(b) an amount (other than an eligible amount) that would, if the definition "eligible amount" were read without reference to paragraphs (c) and (e) of that definition, be an eligible amount received by the individual out of or under a registered retirement savings plan in respect of which a person is the issuer, where either

(i) the individual died before 1994 and was resident in Canada throughout the period beginning immediately after the amount was received and ending at the time of the death, or

(ii) the amount is repaid before 1994 to a registered retirement savings plan in respect of which the person is the issuer (or, where the individual was not resident in Canada at the time the individual filed a return of income under this Part for the taxation year in which the amount was received by the individual, before the earlier of January 1, 1994 and the time the individual filed that return) and the issuer is notified of the repayment in prescribed form submitted to the issuer at the time the repayment is made,

except that, where an amount would, but for subclause (2)(c)(ii)(A)(II), be an eligible amount, subparagraph (b)(ii) applies in respect of the amount as if the first reference therein to "1994" were "1995";

Regulations: 104(3) — No tax withheld at source on excluded withdrawal.

"HBP balance" of an individual at any time means the amount, if any, by which the total of all eligible amounts received by the individual at or before that time exceeds the total of

(a) all amounts designated under subsection (3) by the individual for taxation years that ended before that time, and

(b) all amounts each of which is included under subsection (4) or (5) in computing the individual's income for a taxation year that ended before that time;

Related Provisions: 150(1.1)(b)(iv) — Individual with HBP balance must file tax return.

History: The definition "HBP balance" added to subsec. 146.01(1) by 1999, c. 22, subsec. 60(4), applicable after 1998.

"issuer" has the meaning assigned by subsection 146(1);

"participation period" of an individual means each period

(a) that begins at the beginning of a calendar year in which the individual receives an eligible amount, and

(b) that ends immediately before the beginning of the first subsequent calendar year at the beginning of which the individual's HBP balance is nil;

History: The definition "participation period" added to subsec. 146.01(1) by 1999, c. 22, subsec. 60(4), applicable after 1998.

"premium" has the meaning assigned by subsection 146(1);

"qualifying home" means

(a) a housing unit located in Canada, or

(b) a share of the capital stock of a cooperative housing corporation, the holder of which is entitled to possession of a housing unit located in Canada, except that, where the context so requires, a reference to a qualifying home that is a share described in paragraph (b) means the housing unit to which the share described in that paragraph relates;

"quarter" means any of the following periods in a calendar year:

(a) the period beginning on January 1 and ending on March 31,

(b) the period beginning on April 1 and ending on June 30,

(c) the period beginning on July 1 and ending on September 30, and

(d) the period beginning on October 1 and ending on December 31;

Proposed Repeal — 146.01(1)"quarter"

Application: The February 27, 2004 draft legislation, subsec. 82(1), will repeal the definition "quarter" in subsec. 146.01(1), applicable to 2002 et seq.

Technical Notes (December 20, 2002): Subsection 146.01(1) contains the definition "quarter" for purposes of the rules relating to the HBP. This definition is repealed as a consequence of the repeal of subsection 146.01(8), where this definition applied.

"regular eligible amount" of an individual means an amount received at a particular time by the individual as a benefit out of or under a registered retirement savings plan if

(a) the amount is received pursuant to the individual's written request in a prescribed form in which the individual sets out the location of a qualifying home that the individual has begun, or intends not later than one year after its acquisition by the individual to begin, using as a principal place of residence,

(b) the individual entered into an agreement in writing before the particular time for the acquisition of it or with respect to its construction,

(c) the individual

(i) acquires the qualifying home (or a replacement property for the qualifying home) before the completion date in respect of the amount, or

(ii) dies before the end of the calendar year that includes the completion date in respect of the amount,

(d) neither the individual nor the individual's spouse or common-law partner acquired the qualifying home more than 30 days before the particular time,

(e) the individual did not have an owner-occupied home in the period

(i) that began at the beginning of the fourth preceding calendar year that ended before the particular time, and

(ii) that ended on the 31st day before the particular time,

(f) the individual's spouse or common-law partner did not, in the period referred to in paragraph (e), have an owner-occupied home

(i) that was inhabited by the individual during the spouse's or common-law partner's marriage or common-law partnership to the individual, or

(ii) that was a share of the capital stock of a cooperative housing corporation that relates to a housing unit inhabited by the individual during the spouse's or common-law partner's marriage or common-law partnership to the individual,

(g) the individual

(i) acquired the qualifying home before the particular time and is resident in Canada at the particular time, or

(ii) is resident in Canada throughout the period that begins at the particular time and ends at the earlier of the time of the individual's death and the earliest time at which the individual acquires the qualifying home or a replacement property for it,

(h) the total of the amount and all other eligible amounts received by the individual in the calendar year that includes the particular time does not exceed $20,000, and

(i) the individual's HBP balance at the beginning of the calendar year that includes the particular time is nil;

History: Para. (d) and the opening words of para. (f) of the definition "regular eligible amount" in subsec. 146.01(1) amended by 2000, c. 12, Sch. 2, s. 1, to replace "spouse" with "spouse or common-law partner", applicable to 2001 et seq., in force July 31, 2000. See also the transitional rules reproduced in the History to 248(1)"common-law partner".

Subparas. (f)(i) and (ii) of the definition "regular eligible amount" amended by 2000, c. 12, Sch. 2, s. 7, to replace "spouse's" with "spouse's or common-law partner's", and by Sch. 2, s. 9, to replace "marriage" with "marriage or common-law partnership", applicable to 2001 et seq., in force July 31, 2000. See also the transitional rules reproduced under 248(1)"common-law partner".

The definition "regular eligible amount" added to subsec. 146.01(1) by 1999, c. 22, subsec. 60(4), applicable to amounts received after 1998.

Regulations: 214(1) (information return).

"replacement property" for a particular qualifying home in respect of an individual, or of a specified disabled person in respect of the individual, means another qualifying home that

(a) the individual or the specified disabled person agrees to acquire, or begins the construction of, at a particular time that is after the latest time that the individual made a request described in the definition "designated withdrawal" in respect of the particular qualifying home,

(b) at the particular time, the individual intends to be used by the individual or the specified disabled person as a principal place of residence not later than one year after its acquisition, and

(c) none of the individual, the individual's spouse or common-law partner, the specified disabled person or that person's spouse or common-law partner had acquired before the particular time;

History: Para. (c) of the definition "replacement property" in subsec. 146.01(1) amended by 2000, c. 12, Sch. 2, s. 1, to replace "spouse" with "spouse or common-law partner", applicable to 2001 et seq., in force July 31, 2000. See also the transitional rules reproduced in the History to 248(1)"common-law partner".

The definition "replacement property" in subsec. 146.01(1) amended by 1999, c. 22, subsec. 60(3), applicable after 1998. It formerly read:

> "replacement property" for a particular qualifying home in respect of an individual means another qualifying home where
>
> (a) the individual
>
> (i) agreed to acquire, or
>
> (ii) began the construction of > the other qualifying home at a particular time that is after the latest time that the individual requested a withdrawal in respect of the particular qualifying home under paragraph (a) of the definition "eligible amount",
>
>
> (b) the individual intended, at the particular time, that the other qualifying home be used by the individual as a principal place of residence not later than one year after its acquisition, and
>
> (c) neither the individual nor the individual's spouse had acquired the other qualifying home before the particular time.

"specified disabled person", in respect of an individual at any time, means a person who

(a) is the individual or is related at that time to the individual, and

(b) would be entitled to a deduction under subsection 118.3(1) in computing tax payable under this Part for the person's taxation year that includes that time if that subsection were read without reference to paragraph (c) of that subsection;

Related Provisions: 146.01(1)"supplemental eligible amount" — Withdrawal to acquire accessible home for specified disabled person.

History: The definition "specified disabled person" added to subsec. 146.01(1) by 1999, c. 22, subsec. 60(4), applicable after 1998.

"spouse" — [Repealed]

History: Definition of "spouse" in subsec. 146.01(1) added by 1994, c. 7, Sch. VIII (1993, c. 24), subsec. 83(2), applicable to 1992 taxation year only. The definition read:

"spouse" has the meaning assigned by subsection 146(1.1).

"supplemental eligible amount" of an individual means an amount received at a particular time by the individual as a benefit out of or under a registered retirement savings plan if

(a) the amount is received pursuant to the individual's written request in a prescribed form identifying a specified disabled person in respect of the individual and setting out the location of a qualifying home

(i) that has begun to be used by that person as a principal place of residence, or

(ii) that the individual intends to be used by that person as a principal place of residence not later than one year after its first acquisition after the particular time,

(b) the purpose of receiving the amount is to enable the specified disabled person to live

(i) in a dwelling that is more accessible by that person or in which that person is more mobile or functional, or

(ii) in an environment better suited to the personal needs and care of that person,

(c) the individual or the specified disabled person entered into an agreement in writing before the particular time for the acquisition of the qualifying home or with respect to its construction,

(d) either

(i) the individual or the specified disabled person acquires the qualifying home (or a replacement property for it) after 1998 and before the completion date in respect of the amount, or

(ii) the individual dies before the end of the calendar year that includes the completion date in respect of the amount,

(e) none of the individual, the spouse or common-law partner of the individual, the specified disabled person or the spouse or common-law partner of that person acquired the qualifying home more than 30 days before the particular time,

(f) either

(i) the individual or the specified disabled person acquired the qualifying home before the particular time and the individual is resident in Canada at the particular time, or

(ii) the individual is resident in Canada throughout the period that begins at the particular time and ends at the earlier of the time of the individual's death and the earliest time at which

(A) the individual acquires the qualifying home or a replacement property for it, or

(B) the specified disabled person acquires the qualifying home or a replacement property for it,

(g) the total of the amount and all other eligible amounts received by the individual in the calendar year that includes the particular time does not exceed $20,000, and

(h) the individual's HBP balance at the beginning of the calendar year that includes the particular time is nil.

Related Provisions: 118.2(2)(l.2), (l.21) — Medical expense credit for disability-related renovations and construction costs.

History: Para. (e) of the definition "supplemental eligible amount" in subsec. 146.01(1) amended by 2000, c. 12, Sch. 2, s. 1, to replace "spouse" with "spouse or common-law partner", applicable to 2001 et seq., in force July 31, 2000. See also the transitional rules reproduced in the History to 248(1)"common-law partner".

The definition "supplemental eligible amount" added to subsec. 146.01(1) by 1999, c. 22, subsec. 60(4), applicable to amounts received after 1998.

Regulations: 214(1) (information return).

(2) Special rules — For the purposes of this section,

(a) an individual shall be considered to have acquired a qualifying home if the individual acquired it jointly with one or more other persons;

(a.1) an individual shall be considered to have an owner-occupied home at any time where, at that time, the individual owns, whether jointly with another person or otherwise, a housing unit or a share of the capital stock of a cooperative housing corporation and

(i) the housing unit is inhabited by the individual as the individual's principal place of residence at that time, or

(ii) the share was acquired for the purpose of acquiring a right to possess a housing unit owned by the corporation and that unit is inhabited by the individual as the individual's principal place of residence at that time;

(b) where an individual agrees to acquire a condominium unit, the individual shall be deemed to have acquired it on the day the individual is entitled to immediate vacant possession of it;

(c) except for the purposes of subparagraph (g)(ii) of the definition "regular eligible amount" and subparagraph (f)(ii) of the definition "supplemental eligible amount", an individual or a specified disabled person in respect of the individual is deemed to have acquired, before the completion date in respect of a designated withdrawal received by the individual, the qualifying home in respect of which the designated withdrawal was received if

(i) neither the qualifying home nor a replacement property for it was acquired by the individual or the specified disabled person before that completion date, and

(ii) either

(A) the individual or the specified disabled person

(I) is obliged under the terms of a written agreement in effect on that completion date to acquire the qualifying home (or a replacement property for it) on or after that date, and

(II) acquires the qualifying home or a replacement property for it before the day that is one year after that completion date, or

(B) the individual or the specified disabled person made payments, the total of which equalled or exceeded the total of all designated withdrawals that were received by the individual in respect of the qualifying home,

(I) to persons with whom the individual was dealing at arm's length,

(II) in respect of the construction of the qualifying home or a replacement property for it, and

(III) in the period that begins at the time the individual first received a designated withdrawal in respect of the qualifying home and that ends before that completion date; and

(d) an amount received by an individual in a particular calendar year is deemed to have been received by the individual at the end of the preceding calendar year and not at any other time if

(i) the amount is received in January of the particular year (or at such later time as is acceptable to the Minister),

(ii) the amount would not be an eligible amount if this section were read without reference to this paragraph, and

(iii) the amount would be an eligible amount if the definition "regular eligible amount" in subsection (1) were read without reference to paragraph (i) of that definition and the definition "supplemental eligible amount" were read without reference to paragraph (h) of that definition.

Related Provisions: 146(5)(a)(iv.1), 146(5.1)(a)(iv) — Amount withdrawn within 90 days under Home Buyers' Plan ineligible for RRSP contribution.

History: Para. 146.01(2)(c) amended, paras. (d) and (e) repealed, and para. (f) amended and renumbered as para. (d), by 1999, c. 22, subsec. 60(5), applicable to amounts received after 1998. Paras. (c)–(f) formerly read:

(c) where

(i) neither a qualifying home in respect of which an individual withdrew an amount described in paragraph (a) of the definition "eligible amount" in subsection (1) nor a replacement property for the qualifying home has been acquired by the individual before the completion date in respect of the amount, and

(ii) either

(A) the individual

(I) is obliged under the terms of a written agreement in effect on that completion date to acquire the qualifying home (or a replacement property for the qualifying home) on or after that date,

(II) acquires the qualifying home or a replacement property for the qualifying home before the day that is one year after that completion date, and

(III) is resident in Canada throughout the period beginning on that completion date and ending on the earlier of October 1 in the first calendar year beginning after that date and the earliest of any day on which the individual acquires the qualifying home or a replacement property for the qualifying home, or

(B) the individual made payments

(I) to persons with whom the individual was dealing at arm's length,

(II) in respect of the construction of the qualifying home or a replacement property for the qualifying home, and

(III) in the period beginning at the time the individual first withdrew an amount described in paragraph (a) of that definition in respect of the qualifying home and ending before that completion date,

and the total of all payments so made was not less than the total of all amounts described in that paragraph in respect of the qualifying home that were withdrawn by the individual, except for the purpose of this paragraph, the individual shall be deemed to have acquired the qualifying home before that completion date;

(d) where

(i) an individual or a spouse of the individual receives an eligible amount before March 2, 1993,

(ii) at a particular time after March 1, 1993 and before April 1993 (or at such later time in 1993 as is acceptable to the Minister), the individual receives another amount that would, if the definition "eligible amount" in subsection (1) were read without reference to paragraph (g) thereof, be an eligible amount, and

(iii) the request described in paragraph (a) of the definition "eligible amount" in subsection (1) pursuant to which the other amount was received was made before March 2, 1993 or at such later time as is acceptable to the Minister, except for the purposes of paragraphs (a) to (f) of the definition "eligible amount" in subsection (1) and the purposes of this paragraph, the other amount shall be deemed to have been received by the individual on March 1, 1993 and not at the particular time and any premium paid by the individual or the individual's spouse after March 1, 1993 and before the particular time under a registered retirement savings plan shall be deemed to have been paid on March 1, 1993;

(e) where

(i) at a particular time after March 1, 1994 and before April 1994 (or at such later time in 1994 as is acceptable to the Minister), an individual receives an amount that would, if paragraph (g) of the definition "eligible amount" in subsection (1) were read without reference to the words "and before March 2, 1994" and that definition were read without reference to paragraphs (d.1) and (h) thereof, be an eligible amount,

(ii) the request described in paragraph (a) of the definition "eligible amount" in subsection (1) pursuant to which the amount was received was made before March 2, 1994 or, where the individual received an eligible amount before March 2, 1994, at such later time as is acceptable to the Minister, and

(iii) the individual does not elect by notifying the Minister in writing before the end of 1995 that this paragraph not apply except for the purposes of this paragraph and paragraphs (a) to (f) of the definition "eligible amount" in subsection (1), that amount shall be deemed to have been received by the individual on March 1, 1994 and not at the particular time and any premium paid under a registered retirement savings plan by the individual or the individual's spouse after March 1, 1994 and before the particular time shall be deemed to have been paid on March 1, 1994; and

(f) where

(i) an individual receives an eligible amount in a particular calendar year,

(ii) at a particular time in January of the following calendar year (or at such later time in that following year as is acceptable to the Minister), an individual receives another amount that would, if the definition "eligible amount" in subsection (1) were read without reference to paragraph (i) thereof, be an eligible amount, and

(iii) the request described in paragraph (a) of the definition "eligible amount" in subsection (1) pursuant to which the other amount was received was made before the end of the particular calendar year except for the purposes of this paragraph and paragraphs (a) to (h) of the definition "eligible amount" in subsection (1), the other amount shall be deemed to have been received by the individual at the end of the particular calendar year and not at the particular time.

Para. 146.01(2)(a.1) added by 1995, c. 3, subsec. 44(5), applicable to 1994 et seq.

Subparas. 146.01(2)(d)(ii) and (iii) amended by 1995, c. 3, subsec. 44(6), applicable to 1992 et seq. Subparas. (ii) and (iii) formerly read:

(ii) at a particular time after March 1, 1993 and before April 1993 the individual receives another amount that would, if the reference to "March 1, 1993" in paragraph (g) of the definition "eligible amount" in subsection (1) were read as "March 1993", be an eligible amount, and

(iii) the request described in paragraph (a) of the definition "eligible amount" in subsection (1) pursuant to which the other amount was received was made before March 2, 1993,

Paras. 146.01(2)(e) and (f) substituted for para. (e) by 1995, c. 3, subsec. 44(7); para. (e) applicable to 1992 et seq., and para. (f) applicable to 1995 et seq. Para. (e) formerly read:

(e) where

(i) at a particular time after March 1, 1994 and before April 1994, an individual receives an amount that would, if the reference to "March 2, 1994" in paragraph (a) of the definition "eligible amount" in subsection (1) were read as "April 1994", be an eligible amount, and

(ii) the request described in paragraph (a) of the definition "eligible amount" in subsection (1) pursuant to which the amount was received was made before March 2, 1994,

except for the purposes of paragraphs (b) to (g) of the definition "eligible amount" in subsection (1) and the purposes of this paragraph, that amount shall be deemed to have been received by the individual on March 1, 1994 and not at the particular time and any premium paid by the individual or the individual's spouse after March 1, 1994 and before the particular time under a registered retirement savings plan shall be deemed to have been paid on March 1, 1994.

Para. 146.01(2)(c) amended, paras. (d) and (e) added, by 1994, c. 8, subsec. 19(4), applicable to 1992 et seq. Para. (c) formerly read:

(c) where

(i) neither a qualifying home in respect of which an individual withdrew an amount described in paragraph (a) of the definition "eligible amount" in subsection (1) nor a replacement property for the qualifying home has been acquired by the individual before October 1, 1993, and

(ii) either

(A) the individual

(I) is obliged under the terms of a written agreement in effect on October 1, 1993 to acquire the qualifying home (or a replacement property for the qualifying home) on or after that day,

(II) acquires the qualifying home or a replacement property for the qualifying home before October 1, 1994, and

(III) is resident in Canada throughout the period beginning on October 1, 1993 and ending on the earlier of October 1, 1994 and the earliest of any day on which the individual acquires the qualifying home or a replacement property for the qualifying home, or

(B) the individual made payments

(I) to persons with whom the individual was dealing at arm's length,

(II) in respect of the construction of the qualifying home or a replacement property for the qualifying home, and

(III) in the period beginning at the time the individual first withdrew an amount described in paragraph (a) of that definition in respect of the qualifying home and ending before October 1, 1993,

and the total of all payments so made was not less than the total of all amounts described in that paragraph in respect of the qualifying home that were withdrawn by the individual, except for the purposes of this paragraph, the individual shall be deemed to have acquired the qualifying home on September 30, 1993.

(3) Repayment of eligible amount — An individual may designate a single amount for a taxation year in a prescribed form filed with the individual's return of income for the year if the amount does not exceed the lesser of

(a) the total of all amounts (other than excluded premiums, repayments to which paragraph (b) of the definition "excluded withdrawal" in subsection (1) applies and amounts paid by the individual in the first 60 days of the year that can reasonably be considered to have been deducted in computing the individual's income, or designated under this subsection, for the preceding taxation year) paid by the individual in the year or within 60 days after the end of the year under a retirement savings plan that is at the end of the year or the following taxation year a registered retirement savings plan under which the individual is the annuitant, and

(b) the amount, if any, by which

(i) the total of all eligible amounts received by the individual before the end of the year

exceeds the total of

(ii) all amounts designated by the individual under this subsection for preceding taxation years, and

(iii) all amounts each of which is an amount included in computing the income of the individual under subsection (4) or (5) for a preceding taxation year.

(7) Where subsec. (6) does not apply — Where

(a) an individual's spouse was resident in Canada immediately before the death of the individual in a taxation year,

(b) the spouse and the individual's legal representatives jointly so elect in writing in the individual's return of income under this Part for the year, and

(c) either

(i) the spouse or the individual did not receive any eligible amount before the death, or

(ii) the spouse and the individual both received eligible amounts before the death and all the completion dates in respect of those amounts were the same or occurred before 1995,

the following rules apply:

(d) subsection (6) does not apply to the individual;

(e) the spouse shall be deemed to have received an eligible amount at the time of the death equal to the amount that would, but for this subsection, be determined under subsection (6) in respect of the individual;

(f) for the purpose only of determining whether an amount received after the death is an eligible amount in respect of the spouse, the spouse shall be deemed to have received all eligible amounts in respect of the individual at the times that those amounts were received by the individual; and

(g) the completion date in respect of the eligible amount deemed by paragraph (e) to have been received by the spouse shall be deemed to be

(i) where the spouse received an eligible amount before the death, the completion date in respect of that amount,

(ii) where subparagraph (i) does not apply and the individual received an eligible amount before the death, the completion date in respect of that amount, and

(iii) in any other case, October 1 of the year.

Subsec. 146.01(7) amended by 1995, c. 3, subsec. 44(12), applicable to 1994 et seq. Subsec. (7) formerly read:

(7) Idem — Where an individual's spouse was resident in Canada immediately before the death of the individual in a taxation year and the spouse and the individual's legal representative jointly so elect in writing in the individual's return of income under this Part for the year,

(a) subsection (6) does not apply in respect of the individual; and

(b) except for the purposes of subsections (9) and (10), the spouse shall be deemed to have received an eligible amount at the time of the individual's death equal to the amount that would, but for this subsection, be determined under subsection (6) in respect of the individual.

Para. 146.01(7)(b) amended by 1994, c. 8, subsec. 19(6), applicable to 1992 et seq. Para. (b) formerly read:

(b) except for the purpose of subsection (9), the spouse shall be deemed to have received an eligible amount at the time of the individual's death equal to the amount that would, but for this subsection, be determined under subsection (6) in respect of the individual

(8) Filing of prescribed form — A prescribed form referred to in this section that is submitted to an issuer shall be filed with the Minister by the issuer not later than 15 days after the quarter in which it was submitted to the issuer.

Proposed Repeal — 146.01(8)

Application: The February 27, 2004 draft legislation, subsec. 82(2), will repeal subsec. 146.01(8), applicable to 2002 et seq.

Technical Notes (December 20, 2002): In order for an RRSP withdrawal to qualify as an HBP withdrawal, the taxpayer must make a written request in prescribed form to the RRSP issuer. The prescribed form for this purpose is the T1036. Under subsection 146.01(8), an RRSP issuer to whom a T1036 is submitted must file the form with the Minister of National Revenue no later than 15 days after the quarter in which it was so submitted.

Subsection 146.01(8) is repealed. Rather than reporting HBP withdrawals on a quarterly basis by filing the relevant T1036, RRSP issuers will instead be required to report such withdrawals on an annual basis using the T4RSP. It is proposed that Part II of the Regulations be amended [now done in Reg. 214(1) — ed.] to reflect this new reporting requirement.

Forms: T1 Sched. 7: RRSP unused contributions, transfers, and HBP or LLP activities; T1036: Home buyers' plan — request to withdraw funds from an RRSP.

(9)–(13) [Repealed]

History: Subsecs. 146.01(9)–(13) repealed by 1995, c. 3, subsec. 44(13), applicable to 1994 et seq. The subsecs. formerly read:

(9) Income inclusion for 1992 — There shall be included in computing the income for the 1992 taxation year of an individual who was resident in Canada at the end of that year an amount equal to the lesser of

(a) the net premium balance for the year of the individual, and

(b) the total of

(i) all eligible amounts received by the individual before March 2, 1993, and

(ii) the lesser of

(A) the total of all premiums (other than excluded premiums in respect of the individual) paid by the individual after February 25, 1992 and before March 2, 1993 under registered retirement savings plans under which the individual's spouse is the annuitant, and

(B) the amount, if any, by which

(I) the total of all eligible amounts received before March 2, 1993 by the individual's spouse

exceeds

(II) the net premium balance for the year of the individual's spouse.

(10) Income inclusion for 1993 — There shall be included in computing the income for the 1993 taxation year of an individual who was resident in Canada at the end of that year an amount equal to the lesser of

(a) the net premium balance for the year of the individual, and

(b) the total of

(i) all eligible amounts received after March 1, 1993 and before March 2, 1994 by the individual, and

(ii) the lesser of

(A) the total of all premiums (other than excluded premiums in respect of the individual) paid by the individual after December 2, 1992 and before March 2, 1994 under registered retirement savings plans under which the individual's spouse is the annuitant, and

(B) the amount, if any, by which

(I) the total of all eligible amounts received after March 1, 1993 and before March 2, 1994 by the individual's spouse

exceeds

(II) the net premium balance for the year of the individual's spouse.

(11) Net premium balance for 1992 — For the purpose of subsection (9), the net premium balance for the 1992 taxation year of an individual is the amount, if any, by which

(a) the total of all premiums (other than excluded premiums in respect of the individual) paid by the individual after February 25, 1992 and before March 2, 1993 under registered retirement savings plans under which the individual or the individual's spouse is the annuitant

(b) the total of all amounts each of which is an amount received by the individual or the individual's spouse after February 25, 1992 and before 1994 and included under subsection 146(8) or (8.3) in computing the individual's income for the 1992 or 1993 taxation year (other than an amount in respect of which an amount is deductible under paragraph 146(8.6)(b) in computing the income of the individual or in respect of premiums paid by the individual after March 1, 1993).

(12) Net premium balance for 1993 — For the purpose of subsection (10), the net premium balance for the 1993 taxation year of an individual is the amount, if any, by which

(a) the total of all premiums (other than excluded premiums in respect of the individual) paid by the individual after December 2, 1992 and before March 2, 1994 under registered retirement savings plans under which the individual or the individual's spouse is the annuitant

(b) the total of all amounts each of which is an amount received by the individual or the individual's spouse after December 2,

1992 and before 1995 and included under subsection 146(8) or (8.3) in computing the individual's income for the 1992, 1993 or 1994 taxation year (other than an amount in respect of which an amount is deductible under paragraph 146(8.6)(b) in computing the income of the individual or in respect of premiums paid by the individual after March 1, 1994).

(13) Assessments — Notwithstanding subsections 152(4) to (5), such assessments of tax, interest and penalties shall be made as are necessary to give effect to subsections (9) and (10).

Subsecs. 146.01(9)–(13) substituted for subsecs. 146.01(9)–(11) by 1994, c. 8, subsec. 19(7), applicable to 1992 et seq. Those subsecs. formerly read:

(9) Income inclusion — There shall be included in computing the income for the 1992 taxation year of an individual who was resident in Canada at the end of that year an amount equal to the lesser of

(a) the net premium balance of the individual, and

(b) the total of

(i) all amounts each of which is an eligible amount received in 1992 or 1993 by the individual, and

(ii) the lesser of

(A) the total of all premiums (other than excluded premiums in respect of the individual) paid by the individual after February 25, 1992 and before March 2, 1993 under registered retirement savings plans under which the individual's spouse is the annuitant, and

(B) the amount, if any, by which

(I) the total of all amounts each of which is an eligible amount received in 1992 or 1993 by the individual's spouse

exceeds

(II) the net premium balance of the individual's spouse.

(10) Net premium balance — For the purposes of subsection (9), the net premium balance of an individual is the amount, if any, by which

(a) the total of all premiums (other than excluded premiums in respect of the individual) paid by the individual after February 25, 1992 and before March 2, 1993 under registered retirement savings plans under which the individual or the individual's spouse is the annuitant

(b) the total of all amounts each of which is an amount received by the individual or the individual's spouse after February 25, 1992 and before 1994 and included under subsection 146(8) or (8.3) in computing the individual's income for the 1992 or 1993 taxation year (other than an amount in respect of which an amount is deductible under paragraph 146(8.6)(b) in computing the income of the individual or in respect of premiums paid by the individual after March 1, 1993).

(11) Assessments — Notwithstanding subsections 152(4) to (5), such assessments of tax, interest and penalties shall be made as are necessary to give effect to amounts included in income under subsection (9).

Lifelong Learning Plan

146.02 (1) Definitions — The definitions in this subsection apply in this section.

"annuitant" has the meaning assigned by subsection 146(1).

"benefit" has the meaning assigned by subsection 146(1).

"eligible amount" of an individual means a particular amount received at a particular time in a calendar year by the individual as a benefit out of or under a registered retirement savings plan if

(a) the particular amount is received after 1998 pursuant to the individual's written request in a prescribed form;

(b) in respect of the particular amount, the individual designates in the form a person (in this definition referred to as the "designated person") who is the individual or the individual's spouse or common-law partner;

(c) the total of the particular amount and all other eligible amounts received by the individual at or before the particular time and in the year does not exceed $10,000;

(d) the total of the particular amount and all other eligible amounts received by the individual at or before the particular time (other than amounts received in participation periods of the individual that ended before the year) does not exceed $20,000;

(e) the individual did not receive an eligible amount at or before the particular time in respect of which someone other than the designated person was designated (other than an amount received in a participation period of the individual that ended before the year);

(f) the designated person

(i) is enrolled at the particular time as a full-time student in a qualifying educational program, or

(ii) has received written notification before the particular time that the designated person is absolutely or contingently entitled to enrol before March of the following year as a full-time student in a qualifying educational program;

(g) the individual is resident in Canada throughout the period that begins at the particular time and ends immediately before the earlier of

(i) the beginning of the following year, and

(ii) the time of the individual's death;

(h) except where the individual dies after the particular time and before April of the following year, the designated person is enrolled as a full-time student in a qualifying educational program after the particular time and before March of the following year and

(i) the designated person completes the program before April of the following year,

(ii) the designated person does not withdraw from the program before April of the following year, or

(iii) less than 75% of the tuition paid, after the beginning of the year and before April of the following year, in respect of the designated person and the program is refundable; and

(i) if an eligible amount was received by the individual before the year, the particular time is neither

(i) in the individual's repayment period for the individual's participation period that includes the particular time, nor

(ii) after January (or a later month where the Minister so permits) of the fifth calendar year of that participation period.

Related Provisions: 146(5)(a)(iv.1), 146(5.1)(a)(iv) — Amount withdrawn within 90 days under LLP ineligible for RRSP contribution; 146.01(2) — Interpretation; 146.02(3), (4) — Repayment of eligible amounts to RRSP.

History: Para. (b) of the definition "eligible amount" in subsec. 146.02(1) amended by 2000, c. 12, Sch. 2, s. 1, to replace "spouse" with "spouse or common-law partner", applicable to 2001 et seq., in force July 31, 2000. Regulations: 214(1) (information return).

Forms: RC96: LLP — request to withdraw funds from an RRSP; RC4112: Lifelong learning plan [guide].

"excluded premium" of an individual means a premium that

(a) was designated by the individual for the purpose of paragraph 60(j), (j.1) or (l) or subsection 146.01(3);

(b) was a repayment to which paragraph (b) of the definition "excluded withdrawal" in subsection 146.01(1) applies;

(c) was an amount transferred directly from a registered retirement savings plan, registered pension plan, registered retirement income fund, deferred profit sharing plan or a provincial pension plan prescribed for the purpose of paragraph 60(v); or

(d) was deductible under subsection 146(6.1) in computing the individual's income for any taxation year.

"excluded withdrawal" of an individual means

(a) an eligible amount received by the individual; or

(b) a particular amount (other than an eligible amount) received while the individual was resident in Canada and in a calendar year if

(i) the particular amount would be an eligible amount of the individual if the definition "eligible amount" were read without reference to paragraphs (g) and (h) of that definition,

(ii) a payment (other than an excluded premium) equal to the particular amount is paid by the individual under a retirement savings plan that is, at the end of the taxation year of payment, a registered retirement savings plan under which the individual is the annuitant,

(iii) the payment is made before the particular time that is,

(A) if the individual was not resident in Canada at the time the individual filed a return of income for the taxation year in which the particular amount was received, the earlier of

(I) the end of the following calendar year, and

(II) the time at which the individual filed the return, and

(B) in any other case, the end of the following calendar year, and

(iv) the payment (and no other payment) is designated under this subparagraph as a repayment of the particular amount in prescribed form filed with the Minister on or before the particular time (or before such later time as is acceptable to the Minister).

Related Provisions: 146(1)"premium" — Definition excludes repayment described in para. (b); 146(8) — LLP withdrawal not to be included in income.

"full-time student" in a taxation year includes an individual to whom subsection 118.6(3) applies for the purpose of computing tax payable under this Part for the year or the following taxation year.

"LLP balance" of an individual at any time means the amount, if any, by which the total of all eligible amounts received by the individual at or before that time exceeds the total of

(a) all amounts designated under subsection (3) by the individual for taxation years that ended before that time, and

(b) all amounts each of which is included under subsection (4) or (5) in computing the individual's income for a taxation year that ended before that time.

Related Provisions: 150(1.1)(b)(iv) — Individual with LLP balance must file tax return.

"participation period" of an individual means each period

(a) that begins at the beginning of a calendar year

(i) in which the individual receives an eligible amount, and

(ii) at the beginning of which the individual's LLP balance is nil; and

(b) that ends immediately before the beginning of the first subsequent calendar year at the beginning of which the individual's LLP balance is nil.

"premium" has the meaning assigned by subsection 146(1).

"qualifying educational program" means a qualifying educational program (as defined in subsection 118.6(1)) at a designated educational institution (as defined in subsection 118.6(1)), except that the definition "qualifying educational program" in subsection 118.6(1) shall be read

(a) without reference to paragraphs (a) and (b) of that definition; and

(b) as if the expression "3 consecutive weeks" were "3 consecutive months".

"repayment period" of an individual for a participation period of the individual in respect of a person designated under paragraph (b) of the definition "eligible amount" means the period, if any, within the participation period

(a) that begins

(i) at the beginning of the third calendar year within the participation period, if the person would not be entitled to claim an amount under subsection 118.6(2) in respect of at least three months in each of the second and third calendar years within the participation period, if that subsection were read without reference to paragraph (b) of the description of B in that subsection,

(ii) at the beginning of the fourth calendar year within the participation period, if subparagraph (i) does not apply and the person would not be entitled to claim an amount under subsection 118.6(2) in respect of at least three months in each of the third and fourth calendar years within the participation period, if that subsection were read without reference to paragraph (b) of the description of B in that subsection,

(iii) at the beginning of the fifth calendar year within the participation period, if subparagraphs (i) and (ii) do not apply and the person would not be entitled to claim an amount under subsection 118.6(2) in respect of at least three months in each of the fourth and fifth calendar years within that period, if that subsection were read without reference to paragraph (b) of the description of B in that subsection, and

(iv) in any other case, at the beginning of the sixth calendar year within the participation period; and

(b) that ends at the end of the participation period.

Forms: RC96: LLP — request to withdraw funds from an RRSP; RC4112: Lifelong learning plan [guide].

(2) Rule of application — For the purpose of the definition "eligible amount" in subsection (1), a particular person is deemed to be the only person in respect of whom a particular amount was designated under paragraph (b) of that definition if

(a) an individual received the particular amount;

(b) the individual files a prescribed form with the Minister in which the particular person is specified in connection with the receipt of the particular amount;

(c) the particular amount would be an eligible amount of the individual if

(i) that definition were read without reference to paragraphs (b) and (e) of that definition, and

(ii) each reference in the portion of that definition after paragraph (d) to "designated person" were read as "individual" or "individual's spouse or common-law partner"; and

(d) the Minister so permits.

History: Subpara. 146.02(2)(c)(ii) amended by 2000, c. 12, Sch. 2, s. 1, to replace "spouse" with "spouse or common-law partner", applicable to 2001 et seq., in force July 31, 2000. See also the transitional rules reproduced in the History to 248(1)"common-law partner".

Forms: RC96: LLP — request to withdraw funds from an RRSP.

(3) Repayment of eligible amount — An individual may designate a single amount for a taxation year in prescribed form filed with the individual's return of income for the year if the amount does not exceed the lesser of

(a) the total of all amounts (other than excluded premiums, repayments to which paragraph (b) of the definition "excluded withdrawal" in subsection (1) applies and amounts paid by the individual in the first 60 days of the year that can reasonably be considered to have been deducted in computing the individual's income, or designated under this subsection, for the preceding taxation year) paid by the individual in the year or within 60 days after the end of the year under a retirement savings plan that is at the end of the year or the following taxation year a registered retirement savings plan under which the individual is the annuitant, and

(b) the individual's LLP balance at the end of the year.

Forms: RC96: LLP — request to withdraw funds from an RRSP.

(4) If portion of eligible amount not repaid — There shall be included in computing an individual's income for a particular taxation year that begins after 2000 the amount determined by the formula

$$[(A - B - C)/(10 - D)] - E$$

where

A is

(a) nil, if

(i) the individual died or ceased to be resident in Canada in the particular year, or

(ii) the beginning of the particular year is not included in a repayment period of the individual, and

(b) in any other case, the total of all eligible amounts received by the individual in preceding taxation years (other than taxation years in participation periods of the individual that ended before the particular year);

B is

(a) nil, if the particular year is the first taxation year in a repayment period of the individual, and

(b) in any other case, the total of all amounts designated under subsection (3) by the individual for preceding taxation years (other than taxation years in participation periods of the individual that ended before the particular year);

C is the total of all amounts each of which is included under this subsection or subsection (5) in computing the individual's income for a preceding taxation year (other than a taxation year included in a participation period of the individual that ended before the particular year);

D is the lesser of nine and the number of taxation years of the individual that end in the period that

(a) begins at the beginning of the individual's last repayment period that began at or before the beginning of the particular year, and

(b) ends at the beginning of the particular year; and

E is

(a) if the particular year is the first taxation year within a repayment period of the individual, the total of the amount designated under subsection (3) by the individual for the particular year and all amounts so designated for preceding taxation years (other than taxation years in participation periods of the individual that ended before the particular year), and

(b) in any other case, the amount designated under subsection (3) by the individual for the particular year.

Related Provisions: 56(1)(h.1) — Inclusion in income; 257 — Formula cannot calculate to less than zero.

Forms: RC4112: Lifelong learning plan [guide].

(5) Ceasing residence in Canada — If at any time in a taxation year an individual ceases to be resident in Canada, there shall be included in computing the individual's income for the period in the year during which the individual was resident in Canada the amount, if any, by which

(a) the total of all amounts each of which is an eligible amount received by the individual in the year or a preceding taxation year

exceeds the total of

(b) all amounts designated under subsection (3) by the individual in respect of amounts paid not later than 60 days after that time and before the individual files a return of income for the year, and

(c) all amounts included under subsection (4) or this subsection in computing the individual's income for preceding taxation years.

Related Provisions: 56(1)(h.2) — LLP — income inclusion; 128.1(4) — Ceasing residence in Canada.

(6) Death of individual — If an individual dies at any time in a taxation year, there shall be included in computing the individual's income for the year the amount, if any, by which

(a) the individual's LLP balance immediately before that time

exceeds

(b) the amount designated under subsection (3) by the individual for the year.

Related Provisions: 56(1)(h.2) — LLP — income inclusion; 70(5) — Effect of death; 146.01(7) — Optional transfer of repayment obligation to spouse.

(7) Exception — If a spouse or common-law partner of an individual was resident in Canada immediately before the individual's death at a particular time in a taxation year and the spouse or common-law partner and the individual's legal representatives jointly so elect in writing in the individual's return of income for the year,

(a) subsection (6) does not apply to the individual;

(b) the spouse or common-law partner is deemed to have received a particular eligible amount at the particular time equal to the amount that, but for this subsection, would be determined under subsection (6) in respect of the individual;

(c) subject to paragraph (d), for the purpose of applying this section after the particular time, the spouse or common-law partner is deemed to be the person designated under paragraph (b) of the definition "eligible amount" in subsection (1) in respect of the particular amount; and

(d) where the spouse or common-law partner received an eligible amount before the particular time in the spouse's or common-law partner's participation period that included the particular time and the particular individual designated under paragraph (b) of the definition "eligible amount" in subsection (1) in respect of that eligible amount was not the spouse or common-law partner, for the purpose of applying this section after the particular time the particular individual is deemed to be the person designated under that paragraph in respect of the particular amount.

Registered Education Savings Plans

Proposed Amendment — Canada Learning Bond and Canada Education Savings Grant

Federal budget, Supplementary Information, March 23, 2004: Education

The budget builds upon existing assistance for education savings provided through registered education savings plans (RESPs) and the Canada Education Savings Grant (CESG). Two measures are proposed to assist education savings for low- and middle-income families:

- The creation of a new Canada Learning Bond for children in low-income families.
- An enhanced Canada Education Savings Grant for low- and middle-income families.

Existing Education Saving Assistance Through RESPs and the CESG

- Contributions to an RESP are not deductible for income tax purposes and they are not taxed upon withdrawal. For each beneficiary of an RESP, there is an annual $4,000 limit and a lifetime limit of $42,000 on contributions.
- Since 1998 the Government has provided a 20% CESG on the first $2,000 of annual contributions (up to and including the calendar year in which the beneficiary turns 17 years of age) made to an RESP, or on contributions up to $4,000 if there is unused grant room from prior years. There is a maximum annual CESG of $400 per beneficiary ($800 if there is unused grant room) and a lifetime limit of $7,200. [See Notes to 60(x) — ed.]
- The CESG and the investment earnings in the RESP are available to the beneficiary as Educational Assistance Payments upon enrolment on a full-time basis in a qualifying post-secondary program at a recognized institution.
- Educational Assistance Payments are taxable in the hands of the student in the year they are received. In most cases, the student's relatively low income results in little or no tax.
- If the beneficiary does not pursue post-secondary education, the CESG is returned to the government. The subscriber may generally transfer the investment income in the RESP to his or her registered retirement savings plan (RRSP), if RRSP contribution room is available. Otherwise, the investment income may be paid to the subscriber and included in the subscriber's income. This amount is also subject to a 20% additional tax.
- An RESP must be terminated by the end of the year that includes the 25th anniversary of the opening of the plan.

Canada Learning Bond

Budget 2004 proposes to introduce, effective January 1, 2004, a new Canada Learning Bond (CLB) to provide a source of education savings for children in low-income families.

Each child born on or after January 1, 2004 will be eligible for a CLB in each year that the child's family is entitled to the National Child Benefit (NCB) supplement, up to and including the year in which the child turns 15 years of age.

- An initial CLB of $500 will be provided for the first year of entitlement for the NCB supplement which could be any year from the year of birth up to and including the year in which the child turns 15 years of age.
- Any subsequent CLB will be in the amount of $100, and will be provided in respect of a child for each year in which the family is entitled to the NCB supplement up to and including the year in which the child turns 15 years of age.

A child in a low income family can receive CLB payments totalling up to $2,000, which — with a 3.5% real rate of return — could be worth up to $3,000 by age 18.

Illustrative Examples

Mathieu is born in 2004 and is entitled to a $500 CLB at birth because his parents received the NCB supplement for that year. His parents continue to receive the NCB supplement for each year up to and including the year in which he reaches 15 years of age. This generates an entitlement to a $100 CLB for each of those years, and these funds are invested as they become available in Mathieu's RESP. Mathieu's RESP holdings earn an annual average real rate of return of 3.5%. By the time Mathieu is ready to begin post-secondary education at age 18, the CLB will have grown to $3,000 (in 2004 dollars) in the RESP to help fund his post-secondary education.

Jennifer is also born in 2004. Her parents have family income above the NCB supplement range (greater than $35,000) in most years. However, they receive the NCB supplement for three years, when Jennifer is 4, 5 and 6 years of age. She is entitled to a first CLB of $500 at age 4, and an additional $100 CLB in each of the following two years. This $700 of CLB is invested in an RESP for her. When she is ready to begin full-time post-secondary education at age 18, the CLB will have grown to $1,120 (in 2004 dollars) in the RESP to help pay for post-secondary education costs.

The NCB supplement is paid on a 12-month benefit year cycle beginning in July based on family net income for the preceding tax year.

While no separate application will be required for the CLB, eligibility will be linked to entitlement for the NCB supplement, which is a component of the Canada Child Tax Benefit. It will be essential, therefore, that application be made for the Canada Child Tax Benefit in order for the child to be entitled to the CLB. Children for whom a Children's Special Allowance is paid will also be eligible for the CLB.

Entitlement to the CLB will be determined at the time of the first monthly payment of the NCB supplement in a benefit year in respect of a child. There will be only one CLB for a child in any particular benefit year. The CLB will be payable into an RESP of which the child is a beneficiary. While any person can subscribe to an RESP for the benefit of a child, only the primary caregiver for a child will be allowed to authorize the transfer of the CLB into an RESP for the benefit of the child. For purposes of the CLB, the primary caregiver in a particular year will generally be the person receiving the NCB supplement which generated entitlement for the CLB.

An additional $25 will be paid into the RESP to which the initial CLB of $500 is deposited in recognition of one-time incidental expenses that may be associated with opening the RESP account. As at present, the Social Insurance Number of each beneficiary must be made available to the RESP provider before an RESP can be established.

The CLB will be administered by the Department of Human Resources and Skills Development (HRSD). HRSD will keep track of CLB entitlements as they accumulate and record payments made for each child. A CLB in respect of a child can be transferred to an RESP at the request of a primary caregiver at any time before the child reaches 18 years of age. No interest will be paid on CLB entitlements that have not been transferred to an RESP — once in the RESP, the deposits will grow in accordance with the plan. If a CLB in respect of a child has not been transferred to an RESP by the time the child reaches 18 years of age, the child will have up to three years to open an RESP to hold the bond. In this case, the child will be both subscriber and beneficiary of the RESP. Once a child turns 21 years of age, any CLB in respect of the child which has not been transferred to an RESP will be forfeited.

The CLB will not be taken into account in calculating annual and lifetime RESP or CESG contribution limits. No CESG will be paid on CLB amounts placed in an RESP.

A specific portion of each Educational Assistance Payment will be considered to be attributable to the Canada Learning Bond. As at present, the full amount of the Educational Assistance Payment is subject to tax in the hands of the student. Conditions governing the use and repayment of the CLB will generally be the same as those applying to the CESG. However, CLB entitlements are allocated to a specific child and, unlike the CESG, cannot be shared with other beneficiaries in a family plan or group plan.

While it is proposed that the CLB be effective starting January 1, 2004, the first payment of the CLB will be made after Royal Assent to the enabling legislation and once delivery systems are put in place. Therefore, it is not expected that CLB payments will be made before January 2005.

HRSD and the RESP industry will work together to put in place, as soon as possible, the administrative arrangements needed to implement this program.

[Table A9.1 in the Budget Supplementary Information estimates that the Canada Learning Bond proposal will cost $85 million in 2004-05 and $85 million in 2005-06 — ed.]

Canada Education Savings Grant

The budget proposes changes to the CESG matching rate for contributions made to RESPs by low-and middle-income families on or after January 1, 2005. Where a child who is under 18 years of age throughout a year is the beneficiary of an RESP, the first $500 contributed to the RESP in the year will attract:

- A 40% CESG matching rate, if the child's family has qualifying net income in respect of the year of $35,000 or less.
- A 30% CESG matching rate, if the child's family has qualifying net income in respect of the year greater than $35,000 but not exceeding $70,000.

All other contributions eligible for the CESG will continue to qualify for the 20% matching rate. The $35,000 and $70,000 thresholds are in 2004 dollars and will be indexed to inflation for 2005 when this program comes into effect, and for subsequent taxation years.

For purposes of determining the CESG matching rates for a calendar year, qualifying net income in respect of the year will generally be defined as the family net income used to determine eligibility for the Canada Child Tax Benefit with respect to the child in January of that calendar year. This will be family net income for the second preceding calendar year.

To avoid additional administrative complexity and to encourage regular contributions to an RESP, the enhanced matching rates will apply to maximum contributions of $500 for a child in any given year — that is, there is no carry-forward of unused access to the enhanced CESG.

At present, the maximum annual CESG contribution room that any child can earn in a year is $2,000. The maximum CESG payable in respect of a year is $400. The maximum CESG contribution room will stay at $2,000. The maximum CESG payable in respect of a year, as well as the lifetime CESG limit for a child, will be increased to accommodate the enhanced matching rates, effective for 2005. A parent of a low-income family contributing $2,000 in a year could receive a CESG totalling $500 — that is, 40% on the first $500 ($200) and 20 per cent on the remaining $1,500 ($300).

Currently, where a child has accumulated sufficient unused CESG contribution room, subscribers may contribute up to $4,000 to the child's RESP in a year and will receive a CESG of $800 (that is, 20% of $4,000). As a result of the enhanced CESG matching rates on the first $500 of RESP contributions in a year, qualifying subscribers contributing $4,000 in a year to catch up on unused CESG contribution room for the child of a low-income family may now receive a CESG of up to $900 in a year — that is, 40% on the first $500 ($200) and 20 per cent on the remaining $3,500 ($700).

Parents, grandparents and other individuals may each establish RESPs for a child. Their contributions will generally attract the CESG, subject to the child's annual and lifetime CESG and RESP contribution limits. Their contributions may also be eligible for the enhanced CESG matching rates. However, where the RESP subscriber is not the primary caregiver (or his or her spouse or common-law partner), consent of the primary caregiver will be required before the enhanced CESG rate will be paid on contributions made by such subscribers. Unless consent is obtained, the CESG matching rate on eligible contributions will be 20%. In all cases, the provision which limits the enhanced CESG matching rate to the first $500 contributed each year will apply jointly to all RESPs of which the child is the beneficiary.

It would not be appropriate to allow subscribers to withdraw existing RESP contributions and re-contribute them in order that their beneficiaries obtain a higher CESG matching rate. To prevent this, special rules will apply to withdrawals after March 22, 2004 for non-educational purposes of contributions which previously qualified for the CESG. Where such withdrawals occur, a 20 per cent CESG matching rate will apply to all eligible contributions made to any RESP in respect of those beneficiaries until the total level of contributions to RESPs for those beneficiaries returns to the level previously attained.

Educational Assistance Payments will be apportioned between the CLB, the CESG and the investment income earned in the RESP. As at present, all Educational Assistance Payments will be subject to tax in the hands of the student.

While it is proposed that these measures be effective starting January 1, 2005, the first payment of the enhanced CESG will be made after Royal Assent is obtained for the enabling legislation and once delivery systems are put in place.

Additional proposed rules relating to the CLB and enhanced CESG will be developed over the coming months. Further details will be released at a later date.

Some provinces may pursue the development and implementation of education savings incentive programs that are similar to the Canada Learning Bond or Canada Education Savings Grant programs. The Government is willing to explore with provinces the possibility of collaborating on the delivery of provincial programs consistent with those provided federally and of putting into effect administrative agreements to do so.

under which the promoter agrees to pay or to cause to be paid educational assistance payments to or for one or more beneficiaries;

Proposed Amendment — RESPs as trusts

Department of Finance news release, July 20, 1999: Technical Change Announced for Registered Education Savings Plans

Finance Minister Paul Martin today announced that he will propose changes to the Income Tax Act to accommodate a common industry practice concerning registered education savings plans (RESPs).

Under the current legislative framework, an RESP must be structured as a contractual arrangement. However, over the years many RESPs have been structured as trust arrangements.

The proposed changes will allow Canadian trust companies to issue RESPs structured as trust arrangements. This will accommodate a long-standing industry practice and recognize that a trust arrangement is an appropriate vehicle in which to allow Canadians to save for their children's education.

The Minister indicated that draft legislation to implement this proposal will be released at the earliest opportunity.

History: Subpara. (a)(ii) of the definition "education savings plan" in subsec. 146.1(1) amended by 2000, c. 12, Sch. 2, s. 1, to replace "spouse" with "spouse or common-law partner", applicable to 2001 et seq., in force July 31, 2000. See also the transitional rules reproduced in the History to 248(1)"common-law partner".

The definition "education savings plan" in subsec. 146.1(1) amended by 1998, c. 19, subsec. 38(2), applicable to contracts made after 1997. The definition formerly read:

> "education savings plan" means a contract entered into at any time between an individual (in this section referred to as a "subscriber") and a person or organization (in this section referred to as a "promoter") under which, in consideration of payment by the subscriber of any periodic or other amount as consideration under the contract, the promoter agrees to pay or to cause to be paid to or for a beneficiary educational assistance payments;

"educational assistance payment" means any amount, other than a refund of payments, paid out of an education savings plan to or for an individual to assist the individual to further the individual's education at a post-secondary school level;

Related Provisions: 146.1(2)(g), (g.1) — Limitations on educational assistance payments; 146.1(7) — Educational assistance payments included in income; 153(1)(t) — Withholding of tax at source from payments; 212(1)(r) — Tax on educational assistance payments.

History: The definition "educational assistance paymen" in subsec. 146.1(1) amended by 1998, c. 19, subsec. 38(2), applicable after 1997. The definition formerly read:

> "educational assistance payment" means any amount, other than a refund of payments, paid or payable under an education savings plan to or for a beneficiary to assist the beneficiary to further the beneficiary's education at the post-secondary school level;

Regulations: 200(2)(j) (information return).

"post-secondary educational institution" means

(a) an educational institution in Canada that is described in paragraph (a) of the definition "designated educational institution" in subsection 118.6(1), or

(b) an educational institution outside Canada that is a university, college or other educational institution that provides courses at a post-secondary school level at which a beneficiary was enrolled in a course of not less than 13 consecutive weeks;

History: The definition "post-secondary education institution" (formerly 146.1(1)(c.1) before consolidation in R.S.C. 1985 (5th Supp.)) added by 1994, c. 7, Sch. II (1991, c. 49), subsec. 118(2), applicable after February 20, 1990.

"pre-1972 income" — [Repealed]

History: The definition "pre-1972 income" in subsec. 146.1(1) repealed by 1998, c. 19, subsec. 38(1), applicable after 1997. The definition formerly read:

> "pre-1972 income" means the total of all amounts each of which is the income (within the meaning of the Income Tax Act, chapter 148 of the Revised Statutes of Canada, 1952, as it read in its application to the particular taxation year) for a taxation year ending before 1972 of a trust governed by an education savings plan;

"qualified investment" for a trust governed by a registered education savings plan means

(a) an investment that would be described in any of paragraphs (a), (b), (d) and (f) to (h) of the definition "qualified investment" in section 204 if the reference in that definition to "a trust governed by a deferred profit sharing plan or revoked plan" were read as a reference to "a trust governed by a registered education savings plan",

(b) a bond, debenture, note or similar obligation

(i) issued by a corporation the shares of which are listed on a prescribed stock exchange in Canada, or

(ii) issued by an authorized foreign bank and payable at a branch in Canada of the bank,

(c) a contract for an annuity issued by a licensed annuities provider where

(i) the trust is the only person who, disregarding any subsequent transfer of the contract by the trust, is or may become entitled to any annuity payments under the contract, and

(ii) the holder of the contract has a right to surrender the contract at any time for an amount that would, if reasonable sales and administration charges were ignored, approximate the value of funds that could otherwise be applied to fund future periodic payments under the contract,

(d) an investment that was acquired by the trust before October 28, 1998, and

(e) a prescribed investment;

Related Provisions: 87(10) — New share issued on amalgamation of public corporation deemed listed on prescribed stock exchange; 132.2(1)(k) [to be repealed], 132.2(3)(h) [draft] — Where share ceases to be qualified investment due to mutual fund reorganization; 146.1(2.1)(a) — Acquisition of non-qualified investment makes plan revocable; 207.1(3) — Tax payable by RESP on holding non-qualified investments.

History: Para. (b) of the definition "qualified investment" in subsec. 146(1.1) amended by 2001, c. 17, s. 140, applicable after June 27, 1999. The para. formerly read:

> (b) a bond, debenture, note or similar obligation of a corporation the shares of which are listed on a prescribed stock exchange in Canada,

The definition "qualified investment" added to subsec. 146.1(1) by 1999, c. 22, subsec. 62(3), applicable after 1997.

"qualifying educational program" has the meaning that would be assigned by the definition of that expression in subsection 118.6(1) if that definition were read without reference to paragraph (a);

History: The definition "qualifying educational program" in subsec. 146.1(1) amended by 1997, c. 25, subsec. 42(1), applicable to 1996 et seq. It formerly read:

> "qualifying educational program" has the meaning assigned by subsection 118.6(1);

The definition "qualifying educational program" added to subsec. 146.1(1) by 1994, c. 7, Sch. II (1991, c. 49), subsec. 118(2), applicable after February 20, 1990.

"RESP annual limit" for a year means,

(a) for 1990 to 1995, $1,500,

(b) for 1996, $2,000, and

(c) for 1997 and subsequent years, $4,000;

Related Provisions: 146.1(2)(k) — Contributions not to exceed RESP annual limit; 204.9"excess amount"(a) — Penalty tax on exceeding RESP annual limit.

History: The definition "RESP annual limit" added to subsec. 146.1(1) by 1998, c. 19, subsec. 38(4), applicable after 1989.

"refund of payments" at any time under a particular registered education savings plan means

(a) a refund at that time of a contribution that had been made at a previous time, if the contribution was made

(i) otherwise than by way of a transfer from another registered education savings plan, and

(ii) into the particular plan by or on behalf of a subscriber under the particular plan, or

(b) a refund at that time of an amount that was paid at a previous time into the particular plan by way of a transfer from another registered education savings plan, where the amount would have been a refund of payments under the other plan if it had been paid at the previous time directly to a subscriber under the other plan;

History: The definition "refund of payments" in subsec. 146.1(1) amended by 1998, c. 19, subsec. 38(2), applicable to 1997 et seq. The definition formerly read:

> "refund of payments" means any amount (not in excess of the total of amounts paid by or on behalf of a subscriber under an education savings plan) paid or payable to the subscriber, the subscriber's heirs, executors or assigns as or on account of a refund of amounts paid to the plan by or on behalf of the subscriber under the plan;

"registered education savings plan" means

(a) an education savings plan registered for the purposes of this Act, or

(b) a registered education savings plan as it is amended from time to time but, except for the purposes of subsections (7) and (7.1) and Part X.4, a plan ceases to be a registered education savings plan immediately after the day as of which its registration is revoked under subsection (13);

Related Provisions: 128.1(10)"excluded right or interest"(a)(iii) — No deemed disposition of RESP on emigration; 248(1)"disposition"(f)(vi) — Rollover from one trust to another; 248(1)"registered education savings plan" — Definition applies to entire Act.

History: The definition "registered education savings plan" in subsec. 146.1(1) amended by 1998, c. 19, subsec. 38(2), applicable after 1997. The definition formerly read:

"registered education savings plan" means an education savings plan accepted by the Minister for registration for the purposes of this Act as complying with the requirements of this section;

Information Circulars: 93-3R: Registered education savings plans.

"subscriber" under an education savings plan at any time means

(a) each individual with whom the promoter of the plan entered into the plan,

(b) an individual who has before that time acquired a subscriber's rights under the plan pursuant to a decree, order or judgment of a competent tribunal, or under a written agreement, relating to a division of property between the individual and a subscriber under the plan in settlement of rights arising out of, or on the breakdown of, their marriage or common-law partnership, or

(c) after the death of a subscriber under the plan, any other person (including the estate of the subscriber) who makes contributions into the plan in respect of a beneficiary but does not include an individual who, before that time, disposed of the individual's rights as a subscriber under the plan in the circumstances described in paragraph (b);

History: The definition "subscriber" in subsec. 146.1(1) amended by 2000, c. 12, Sch. 2, s. 9, to replace "marriage" with "marriage or common-law partnership", applicable to 2001 et seq., in force July 31, 2000. See also the transitional rules reproduced in the History to 248(1)"common-law partner".

The definition "subscriber" added to subsec. 146.1(1) by 1998, c. 19, subsec. 38(4), applicable to contracts made after 1997.

"tax-paid-income" — [Repealed]

History: The definition "tax-paid-income" in subsec. 146.1(1) repealed by 1998, c. 19, subsec. 38(1), applicable after 1997. The definition formerly read:

"tax-paid-income" means the amount determined by the formula

$$A - (B - C)$$

where

A is the fair market value on December 31, 1971 of all the property of a trust governed by an education savings plan,

B is the total of all amounts paid to the plan on or before December 31, 1971 by or on behalf of the subscriber under the plan, and

C is the total amount of all refunds of payments made under the plan on or before December 31, 1971; and

"trust", except in this definition and the definition "education savings plan", means any person who irrevocably holds property under an education savings plan for any of, or any combination of, the following purposes:

(a) the payment of educational assistance payments,

(b) the payment after 1997 of accumulated income payments,

(c) the refund of payments,

(c.1) the repayment of amounts under Part III.1 of the Department of Human Resources Development Act,

(d) the payment to, or to a trust in favour of, designated educational institutions in Canada referred to in subparagraph (a)(i) of the definition of that expression in subsection 118.6(1), or

(e) the payment to a trust that irrevocably holds property pursuant to a registered education savings plan for any of the purposes set out in paragraphs (a) to (d).

Related Provisions: 104(1) — Reference to trust or estate; 108(1)"trust"(a) — "trust" does not include a RESP for certain purposes.

History: Para. (c.1) added to the definition "trust" in subsec. 146.1(1) by 1999, c. 22, subsec. 62(2), applicable after 1997.

The portion of the definition "trust" in subsec. 146.1(1) before para. (c) amended by 1998, c. 19, subsec. 38(3), applicable after 1997. The portion formerly read:

"trust", except in this definition, means any person who irrevocably holds property pursuant to an education savings plan for

(a) the payment of educational assistance payments,

(b) the payment of scholarships or other amounts to persons, other than a beneficiary, to assist them to further their education at the post-secondary school level,

That portion of the definition of "trust" in subsec. 146.1(1) preceding para. (a) amended to substitute "holds property" for "holds property or money", and para. (e) amended to substitute "holds property pursuant to a registered education savings plan" for "holds money or property transferred to it", by 1994, c. 7, Sch. II (1991, c. 49), subsecs. 118(4), (5), applicable after July 13, 1990.

(2) Conditions for registration — The Minister shall not accept for registration for the purposes of this Act any education savings plan of a promoter unless, in the Minister's opinion, the following conditions are complied with:

(a) the plan provides that the property of any trust governed by the plan (after the payment of trustee and administration charges) is irrevocably held for any of the purposes described in the definition "trust" in subsection (1) by a corporation licensed or otherwise authorized under the laws of Canada or a province to carry on in Canada the business of offering to the public its services as a trustee;

(b) at the time of the application by the promoter for registration of the plan, there are not fewer than 150 plans entered into with the promoter each of which complied, at the time it was entered into, with all the other conditions set out in this subsection, as it read at that time;

(b.1) application for registration of the plan is made by the promoter in prescribed form containing prescribed information;

(c) the promoter and all trusts governed by the plan are resident in Canada;

(d) the plan does not allow for any payment before 1998 to a subscriber, other than a refund of payments, unless the subscriber is also the beneficiary under the plan;

(d.1) subject to subsection (2.2), the plan does not allow accumulated income payments under the plan, or the plan allows an accumulated income payment at a particular time only if

(i) the payment is made to, or on behalf of, a person and not jointly to, or on behalf of, more than one person,

(ii) the particular time is after 1997,

(iii) the person is resident in Canada at the particular time,

(iv) either

(A) the person is a subscriber under the plan at the particular time, or

(B) an individual died at any previous time and was a subscriber under the plan immediately before death,

(v) each individual in respect of whom a subscriber has made a contribution into the plan

(A) has before the particular time attained 21 years of age and is not, at the particular time, eligible under the plan to receive an educational assistance payment, or

(B) has died before the particular time, and

(vi) either

(A) the particular time is after the 9th year that follows the year in which the plan was entered into, or

(B) each individual in respect of whom a subscriber has made a contribution into the plan has died before the particular time and was, or was related to, a subscriber under the plan (or was the nephew, niece, great nephew or great niece of a subscriber under the plan);

(e) the plan is substantially similar to the type of plan described in or annexed to a prospectus filed by the promoter with a securities commission in Canada or a body performing a similar function in a province;

(f) in the event that a trust governed by the plan is terminated, the property held by the trust is required to be used for any of the purposes described in the definition "trust" in subsection (1);

(g) the plan does not allow for the payment of educational assistance payments before 1997 to an individual unless the individual is, at the time the payment is made, a student in full-time attendance at a post-secondary educational institution and enrolled in a qualifying educational program at the institution;

(g.1) the plan does not allow for the payment of an educational assistance payment to or for an individual at any time after 1996 unless

(i) either

(A) the individual is at that time enrolled as a full-time student in a qualifying educational program at a post-secondary educational institution, or

(B) the individual is at that time enrolled as a student in a qualifying educational program at a post-secondary educational institution and has at that time a mental or physical impairment the effects of which on the individual have been certified in writing, by a person described in paragraph 118.3(1)(a.2) in relation to the individual's impairment, to be such that the individual cannot reasonably be expected to be enrolled as a full-time student, and

(ii) either

(A) the individual has satisfied the condition set out in subparagraph (i) throughout at least 13 consecutive weeks in the 12-month period that ends at that time, or

(B) the total of the payment and all other educational assistance payments made under a registered educational savings plan of the promoter to or for the individual in the 12-month period that ends at that time does not exceed $5,000 or such greater amount as the Minister of Human Resources Development approves in writing with respect to the individual;

(g.2) the plan does not allow for any contribution into the plan, other than a contribution made by or on behalf of a subscriber under the plan in respect of a beneficiary under the plan or a contribution made by way of transfer from another registered education savings plan;

Proposed Addition — 146.1(2)(g.3)

(g.3) the plan provides that an individual is permitted to be designated as a beneficiary under the plan, and that a contribution to the plan in respect of an individual who is a beneficiary under the plan is permitted to be made, only if

(i) in the case of a designation, the individual's Social Insurance Number is provided to the promoter before the designation is made and either

(A) the individual is resident in Canada when the designation is made, or

(B) the designation is made in conjunction with a transfer of property into the plan from another registered education savings plan under which the individual was a beneficiary immediately before the transfer, and

(ii) in the case of a contribution, either

(A) the individual's Social Insurance Number is provided to the promoter before the contribution is made and the individual is resident in Canada when the contribution is made, or

(B) the contribution is made by way of transfer from another registered education savings plan under which the individual was a beneficiary immediately before the transfer;

Application: The February 27, 2004 draft legislation, subsec. 83(1), will add para. 146.1(2)(g.3), applicable after 2003.

Technical Notes: Subsection 146.1(2) sets out the conditions that must be satisfied in order for an education savings plan to be accepted for registration.

New paragraph 146.1(2)(g.3) is introduced to preclude non-residents and individuals who have not yet been assigned a Social Insurance Number (SIN) from becoming a beneficiary under a registered education savings plan (RESP) or from benefiting from RESP contributions.

Specifically, paragraph 146.1(2)(g.3) requires that an education savings plan not permit an individual to be designated as a beneficiary under the plan and not allow a contribution for a beneficiary under the plan, unless the individual's SIN has been provided to the promoter of the plan and the individual is resident in Canada.

If an individual is designated as a beneficiary under an RESP in conjunction with the transfer of property into the plan from another RESP under which the individual was a beneficiary immediately before the transfer, the requirement that the individual be resident in Canada in order to be designated as a beneficiary does not apply. However, subject to the exceptions in new subsection 146.1(2.3), the individual's SIN has to be provided to the promoter in order for the individual to be designated as a beneficiary under the transferee RESP. This special rule is intended primarily to accommodate transfers from an RESP to a replacement RESP after the beneficiary has ceased to be resident of Canada. (It should be noted that the transfer itself, as a contribution to an RESP, is not subject to the SIN and residency conditions that apply to ordinary contributions.)

Letter from Dept. of Finance, May 15, 2003:

Dear [xxx]

I am responding to your letter of January 17, 2003 to Mr. Brett Baker, regarding the proposed Income Tax Act (ITA) amendments contained in the legislative proposals that were released on December 20, 2002. Your letter raises concerns about the amendment requiring registered education savings plan (RESP) promoters to obtain a beneficiary's Social Insurance Number (SIN) before accepting any contributions into an RESP. I want to express my appreciation for the recent opportunity I had to meet with you and several of your colleagues to further elaborate on this matter.

The federal government is committed to helping Canadian families save for their children's post-secondary education, and recognizes the important role that RESPs play in helping them achieve their financial goal. As you know, the government has taken significant steps in recent years to enhance the attractiveness of RESPs as a savings instrument: the lifetime contribution limit was increased to $42,000 per beneficiary; the annual contribution limit was raised to $4,000 to give families flexibility to make "catch-up" contributions; investment income can be paid out to the contributor in the event the beneficiary does not pursue post-secondary education; and the Canada Education Savings Grant (CESG) program was introduced in the 1998 Budget as part of the Canadian Opportunities Strategy.

The SIN is already required for the effective administration of both the RESP and CESG programs, and must currently be provided in order to register an RESP. The proposed amendment to the ITA is intended to help ensure that RESP beneficiaries fully benefit from RESP tax benefits and the CESG supplement, and will minimize the potential for adverse consequences that can currently arise when the SIN is not provided on time.

In the event that parents face significant delays in obtaining a SIN for their child, they can generally make "catch-up" contributions to the RESP and thus obtain the full CESG.

We appreciate comments and suggestions that we have received on the proposed amendment from members of your organization and others in the RESP industry. While imposing a requirement for obtaining a SIN prior to setting up an RESP is appropriate, for the reasons set out above, we understand that implementing this change too quickly might be disruptive and have some adverse impacts on the sale of RESPs. In order to provide for a smoother transition, I will recommend to the Minister of Finance that the coming-into-force date of the proposed amendment be deferred from March 21, 2003 until January 1, 2004.

I trust this addresses your concerns and thank you for bringing this matter to the government's attention.

Yours sincerely,

Stephen R. Richardson
Senior Assistant Deputy Minister

CCRA Registered Plans release, April 28, 2003: Technical Income Tax Amendments for Registered Education Savings Plans

On December 20, 2002, the Minister of Finance released a package of draft technical amendments to the Income Tax Act (ITA). The technical bill indicated that these amendments were to be applicable after the 90th day after the announcement date (i.e., March 21, 2003). In order to provide for a smoother transition, the Department of Finance intends to propose an amendment [February 27, 2004 — ed.] to the coming into force date, which would change it from March 21, 2003 to January 1, 2004.

Summary of Changes

Paragraph 146.1(2)(g.3) and subsection 146.1(2.3) have been introduced, both of which apply December 31, 2003. Subparagraph 146.1(2)(g.3)(i) of the Act permits an individual to be designated as a beneficiary under the plan only if the individual's SIN is provided to the promoter before the designation is made, and the individual is resident in Canada when the designation is made. The residency requirement is not applicable when the designation is made in conjunction with a transfer of property from another RESP under which the individual was a beneficiary immediately before the transfer.

Subparagraph 146.1(2)(g.3)(ii) of the Act permits a contribution to the plan in respect of an individual who is a beneficiary only if the individual's SIN is provided to the promoter before the contribution is made and the individual is resident in Canada, or where the contribution is made by way of a transfer from another RESP under which the individual was a beneficiary immediately before the transfer.

As an exception to the requirement to provide the individual's SIN above, subsection 146.1(2.3) does not require an individual's SIN to be provided in respect of a contribution to the plan, if the plan was entered into before 1999. Such contributions continue to be ineligible for the CESG, and the SIN exception is relevant only for existing beneficiaries under such plans.

Under the second new exception, an educational savings plan may permit a non-resident individual who does not have a SIN to be designated as a beneficiary under the plan provided that such designation is made in conjunction with a transfer of property from another RESP under which the individual was a beneficiary immediately before the transfer.

Promoter requirements

As well as amending your RESP specimen plan(s) to comply with the proposed changes for new contracts, you may also need to amend existing contracts so that they may maintain their registered status and eligibility for the Canada Education Savings Grant (CESG).

We will require that the amendments be submitted to this office a year from the date the amendment to the Income Tax Act receives Royal Assent. Please note that the plans must be administered as if they were amended as of January 1, 2004.

(h) the plan provides that no payments may be made into the plan by or on behalf of a subscriber after the 21st year following the year in which the plan is entered into;

(i) the plan provides that it must be terminated on or before the last day of the 25th year following the year in which the plan is entered into;

(i.1) if the plan allows accumulated income payments in accordance with paragraph (d.1), the plan provides that it must be terminated before March of the year following the year in which the first such payment is made out of the plan;

(i.2) the plan does not allow for the receipt of property by way of direct transfer from another registered education savings plan after the other plan has made any accumulated income payment;

(j) if the plan allows more than one beneficiary under the plan at any one time, the plan provides

(i) that each of the beneficiaries under the plan is required to be connected to each living subscriber under the plan, or to have been connected to a deceased original subscriber under the plan, by blood relationship or adoption,

(ii) that a contribution into the plan in respect of a beneficiary is permitted to be made only if

(A) the beneficiary had not attained 21 years of age before the time of the contribution, or

(B) the contribution is made by way of transfer from another registered education savings plan that allows more than one beneficiary at any one time, and

(iii) that an individual is permitted to become a beneficiary under the plan at any particular time only if

(A) the individual had not attained 21 years of age before the particular time, or

(B) the individual was, immediately before the particular time, a beneficiary under another registered education savings plan that allows more than one beneficiary at any one time;

(k) the plan does not allow the total of all contributions made into the plan in respect of a beneficiary for a year (other than contributions made by way of transfer from registered education savings plans) to exceed the RESP annual limit for the year;

(l) the plan provides that the promoter shall, within 90 days after an individual becomes a beneficiary under the plan, notify the individual (or, where the individual is under 19 years of age at that time and ordinarily resides with a parent of the individual, that parent) in writing of the existence of the plan and the name and address of the subscriber in respect of the plan;

(m) the Minister has no reasonable basis to believe that the promoter will not take all reasonable measures to ensure that the plan will continue to comply with the conditions set out in paragraphs (a), (c) to (d.1) and (f) to (l) for its registration for the purposes of this Act; and

(n) the Minister has no reasonable basis to believe that the plan will become revocable.

Proposed Amendment — RESPs as Trusts

Department of Finance news release, July 20, 1999: See under 146.1(1)"education savings plan".

Related Provisions: 146.1(2.1) — RESP becoming revocable; 146.1(2.2) — Waiver of conditions for disabled beneficiary; 146.1(2.3) — Circumstances where Social Insurance Number not required; 146.1(3) — Deemed registration; 146.1(4) — Registration of plans without prospectus; 146.1(4.1) — Amendments must be filed with CCRA; 146.1(13) — Revocation where plan ceases to comply with requirements; 172(3) — Appeal from refusal to register; 204.9(1)"excess amount" — Limit on RESP contributions; 204.91 — Tax payable by subscribers.

History: Para. 146.1(2)(b.1) added, subpara. 146.1(2)(j)(ii) amended and subpara. (iii) added, by 1999, c. 22, subsecs. 62(4) and (7), applicable to plans entered into after 1998. Subpara. (j)(ii) formerly read:

(ii) that a contribution into the plan in respect of a beneficiary is permitted to be made only if

(A) the beneficiary had not attained 21 years of age at the time the plan was entered into,

(B) the contribution is made by way of transfer from another registered education savings plan into which a contribution had been made before the transfer in respect of the beneficiary, or

(C) the contribution is made (after a contribution to which clause (B) applied was made) into the plan in respect of the beneficiary;

The opening words of para. 146.1(2)(d.1) amended, para. 146.1(2)(n) added, by the said c. 22, subsecs. 62(5) and (8), applicable after 1997. The opening words formerly read:

(d.1) the plan does not allow accumulated income payments under the plan, or the plan allows an accumulated income payment at a particular time under the plan only if

Para. 146.1(2)(g.1) amended by the said c. 22, subsec. 62(6), applicable to plans entered into after February 20, 1990, except that

(a) for plans entered into before 1998, references in the amendment to "individual" shall be read as "beneficiary"; and

(b) subpara. 146.1(2)(g.1)(ii), as amended, does not apply to plans entered into before 1999.

Para. (g.1) formerly read:

(g.1) the plan does not allow for the payment of educational assistance payments after 1996 to an individual unless the individual is, at the time the payment is made, enrolled in a qualifying educational program as a full-time student at a post-secondary educational institution;

The opening words of subsec. 146.1(2), paras. 146.1(2)(b) and (m) amended by 1998, c. 19, subsecs. 38(5), (6), and (11), applicable to applications made after 1997. Those provisions formerly read:

(2) Conditions for acceptance of plan for registration — The Minister shall not accept for registration for the purposes of this Act any education savings plan of a promoter unless, in the Minister's opinion, it complies with the following conditions:

. . . . .

(b) at the time of the application by the promoter for registration of the plan, there are not fewer than 150 subscribers who have entered into education savings plans with the promoter each of which complied, at the time it was entered into, with all the other conditions set out in this subsection, or subsection 146.1(2) of the Income Tax Act, chapter 148 of the Revised Statutes of Canada, 1952, as the case may be, as the applicable subsection read at that time;

. . . . .

(m) the plan complies with prescribed conditions.

Para. 146.1(2)(d) amended, and add para. (d.1) added, by the said c. 19, subsec. 38(7), applicable to 1998 et seq. Para. 146.1(2)(d) formerly read:

(d) the plan does not allow for any payment to a subscriber other than a refund of payments unless the subscriber is also the beneficiary under the plan;

Para. 146.1(2)(g) amended, and add paras. (g.1) and (g.2) added, by the said c. 19, subsec. 38(8), paras. (g) and (g.1) applicable to plans entered into after February 20, 1990 except that, for plans entered into before 1998, the references to "an individual" and "the individual" in para. (g.1) shall be read as "a beneficiary" and "the beneficiary"; and para. (g.2) applicable to 1997 et seq. Para. 146.1(2)(g) formerly read:

(g) the plan does not allow for the payment of educational assistance payments to an individual unless the individual is, at the time the payment is made, a student in full-time attendance at a post-secondary educational institution and enrolled in a qualifying educational program at the institution;

Paras. 146.1(2)(i.1) and (i.2) added, and para. (j) amended, by the said c. 19, subsec. 38(9), applicable to 1998 et seq., except that

(a) para. (j) does not apply to plans entered into before July 14, 1990; and

(b) subpara. (j)(ii) does not apply to plans entered into before 1998.

Para. (j) formerly read:

(j) where the plan provides that a subscriber may name more than one beneficiary under the plan at any one time, the plan provides that each of the beneficiaries under the plan is required to be connected to the subscriber by blood relationship or adoption;

Para. 146.1(2)(k) amended by the said c. 19, subsec. 38(10), applicable to plans entered into after February 20, 1990., Para. 146.1(2)(k) formerly read:

(k) the plan provides that the total of all payments made into the plan in respect of a beneficiary for a year shall not exceed $2,000;

Para. 146.1(2)(k) amended by 1997, c. 25, subsec. 42(2), applicable to 1996 et seq., except in respect of plans entered into before February 21, 1990. Para. (k) formerly read:

(k) the plan provides that the total of all payments made into the plan in respect of a beneficiary for a year shall not exceed $1,500;

Paras. 146.1(2)(a), (b) substituted by 1994, c. 7, Sch. II (1991, c. 49), subsec. 118(6), applicable to plans entered into after February 20, 1990. Paras. (a), (b) formerly read:

> (a) the plan provides that the property of any trust established under the plan (after payment of trustee and administration charges) is irrevocably held for any of the purposes described in the definition "trust" in subsection (1);
> (b) at the time of the application by the promoter for registration of the plan, there are not less than 150 subscribers who have entered into education savings plans with the promoter that comply with the conditions set out in paragraphs (a) and (c) to (g);

Para. 146.1(2)(c) amended to substitute "governed by the plan" for "established under the plan", and para. (f) substituted by 1994, c. 7, Sch. II (1991, c. 49), subsecs. 118(7), (8), applicable after July 13, 1990. Para. (f) formerly read:

> (f) in the event that a trust established under the plan is terminated, the property or money held by the trust is required to be used for any of the purposes described in the definition "trust" in subsection (1); and

Paras. 146.1(2)(g) to (m) substituted for para. (g) by 1994, c. 7, Sch. II (1991, c. 49), subsec. 118(9), paras. (g) to (i), (k) and (m) applicable to plans entered into after February 20, 1990, para. (j) applicable to plans entered into after July 13, 1990, and para. (l) applicable to plans entered into after March 1991. Para. (g) formerly read:

> (g) the plan in all other respects complies with any regulations of the Governor in Council made on the recommendation of the Minister of Finance.

Regulations: No prescribed conditions for 146.1(2)(m).

I.T. Application Rules: 69 (meaning of "chapter 148 of ...").

Information Circulars: 93-3R: Registered education savings plans.

Forms: T3G: Certification of no tax liability by a group of RRSPs, RRIFs, or RESPs; T3GR: Group income tax and information return for RRSP, RRIF or RESP trusts (and worksheets); T3IND: T3IND income tax return for RRSP, RRIF, or RESP; T550: Application for registration of RSPs, ESPs or RIFs under s. 146, 146.1 and 146.3 of the ITA; T1171: Tax withholding waiver on accumulated income payments from RESPs; T1172: Additional tax on accumulated income payments from RESPs.

(2.1) RESP is revocable — For the purposes of paragraphs (2)(n) and (12.1)(d), a registered education savings plan is revocable at any time after October 27, 1998 at which

> (a) a trust governed by the plan acquires property that is not a qualified investment for the trust;
>
> (b) property held by a trust governed by the plan ceases to be a qualified investment for the trust and the property is not disposed of by the trust within 60 days after that time;
>
> (c) a trust governed by the plan begins carrying on a business; or
>
> (d) a trustee that holds property in connection with the plan borrows money for the purposes of the plan, except where
>
> > (i) the money is borrowed for a term not exceeding 90 days,
> >
> > (ii) the money is not borrowed as part of a series of loans or other transactions and repayments, and
> >
> > (iii) none of the property of the trust is used as security for the borrowed money.

Related Provisions: 146.1(12.1) — Notice of intent to revoke registration; 146.1(12.2), (13) — Revocation of registration; 253.1 — Limited partner not considered to carry on business of partnership; 259(1) — Election for proportional holdings in trust property.

History: Subsec. 146.1(2.1) added by 1999, c. 22, subsec. 62(9) applicable after 1997.

Interpretation Bulletins: IT-320R3: Qualified investments — Trusts governed by RRSPs, RESPs and RRIFs.

(2.2) Waiver of conditions for accumulated income payments — The Minister may, on written application of the promoter of a registered education savings plan, waive the application of the conditions in subparagraphs (2)(d.1)(v) and (vi) in respect of the plan where a beneficiary under the plan suffers from a severe and prolonged mental impairment that prevents, or can reasonably be expected to prevent, the beneficiary from enrolling in a qualifying educational program at a post-secondary educational institution.

History: Subsec. 146.1(2.2) added by 1999, c. 22, subsec. 62(9) applicable after 1997.

Proposed Addition — 146.1(2.3)

(2.3) Social Insurance Number not required — Notwithstanding paragraph (2)(g.3), an education savings plan may provide that an individual's Social Insurance Number need not be provided in respect of > (a) a contribution to the plan, if the plan was entered into before 1999; and

>
> (b) a designation of a non-resident individual as a beneficiary under the plan, if the individual was not assigned a Social Insurance Number before the designation is made.

Application: The February 27, 2004 draft legislation, subsec. 83(2), will add subsec. 146.1(2.3), applicable after 2003.

Technical Notes: New subsection 146.1(2.3) provides two additional exceptions to the SIN condition that are primarily of relevance to RESPs that were entered into before 1999 and RESPs that replace such plans. These exceptions recognize that the Canada Customs and Revenue Agency only began requiring the beneficiary's SIN to be provided on the application for registration for plans entered into after 1998.

The first new exception allows an education savings plan that was entered into before 1999 to not require that an individual's SIN be provided in respect of a contribution to the plan. Such contributions, however, continue to be ineligible for the Canada Education Savings Grant. It should be noted that this exception is only relevant for contributions made for existing beneficiaries under such plans. An individual without a SIN is prevented from being designated as a new beneficiary under such a plan.

Under the second new exception, an education savings plan may permit a non-resident individual who does not have a SIN to be designated as a beneficiary under the plan provided that the designation is being made in conjunction with a transfer of property into the plan from another RESP under which the individual was a beneficiary immediately before the transfer. This exception is intended, in particular, to accommodate the transfer of property from an RESP that was entered into before 1999, under which the beneficiary had always been non-resident or had ceased to be resident in Canada before having been assigned a SIN, to a replacement RESP (and successive transfers).

CCRA Registered Plans release, April 28, 2003: See under 146.1(2)(g.3).

(3) Deemed registration — Where in any year an education savings plan cannot be accepted for registration solely because the condition set out in paragraph (2)(b) has not been complied with, if the plan is subsequently registered, it shall be deemed to have been registered on the first day of January of

> (a) the year in which all of the conditions set out in subsection (2) (except in paragraph (2)(b)) were complied with, or
>
> (b) the year preceding the year in which the plan was subsequently registered, whichever is the later.

Related Provisions: 146.1(12) — Deemed date of registration; 212(1)(r) — Non-residents — registered education savings plan.

Information Circulars: 93-3R: Registered education savings plans.

(4) Registration of plans without prospectus — Notwithstanding paragraph (2)(e), where a promoter has not filed a prospectus in respect of an education savings plan referred to in that paragraph, the Minister may register the plan if the promoter is not otherwise required by the laws of Canada or a province to file such a prospectus with a securities commission in Canada or a body performing a similar function in a province and the plan complies with the other conditions set out in subsection (2).

History: Subsec. 146.1(4) substituted by 1994, c. 7, Sch. II (1991, c. 49), subsec. 118(10), applicable to plans registered after February 20, 1990. Subsec. 146.1(4) formerly read:

> (4) Registration of plans in existence on October 15, 1973 — Notwithstanding paragraph (2)(e), where a promoter has not filed a prospectus referred to in that paragraph, the Minister may register an education savings plan if the plan was in existence on October 15, 1973 and as of that date the other conditions set out in subsection (2) had been complied with.

(4.1) Obligation to file amendment — When a registered education savings plan is amended, the promoter shall file the text of the amendment with the Minister not later than 60 days after the day on which the plan is amended.

Related Provisions: 162(7) — Penalty for failure to comply.

History: Subsec. 146.1(4.1) added by 1998, c. 19, subsec. 38(12), in force on June 18, 1998.

(5) Trust not taxable — No tax is payable under this Part by a trust on the taxable income of the trust for a taxation year if, throughout the period in the year during which the trust was in existence, the trust was governed by a registered education savings plan.

Related Provisions: 18(11)(h) — No deduction for interest paid on money borrowed to make RESP contribution; 149(1)(u) — Exemption from tax.

Interpretation Bulletins: IT-320R3: Qualified investments — Trusts governed by RRSPs, RESPs and RRIFs.

Information Circulars: 93-3R: Registered education savings plans.

Forms: T3G: Certification of no tax liability by a group of RRSPs, RRIFs, or RESPs; T3GR: Group income tax and information return for RRSP, RRIF or RESP trusts (and worksheets); T3IND: T3IND income tax return for RRSP, RRIF, or RESP.

(6) Subscriber not taxable — No tax is payable by a subscriber on the income of a trust for a taxation year after 1971 throughout which the trust was governed by a registered education savings plan.

Related Provisions: 146.1(5) — Trust not taxable; 204.91 — Tax payable by subscribers; 212(1)(r) — Non-residents — registered education savings plan.

(6.1) Transfers between plans — Where property irrevocably held by a trust governed by a registered education savings plan (in this subsection referred to as the "transferor plan") is transferred to a trust governed by another registered education savings plan (in this subsection referred to as the "transferee plan"),

(a) [Repealed]

(b) for the purposes of this paragraph, subparagraph (2)(d.1)(vi) and paragraphs (2)(h) and (i), the transferee plan is deemed to have been entered into on the day that is the earlier of

(i) the day on which the transferee plan was entered into, and

(ii) the day on which the transferor plan was entered into; and

(c) notwithstanding subsections (7) and (7.1), no amount shall be included in computing the income of any person because of the transfer.

Related Provisions: 146.1(2)(g.2), (i.2) — Restrictions on transfers between RESPs; 204.9(5) — Transfers between RESPs.

History: Para. 146.1(6.1)(a) repealed, para. (b) amended, and para. (c) added, by 1998, c. 19, subsecs. 38(13), (14), para. (a) applicable to transfers made after 1996, para. (b) applicable after 1997, and para. (c) applicable to transfers made after 1997. Paras. (a) and (b) formerly read:

> (a) for the purposes of Part X.4,
>
> (i) the transferee plan shall be deemed to be the same plan as, and a continuation of, the transferor plan, and
>
> (ii) the transfer of property shall be deemed not to be a payment made into the transferee plan; and
>
> (b) for the purposes of this paragraph and paragraphs (2)(h) and (i), the transferee plan shall be deemed to have been entered into on the earlier of
>
> (i) the day on which the transferee plan was entered into, and
>
> (ii) the day on which the transferor plan was entered into.

Subsec. 146.1(6.1) added by 1994, c. 7, Sch. II (1991, c. 49), subsec. 118(11), applicable after February 20, 1990.

Information Circulars: 93-3R: Registered education savings plans.

(7) Educational assistance payments — There shall be included in computing an individual's income for a taxation year the total of all educational assistance payments paid out of registered education savings plans to or for the individual in the year.

Related Provisions: 56(1)(q) — Income inclusion from RESP; 60(x) — Deduction for repayment of Canada Education Savings Grant; 153(1)(t) — Withholding of tax at source; 212(1)(r) — Withholding tax on RESP payments to non-residents.

History: Subsec. 146.1(7) amended by 1998, c. 19, subsec. 38(15), applicable to 1998 et seq. Subsec. 146.1(7) formerly read:

> (7) Amounts to be included in beneficiary's income — There shall be included in computing the income for a taxation year of a taxpayer who is or was a beneficiary under a registered education savings plan, the amount, if any, by which the total of
>
> (a) educational assistance payments paid to the taxpayer or on the taxpayer's behalf in the year under the plan, and
>
> (b) amounts paid to the taxpayer or on the taxpayer's behalf to the extent that those amounts may reasonably be regarded as a distribution of property that had been transferred from a trust established under a registered education savings plan, of property substituted therefor or of income from any such property
>
> exceeds
>
> (c) the taxpayer's portion of the tax-paid-income in the year under the plan.

Information Circulars: 93-3R: Registered education savings plans.

(7.1) Other income inclusions — There shall be included in computing a taxpayer's income for a taxation year

(a) each accumulated income payment received in the year by the taxpayer under a registered education savings plan; and

(b) each amount received in the year by the taxpayer in full or partial satisfaction of a subscriber's interest under a registered education savings plan (other than any excluded amount in respect of the plan).

Related Provisions: 146.1(7.2) — Excluded amount; 153(1)(t) — Withholding of tax at source.

History: Subsec. 146.1(7.1) added by 1998, c. 19, subsec. 38(15), applicable to 1998 et seq.

Regulations: 103(4), 103(6)(g), 103(8) (withholding of 20% at source); 200(2)(j) (information return).

Interpretation Bulletins: IT-320R3: Qualified investments — Trusts governed by RRSPs, RESPs and RRIFs.

(7.2) Excluded amount — For the purpose of paragraph (7.1)(b), an excluded amount in respect of a registered education savings plan is

(a) any amount received under the plan;

(b) any amount received in satisfaction of a right to a refund of payments under the plan; or

(c) any amount received by a taxpayer under a decree, order or judgment of a competent tribunal, or under a written agreement, relating to a division of property between the taxpayer and the taxpayer's spouse or common-law partner or former spouse or common-law partner in settlement of rights arising out of, or on the breakdown of, their marriage or common-law partnership.

History: Para. 146.1(7.2)(c) amended by 2000, c. 12, Sch. 2, s. 2, to replace "spouse" with "spouse or common-law partner", and by 2000, c. 12, Sch. 2, s. 9, to replace "marriage" with "marriage or common-law partnership", applicable to 2001 et seq., in force July 31, 2000. See also the transitional rules reproduced in the History to 248(1)"common-law partner".

Subsec. 146.1(7.2) added by 1998, c. 19, subsec. 38(15), applicable to 1998 et seq.

(8) [Repealed]

History: Subsec. 146.1(8) repealed by 1998, c. 19, subsec. 38(15), applicable to 1998 et seq. Subsec. 146.1(8) formerly read:

(8) Definition of "beneficiary's portion of the tax-paid-income" — For the purposes of subsection (7), a "beneficiary's portion of the tax-paid-income" for a taxation year under a registered education savings plan means the greater of

(a) the lesser of

(i) one-third of the pre-1972 income reported on or before April 30, 1972 by the trust governed by the plan to the subscriber as having been earned in respect of amounts paid to the plan by or on behalf of the subscriber, and

(ii) the amount, if any, by which

(A) the pre-1972 income reported on or before April 30, 1972 by the trust governed by the plan to the subscriber as having been earned in respect of amounts paid to the plan by or on behalf of the subscriber

exceeds

(B) the total of all amounts, if any, referred to in paragraph (7)(c) in respect of preceding taxation years, and

(b) the amount of the tax-paid-income actually allocated under the trust governed by the plan to the beneficiary in the year.

(9) [Repealed]

History: Subsec. 146.1(9) repealed by 1998, c. 19, subsec. 38(15), applicable to 1998 et seq. Subsec. 146.1(9) formerly read:

(9) Limitation on allocation of tax-paid-income — For the purposes of paragraph (8)(b), no amount of the tax-paid-income shall be allocated in a particular taxation year if an allocation has been made in respect of the same amount in a previous taxation year.

(10) [Repealed]

History: Subsec. 146.1(10) repealed by 1998, c. 19, subsec. 38(15), applicable to 1998 et seq. Subsec. 146.1(10) formerly read:

(10) Allocation of tax-paid-income — For the purposes of this subsection and subsections (8) and (9), in any taxation year there shall be allocated by the trust governed by a registered education savings plan an amount of the tax-paid-income to a beneficiary that is not less than the amount determined under paragraph (8)(a) for the year.

(11) Trust deemed to be inter vivos trust — For any taxation year during which an education savings plan is not registered, a trust governed by the plan shall be deemed, for the purposes of section 122, to be a trust referred to in subsection 122(1) established after June 17, 1971.

(12) Deemed date of registration — Subject to subsection (3), an education savings plan that is registered

(a) before 1976 shall be deemed to have been registered since the later of

(i) January 1, 1972, and

(ii) the first day of January of the year in which the plan was created; and

(b) after 1975 shall be deemed to have been registered on the first day of January in the year of registration.

(12.1) Notice of intent to revoke registration — When a particular day is

(a) a day on which a registered education savings plan ceases to comply with the conditions of subsection (2) for the plan's registration,

(b) a day on which a registered education savings plan ceases to comply with any provision of the plan,

(c) the last day of a month in respect of which tax is payable under Part X.4 by an individual because of contributions made, or deemed for the purpose of Part X.4 to have been made, by or on behalf of the individual into a registered education savings plan,

(d) a day on which a registered education savings plan is revocable, or

(e) a day on which a person fails to comply with a condition or obligation imposed under Part III.1 of the Department of Human Resources Development Act that applies with respect to a registered education savings plan, the Minister may send written notice (referred to in this subsection and subsection (12.2) as a "notice of intent") to the promoter of the plan that the Minister proposes to revoke the registration of the plan as of the day specified in the notice of intent, which day shall not be earlier than the particular day.

Related Provisions: 146.1(2.1) — RESP becoming revocable; 146.1(12.2) — Notice of revocation; 172(3)(e.1) — Appeal to Federal Court of Appeal from giving of notice of intent; 180(1)(c.1) — Deadline for filing appeal to Federal Court of Appeal; 248(7) — Notice deemed received on day mailed.

History: Paras. 146.1(12.1)(d) and (e) added by 1999, c. 22, subsec. 62(10), applicable after 1997.

Subsec. 146.1(12.1) added by 1998, c. 19, subsec. 38(16), applicable after 1997.

(12.2) Notice of revocation — When the Minister sends a notice of intent to revoke the registration of a registered education savings plan to the promoter of the plan, the Minister may, after 30 days after the receipt by the promoter of the notice, send written notice (referred to in this subsection and subsection (13) as a "notice of revocation") to the promoter that the registration of the plan is revoked as of the day specified in the notice of revocation, which day shall not be earlier than the day specified in the notice of intent.

Related Provisions: 146.1(13) — Revocation; 248(7) — Notice deemed received on day mailed.

Registered Home Ownership Savings Plans

146.2 (1)–(21) [Repealed under former Act]

(22) Contributions to R.H.O.S.P. after May 22, 1985 — There shall be included in computing the income of a taxpayer for the 1985 taxation year an amount equal to that portion of the income of a registered home ownership savings plan, under which the taxpayer is a beneficiary, that can reasonably be considered to have accrued to the end of 1985, to have become receivable or to have been received before the end of 1985, and to be attributable to amounts contributed after May 22, 1985 to or under the plan.

(23) Application of subsec. 146.2(1) of R.S.C., 1952, c. 148 — The definitions in subsection 146.2(1) of the Income Tax Act, chapter 148 of the Revised Statutes of Canada, 1952, as it read in its application to the 1985 taxation year, apply to subsection (22).

I.T. Application Rules: 69 (meaning of "Income Tax Act, chapter 148 of the Revised Statutes of Canada, 1952").

Origin of subsec. 146.2(23): R.S.C. 1985, c. 1 (5th Supp.).

Registered Retirement Income Funds

146.3 (1) Definitions — In this section,

"annuitant" under a retirement income fund at any time means

(a) the first individual to whom the carrier has undertaken to make payments described in the definition "retirement income fund" out of or under the fund, where the first individual is alive at that time,

(b) after the death of the first individual, a spouse or common-law partner (in this definition referred to as the "survivor") of the first individual to whom the carrier has undertaken to make payments described in the definition "retirement income fund" out of or under the fund after the death of the first individual, where the survivor is alive at that time and the undertaking was made pursuant to an election described in that definition of the first individual with the consent of the legal representative of the first individual, and

Proposed Amendment — 146.3(1)"annuitant"(b)

(b) after the death of the first individual, a spouse or common-law partner (in this definition referred to as the "survivor") of the first individual to whom the carrier has undertaken to make payments described in the definition "retirement income fund" out of or under the fund after the death of the first individual,

if the survivor is alive at that time and the undertaking was made

(i) pursuant to an election that is described in that definition and that was made by the first individual, or

(ii) with the consent of the legal representative of the first individual, and

Application: The February 27, 2004 draft legislation, subsec. 84(1), will amend para. (b) of the definition "annuitant" in subsec. 146.3(1) to read as above, applicable to 2001 et seq. except that, if a taxpayer and a person have jointly elected under s. 144 of the Modernization of Benefits and Obligations Act [S.C. 2000, c. 12; see the transitional rules reproduced in the History to 248(1)"common-law partner"], in respect of the 1998, 1999 or 2000 taxation years, it applies to the taxpayer and the person in respect of the applicable taxation year and subsequent taxation years.

Technical Notes (December 20, 2002): Subsection 146.3(1) contains the definition "annuitant" for purposes of the rules relating to RRIFs. Paragraph (b) of the definition allows the spouse or common-law partner of a deceased annuitant to become the successor annuitant under the RRIF, if the deceased annuitant so elected or the legal representative of the deceased annuitant consents. When this paragraph was amended by S.C. 2000, c. 12 (the Modernization of Benefits and Obligations Act, formerly Bill C-23), the word "or" in the English version was inadvertently removed. The definition is amended to correct this error, and to improve the readability of this paragraph, with the same application as the initial amendment in Bill C-23.

(c) after the death of the survivor, another spouse or common-law partner of the survivor to whom the carrier has undertaken, with the consent of the legal representative of the survivor, to make payments described in the definition "retirement income fund" out of or under the fund after the death of the survivor, where that other spouse or common-law partner is alive at that time;

History: Paras. (b) and (c) of the definition "annuitant" in subsec. 146.3(1) by 2000, c. 12, s. 136, applicable to 2001 et seq., in force July 31, 2000. See also the transitional rules reproduced in the History note to 248(1)"common-law partner". The paras. formerly read:

(b) after the death of the first individual, a spouse (in this paragraph[39] referred to as the "surviving spouse") of the first individual to whom the carrier has undertaken to make payments described in the definition "retirement income fund" out of or under the fund after the death of the first individual, where the surviving spouse is alive at that time and the undertaking was made pursuant to an election described in that definition of the first individual or with the consent of the legal representative of the first individual, and

(c) after the death of the surviving spouse, another spouse of the surviving spouse to whom the carrier has undertaken, with the consent of the legal representative of the surviving spouse, to make payments described in the definition "retirement income fund" out of or under the fund after the death of the surviving spouse, where that other spouse is alive at that time;

The definition "annuitant" in subsec. 146.3(1) amended by 1994, c. 7, Sch. VIII (1993, c. 24), subsec. 84(1), applicable to deaths occurring after 1990. The definition formerly read:

"annuitant" under a retirement income fund at any particular time means the individual to whom the carrier has undertaken to make the payments described in the definition "retirement income fund" in this subsection out of or under the fund;

Forms: RC4178: Death of a RRIF annuitant [guide].

"carrier" of a retirement income fund means

(a) a person licensed or otherwise authorized under the laws of Canada or a province to carry on in Canada an annuities business,

(b) a corporation licensed or otherwise authorized under the laws of Canada or a province to carry on in Canada the business of offering to the public its services as trustee,

(c) a corporation approved by the Governor in Council for the purposes of section 146 that is licensed or otherwise authorized under the laws of Canada or a province to issue investment contracts, or

(d) a person referred to as a depositary in section 146, that has agreed to make payments under a retirement income fund to the individual who is the annuitant under the fund;

Forms: T3G: Certification of no tax liability by a group of RRSPs, RRIFs, or RESPs; T3GR: Group income tax and information return for RRSP, RRIF or RESP trusts (and worksheets); T3IND: T3IND income tax return for RRSP, RRIF, or RESP.

"designated benefit" of an individual in respect of a registered retirement income fund means the total of

(a) such amounts paid out of or under the fund after the death of the last annuitant thereunder to the legal representative of that annuitant

(i) as would, had they been paid under the fund to the individual, have been refunds of premiums (in this paragraph having the meaning assigned by subsection 146(1)) if the fund were a registered retirement savings plan that had not matured before the death, and

(ii) as are designated jointly by the legal representative and the individual in prescribed form filed with the Minister, and

(b) amounts paid out of or under the fund after the death of the last annuitant thereunder to the individual that would be refunds of premiums had the fund been a registered retirement savings plan that had not matured before the death;

Related Provisions: 146.3(6.1) — Designated benefit deemed received; 146.3(6.11) — Transfer of designated benefit.

History: The definition "designated benefit" added to subsec. 146.3(1) by 1994, c. 21, subsec. 71(2), applicable to deaths occurring after 1992.

Forms: T1090: Death of a RRIF annuitant — designated benefit.

"minimum amount" under a retirement income fund for a year is the amount determined by the formula

$$(A \times B) + C$$

where

A is the total fair market value of all properties held in connection with the fund at the beginning of the year (other than annuity contracts held by a trust governed by the fund that, at the beginning of the year, are not described in paragraph (b.1) of the definition "qualified investment");

B is

(a) where the first annuitant under the fund elected in respect of the fund under paragraph (b) of the definition "minimum amount" in this subsection, as it read before 1992, or under subparagraph 146.3(1)(f)(i) of the Income Tax Act, chapter 148 of the Revised Statutes of Canada, 1952, to use the age of another individual, the prescribed factor for the year in respect of the other individual,

(b) where paragraph (a) does not apply and the first annuitant under the fund so elects before any payment has been made under the fund by the carrier, the prescribed factor for the year in respect of an individual who was the spouse or common-law partner of the first annuitant at the time of the election, and

[39] Sic. This should read "in this definition".

(c) in any other case, the prescribed factor for the year in respect of the first annuitant under the fund, and

C is, where the fund governs a trust, the total of all amounts each of which is

(a) a periodic payment under an annuity contract held by the trust at the beginning of the year (other than an annuity contract described at the beginning of the year in paragraph (b.1) of the definition "qualified investment") that is paid to the trust in the year, or

(b) if the periodic payment under such an annuity contract is not made to the trust because the trust disposed of the right to that payment in the year, a reasonable estimate of that payment on the assumption that the annuity contract had been held throughout the year and no rights under the contract were disposed of in the year;

Related Provisions: 146.3(1)"retirement income fund" — Requirement to withdraw minimum amount annually; 146.3(2)(e.1), (e.2) — Requirement for carrier to retain enough property to pay out minimum amount; 146.3(5.1) — Amount included in income; Reg. 100(1)"remuneration"(j.1), 103(6)(d.1) — Withholding tax on payments; Income Tax Conventions Interpretation Act 5"periodic pension payment"(c) — Withdrawal of more than twice the minimum amount per year is not "periodic".

History: The definition "minimum amount" in subsec. 146.3(1) amended by 2000, c. 12, Sch. 2, s. 1, to replace "spouse" with "spouse or common-law partner", applicable to 2001 et seq., in force July 31, 2000. See also the transitional rules reproduced in the History to 248(1)"common-law partner".

The definition "minimum amount" in subsec. 146.3(1) amended by 1998, c. 19, subsec. 171(1), applicable

(a) to 1998 et seq. with respect to

(i) retirement income funds entered into after February 1986, and

(ii) retirement income funds entered into before March 1986 and revised or amended after February 1986 and before 1998;

(b) to the year in which a retirement income fund is first revised or amended after 1997 and to subsequent years, if the fund was entered into before March 1986 and was not revised or amended after February 1986 and before 1998; and

(c) with respect to a retirement income fund that governs a trust that, after July 1997, holds a contract for an annuity, to all years that begin after the first day

(i) that is after July 1997, and

(ii) on which the trust holds such a contract.

The definition formerly read:

"minimum amount" under a retirement income fund for the year in which the fund is entered into is nil and for each subsequent year is the product obtained when the fair market value of the property held in connection with the fund at the beginning of that subsequent year is multiplied by

(a) where the first annuitant under the fund elected in respect of the fund under paragraph (b), as it read before 1992, or under subparagraph 146.3(1)(f)(i) of the Income Tax Act, chapter 148 of the Revised Statutes of Canada, 1952, as it read before 1986, to use the age of another individual, the prescribed amount for that subsequent year in respect of the other individual,

(b) where paragraph (a) does not apply and the first annuitant under the fund so elects before any payment has been made under the fund by the carrier, the prescribed amount for that subsequent year in respect of an individual who was the spouse of the first annuitant at the time of the election, or

(c) in any other case, the prescribed amount for that subsequent year in respect of the first annuitant under the fund;

The definition "minimum amount" in subsec. 146.3(1) amended by 1994, c. 7, Sch. VIII (1993, c. 24), subsec. 84(2), applicable

(a) to 1992 et seq. with respect to retirement income funds

(i) entered into after February 1986, and

(ii) entered into before March 1986 and revised or amended after February 1986 and before 1992; and

(b) to the taxation year in which a retirement income fund is first revised or amended after February 1986 and to subsequent taxation years, where the fund was entered into before March 1986 and was not revised or amended after February 1986 and before 1992.

However, the amended definition does not apply, for the purposes of subsec. 146.3(5.1), prescribed rules made for the purpose of subsection 153(1) of the Act, and section 5 of the Income Tax Conventions Interpretation Act, to payments made before 1993. The definition formerly read:

"minimum amount" under a retirement income fund

(a) for the year in which the fund was entered into is nil and

(b) for each subsequent year, the amount determined by the formula

$$\frac{A}{90-B}$$

where

A is the fair market value of the property held in connection with the fund at the beginning of the year, and

B is

(i) the number that is, or would be, the age in whole years of the annuitant at the beginning of the year, or

(ii) where the annuitant so elects before any payment has been made by the carrier of the fund, the number that is or would be the age in whole years of the annuitant's spouse at the beginning of the year;

Regulations: 7308 (prescribed factor).

Interpretation Bulletins: IT-528: Transfers of funds between registered plans.

Information Circulars: 78-18R6: Registered retirement income funds.

"property held" in connection with a retirement income fund means property held by the carrier of the fund, whether held by the carrier as trustee or beneficial owner thereof, the value of which, or the income or loss from which, is relevant in determining the amount for a year payable to the annuitant under the fund;

"qualified investment" for a trust governed by a registered retirement income fund means

(a) an investment that would be described in any of paragraphs (a), (b), (d) and (f) to (h) of the definition "qualified investment" in section 204 if the references in that definition to "a trust governed by a deferred profit sharing plan or revoked plan" were read as references to "a trust governed by a registered retirement income fund",

(b) a bond, debenture, note or similar obligation

(i) issued by a corporation the shares of which are listed on a prescribed stock exchange in Canada, or

(ii) issued by an authorized foreign bank and payable at a branch in Canada of the bank,

(b.1) a contract for an annuity issued by a licensed annuities provider where

(i) the trust is the only person who, disregarding any subsequent transfer of the contract by the trust, is or may become entitled to any annuity payments under the contract, and

(ii) the holder of the contract has a right to surrender the contract at any time for an amount that would, if reasonable sales and administration charges were ignored, approximate the value of funds that could otherwise be applied to fund future periodic payments under the contract,

(b.2) a contract for an annuity issued by a licensed annuities provider where

(i) annual or more frequent periodic payments are or may be made under the contract to the holder of the contract,

(ii) the trust is the only person who, disregarding any subsequent transfer of the contract by the trust, is or may become entitled to any annuity payments under the contract,

(iii) neither the time nor the amount of any payment under the contract may vary because of the length of any life, other than

(A) if the annuitant under the fund (in this paragraph referred to as the "RRIF annuitant") has made the election referred to in the definition "retirement income fund" in respect of the fund and a spouse or common-law partner, the life of the RRIF annuitant or the life of the spouse or common-law partner, and

(B) in any other case, the life of the RRIF annuitant,

(iv) the day on which the periodic payments began or are to begin (in this paragraph referred to as the "start date") is not later than the end of the year following the year in which the contract was acquired by the trust,

(v) either

(A) the periodic payments are payable for the life of the RRIF annuitant or the joint lives of the RRIF annuitant and the RRIF annuitant's spouse or common-law partner and either there is no guaranteed period under the contract or there is a guaranteed period that begins at the start date and does not exceed a term equal to 90 years minus the lesser of

(I) the age in whole years at the start date of the RRIF annuitant (determined on the assumption that the RRIF annuitant is alive at the start date), and

(II) the age in whole years at the start date of a spouse or common-law partner of the RRIF annuitant (determined on the assumption that a spouse or common-law partner of the RRIF annuitant at the time the contract was acquired is a spouse or common-law partner of the RRIF annuitant at the start date), or

(B) the periodic payments are payable for a term equal to

(I) 90 years minus the age described in subclause (A)(I), or

(II) 90 years minus the age described in subclause (A)(II), and

(vi) the periodic payments

(A) are equal, or

(B) are not equal solely because of one or more adjustments that would, if the contract were an annuity under a retirement savings plan, be in accordance with subparagraphs 146(3)(b)(iii) to (v) or that arise because of a uniform reduction in the entitlement to the periodic payments as a consequence of a partial surrender of rights to the periodic payments, and

(c) such other investments as may be prescribed by regulations of the Governor in Council made on the recommendation of the Minister of Finance;

Related Provisions: 87(10) — New share issued on amalgamation of public corporation deemed to be listed on prescribed stock exchange; 132.2(1)(k) [to be repealed], 132.2(3)(h) [draft] — Where share ceases to be qualified investment due to mutual fund reorganization; 146.3(7) — Tax on acquisition of non-qualified investment; 146.3(9) — Tax on income from non-qualified investment; 207.1(4) — Tax on holding of non-qualified investment.

"retirement income fund" means an arrangement between a carrier and an annuitant under which, in consideration for the transfer to the carrier of property, the carrier undertakes to pay to the annuitant and, where the annuitant so elects, to the annuitant's spouse or common-law partner after the annuitant's death, in each year that begins not later than the first calendar year after the year in which the arrangement was entered into one or more amounts the total of which is not less than the minimum amount under the arrangement for the year, but the amount of any such payment shall not exceed the value of the property held in connection with the arrangement immediately before the time of the payment.

Related Provisions: 146.3(1)"minimum amount" — determination of minimum amount to be paid out; 248(1)"retirement income fund" — Definition applies to entire Act.

History: The definition "retirement income fund" in subsec. 146.3(1) amended by 2000, c. 12, Sch. 2, s. 1, to replace "spouse" with "spouse or common-law partner", applicable to 2001 et seq., in force July 31, 2000.

See also the transitional rules reproduced in the History to 248(1)"common-law partner".

The definition "retirement income fund" in subsec. 146.3(1) substituted by 1994, c. 21, subsec. 71(1), applicable

(a) to 1992 et seq. with respect to

(i) retirement income funds entered into after February 1986, and

(ii) retirement income funds entered into before March 1986 and revised or amended after February 1986 and before 1992; and

(b) where a retirement income fund was entered into before March 1986 and was not revised or amended after February 1986 and before 1992, to the taxation year in which the fund is first revised or amended after February 1986 and to subsequent taxation years.

That definition formerly read:

"retirement income fund" means an arrangement between a carrier and an annuitant under which, in consideration for the transfer to the carrier of property (including money), the carrier undertakes to pay to the annuitant and, where the annuitant so elects, to the annuitant's spouse after the annuitant's death,

(a) in each year, commencing not later than the first calendar year after the year in which the arrangement is entered into, one or more amounts the total of which is not less than the minimum amount under the arrangement for a year, but the amount of any such payment shall not exceed the value of the property held in connection with the arrangement immediately before the time of the payment, and

(b) at the end of the year in which the last payment under the arrangement is, in accordance with the terms and conditions of the arrangement, required to be made, an amount equal to the value of the property, if any, held in connection with the arrangement at that time.

(1.1) [Repealed]

History: Subsec. 146.3(1.1) repealed by 1994, c. 7, Sch. VIII (1993, c. 24), subsec. 84(3), applicable after 1992 [see now subsec. 252(4)]; and, in applying the subsec. in 1991 and 1992, the reference therein to "minimum amount" shall be read as ""annuitant", "minimum amount"". Subsec. (1.1) formerly read:

(1.1) Definition of "spouse" — For the purposes of the definitions "minimum amount" and "retirement income fund" in subsection (1) paragraph (2)(d), subparagraph (2)(f)(iv), subsection (6) and paragraph (14)(b), "spouse" has the meaning assigned by subsection 146(1.1).

(2) Acceptance of fund for registration — The Minister shall not accept for registration for the purposes of this Act any retirement income fund of an individual unless, in the Minister's opinion, the following conditions are complied with:

(a) the fund provides that the carrier shall make only those payments described in any of paragraphs (d) and (e), the definition "retirement income fund" in subsection (1), and subsections (14) and (14.1);

(b) the fund provides that payments thereunder may not be assigned in whole or in part;

(c) where the carrier is a person referred to as a depository in section 146, the fund provides that

Proposed Amendment — 146.3(2)(c) opening words

(c) if the carrier is a person referred to as a depositary in section 146, the fund provides that

Application: The February 27, 2004 draft legislation, subsec. 84(2), will amend the opening words of para. 146.3(2)(c) to read as above, applicable after 2001.

Technical Notes (December 20, 2002): Subsection 146.3(2) outlines the conditions that must be satisfied in order for a retirement income fund to be registered as a RRIF.

Paragraph 146.3(2)(c) of the English version refers to a carrier who "is a person referred to as a depository in section 146". This paragraph is amended to replace the word "depository" with the word "depositary", which is the term used in section 146. This amendment applies after 2001.

(i) the carrier has no right of offset as regards the property held in connection with the fund in respect of any debt or obligation owing to the carrier, and

(ii) the property held in connection with the fund cannot be pledged, assigned or in any way alienated as security for a loan or for any purpose other than that of the making by the carrier to the annuitant those payments described in paragraph (a);

(d) the fund provides that, except where the annuitant's spouse or common-law partner becomes the annuitant under the fund, the carrier shall, as a consequence of the death of the annuitant, distribute the property held in connection with the fund at the time of the annuitant's death or an amount equal to the value of such property at that time;

(e) the fund provides that, at the direction of the annuitant, the carrier shall transfer all or part of the property held in connection with the fund, or an amount equal to its value at the time of the direction (other than property required to be retained in accordance with the provision described in paragraph (e.1) or (e.2)), together with all information necessary for the continuance of the fund, to a person who has agreed to be a carrier of another registered retirement income fund of the annuitant;

(e.1) where the fund does not govern a trust or the fund governs a trust created before 1998 that does not hold an annuity contract as a qualified investment for the trust, the fund provides that if an annuitant, at any time, directs that the carrier transfer all or part of the property held in connection with the fund, or an amount equal to its value at that time, to a person who has agreed to be a carrier of another registered retirement income fund of the annuitant or to a registered pension plan in accordance with subsection (14.1), the transferor shall retain an amount equal to the lesser of

(i) the fair market value of such portion of the property as would, if the fair market value thereof does not decline after the transfer, be sufficient to ensure that the minimum amount under the fund for the year in which the transfer is made may be paid to the annuitant in the year, and

(ii) the fair market value of all the property;

(e.2) where paragraph (e.1) does not apply, the fund provides that if an annuitant, at any time, directs that the carrier transfer all or part of the property held in connection with the fund, or an amount equal to its value at that time, to a person who has agreed to be a carrier of another registered retirement income fund of the annuitant or to a registered pension plan in accordance with subsection (14.1), the transferor shall retain property in the fund sufficient to ensure that the total of

(i) all amounts each of which is the fair market value, immediately after the transfer, of a property held in connection with the fund that is

(A) property other than an annuity contract, or

(B) an annuity contract described, immediately after the transfer, in paragraph (b.1) of the definition "qualified investment" in subsection (1), and

(ii) all amounts each of which is a reasonable estimate, as of the time of the transfer, of the amount of an annual or more frequent periodic payment under an annuity contract (other than an annuity contract described in clause (i)(B)) that the trust may receive after the transfer and in the year of the transfer is not less than the amount, if any, by which the minimum amount under the fund for that year exceeds the total of all amounts received out of or under the fund before the transfer that are included in computing the income of the annuitant under the fund for that year;

(f) the fund provides that the carrier shall not accept property as consideration thereunder other than property transferred from

(i) a registered retirement savings plan under which the individual is the annuitant,

(ii) another registered retirement income fund under which the individual is the annuitant,

(iii) the individual to the extent only that the amount of the consideration was an amount described in subparagraph 60(l)(v),

(iv) a registered retirement income fund or registered retirement savings plan of the individual's spouse or common-law partner or former spouse or common-law partner under a decree, order or judgment of a competent tribunal, or under a written separation agreement, relating to a division of property between the individual and the individual's spouse or common-law partner or former spouse or common-law partner in settlement of rights arising out of, or on the breakdown of, their marriage or common-law partnership,

(v) a registered pension plan of which the individual is a member (within the meaning assigned by subsection 147.1(1)),

(vi) a registered pension plan in accordance with subsection 147.3(5) or (7), or

(vii) a provincial pension plan in circumstances to which subsection 146(21) applies;

Proposed Addition — 146.3(2)(f)(viii)

(viii) a deferred profit sharing plan in accordance with subsection 147(19);

Application: The February 27, 2004 draft legislation, subsec. 84(3), will add subpara. 146.3(2)(f)(viii), applicable after March 20, 2003.

Technical Notes (December 20, 2002): Paragraph 146.3(2)(f) prohibits a RRIF from receiving property, other than property transferred from sources listed in that paragraph. The paragraph is amended so that a RRIF may receive property transferred directly from a deferred profit sharing plan (DPSP) in accordance with subsection 147(19). This amendment is consequential on an amendment to subsection 147(19) that permits direct transfers from DPSPs to RRIFs. For more details, see the commentary to that subsection. This amendment applies after the 90th day after December 20, 2002.

(g) the fund requires that no benefit or loan, other than

(i) a benefit the amount of which is required to be included in computing the annuitant's income,

(ii) an amount referred to in paragraph (5)(a) or (b), or

(iii) the benefit derived from the provision of administrative or investment services in respect of the fund, that is conditional in any way on the existence of the fund may be extended to the annuitant or to a person with whom the annuitant was not dealing at arm's length; and

(h) the fund in all other respects complies with regulations of the Governor in Council made on the recommendation of the Minister of Finance.

(4) Disposition or acquisition of property by trust — Where at any time in a taxation year a trust governed by a registered retirement income fund

(a) disposes of property for a consideration less than the fair market value of the property at the time of the disposition, or for no consideration, or

(b) acquires property for a consideration greater than the fair market value of the property at the time of the acquisition,

2 times the difference between that fair market value and the consideration, if any, shall be included in computing the income for the taxation year of the taxpayer who is the annuitant under the fund at that time.

Application: The February 27, 2004 draft legislation, subsec. 84(4), will amend the opening words of subsec. 146.3(5.1) to read as above, applicable to 2001 et seq. except that, if a taxpayer and a person have jointly elected under s. 144 of the Modernization of Benefits and Obligations Act [S.C. 2000, c. 12; see the transitional rules reproduced in the History to 248(1)"common-law partner"], in respect of the 1998, 1999 or 2000 taxation years, it applies to the taxpayer and the person in respect of the applicable taxation year and subsequent taxation years.

Technical Notes: In 2000, the Act was amended to include common-law partners, but some provisions, including the English version of subsection 146.3(5.1), were overlooked. This subsection is therefore amended to correct this omission. The amendment applies, in general, to the 2001 and subsequent taxation years. However, it may apply as of 1998 if the common-law partners jointly choose to be deemed as such, beginning in that year, for the purposes of the application of the Act.

(a) the total of all amounts each of which is a premium (within the meaning assigned by subsection 146(1)) paid by the taxpayer in the year or in one of the two immediately preceding taxation years to a registered retirement savings plan under which the taxpayer's spouse or common-law partner was the annuitant (within the meaning assigned by subsection 146(1)) at the time the premium was paid,

(b) the particular amount, and

(c) the amount, if any, by which

(i) the total of all amounts each of which is an amount in respect of the fund that is required, in the year and at or before that time, to be included in the income of the taxpayer's spouse or common-law partner

exceeds

(ii) the minimum amount under the fund for the year.

(5.2) [Repealed under former Act]

(5.3) Ordering — Where a taxpayer has paid more than one premium described in subsection (5.1), such a premium or part thereof paid by the taxpayer at any time shall be deemed to have been included in computing the taxpayer's income by virtue of that subsection before premiums or parts thereof paid by the taxpayer after that time.

(5.4) Spouse's income — Where, in respect of an amount required at any time in a taxation year to be included in computing the income of a taxpayer's spouse or common-law partner, all or part of a premium has, by reason of subsection (5.1), been included in computing the taxpayer's income for the year, the following rules apply:

(a) the premium or part thereof, as the case may be, shall, for the purposes of subsections (5.1) and 146(8.3) after that time, be deemed not to have been a premium paid to a registered retirement savings plan under which the taxpayer's spouse or common-law partner was the annuitant (within the meaning assigned by subsection 146(1)); and

(b) an amount equal to the premium or part thereof, as the case may be, deducted in computing the income of the spouse or common-law partner for the year.

Related Provisions: 146(8.6) — Spouse's income.

History: Subsec. 146.3(5.4) amended by 2000, c. 12, Sch. 2, s. 1, to replace "spouse" with "spouse or common-law partner", applicable to 2001 et seq., in force July 31, 2000. See also the transitional rules reproduced in the History to 248(1)"common-law partner".

(5.5) Where subsec. (5.1) does not apply — Subsection (5.1) does not apply

(a) in respect of a taxpayer at any time during the year in which the taxpayer dies;

(b) in respect of a taxpayer where either the taxpayer or the annuitant is a non-resident at the particular time referred to in that subsection;

(c) to any payment that is received in full or partial commutation of a registered retirement savings plan or a registered retirement income fund and in respect of which a deduction was made under paragraph 60(l) if, where the deduction was in respect of the acquisition of an annuity, the terms of the annuity provide that it cannot be commuted, and it is not commuted, in whole or in part within 3 years after the acquisition; or

(d) in respect of an amount that is deemed by subsection (6) to have been received by an annuitant under a registered retirement income fund immediately before the annuitant's death.

(6) Where last annuitant dies — Where the last annuitant under a registered retirement income fund dies, that annuitant shall be deemed to have received, immediately before death, an amount out of or under a registered retirement income fund equal to the fair market value of the property of the fund at the time of the death.

Related Provisions: 56(1)(t) — Income from RRIF; 146(8.8) — Parallel rule for RRSPs; 146.3(5.5) — Application of subsec. (6.1) Designated benefit deemed received — A designated benefit of an individual in respect of a registered retirement income fund that is received by the legal representative of the last annuitant under the fund shall be deemed

(a) to be received by the individual out of or under the fund at the time it is received by the legal representative; and

(b) except for the purpose of the definition "designated benefit" in subsection (1), not to be received out of or under the fund by any other person.

Related Provisions: 60(l)(v)(B.1) — Rollover of designated benefits to child or grandchild on death; 146(8.1) — Parallel rule for RRSPs; 212(1)(q), 214(3)(i) — Non-resident withholding tax.

History: Subsec. 146.3(6.1) substituted by 1994, c. 21, subsec. 71(6), applicable to deaths occurring after 1992. That subsec. formerly read:

(6.1) Amount deemed received by child or grandchild as a result of death — Such portion of an amount paid in a taxation year out of or under a registered retirement income fund after the death of the last annuitant thereunder to the annuitant's legal representative as, had that portion been paid under the fund to a beneficiary of the deceased's estate, would have been a refund of premiums (within the meaning assigned by subsection 146(1)) if the fund were a registered retirement savings plan shall, to the extent it is so designated jointly by the legal representative and the beneficiary in prescribed form filed with the Minister, be deemed

(a) to be received by the beneficiary in the year as a benefit that is a refund of premiums under a registered retirement savings plan (within the meanings assigned by subsection 146(1)); and

(b) not to be received out of or under a registered retirement income fund.

Forms: RC4178: Death of a RRIF annuitant [guide]; T1090: Death of a RRIF annuitant — designated benefit.

(6.11) Transfer of designated benefit — For the purpose of subparagraph 60(l)(v), the eligible amount of a particular individual for a taxation year in respect of a registered retirement income fund is nil unless the particular individual was

(a) a spouse or common-law partner of the last annuitant under the fund, or

(b) a child or grandchild of that annuitant who was dependent because of physical or mental infirmity on that annuitant, in which case the eligible amount shall be determined by the formula

$$A \times \left[1 - \frac{(B - C)}{D} \right]$$

where

A is the portion of the designated benefit of the particular individual in respect of the fund that is included because of subsection (5) in computing the particular individual's income for the year,

B is the minimum amount under the fund for the year,

C is the lesser of

(a) the total amounts included because of subsection (5) in computing the income of an annuitant under the fund for the year in respect of amounts received by the annuitant out of or under the fund, and

(b) the minimum amount under the fund for the year, and

D is the total of all amounts each of which is the portion of a designated benefit of an individual in respect of the fund that is included because of subsection (5) in computing the individual's income for the year.

Related Provisions: 60(l)(ii)(a) — Transfer to trust for infirm dependent child; 257 — Formula cannot calculate to less than zero.

History: Subsec. 146.3(6.11) amended by 2000, c. 12, Sch. 2, s. 1, to replace "spouse" with "spouse or common-law partner", applicable to 2001 et seq., in force July 31, 2000. See also the transitional rules reproduced in the History to 248(1)"common-law partner".

Subsec. 146.3(6.11) added by 1994, c. 21, subsec. 71(6), applicable to deaths occurring after 1992.

Forms: RC4178: Death of a RRIF annuitant [guide].

(6.2) Amount deductible — There may be deducted from the amount deemed by subsection (6) to be received by an annuitant out of or under a registered retirement income fund an amount not exceeding the amount determined by the formula

$$A \times \left[1 - \frac{(B + C - D)}{(B + C)} \right]$$

where

A is the total of

(a) all designated benefits of individuals in respect of the fund,

(b) all amounts that would, if the fund were a registered retirement savings plan, be tax-paid amounts (in this subsection having the meaning assigned by subsection 146(1)) in respect of the fund received by individuals who received, otherwise than because of subsection (6.1), designated benefits in respect of the fund, and

(c) all amounts each of which is an amount that would, if the fund were a registered retirement savings plan, be a tax-paid amount in respect of the fund received by the legal representative of the last annuitant under the fund, to the extent that the legal representative would have been entitled to designate that tax-paid amount under paragraph (a) of the definition "designated benefit" in subsection (1) if tax-paid amounts were not excluded in determining refunds of premiums (as defined in subsection 146(1));

B is the fair market value of the property of the fund at the particular time that is the later of

(a) the end of the first calendar year that begins after the death of the annuitant, and

(b) the time immediately after the last time that any designated benefit in respect of the fund is received by an individual;

C is the total of all amounts paid out of or under the fund after the death of the last annuitant thereunder and before the particular time; and

D is the lesser of

(a) the fair market value of the property of the fund at the time of the death of the last annuitant thereunder, and

(b) the sum of the values of B and C in respect of the fund.

Related Provisions: 118.1(5.3) — Designation of charity as beneficiary of RRIF; 146(8.9) — Parallel rule for RRSPs.

History: The description of A in subsec. 146.3(6.2) amended by 1998, c. 19, subsec. 171(8), applicable to deaths that occur after 1992. The description formerly read:

A is the total of all designated benefits of individuals in respect of the fund;

Subsec. 146.3(6.2) substituted by 1994, c. 21, subsec. 71(6), applicable to deaths occurring after 1992. That subsec. formerly read:

(6.2) Amount deductible — There may be deducted from the amount deemed by subsection (6) to have been received by an annuitant under a registered retirement income fund the total of all amounts each of which is

(a) that portion of an amount paid out of or under the fund that is deemed to be received by a beneficiary as a benefit that is a refund of premiums pursuant to subsection (6.1), or

(b) an amount paid under the fund to a child or grandchild of the annuitant that would be a refund of premiums (within the meaning assigned by subsection 146(1)) had the fund been a registered retirement savings plan and each amount described in paragraph (b) that is paid to a child or grandchild of the deceased shall be deemed to be received by the child or grandchild, as the case may be, as a benefit that is a refund of premiums under a registered retirement savings plan (within the meanings assigned by subsection 146(1)) and not to be received out of or under a registered retirement income fund.

Forms: RC4178: Death of a RRIF annuitant [guide].

(7) Acquisition of non-qualified investment by trust — Where at any time in a taxation year a trust governed by a registered retirement income fund

(a) acquires an investment that is not a qualified investment, or

(b) uses or permits to be used a property of the trust as security for a loan,

the fair market value of

(c) the investment at the time it was acquired by the trust, or

(d) the property used as security at the time it commenced to be so used as the case may be, shall be included in computing the income for the year of the taxpayer who is the annuitant under the fund at that time.

Related Provisions: 146.3(9) — Tax payable where non-qualified investment acquired; 146.3(10) — Recovery of property used as security; 212(1)(q), 214(3)(i) — Non-resident withholding tax; 259(1) — Election for proportional holdings in trust property.

Regulations: 215(3) (information return).

Remission Orders: Lionaird Capital Corporation Notes Remission Order, P.C. 1999-737 (tax under 146.3(7) waived because taxpayers thought they were qualified investments).

Interpretation Bulletins: IT-320R3: Qualified investments — Trusts governed by RRSPs, RESPs and RRIFs.

(8) Disposition of non-qualified investment — Where at any time in a taxation year a trust governed by a registered retirement income fund disposes of a property that, when acquired, was not a qualified investment, there may be deducted in computing the income for the taxation year of the taxpayer who is the annuitant under the fund at that time, an amount equal to the lesser of

(a) the amount that, by virtue of subsection (7), was included in computing the income of a taxpayer in respect of the acquisition of that property, and

(b) the proceeds of disposition of the property.

Related Provisions: 259(1) — Election for proportional holdings in trust property.

Regulations: 215(3) (information return).

Interpretation Bulletins: IT-320R3: Qualified investments — Trusts governed by RRSPs, RESPs and RRIFs.

(9) Tax payable where non-qualified investment acquired — Where a trust governed by a registered retirement income fund has acquired a property that is not a qualified investment,

Proposed Amendment — 146.3(9) opening words

(9) Tax payable on income from non-qualified investment — If a trust that is governed by a registered retirement income fund holds, at any time in a taxation year, a property that is not a qualified investment,

Application: The February 27, 2004 draft legislation, subsec. 84(5), will amend the opening words of subsec. 146.3(9) to read as above, applicable to 2003 et seq.

Technical Notes (December 20, 2002): Subsection 146.3(9) provides that, if a trust governed by a RRIF acquires a non-qualified investment, any income earned by the trust from the investment is taxable under Part I.

Subsection 146.3(9) is amended to clarify that income from property that was a qualified investment at the time it was acquired but later became non-qualified is also taxable in respect of the non-qualified period. This amendment, which applies to the 2003 and subsequent taxation years, is consistent with the tax treatment of income earned by RRSP trusts from non-qualified investments under subsection 146(10.1).

(a) tax is payable under this Part by the trust on the amount that its taxable income for the year would be if it had no incomes or losses from sources other than the property that is not a qualified investment or no capital gains or capital losses other than from the disposition of that property, as the case may be; and

(b) for the purposes of paragraph (a),

(i) "income" includes dividends described in section 83, and

(ii) paragraphs 38(a) and (b) shall be read without reference to the fractions set out therein.

Proposed Amendment — 146.3(9)(b)(ii)

(ii) paragraphs 38(a) and (b) are to be read with the fraction set out in each of those paragraphs replaced by the word "all".

Application: The February 27, 2004 draft legislation, subsec. 84(6), will amend subpara. 146.3(9)(b)(ii) to read as above, in force on Royal Assent.

Technical Notes (December 20, 2002): Subparagraph 146.3(9)(b)(ii) is reworded for clarity, applicable on Royal Assent.

Related Provisions: 146.3(3) — No tax while trust governed by fund; 146.3(7) — Acquisition of non-qualified investment by trust; 149(1)(x) — RRIF exemption; 207.1(4) — Tax payable by RRIF on non-qualified investments; 259(1) — Election for proportional holdings in trust property.

Interpretation Bulletins: IT-320R3: Qualified investments — Trusts governed by RRSPs, RESPs and RRIFs.

Information Circulars: 78-18R6: Registered retirement income funds.

(10) Recovery of property used as security — Where at any time in a taxation year a loan for which a trust governed by a registered retirement income fund has used or permitted to be used trust property as security ceases to be extant, and the fair market value of the property so used was included by virtue of subsection (7) in computing the income of a taxpayer who was the annuitant under the fund, there may be deducted in computing the income for a taxation year of the taxpayer who is at that time the annuitant, an amount equal to the amount, if any, remaining when

(a) the net loss (exclusive of payments by the trust as or on account of interest) sustained by the trust in consequence of its using or permitting to be used the property as security for the loan and not as a result of a change in the fair market value of the property

is deducted from

(b) the amount so included in computing the income of a taxpayer in consequence of the trust's using or permitting to be used the property as security for the loan.

Regulations: 215(3) (information return).

Interpretation Bulletins: IT-320R3: Qualified investments — Trusts governed by RRSPs, RESPs and RRIFs.

(11) Change in fund after registration — Where, on any day after a retirement income fund has been accepted by the Minister for registration for the purposes of this Act, the fund is revised or amended or a new fund is substituted therefor, and the fund as revised or amended or the new fund substituted therefor, as the case may be, (in this subsection referred to as the "amended fund") does not comply with the requirements of this section for its acceptance by the Minister for registration for the purposes of this Act, the following rules apply:

(a) the amended fund shall be deemed, for the purposes of this Act, not to be a registered retirement income fund; and

(b) the taxpayer who was the annuitant under the fund before it became an amended fund shall, in computing the taxpayer's income for the taxation year that includes that day, include as income received out of the fund at that time an amount equal to the fair market value of all the property held in connection with the fund immediately before that time.

Related Provisions: 146.3(2) — Requirements for acceptance for registration; 146.3(12) — Where arrangement deemed to be new fund substituted for RRIF; 146.3(13) — Where fund deemed revised or amended; 147.3(13.1) — Withdrawal of excessive transfers to RRSPs and RRIFs; 153(1)(l) — Withholdings; 204.2(1.4) — Deemed receipt where RRSP or RRIF amended; 212(1)(q), 214(3)(i) — Non-resident withholding tax.

Information Circulars: 78-18R6: Registered retirement income funds.

Forms: T1234: Allowable amounts of non-refundable tax credits; T2205: Amounts from a spousal or common-law partner RRSP or RRIF to include in income.

(12) Idem — For the purposes of subsection (11), an arrangement under which a right or obligation under a retirement income fund is released or extinguished either wholly or in part and either in exchange or substitution for any right or obligation, or otherwise (other than an arrangement the sole object and legal effect of which is to revise or amend the fund) or under which payment of any amount by way of loan or otherwise is made on the security of a right under a retirement income fund, shall be deemed to be a new fund substituted for the retirement income fund.

Regulations: 215(4) (information return).

(13) Idem — Where at any time a benefit or loan is extended or continues to be extended as a consequence of the existence of a registered retirement income fund and that benefit or loan would be prohibited if the fund met the requirement for registration contained in paragraph (2)(g), for the purposes of subsection (11), the fund shall be deemed to have been revised or amended at that time so that it fails to meet the requirement for registration contained in paragraph (2)(g).

(14) Transfer on breakdown of marriage or common-law partnership — An amount is transferred from a registered retirement income fund of an annuitant in accordance with this subsection if the amount

(a) is transferred on behalf of an individual who is a spouse or common-law partner or former spouse or common-law partner of the annuitant and who is entitled to the amount under a decree, an order or a judgment of a competent tribunal, or under a written agreement, that relates to a division of property between the annuitant and the individual in settlement of rights that arise out of, or on a breakdown of, their marriage or common-law partnership; and

(b) is transferred directly to

(i) a registered retirement income fund under which the individual is the annuitant, or

(ii) a registered retirement savings plan under which the individual is the annuitant (within the meaning assigned by subsection 146(1)).

Related Provisions: 146(16)(b) — Transfer of RRSP on marriage breakdown; 146.3(2)(e)-(e.2) — Conditions applying on transfer; 146.3(14.2) — Effect of transfer; 252(3) — Extended meaning of "spouse" and "former spouse".

History: Subsec. 146.3(14) amended by 2003, c. 15, subsec. 83(4), applicable after 2003. It formerly read:

(14) Transfers — Notwithstanding anything in this section, an amount

(a) transferred as described in paragraph (2)(e), or

(b) transferred from a registered retirement income fund of an annuitant to a registered retirement income fund or registered retirement savings plan of the annuitant's spouse or common-law partner or former spouse or common-law partner under a decree, order or judgment of a competent tribunal, or under a written separation agreement, relating to a division of property between the annuitant and the annuitant's spouse or common-law partner or former spouse or common-law partner in settlement of rights arising out of, or on the breakdown of, their marriage or common-law partnership, shall be deemed not to be an amount received by the annuitant out of or under a registered retirement income fund.

Subsec. 146.3(14) amended by 2000, c. 12, Sch. 2, s. 2, to replace "spouse" with "spouse or common-law partner", and by 2000, c. 12, Sch. 2, s. 9, to replace "marriage" with "marriage or common-law partnership", applicable to 2001 et seq., in force July 31, 2000. See also the transitional rules reproduced in the History to 248(1)"common-law partner".

Para. 146.3(14)(b) amended by 1994, c. 7, Sch. VIII (1993, c. 24), subsec. 84(7), applicable after 1992. Para. (b) formerly read:

(b) transferred from a registered retirement income fund of an annuitant to a registered retirement income fund or a registered retirement savings plan of the annuitant's spouse or former spouse pursuant to a decree, order or judgment of a competent tribunal or a written separation agreement, relating to a division of property between the annuitant and the annuitant's spouse or former spouse in settlement of rights arising out of their marriage or other conjugal relationship, on or after the breakdown of their marriage or other relationship,

Forms: T2033: Direct transfer under para. 146(16)(a) or 146.3(2)(e); T2220: Transfer from an RRSP or a RRIF to another RRSP or RRIF on marriage breakdown.

(14.1) Transfer to money purchase RPP — An amount is transferred from a registered retirement income fund of an annuitant in accordance with this subsection if the amount is transferred at the direction of the annuitant directly to a registered pension plan of which, at any time before the transfer, the annuitant was a member (within the meaning assigned by subsection 147.1(1)) or to a prescribed registered pension plan and allocated to the annuitant under a money purchase provision (within the meaning assigned by subsection 147.1(1)) of the plan.

Related Provisions: 146.3(14.2) — Effect of transfer; Reg. 8300(1)"excluded contribution" — Amount transferred is excluded contribution.

History: Subsec. 146.3(14.1) added by 2003, c. 15, subsec. 83(4), applicable after 2003.

(14.2) Taxation of amount transferred — An amount transferred on behalf of an individual in accordance with paragraph (2)(e) or subsection (14) or (14.1)

(a) is not, solely because of that transfer, to be included in computing the income of any taxpayer; and

(b) is not to be deducted in computing the income of any taxpayer.

History: Subsec. 146.3(14.2) added by 2003, c. 15, subsec. 83(4), applicable after 2003.

(15) Credited or added amount deemed not received — Where

(a) an amount is credited or added to a deposit with a depositary referred to in paragraph (d) of the definition "carrier" in subsection (1) as interest or income in respect of the deposit,

(b) the deposit is a registered retirement income fund at the time the amount is credited or added to the deposit, and

(c) during the calendar year in which the amount is credited or added or during the preceding calendar year, the annuitant under the fund was alive,

the amount shall be deemed not to be received by the annuitant or any other person solely because of the crediting or adding.

History: Subsec. 146.3(15) substituted by 1994, c. 21, subsec. 71(7), applicable to deaths occurring after 1992. That subsec. formerly read:

(15) Where amount credited or added deemed not received — Where an amount is credited or added to a deposit with a depositary referred to in paragraph (d) of the definition "carrier" in subsection (1) as interest or income in respect of the deposit, and where

(a) the deposit is a registered retirement income fund at the time the amount is credited or added to the deposit, and

(b) the annuitant under the fund is alive during the year in which the amount is credited or added, the amount shall be deemed not to be received by the annuitant by reason only of the crediting or adding.

Deferred Profit Sharing Plans

147. (1) Definitions — In this section,

"deferred profit sharing plan" means a profit sharing plan accepted by the Minister for registration for the purposes of this Act, on application therefor in prescribed manner by a trustee under the plan and an employer of employees who are beneficiaries under the plan, as complying with the requirements of this section;

Related Provisions: 128.1(10)"excluded right or interest"(a)(iv) — No deemed disposition of DPSP on emigration.

Interpretation Bulletins: IT-528: Transfers of funds between registered plans.

"forfeited amount", under a deferred profit sharing plan or a plan the registration of which has been revoked pursuant to subsection (14) or (14.1), means an amount to which a beneficiary under the plan has ceased to have any rights, other than the portion thereof, if any, that is payable as a consequence of the death of the beneficiary to a person who is entitled thereto by virtue of the participation of the beneficiary in the plan;

"licensed annuities provider" means a person licensed or otherwise authorized under the laws of Canada or a province to carry on in Canada an annuities business;

Related Provisions: 248(1)"licensed annuities provider" — Definition applies to entire Act.

History: The definition "licensed annuities provider" added to subsec. 147(1) by 1997, c. 25, subsec. 43(1), applicable after 1991.

"profit sharing plan" means an arrangement under which payments computed by reference to an employer's profits from the employer's business, or by reference to those profits and the profits, if any, from the business of a corporation with which the employer does not deal at arm's length, are or have been made by the employer to a trustee in trust for the benefit of employees or former employees of that employer.

Related Provisions: 147(16) — Payments out of profits; 248(1)"deferred profit sharing plan", "profit sharing plan" — Definitions apply to entire Act; 248(8) — Occurrences as a consequence of death.

Regulations: 1501 (prescribed manner).

Interpretation Bulletins: IT-280R: Employees profit sharing plans — payments computed by reference to profits.

Information Circulars: 77-1R4: Deferred profit sharing plans. See also list at end of s. 147.

Forms: T3D: Income tax return for DPSP or revoked DPSP.

(1.1) Participating employer — An employer is considered to participate in a profit sharing plan where the employer makes or has made payments under the plan to a trustee in trust for the benefit of employees or former employees of the employer.

History: Subsec. 147(1.1) added by 1997, c. 25, subsec. 43(2), applicable after 1988.

(2) Acceptance of plan for registration — The Minister shall not accept for registration for the purposes of this Act any profit sharing plan unless, in the Minister's opinion, it complies with the following conditions:

(a) the plan provides that each payment made under the plan to a trustee in trust for the benefit of beneficiaries thereunder is the total of amounts each of which is required to be allocated by the trustee in the year in which it is received by the trustee, to the individual beneficiary in respect of whom the amount was so paid;

(a.1) the plan includes a stipulation that no contribution may be made to the plan other than

(i) a contribution made in accordance with the terms of the plan by an employer for the benefit of the employer's employees who are beneficiaries under the plan, or

(ii) an amount transferred to the plan in accordance with subsection (19);

(b) the plan does not provide for the payment of any amount to an employee or other beneficiary thereunder by way of loan;

(c) the plan provides that no part of the funds of the trust governed by the plan may be invested in notes, bonds, debentures, bankers' acceptances or similar obligations of

(i) an employer by whom payments are made in trust to a trustee under the plan for the benefit of beneficiaries thereunder, or

(ii) a corporation with whom that employer does not deal at arm's length;

(d) the plan provides that no part of the funds of the trust governed by the plan may be invested in shares of a corporation at least 50% of the property of which consists of notes, bonds, debentures, bankers' acceptances or similar obligations of an employer or a corporation described in paragraph (c);

(e) the plan includes a provision stipulating that no right or interest under the plan of an employee who is a beneficiary thereunder is capable, either in whole or in part, of surrender or assignment;

Proposed Amendment — 147(2)(e)

(e) the plan includes a provision stipulating that no right of a person under the plan is capable of any surrender or assignment other than

(i) an assignment under a decree, order or judgment of a competent tribunal, or under a written agreement, that relates to a division of property between an individual and the individual's spouse or common-law partner, or former spouse or common-law partner, in settlement of rights that arise out of, or on a breakdown of, their marriage or common-law partnership,

(ii) an assignment by a deceased individual's legal representative on the distribution of the individual's estate, and

(iii) a surrender of benefits to avoid revocation of the plan's registration;

Application: The February 27, 2004 draft legislation, subsec. 85(1), will amend para. 147(2)(e) to read as above, applicable after March 20, 2003.

Technical Notes (December 20, 2002): Subsection 147(2) sets out the conditions that a profit sharing plan must satisfy in order to be registered as a DPSP. Paragraph 147(2)(e) requires that such a plan include a provision stipulating that no right of an employee who is a beneficiary under the plan is capable of surrender or assignment.

Paragraph 147(2)(e) is amended in two ways. First, it is amended to extend the application of the provision to require that the stipulation apply to all persons who have rights under a DPSP, not just employee beneficiaries. Second, it is amended to provide that the stipulation is not required to prohibit:

- an assignment under a court order or written agreement relating to the division of property on the breakdown of a marriage or common-law partnership;
- an assignment by a deceased individual's legal representative on the distribution of the individual's estate; and
- a surrender of benefits to avoid revocation of the plan's registration.

These new provisions are similar to the rule in Regulation 8502(f) that applies to registered pension plans (RPPs). The new provisions are, in part, consequential on amendments to subsection 147(19) that accommodate the division of DPSP assets on the breakdown of a marriage or common-law partnership.

(f) the plan includes a provision stipulating that each of the trustees under the plan shall be resident in Canada;

(g) the plan provides that, if a corporation licensed or otherwise authorized under the laws of Canada or a province to carry on in Canada the business of offering to the public its services as trustee is not a trustee under the plan, there shall be at least 3 trustees under the plan who shall be individuals;

(h) the plan provides that all income received, capital gains made and capital losses sustained by the trust governed by the plan must be allocated to beneficiaries under the plan on or before a day 90 days after the end of the year in which they were received, made or sustained, as the case may be, to the extent that they have not been allocated in years preceding that year;

(i) the plan provides that each amount allocated or reallocated by a trustee under the plan to a beneficiary under the plan vest irrevocably in that beneficiary,

(i) in the case of an amount allocated or reallocated before 1991, at a time that is not later than 5 years after the end of the year in which it was allocated or reallocated, unless the beneficiary becomes, before that time, an individual who is not an employee of any employer who participates in the plan, and

(ii) in the case of any other amount, not later than the later of the time of allocation or reallocation and the day on which the beneficiary completes a period of 24 consecutive months as a beneficiary under the plan or under any other deferred profit sharing plan for which the plan can reasonably be considered to have been substituted;

(i.1) the plan requires that each forfeited amount under the plan and all earnings of the plan reasonably attributable thereto be paid to employers who participate in the plan, or be reallocated to beneficiaries under the plan, on or before the later of December 31, 1991 and December 31 of the year immediately following the calendar year in which the amount is forfeited, or such later time as is permitted in writing by the Minister under subsection (2.2);

(j) the plan provides that a trustee under the plan inform, in writing, all new beneficiaries under the plan of their rights under the plan;

(k) the plan provides that, in respect of each beneficiary under the plan who has been employed by an employer who participates in the plan, all amounts vested under the plan in the beneficiary become payable

(i) to the beneficiary, or

(ii) in the event of the beneficiary's death, to another person designated by the beneficiary or to the beneficiary's estate, not later than the earlier of

(iii) the end of the year in which the beneficiary attains 69 years of age, and

(iv) 90 days after the earliest of

(A) the death of the beneficiary,

(B) the day on which the beneficiary ceases to be employed by an employer who participates in the plan where, at the time of ceasing to be so employed, the beneficiary is not employed by another employer who participates in the plan, and

(C) the termination or winding-up of the plan, except that the plan may provide that, on election by the beneficiary, all or any part of the amounts payable to the beneficiary may be paid

(v) in equal instalments payable not less frequently than annually over a period not exceeding 10 years from the day on which the amount became payable, or

(vi) by a trustee under the plan to a licensed annuities provider to purchase for the beneficiary an annuity where

(A) payment of the annuity is to begin not later than the end of the year in which the beneficiary attains 69 years of age, and

(B) the guaranteed term, if any, of the annuity does not exceed 15 years;

(k.1) the plan requires that no benefit or loan, other than

(i) a benefit the amount of which is required to be included in computing the beneficiary's income,

(ii) an amount referred to in paragraph (10)(b),

(ii.1) an amount paid pursuant to or under the plan by a trustee under the plan to a licensed annuities provider to purchase for a beneficiary under the plan an annuity to which subparagraph (k)(vi) applies,

(iii) a benefit derived from an allocation or reallocation referred to in subsection (2), or

(iv) the benefit derived from the provision of administrative or investment services in respect of the plan, that is conditional in any way on the existence of the plan may be extended to a beneficiary thereunder or to a person with whom the beneficiary was not dealing at arm's length;

(k.2) the plan provides that no individual who is

(i) a person related to the employer,

(ii) a person who is, or is related to, a specified shareholder of the employer or of a corporation related to the employer,

(iii) where the employer is a partnership, a person related to a member of the partnership, or

(iv) where the employer is a trust, a person who is, or is related to, a beneficiary under the trust

may become a beneficiary under the plan; and

(l) the plan, in all other respects, complies with regulations of the Governor in Council made on the recommendation of the Minister of Finance.

(2.1) Terms limiting contributions — The Minister shall not accept for registration for the purposes of this Act a profit sharing plan unless it includes terms that are adequate to ensure that the requirements of subsection (5.1) in respect of the plan will be satisfied for each calendar year.

(2.2) Reallocation of forfeitures — The Minister may, on written application, extend the time for satisfying the requirements of paragraph (2)(i.1) where

(a) the total of the forfeited amounts arising in a calendar year is greater than normal because of unusual circumstances; and

(b) the forfeited amounts are to be reallocated on a reasonable basis to a majority of beneficiaries under the plan.

(3) Acceptance of employees profit sharing plan for registration — The Minister shall not accept for registration for the purposes of this Act any employees profit sharing plan unless all the capital gains of or made by the trust governed by the plan before the date of application for registration of the plan and all the capital losses of or sustained by the trust before that date have been allocated by the trustee under the plan to employees and other beneficiaries thereunder.

(4) Capital gains determined — For the purposes of subsections (3) and (11), such amount as may be determined by the Minister, on request in prescribed manner by the trustee of a trust governed by an employees profit sharing plan, shall be deemed to be the amount of

(a) the capital gains of or made by the trust governed by the plan before the date of application for registration of the plan, or

(b) the capital losses of or sustained by the trust before that date, as the case may be.

(5) Registration date — Where a profit sharing plan is accepted by the Minister for registration as a deferred profit sharing plan, the plan shall be deemed to have become registered as a deferred profit sharing plan

(a) on the date the application for registration of the plan was made; or

(b) where in the application for registration a later date is specified as the date on which the plan is to commence as a deferred profit sharing plan, on that date.

Related Provisions: 144(11) — Taxation year of trust accepted as DPSP.

(5.1) Contribution limits — For the purposes of subsections (2.1) and (9) and paragraph (14)(c.4), the requirements of this subsection in respect of a deferred profit sharing plan are satisfied for a calendar year if, in the case of each beneficiary under the plan and each employer in respect of whom the beneficiary's pension credit (as prescribed by regulation) for the year under the plan is greater than nil,

(a) the total of all amounts each of which is the beneficiary's pension credit (as prescribed by regulation) for the year in respect of the employer under a deferred profit sharing plan does not exceed the lesser of

(i) ½ of the money purchase limit for the year, and

(ii) 18% of the amount that would be the beneficiary's compensation (within the meaning assigned by subsection 147.1(1)) from the employer for the year if the definition "compensation" in subsection 147.1(1) were read without reference to paragraph (b) of that definition;

(b) the total of all amounts each of which is the beneficiary's pension credit (as prescribed by regulation) for the year under a deferred profit sharing plan in respect of

(i) the employer, or

(ii) any other employer who, at any time in the year, does not deal at arm's length with the employer does not exceed ½ of the money purchase limit for the year; and

(c) the total of

(i) the beneficiary's pension adjustment for the year in respect of the employer, and

(ii) the total of all amounts each of which is the beneficiary's pension adjustment for the year in respect of any other employer who, at any time in the year, does not deal at arm's length with the employer

does not exceed the lesser of

(iii) the money purchase limit for the year, and

(iv) 18% of the total of all amounts each of which is the beneficiary's compensation (within the meaning assigned by subsection 147.1(1)) for the year from the employer or any other employer referred to in subparagraph (ii).

(5.11) Compensation — Where at any time in a calendar year an individual ceases to be employed by an employer,

(a) for the purposes of paragraph (5.1)(a), the amount that would be the individual's compensation (in this subsection having the meaning assigned by subsection 147.1(1)) from the employer for the year if the definition "compensation" in subsection 147.1(1) were read without reference to paragraph (b) of that definition shall be deemed to be the greater of

(i) that amount determined without reference to this paragraph, and

(ii) the amount that would be the individual's compensation from the employer for the immediately preceding year if the definition "compensation" in subsection 147.1(1) were read without reference to paragraph (b) of that definition; and

(b) for the purposes of paragraph (5.1)(c), the individual's compensation from the employer for the year shall be deemed to be the greater of

(i) that compensation determined without reference to this paragraph, and

(ii) the individual's compensation from the employer for the immediately preceding year.

Proposed Repeal — 147(5.11)

Application: The February 27, 2004 draft legislation, subsec. 85(2), will repeal subsec. 147(5.11), applicable to cessations of employment that occur after 2002.

Technical Notes (December 20, 2002): Subsection 147(5.1) sets out the employer contribution limits for DPSPs. In general terms, the maximum employer contributions in respect of an individual for a calendar year cannot exceed the lesser of: (i) 18% of the individual's compensation for the year from the employer; and (ii) ½ of the year's money purchase limit. For this purpose, "compensation" and "money purchase limit" are generally as defined in subsection 147.1(1). Additional cross-plan limits apply if the individual also participates in an RPP sponsored by the employer or in a DPSP or RPP sponsored by a non-arm's length employer.

If the contribution limits are not respected for a calendar year, the Minister of National Revenue may revoke the registration of the DPSP. In addition, the employer is denied a deduction for all contributions made in the year, except as expressly permitted in writing by the Minister.

Subsection 147(5.11) provides a special relieving rule that applies when an employee who is a beneficiary under a DPSP terminates employment with a participating employer in a calendar year. In this circumstance, for the purposes of determining whether the contribution limits have been satisfied, the employee's compensation can be based on the compensation for the immediately preceding year, if it is more than the compensation for the year of termination.

This rule recognizes that it is common practice for an employer to make contributions to a DPSP only after its fiscal year-end, since this is when profits are determined. This can often result in employer contributions being made based (in whole or in part) on employees' earnings in the previous calendar year, but being included in the employees' contribution limits for the current calendar year. This in turn can give rise to over-contributions when an employee terminates employment later in the year before having earned sufficient compensation to support the contribution. However, subsection 147(5.11) generally ensures that such over-contributions do not result in adverse tax effects by allowing the contribution limits to be based on the employee's compensation from the preceding calendar year.

There are, however, two policy concerns with the approach used in subsection 147(5.11). The first concern is that the provision deals only with over-contributions that involve employees who terminate employment. It does not provide relief for similar over-contributions that arise where an employee takes an unpaid leave of absence before having earned sufficient compensation to support any contributions that the employer had already made on his or her behalf. The second concern is that the provision allows DPSP contributions to be made in situations where there is no supporting employment income.

To address these concerns, subsection 147(5.11) is repealed and is proposed to be replaced by a broader relief mechanism in the Regulations. The new mechanism will provide relief in both of the situations described above by allowing over-contributions to be ignored for purposes of the DPSP contribution limits, provided the excess is refunded from the plan. For more details, see the commentary to amended Regulation 8301(2) in Appendix I.

The repeal of subsection 147(5.11) applies to cessations of employment that occur in 2003 and subsequent calendar years and the proposed new refund mechanism in the Regulations is to apply for 2002 and subsequent calendar years. As a result, for excess contributions relating to cessations of employment that occur in 2002, employers will be entitled to relief either by relying on existing 147(5.11) or by using the refund mechanism.

(6) Deferred plan not employees profit sharing plan — For a period during which a plan is a deferred profit sharing plan, the plan shall be deemed, for the purposes of this Act, not to be an employees profit sharing plan.

Related Provisions: 144(11) — Year-end of EPSP on becoming DPSP.

(7) No tax while trust governed by plan — No tax is payable under this Part by a trust on the taxable income of the trust for a period during which the trust was governed by a deferred profit sharing plan.

Related Provisions: 149(1)(s) — Exemption for DPSP; 198 — Tax on acquisition of non-qualified investments and use of assets as security; 206(2) — Part XI tax on excess holdings of foreign property; 207.1(2) — Tax payable by DPSP on holding non-qualified investments.

(8) Amount of employer's contribution deductible — Subject to subsection (9), there may be deducted in computing the income of an employer for a taxation year the total of all amounts each of which is an amount paid by the employer in the year or within 120 days after the end of the year to a trustee under a deferred profit sharing plan for the benefit of the employer's employees who are beneficiaries under the plan, to the extent that the amount was paid in accordance with the terms of the plan and was not deducted in computing the employer's income for a preceding taxation year.

Related Provisions: 6(1)(a)(i) — Employer's contribution to DPSP not a taxable benefit; 20(1)(y) — Employer's contribution to DPSP deductible; 147(5.1) — Contribution limits; 147(9), (9.1) — Limitations on deduction; 147(20) — Taxation of amount transferred; 204.1(3) — Tax payable by DPSP on excess amount.

(9) Limitation on deduction — Where the requirements of subsection (5.1) in respect of a deferred profit sharing plan are not satisfied for a calendar year by reason that the pension credits of a beneficiary under the plan in respect of a particular employer do not comply with paragraph (5.1)(a) or the beneficiary's pension credits or pension adjustments in respect of a particular employer and other employers who do not deal at arm's length with the particular employer do not comply with paragraph (5.1)(b) or (c), the particular employer is not entitled to a deduction under subsection (8) in computing the particular employer's income for any taxation year in respect of an amount paid to a trustee under the plan in the calendar year except to the extent expressly permitted in writing by the Minister, and, for the purposes of this subsection, an amount paid to a trustee of a deferred profit sharing plan in the first two months of a calendar year shall be deemed to have been paid in the immediately preceding year and not to have been paid in the year to the extent that the amount can reasonably be considered to be in respect of the immediately preceding year.

Forms: T2 SCH 15: Deferred income plans.

(9.1) No deduction — Notwithstanding subsection (8), no deduction shall be made in computing the income of an employer for a taxation year in respect of an amount paid by the employer for the year to a trustee under a deferred profit sharing plan in respect of a beneficiary who is described in paragraph (2)(k.2) in respect of the plan.

Interpretation Bulletins: IT-280R: Employees profit sharing plans — payments computed by reference to profits; IT-363R2: Deferred profit sharing plans — deductibility of employer contributions and taxation of amounts received by a beneficiary (archived).

(10) Amounts received taxable — There shall be included in computing the income of a beneficiary under a deferred profit sharing plan for a taxation year the amount, if any, by which

(a) the total of all amounts received by the beneficiary in the year from a trustee under the plan (other than as a result of acquiring an annuity described in subparagraph (2)(k)(vi) under which the beneficiary is the annuitant)

exceeds

(b) the total of all amounts each of which is an amount determined for the year under subsection (10.1), (11) or (12) in relation to the plan and in respect of the beneficiary.

Related Provisions: 56(1)(d.2)(iii) — Income from annuity purchased with plan funds is taxable; 56(1)(i) — Deferred profit sharing plan; 60(j) — Transfer of superannuation benefits; 104(27.1) — DPSP benefits; 128.1(10)"excluded right or interest"(a)(iv) — No deemed disposition of DPSP on emigration; 139.1(12) — Conversion benefit on demutualization of insurance corporation not taxable; 147(10.1) — Single payment on retirement etc.; 147(10.4) — Income on disposal of shares; 147(11) — Portion of receipts deductible; 147(18) — Inadequate consideration on purchase from or sale to trust; 147(20) — Taxation of amount transferred; 153(1)(h) — Withholdings; 212(1)(m), 214(3)(d) — Withholding tax on payments to non-residents.

History: Subsec. 147(10) amended by 1997, c. 25, subsec. 43(5), applicable to 1992 et seq. Subsec. (10) formerly read:

(10) There shall be included in computing the income of a beneficiary under a deferred profit sharing plan for a taxation year the amount by which the total of the amounts received by the beneficiary in the year from a trustee under the plan exceeds the total of

(a) any amounts determined for the year under subsection (10.1), (11) or (12) in relation to the plan and in respect of the beneficiary, and

(b) amounts paid by a trustee under the plan pursuant to the plan to a person described in subparagraph (2)(k)(vi) to purchase an annuity described in that subparagraph.

(10.2) Idem — Where a trustee under a deferred profit sharing plan has at any time in a taxation year made under the plan a single payment that included shares referred to in subsection (10.1) to a beneficiary who was resident in Canada at the time and the beneficiary has made an election under that subsection in respect of that payment,

(a) the trustee shall be deemed to have disposed of those shares for proceeds of disposition equal to the cost amount to the trust of those shares immediately before the single payment was made;

(b) the cost to the beneficiary of those shares shall be deemed to be their cost amount to the trust immediately before the single payment was made;

(c) the cost to the beneficiary of each of those shares shall be deemed to be the amount determined by the formula

$$A \times \frac{B}{C}$$

where

A is the amount determined under paragraph (a) in respect of all of those shares,

B is the fair market value of that share at the time the single payment was made, and

C is the fair market value of all those shares at the time the single payment was made; and

(d) for the purposes of paragraph 60(j), the cost to the beneficiary of those shares is an eligible amount in respect of the beneficiary for the year.

(10.5) [Repealed]

History: Subsec. 147(10.5) repealed by 2001, c. 17, s. 142, applicable to shares acquired, but not disposed of, before February 28, 2000 and to shares acquired after February 27, 2000. The subsec. formerly read:

(10.5) Order of disposal of shares — For the purposes of subsection (10.4), a taxpayer shall be deemed to have disposed of or exchanged shares that are identical properties in the order in which the taxpayer acquired them.

(10.6) Commencement of annuity after age 69 — Where an amount is paid before 1997 pursuant to or under a deferred profit sharing plan to purchase for a beneficiary under the plan an annuity to which subparagraph (2)(k)(vi) applies, and payment of the annuity has not begun by the end of the particular year in which the beneficiary attains 69 years of age,

(a) the beneficiary is deemed to have disposed of the annuity immediately after the particular year and to have received as proceeds of the disposition an amount equal to the fair market value of the annuity at the end of the particular year;

(b) the beneficiary is deemed to have acquired immediately after the particular year an interest in the annuity as a separate and newly issued annuity contract at a cost equal to the amount referred to in paragraph (a); and

(c) the issue and acquisition of the contract referred to in paragraph (b) are deemed not to be pursuant to or under a deferred profit sharing plan.

Related Provisions: 56(1)(d.2)(iii) — Beneficiary required to include fair market value of annuity in income; 146(13.2) — Parallel rules for RRSPs; 198(6)(d) — Life insurance policy purchased with DPSP maturing by age 69.

History: Subsec. 147(10.6) added by 1997, c. 25, subsec. 43(6), applicable after 1996 except that

(a) where a beneficiary under a profit sharing plan attained 70 years of age before 1997, the subsec. does not apply to an annuity purchased for the beneficiary;

(b) where a beneficiary under a profit sharing plan attained 69 years of age in 1996, in applying subsec. (10.6) to an annuity purchased for the beneficiary, the reference to "69 years of age" shall be read as "70 years of age"; and

(c) the subsec. does not apply to an annuity purchased before March 6, 1996 for a beneficiary under a deferred profit sharing plan where, under the terms and conditions of the annuity contract as they read immediately before that day,

(i) the day on which annuity payments are to begin under the contract is fixed and determined and is after the year in which the beneficiary attains

(A) 69 years of age, where the beneficiary had not attained that age before 1997, or

(B) 70 years of age, where the beneficiary attained 69 years of age in 1996, and

(ii) the amount and timing of each annuity payment are fixed and determined.

(11) Portion of receipts deductible — For the purposes of subsections (10), (10.1) and (12), where an amount was received in a taxation year from a trustee under a deferred profit sharing plan by an employee or other beneficiary thereunder, and the employee was a beneficiary under the plan at a time when the plan was an employees profit sharing plan, the amount determined for the year under this subsection in relation to the plan and in respect of the beneficiary is such portion of the total of the amounts so received in the year as does not exceed

(a) the total of

(i) each amount included in respect of the plan in computing the income of the employee for the year or for a previous taxation year by virtue of section 144,

(ii) each amount paid by the employee to a trustee under the plan at a time when it was an employees profit sharing plan, and

(iii) each amount that was allocated to the employee or other beneficiary by a trustee under the plan, at a time when it was an employees profit sharing plan, in respect of a capital gain made by the trust before 1972,

minus

(b) the total of

(i) each amount received by the employee or other beneficiary in a previous taxation year from a trustee under the plan at a time when it was an employees profit sharing plan,

(ii) each amount received by the employee or other beneficiary in a previous taxation year from a trustee under the plan at a time when it was a deferred profit sharing plan, and

(iii) each amount allocated to the employee or other beneficiary by a trustee under the plan, at a time when it was an employees profit sharing plan, in respect of a capital loss sustained by the trust before 1972.

(12) Idem — For the purposes of subsections (10) and (10.1), where an amount was received in a taxation year from a trustee under a deferred profit sharing plan by an employee or other beneficiary thereunder, and the employee has made a payment in the year or a previous year to a trustee under the plan at a time when the plan was a deferred profit sharing plan, the amount determined for the year under this subsection in relation to the plan and in respect of the beneficiary is such portion of the total of the amounts so received in the year (minus any amount determined for the year under subsection (11) in relation to the plan and in respect of the beneficiary) as does not exceed

(a) the total of all amounts each of which was so paid by the employee in the year or a previous year to the extent that the payment was not deductible in computing the employee's income,

minus

(b) the total of all amounts each of which was received by the employee or other beneficiary from a trustee under the plan, at a time when it was a deferred profit sharing plan, to the extent that it was included in the computation of an amount determined for a previous year under this subsection in relation to the plan and in respect of the employee or other beneficiary.

Related Provisions: 60(j) — Transfer of superannuation benefits; 147(10) — Amounts received taxable; 147(11) — Portion of receipts deductible; 147(17) — Meaning of "other beneficiary".

(13) Appropriation of trust property by employer — Where funds or property of a trust governed by a deferred profit sharing plan have been appropriated in any manner whatever to or for the benefit of a taxpayer who is

(a) an employer by whom payments are made in trust to a trustee under the plan, or

(b) a corporation with which that employer does not deal at arm's length, otherwise than in payment of or on account of shares of the capital stock of the taxpayer purchased by the trust, the amount or value of the funds or property so appropriated shall be included in computing the income of the taxpayer for the taxation year of the taxpayer in which the funds or property were so appropriated, unless the funds or property or an amount in lieu thereof equal to the amount or value of the funds or property was repaid to the trust within one year from the end of the taxation year, and it is established by subsequent events or otherwise that the repayment was not made as part of a series of appropriations and repayments.

Related Provisions: 201 — Tax on forfeitures; 214(3)(d) — Non-resident withholding tax; 248(10) — Series of transactions.

(14) Revocation of registration — Where, at any time after a profit sharing plan has been accepted by the Minister for registration for the purposes of this Act,

(a) the plan has been revised or amended or a new plan has been substituted therefor, and the plan as revised or amended or the new plan substituted therefor, as the case may be, ceased to comply with the requirements of this section for its acceptance by the Minister for registration for the purposes of this Act,

(b) any provision of the plan has not been complied with,

(c) the plan is a plan that did not, as of January 1, 1968,

(i) comply with the requirements of paragraphs (2)(a), (b) to (h), (j) and (k), and paragraph 147(2)(i) of the Income Tax Act, chapter 148 of the Revised Statutes of Canada, 1952, as it read on January 1, 1972, and

(ii) provide that the amounts held by the trust for the benefit of beneficiaries thereunder that remain unallocated on December 31, 1967 must be allocated or reallocated, as the case may be, before 1969,

(c.1) the plan becomes a revocable plan pursuant to subsection (21),

(c.2) the plan does not comply with the requirements of paragraphs (2)(a) to (k) and (l),

(c.3) in the case of a plan that became registered after March, 1983, the plan does not comply with the requirements of paragraphs (2)(k.1) and (k.2),

(c.4) the requirements of subsection (5.1) in respect of the plan are not satisfied for a calendar year, or

(c.5) an employer who participates in the plan fails to file an information return reporting a pension adjustment of a beneficiary under the plan as and when required by regulation, the Minister may revoke the registration of the plan,

(d) where paragraph (a) applies, as of the date that the plan ceased so to comply, or any subsequent date,

(e) where paragraph (b) applies, as of the date that any provision of the plan was not so complied with, or any subsequent date,

(f) where paragraph (c) applies, as of any date following January 1, 1968,

(g) where paragraph (c.1) applies, as of the date on which the plan became a revocable plan, or any subsequent date,

(h) where paragraph (c.2) or (c.3) applies, as of the date on which the plan did not so comply, or any subsequent date, but not before January 1, 1991,

(i) where paragraph (c.4) applies, as of the end of the year for which the requirements of subsection (5.1) in respect of the plan are not satisfied, or any subsequent date, and

(j) where paragraph (c.5) applies, as of any date after the date by which the information return was required to be filed, and the Minister shall thereafter give notice of the revocation by registered mail to a trustee under the plan and to an employer of employees who are beneficiaries under the plan.

Related Provisions: 147(2) — Requirements for registration; 147(10.3) — Amount contributed to or forfeited under a plan; 147(15) —

Rules applicable to revoked plan; 172(3)(c) — Appeal from refusal to register, revocation of registration, etc.; 198 — Tax on non-qualified investments and use of assets as security; 204 — "Revoked plan"; 244(5) — Proof of service by mail; 248(7)(a) — Mail deemed received on day mailed.

I.T. Application Rules: 69 (meaning of "chapter 148 of ...").

(14.1) Idem — Where on any day after June 30, 1982 a benefit or loan is extended or continues to be extended as a consequence of the existence of a deferred profit sharing plan and that benefit or loan would be prohibited if the plan met the requirement for registration contained in paragraph (2)(k.1), the Minister may revoke the registration of the plan as of that or any subsequent day that is specified by the Minister in a notice given by registered mail to a trustee under the plan and to an employer of employees who are beneficiaries under the plan.

Related Provisions: 147(15) — Rules applicable to revoked plan; 198 — Tax on non-qualified investments and use of assets as security; 204 — "Revoked plan"; 244(5) — Proof of service by mail; 248(7)(a) — Mail deemed received on day mailed.

(15) Rules applicable to revoked plan — Where the Minister revokes the registration of a deferred profit sharing plan, the plan (in this section referred to as the "revoked plan") shall be deemed, for the purposes of this Act, not to be a deferred profit sharing plan, and notwithstanding any other provision of this Act, the following rules shall apply:

(a) the revoked plan shall not be accepted for registration for the purposes of this Act or be deemed to have become registered as a deferred profit sharing plan at any time within a period of one year commencing on the date the plan became a revoked plan;

(b) subsection (7) does not apply to exempt the trust governed by the plan from tax under this Part on the taxable income of the trust for a taxation year in which, at any time therein, the trust was governed by the revoked plan;

(c) no deduction shall be made by an employer in computing the employer's income for a taxation year in respect of an amount paid by the employer to a trustee under the plan at a time when it was a revoked plan;

(d) there shall be included in computing the income of a taxpayer for a taxation year

(i) all amounts received by the taxpayer in the year from a trustee under the revoked plan that, by virtue of subsection (10), would have been so included if the revoked plan had been a deferred profit sharing plan at the time the taxpayer received those amounts, and

(ii) the amount or value of any funds or property appropriated to or for the benefit of the taxpayer in the year that, by virtue of subsection (13), would have been so included if the revoked plan had been a deferred profit sharing plan at the time of the appropriation of the funds or property; and

(e) the revoked plan shall be deemed, for the purposes of this Act, not to be an employees profit sharing plan or a retirement compensation arrangement.

Related Provisions: 128.1(10)"excluded right or interest"(a)(iv) — Emigration — no deemed disposition of interest in revoked plan; 147(14), (14.1) — Revocation of DPSP; 147(18) — Inadequate consideration on purchase from or sale to trust; 214(3)(d) — Non-resident withholding tax.

(16) Payments out of profits — Where the terms of an arrangement under which an employer makes payments to a trustee specifically provide that the payments shall be made "out of profits", the arrangement shall be deemed, for the purpose of subsection (1), to be an arrangement for payments "computed by reference to an employer's profits from the employer's business".

Interpretation Bulletins: IT-280R: Employees profit sharing plans — payments computed by reference to profits.

(17) Interpretation of "other beneficiary" — Where the expression "employee or other beneficiary" under a profit sharing plan occurs in this section, the words "other beneficiary" shall be construed as meaning any person, other than the employee, to whom any amount is or may become payable by a trustee under the plan as a result of payments made to the trustee under the plan in trust for the benefit of employees, including the employee.

Related Provisions: 202(1) — Returns and payment of estimated tax.

(18) Inadequate consideration on purchase from or sale to trust — Where a trust governed by a deferred profit sharing plan or revoked plan

(a) disposes of property to a taxpayer for a consideration less than the fair market value of the property at the time of the transaction, or for no consideration, or

(b) acquires property from a taxpayer for a consideration greater than the fair market value of the property at the time of the transaction, the difference between that fair market value and the consideration, if any

(c) shall, for the purposes of subsections (10) and (15), be deemed to be an amount received by the taxpayer at the time of the disposal or acquisition, as the case may be, from a trustee under the plan as if the taxpayer were a beneficiary under the plan, and

(d) is an amount taxable under section 201 for the calendar year in which the trust disposes of or acquires the property, as the case may be.

Related Provisions: 201 — 50% tax payable on amount taxable.

Information Circulars: 77-1R4 — Deferred profit sharing plans.

(19) Transfer to RPP, RRSP or DPSP — An amount is transferred from a deferred profit sharing plan in accordance with this subsection if the amount

(a) is not part of a series of periodic payments;

(b) is transferred on behalf of an individual

(i) who is an employee or former employee of an employer who participated in the plan on the employee's behalf, or

(ii) who is entitled to the amount as a consequence of the death of an employee or former employee referred to in subparagraph (i) and who was, at the date of the employee's death, a spouse or common-law partner of the employee,

Proposed Amendment — 147(19)(b)(ii)

(ii) who is a spouse or common-law partner, or former spouse or common-law partner, of an employee or former employee referred to in subparagraph (i) and who is entitled to the amount

(A) as a consequence of the death of the employee or former employee, or

(B) under a decree, order or judgment of a competent tribunal, or under a written agreement, that relates to a division of property between the employee or former employee and the individual in settlement of rights that arise out of, or on a breakdown of, their marriage or common-law partnership,

Application: The February 27, 2004 draft legislation, subsec. 85(3), will amend subpara. 147(19)(b)(ii) to read as above, applicable to transfers that occur after March 20, 2003.

Technical Notes (December 20, 2002): Subsection 147(19) provides for the tax-free transfer on behalf of an individual of a lump sum amount from a DPSP to an RPP, an RRSP or another DPSP for the individual's benefit. Currently, direct transfers may be made on behalf of an individual only if the individual is an employee or former employee of an employer who participated in the plan or was a spouse or common-law partner of a deceased employee as at the date of the employee's death.

A number of technical amendments are being made to subsection 147(19) to provide greater consistency with the transfer provisions that apply to RPPs.

Subsection 147(19) is amended so that the direct transfer on the death of an employee may be made on behalf of a former spouse or common-law partner of the deceased employee. It is also amended to allow for direct transfers of DPSP assets to be made on behalf of a spouse or common-law partner, or former spouse or common-law partner, of an employee or former employee, where the transfer relates to a division of property arising on the breakdown of their marriage or common-law partnership.

in full or partial satisfaction of the individual's entitlement to benefits under the plan;

(c) would, if it were paid directly to the individual, be included under subsection (10) in computing the individual's income for a taxation year; and

(d) is transferred for the benefit of the individual directly to

(i) a registered pension plan,

(ii) a registered retirement savings plan under which the individual is the annuitant (within the meaning assigned by subsection 146(1)), or

(iii) a deferred profit sharing plan that can reasonably be expected to have at least 5 beneficiaries at all times throughout the calendar year in which the transfer is made.

Proposed Addition — 147(19)(d)(iv)

(iv) a registered retirement income fund under which the individual is the annuitant (within the meaning assigned by subsection 146.3(1)).

Application: The February 27, 2004 draft legislation, subsec. 85(5), will add subpara. 147(19)(d)(iv), applicable to transfers that occur after March 20, 2003.

Technical Notes (December 20, 2002): See under 147(19)(b)(ii).

Related Provisions: 60(j) — Transfer of superannuation benefits; 60(j.2) — Transfer to spousal RRSP; 60(k) — re 1989 — Transfers to DPSPs; 104(27.1) — DPSP benefits; 146.3(2)(f)(viii) — Conditions for RRIF; 146(8.2) — Amount deductible where withdrawn after mistaken contribution; 147(2)(a.1) — Acceptance of plan for registration; 147(2)(e)(i) — Transfer of DPSP rights to spouse or partner permitted; 147(10.2) — Single payment on retirement etc.; 147(20) — Taxation of amount transferred; 147(22) — Excess transfer; 248(8) — Occurrences as a consequence of death; 248(10) — Series of transactions; 252(3) — Extended meaning of "spouse" and "former spouse"; Reg. 8300(1)"excluded contribution" — Amount transferred is excluded contribution.

History: Subsec. 147(19) amended by 2000, c. 12, Sch. 2, s. 1, to replace "spouse" with "spouse or common-law partner", applicable to 2001 et seq., in force July 31, 2000. See also the transitional rules reproduced in the History to 248(1)"common-law partner".

Subpara. 147(19)(b)(ii) amended by 1998, c. 19, s. 172, applicable after 1992. Subpara. 147(19)(b)(ii) formerly read:

(ii) who is entitled to the amount as a consequence of the death of an employee or former employee referred to in subparagraph (i) and who was, at the date of the employee's death, a spouse (within the meaning assigned by subsection 146(1.1)) of the employee,

Forms: T2151: Direct transfer of a "single amount" under subsec. 147(19) or s. 147.3.

(20) Taxation of amount transferred — Where an amount is transferred on behalf of an individual in accordance with subsection (19),

(a) the amount shall not, by reason only of that transfer, be included by virtue of this section in computing the income of any taxpayer; and

(b) no deduction may be made under any provision of this Act in respect of the amount in computing the income of any taxpayer.

Related Provisions: 56(1)(i) — Amount received taxable; 212(1)(m)(i) — Transferred amount not subject to non-resident withholding tax.

Interpretation Bulletins: IT-528: Transfers of funds between registered plans.

(21) Restriction re transfers — A deferred profit sharing plan becomes a revocable plan at any time that an amount is transferred from the plan to a registered pension plan, a registered retirement savings plan or another deferred profit sharing plan unless

(a) the transfer is in accordance with subsection (19); or

(b) the amount is deductible under paragraph 60(j) or (j.2) of this Act or paragraph 60(k) of the Income Tax Act, chapter 148 of the Revised Statutes of Canada, 1952, by the individual on whose behalf the transfer is made.

(22) Excess transfer — Where

(a) the transfer of an amount from a deferred profit sharing plan in a calendar year on behalf of a beneficiary under the plan would, but for this subsection, be in accordance with subsection (19), and

(b) the requirements of subsection (5.1) in respect of the plan are not satisfied for the year by reason that the beneficiary's pension credits or pension adjustments do not comply with any of paragraphs (5.1)(a) to (c), such portion of the amount transferred as may reasonably be considered to derive from amounts allocated or reallocated to the beneficiary in the year or from earnings reasonably attributable to those amounts shall, except to the extent otherwise expressly provided in writing by the Minister, be deemed to be an amount that was not transferred in accordance with subsection (19).

Registered Pension Plans

147.1 (1) Definitions — In this section and sections 147.2 and 147.3,

"actuary" means a Fellow of the Canadian Institute of Actuaries;

"administrator" of a pension plan means the person or body of persons that has ultimate responsibility for the administration of the plan;

Related Provisions: 147.1(6) — Administrator; 147.1(7) — Obligations of administrator.

"average wage" for a calendar year means the amount that is obtained by dividing by 12 the total of all amounts each of which is the wage measure for a month in the 12 month period ending on June 30 of the immediately preceding calendar year;

"compensation" of an individual from an employer for a calendar year means the total of all amounts each of which is

(a) an amount in respect of

(i) the individual's employment with the employer, or

(ii) an office in respect of which the individual is remunerated by the employer

that is required (or that would be required but for paragraph 81(1)(a) as it applies with respect to the Indian Act) by section 5 or 6 to be included in computing the individual's income for the year, except such portion of the amount as

(iii) may reasonably be considered to relate to a period throughout which the individual was not resident in Canada, and

(iv) is not attributable to the performance of the duties of the office or employment in Canada or is exempt from income tax in Canada by reason of a provision contained in a tax convention or agreement with another country that has the force of law in Canada,

(b) a prescribed amount, or

(c) an amount acceptable to the Minister in respect of remuneration received by the individual from any employer for a period in the year throughout which the individual was not resident in Canada, to the extent that the amount is not otherwise included in the total;

Related Provisions: 87(2)(q) — Amalgamation — continuing corporation; 147(5.1) — DPSP Contribution limits; 147(5.11) — Compensation; 147.1(8) — Pension adjustment limits; 147.1(9) — Pension adjustment limits — multi-employer plans.

Regulations: 8507 (prescribed amount).

Information Circulars: 98-2: Prescribed compensation for registered pension plans.

"defined benefit provision" of a pension plan means terms of the plan under which benefits in respect of each member are determined in any way other than that described in the definition "money purchase provision" in this subsection;

Related Provisions: 60(j.01) — Transfer of surplus.

Interpretation Bulletins: IT-167R6: Registered pension plans — employee's contributions; IT-528: Transfers of funds between registered plans.

"member" of a pension plan means an individual who has a right, either immediate or in the future and either absolute or contingent, to receive benefits under the plan, other than an individual who has such a right only by reason of the participation of another individual in the plan;

Related Provisions: 128.1(10)"excluded right or interest"(a)(viii) — No deemed disposition on emigration of member.

"money purchase limit" for a calendar year means

(a) for years before 1990, nil,

(b) for 1990, $11,500,

(c) for 1991 and 1992, $12,500,

(d) for 1993, $13,500,

(e) for 1994, $14,500,

(f) for 1995, $15,500, and

(g) for years after 1995 and before 2003, $13,500,

(h) for 2003, $15,500,

(i) for 2004, $16,500,

(j) for 2005, $18,000,

(k) for each year after 2005, the greater of

(i) the product (rounded to the nearest multiple of $10, or, if that product is equidistant from two such consecutive multiples, to the higher multiple) of

(A) $18,000, and

(B) the quotient obtained when the average wage for the year is divided by the average wage for 2005, and

(ii) the money purchase limit for the preceding year;

Related Provisions: 146(1) — RRSP dollar limit; 147.1(8) — Pension adjustment limits; 147.1(9) — Pension adjustment limits — multi-employer plans; 248(1)"money purchase limit" — Definition applies to entire Act.

History: Paras. (g) to (j) of the definition "money purchase limit" in subsec. 147.1(1) amended and para. (k) added by 2003, c. 15, s. 84, applicable after 2002. However, for the purpose of determining a pension credit of an individual for the 2002 calendar year under Reg. 8308.1 or 8308.3 or an amount prescribed in respect of an individual under Reg. 8308.2 or 8309 for the 2003 calendar year, the money purchase limit for 2002 is deemed to be $14,500. Paras. (g) to (j) formerly read:

(g) for years after 1995 and before 2003, $13,500,

(h) for 2003, $14,500,

(i) for 2004, $15,500, and

(j) for each year after 2004, the greater of

(i) the product of

(A) $15,500, and

(B) the quotient obtained when the average wage for the year is divided by the average wage for 2004, rounded to the nearest multiple of $10, or, if that product is equidistant from 2 such consecutive multiples, to the higher thereof, and

(ii) the money purchase limit for the preceding year;

Paras. (g) to (j) of the definition "money purchase limit" in subsec. 147.1(1) amended by 1997, c. 25, s. 44, applicable after 1996. Paras. (g) to (j) formerly read:

(g) for 1996, $13,500,

(h) for 1997, $14,500,

(i) for 1998, $15,500, and

(j) for each year after 1998, the greater of

(i) the product of

(A) $15,500, and

(B) the quotient obtained when the average wage for the year is divided by the average wage for 1998,

rounded to the nearest multiple of $10, or, if that product is equidistant from 2 such consecutive multiples, to the higher thereof, and

(ii) the money purchase limit for the preceding year;

Paras. (g) to (j) substituted for para. (g) of the definition "money purchase limit" in subsec. 147.1(1), by 1996, c. 21, s. 36, applicable after 1995. Para. (g) formerly read:

(g) for each year thereafter, the greater of

(i) the product of

(A) $15,500, and

(B) the quotient obtained when the average wage for the year is divided by the average wage for 1995, rounded to the nearest multiple of $10, or, if that product is equidistant from two such consecutive multiples, to the higher thereof, and

(ii) the money purchase limit for the immediately preceding calendar year;

"Money purchase limit" in subsec. 147.1(1) amended by 1994, c. 7, Sch. VIII (1993, c. 24), subsec. 85(1), applicable after 1991. That definition formerly read:

"money purchase limit" for a calendar year means

(a) for years preceding 1990, nil,

(b) for 1990, $11,500,

(c) for 1991, $12,500,

(d) for 1992, $13,500,

(e) for 1993, $14,500,

(f) for 1994, $15,500, and

(g) for each year thereafter, the greater of

(i) the product of

(A) $15,500, and

(B) the quotient obtained when the average wage for the year is divided by the average wage for 1994, rounded to the nearest multiple of ten dollars, or, if that product is equidistant from two such consecutive multiples, to the higher thereof, and

(ii) the money purchase limit for the immediately preceding calendar year;

(2) Registration of plan — The following rules apply with respect to the registration of pension plans:

(a) the Minister shall not register a pension plan unless

(i) application for registration is made in prescribed manner by the plan administrator,

(ii) the plan complies with prescribed conditions for registration, and

(iii) where the plan is required to be registered under the Pension Benefits Standards Act, 1985 or a similar law of a province, application for such registration has been made;

(b) where a pension plan that was submitted for registration before 1992 is registered by the Minister, the registration is effective from the day specified in writing by the Minister; and

(c) where a pension plan that is submitted for registration after 1991 is registered by the Minister, the registration is effective from the later of

(i) January 1 of the calendar year in which application for registration is made in prescribed manner by the plan administrator, and

(ii) the day the plan began.

(3) Deemed registration — Where application is made to the Minister for registration of a pension plan for the purposes of this Act and, where the manner for making the application has been prescribed, the application is made in that manner by the administrator,

(a) subject to paragraph (b), the plan is, for the purposes of this Act other than paragraphs 60(j) and (j.2) and sections 147.3 and 147.4, deemed to be a registered pension plan throughout the period that begins on the latest of

(i) January 1 of the calendar year in which the application is made,

(ii) the day of commencement of the plan, and

(iii) January 1, 1989

and ending on the day on which a final determination is made with respect to the application; and

(b) where the final determination made with respect to the application is a refusal to register the plan, this Act shall, after the day of the final determination, apply as if the plan had never been deemed, under paragraph (a), to be a registered pension plan, except that

(i) any information return otherwise required to be filed under subsection 207.7(3) before the particular day that is 90 days after the day of the final determination is not required to be filed until the particular day, and

(ii) subsections 227(8) and (8.2) are not applicable with respect to contributions made to the plan on or before the day of the final determination.

(8) Pension adjustment limits — Except as otherwise provided by regulation, a registered pension plan (other than a multi-employer plan) becomes, at the end of a calendar year after 1990, a revocable plan where

(a) the pension adjustment for the year of a member of the plan in respect of a participating employer exceeds the lesser of

(i) the money purchase limit for the year, and

(ii) 18% of the member's compensation from the employer for the year; or

(b) the total of

(i) the pension adjustment for the year of a member of the plan in respect of a participating employer, and

(ii) the total of all amounts each of which is the member's pension adjustment for the year in respect of an employer who, at any time in the year, does not deal at arm's length with the employer referred to in subparagraph (i) exceeds the money purchase limit for the year.

Related Provisions: 87(2)(q) — Amalgamation — continuing corporation; 147(5.1)(c) — Contribution limits; 147.1(11) — Revocation of registration — notice of intention; 147.3(13) — Excess transfer; 252.1 — Multi-employer plan — union as employer.

(10) Past service benefits — With respect to each past service event that is relevant to the determination of benefits in respect of a member under a defined benefit provision of a registered pension plan, such benefits as are in respect of periods after 1989 and before the calendar year in which the event occurred shall be determined, for the purpose of a payment to be made from the plan or a contribution to be made to the plan at a particular time, with regard to the event only if

(a) where the member is alive at the particular time and except as otherwise provided by regulation, the Minister has certified in writing, before the particular time, that prescribed conditions are satisfied,

(b) where the member died before the particular time and the event occurred before the death of the member,

(i) this subsection did not require that the event be disregarded in determining benefits that were payable to the member immediately before the member's death (or that would have been so payable had the member been entitled to receive benefits under the provision immediately before the member's death), or

(ii) the event, as it affects the benefits provided to each individual who is entitled to benefits as a consequence of the death of the member, is acceptable to the Minister,

(c) where the member died before the particular time and the event occurred after the death of the member, the event, as it affects the benefits provided to each individual who is entitled to benefits as a consequence of the death of the member, is acceptable to the Minister, and

(d) no past service event that occurred before the event is required by reason of the application of this subsection to be disregarded at the particular time in determining benefits in respect of the member, and, for the purposes of this subsection as it applies with respect to contributions that may be made to a registered pension plan, where application has been made for a certification referred to in paragraph (a) and the Minister has not refused to issue the certification, the Minister shall be deemed to have issued the certification.

Related Provisions: 87(2)(q) — Amalgamation — continuing corporation; 147.1(11) — Revocation of registration — notice of intention; 147.1(18) — Regulations; 147.2(1) — Pension contributions deductible — employer contributions; 241(4)(c) — Communication of information — exception; 248(8) — Occurrences as a consequence of death.

Forms: T1004: Applying for the certification of a provisional PSPA.

(11) Revocation of registration — notice of intention — Where, at any time after a pension plan has been registered by the Minister,

(a) the plan does not comply with the prescribed conditions for registration,

(b) the plan is not administered in accordance with the terms of the plan as registered,

(c) the plan becomes a revocable plan,

(d) a condition imposed by the Minister in writing and applicable with respect to the plan (including a condition applicable generally to registered pension plans or a class of such plans and a condition first imposed before 1989) is not complied with,

(e) a requirement under subsection (6) or (7) is not complied with,

(f) a benefit is paid by the plan, or a contribution is made to the plan, contrary to subsection (10),

(g) the administrator of the plan fails to file an information return or actuarial report relating to the plan or to a member of the plan as and when required by regulation,

(h) a participating employer fails to file an information return relating to the plan or to a member of the plan as and when required by regulation, or

(i) registration of the plan under the Pension Benefits Standards Act, 1985 or a similar law of a province is refused or revoked, the Minister may give notice (in this subsection and subsection (12) referred to as a "notice of intent") by registered mail to the plan administrator that the Minister proposes to revoke the registration of the plan as of a date specified in the notice of intent, which date shall not be earlier than the date as of which,

(j) where paragraph (a) applies, the plan failed to so comply,

(k) where paragraph (b) applies, the plan was not administered in accordance with its terms as registered,

(l) where paragraph (c) applies, the plan became a revocable plan,

(m) where paragraph (d) or (e) applies, the condition or requirement was not complied with,

(n) where paragraph (f) applies, the benefit was paid or the contribution was made,

(o) where paragraph (g) or (h) applies, the information return or actuarial report was required to be filed, and

(p) where paragraph (i) applies, the registration referred to in that paragraph was refused or revoked.

Related Provisions: 87(2)(q) — Amalgamation — continuing corporation; 147.1(8) — Pension adjustment limits; 147.1(9) — Pension adjustment limits — multi-employer plans; 147.1(12) — Notice of revocation; 147.1(13) — Revocation of registration; 147.1(15) — Meaning of "plan" as registered; 147.1(18)(b) — Regulations; 147.3(12) — Restriction re transfers; 147.4(1)(d) — RPP annuity contract; 172(3) — Appeal from refusal to register, revocation of registration, etc.; 180(1) — Appeals to Federal Court of Appeal; 244(5) — Proof of service by mail; 248(7)(a) — Mail deemed received on day mailed.

Regulations: 8501(2) (failure to comply with various conditions); 8503(15) (past service employer contributions); 8506(4) (non-payment of minimum amount).

(12) Notice of revocation — Where the Minister gives a notice of intent to the administrator of a registered pension plan, or the plan administrator applies to the Minister in writing for the revocation of the plan's registration, the Minister may,

(a) where the plan administrator has applied to the Minister in writing for the revocation of the plan's registration, at any time after receiving the administrator's application, and

(b) in any other case, after 30 days after the day of mailing of the notice of intent, give notice (in this subsection and in subsection (13) referred to as a "notice of revocation") by registered mail to the plan administrator that the registration of the plan is revoked as of the date specified in the notice of revocation, which date may not be earlier than the date specified in the notice of intent or the administrator's application, as the case may be.

(13) Revocation of registration — Where the Minister gives a notice of revocation to the administrator of a registered pension plan, the registration of the plan is revoked as of the date specified in the notice of revocation, unless the Federal Court of Appeal or a judge thereof, on application made at any time before the determination of an appeal pursuant to subsection 172(3), orders otherwise.

Related Provisions: 147.1(12) — Notice of revocation; 244(5) — Proof of service by mail; 248(7)(a) — Mail deemed received on day mailed.

(14) Anti-avoidance — multi-employer plans — Where at any time the Minister gives written notice to the administrators of two or more registered pension plans, each of which is a multi-employer plan, that this subsection is applicable in relation to those plans with respect to a calendar year,

(a) each of those plans that is a specified multi-employer plan in the year shall, for the purposes of subsection (9) (other than for the purpose of determining the pension credits referred to in paragraphs (9)(a) and (b)), be deemed to be a multi-employer plan that is not a specified multi-employer plan; and

(b) the totals determined for the year under paragraphs (9)(a) and (b) shall be the amounts that would be determined if all the plans were a single plan.

Related Provisions: 87(2)(q) — Amalgamation — continuing corporation.

Registered Plans Directorate Newsletters: 95-7 (Quebec simplified pension plans); 98-1 (simplified pension plans).

(15) Plan as registered — Any reference in this Act and the regulations to a pension plan as registered means the terms of the plan on the basis of which the Minister has registered the plan for the purposes of this Act and as amended by

(a) each amendment that has been accepted by the Minister, and

(b) each amendment that has been submitted to the Minister for acceptance and that the Minister has neither accepted nor refused to accept, if it is reasonable to expect the Minister to accept the amendment, and includes all terms that are not contained in the documents constituting the plan but that are terms of the plan by reason of the Pension Benefits Standards Act, 1985 or a similar law of a province.

Related Provisions: 87(2)(q) — Amalgamation — continuing corporation.

(16) Separate liability for obligations — Every person who is a member of a body that is the administrator of a registered pension plan is subject to all obligations imposed on administrators by this Act or a regulation as if the person were the administrator of the plan.

Related Provisions: 238(1) — Offences.

(17) Superintendent of Financial Institutions — The Minister may, for the purposes of this Act, obtain the advice of the Superintendent of Financial Institutions with respect to any matter relating to pension plans.

(18) Regulations — The Governor in Council may make regulations

(a) prescribing conditions for the registration of pension plans and enabling the Minister to impose additional conditions or waive any conditions that are prescribed;

(b) prescribing circumstances under which a registered pension plan becomes a revocable plan;

(c) specifying the manner of determining, or enabling the Minister to determine, the portion of a member's benefits under a registered pension plan that is in respect of any period;

(d) requiring administrators of registered pension plans to make determinations in connection with the computation of pension adjustments, past service pension adjustments, total pension adjustment reversals or any other related amounts (all such amounts referred to in this subsection as "specified amounts");

(e) requiring that the method used to determine a specified amount be acceptable to the Minister, where more than one method would otherwise comply with the regulations;

(f) enabling the Minister to permit or require a specified amount to be determined in a manner different from that set out in the regulations;

(g) requiring that any person who has information required by another person in order to determine a specified amount provide the other person with that information;

(h) enabling the Minister to require any person to provide the Minister with information relating to the method used to determine a specified amount;

(i) enabling the Minister to require any person to provide the Minister with information relevant to a claim that paragraph (10)(a) is not applicable by reason of an exemption provided by regulation;

(j) respecting applications for certifications for the purposes of subsection (10);

(k) enabling the Minister to waive the requirement for a certification for the purposes of subsection (10);

(l) prescribing rules for the purposes of subsection (10), so that that subsection applies or does not apply with respect to benefits provided as a consequence of particular transactions, events or circumstances;

(m) requiring any person to provide the Minister or the administrator of a registered pension plan with information in connection with an application for certification for the purposes of subsection (10);

(n) requiring any person who obtains a certification for the purposes of subsection (10) to provide the individual in respect of whom the certification was obtained with an information return;

(o) requiring administrators of registered pension plans to file information with respect to amendments to such plans and to the arrangements for funding benefits thereunder;

(p) requiring administrators of registered pension plans to file information returns respecting such plans;

(q) enabling the Minister to require any person to provide the Minister with information for the purpose of determining whether the registration of a pension plan may be revoked;

(r) requiring administrators of registered pension plans to submit reports to the Minister, prescribing the class of persons by whom the reports shall be prepared and prescribing information to be contained in those reports;

(s) enabling the Minister to impose any requirement that may be imposed by regulation made under paragraph (r);

(t) defining, for the purposes of this Act, the expressions "multi-employer plan", "past service event", "past service pension adjustment", "pension adjustment", "specified multi-employer plan" and "total pension adjustment reversal"; and

(u) generally to carry out the purposes and provisions of this Act relating to registered pension plans and the determination and reporting of specified amounts.

147.2 (1) Pension contributions deductible — employer contributions — For a taxation year ending after 1990, there may be deducted in computing the income of a taxpayer who is an employer the total of all amounts each of which is a contribution made by the employer after 1990 and either in the taxation year or within 120 days after the end of the taxation year to a registered pension plan in respect of the employer's employees or former employees, to the extent that

(a) in the case of a contribution in respect of a money purchase provision of a plan, the contribution was made in accordance with the plan as registered and in respect of periods before the end of the taxation year;

(b) in the case of a contribution in respect of the defined benefit provisions of a plan (other than a specified multi-employer plan), the contribution

(i) is an eligible contribution,

(ii) was made to fund benefits provided to employees and former employees of the employer in respect of periods before the end of the taxation year, and

(iii) complies with subsection 147.1(10);

(c) in the case of a contribution made to a plan that is a specified multi-employer plan, the contribution was made in accordance with the plan as registered and in respect of periods before the end of the taxation year; and

(d) the contribution was not deducted in computing the income of the employer for a preceding taxation year.

(2) Employer contributions — defined benefit provisions — For the purposes of subsection (1), a contribution made by an employer to a registered pension plan in respect of the defined benefit provisions of the plan is an eligible contribution if it is a prescribed contribution or if it complies with prescribed conditions and is made pursuant to a recommendation by an actuary in whose opinion the contribution is required to be made so that the plan will have sufficient assets to pay benefits under the defined benefit provisions of the plan, as registered, in respect of the employees and former employees of the employer, where

(a) the recommendation is based on an actuarial valuation that complies with the following conditions, except the conditions in subparagraphs (iii) and (iv) to the extent that they are inconsistent with any other conditions that apply for the purpose of determining whether the contribution is an eligible contribution:

(i) the effective date of the valuation is not more than 4 years before the day on which the contribution is made,

(ii) actuarial liabilities and current service costs are determined in accordance with an actuarial funding method that produces a reasonable matching of contributions with accruing benefits,

(iii) all assumptions made for the purposes of the valuation are reasonable at the time the valuation is prepared and at the time the contribution is made,

(iv) the valuation is prepared in accordance with generally accepted actuarial principles,

(v) the valuation complies with prescribed conditions, which conditions may include conditions regarding the benefits that may be taken into account for the purposes of the valuation, and

(vi) where more than one employer participates in the plan, assets and actuarial liabilities are apportioned in a reasonable manner among participating employers in respect of their employees and former employees, and

(b) the recommendation is approved by the Minister in writing, and, for the purposes of this subsection and except as otherwise provided by regulation,

(c) the benefits taken into account for the purposes of a recommendation may include anticipated cost-of-living and similar adjustments where the terms of a pension plan do not require that those adjustments be made but it is reasonable to expect that they will be made, and

(d) a recommendation with respect to the contributions required to be made by an employer in respect of the defined benefit provisions of a pension plan may be prepared without regard to such portion of the assets of the plan apportioned to the employer in respect of the employer's employees and former employees as does not exceed the least of

(i) the amount of actuarial surplus in respect of the employer,

(ii) 20% of the amount of actuarial liabilities apportioned to the employer in respect of the employer's employees and former employees, and

(iii) the greater of

(A) 2 times the estimated amount of current service contributions that would, if there were no actuarial surplus, be required to be made by the employer and the employer's employees for the 12 months immediately following the effective date of the actuarial valuation on which the recommendation is based, and

(B) the amount that would be determined under subparagraph (ii) if the reference therein to "20%" were read as a reference to "10%".

Proposed Amendment — Regulatory exception re fixed-cost-shared plan

Letter from Dept. of Finance, August 19, 2002:

Dear [xxx]

This is further to our recent discussion concerning the status of the Department's review of the request by the [xxx] to relax the pension surplus rules in the Income Tax Act for defined benefit pension plans that are governed by a fixed-cost-shared arrangement.

We have completed our review of this matter and wish to confirm the Department's intention to recommend to the Minister of Finance relieving amendments to the Income Tax Regulations, effective for contributions made after 2002. The proposed amendments would permit employer contributions to be made to a fixed-cost-shared plan in accordance with the following table, where such contributions would not otherwise be permitted under subsection 147.2(2) of the Act because the plan's funding ratio exceeds 110%.

Funding ratio	Total employer and employee current service contributions
>110% and ≤115%	75% of current service costs
>115% and ≤120%	50% of current service costs
>120% and ≤125%	25% of current service costs
>125%	nil

The amendments are being recommended in recognition of the fact that, because of the fixed-cost-shared arrangement, both employee and employer contributions to such a plan are linked to the funded status of the plan. As a result, employee contribution rates have the potential to vary significantly. This is in contrast to traditional defined benefit plans under which employee contribution rates remain constant, regardless of the funded status of the plan. By proposing to relax the restrictions on employer contributions to fixed-cost-shared plans in the manner outlined, changes in the funded status of such plans should be less volatile and, thus, employee contribution rates should be more stable.

If the recommendation is acted upon, the proposed amendments will, at the earliest opportunity, be submitted to the Governor in Council for consideration.

Yours sincerely,

Len Farber
General Director, Tax Legislation Division, Tax Policy Branch

(4) Amount of employee's pension contributions deductible — There may be deducted in computing the income of an individual for a taxation year ending after 1990 an amount equal to the total of

(a) service after 1989 — the total of all amounts each of which is a contribution (other than a prescribed contribution) made by the individual in the year to a registered pension plan that is in respect of a period after 1989 or that is a prescribed eligible contribution, to the extent that the contribution was made in accordance with the plan as registered,

(b) service before 1990 while not a contributor — the least of

(i) the amount, if any, by which

(A) the total of all amounts each of which is a contribution (other than an additional voluntary contribution or a prescribed contribution) made by the individual in the year or a preceding taxation year and after 1945 to a registered pension plan in respect of a particular year before 1990, if all or any part of the particular year is included in the individual's eligible service under the plan and if

(I) in the case of a contribution that the individual made before March 28, 1988 or was obliged to make under the terms of an agreement in writing entered into before March 28, 1988, the individual was not a contributor to the plan in the particular year, or

(II) in any other case, the individual was not a contributor to any registered pension plan in the particular year

exceeds

(B) the total of all amounts each of which is an amount deducted, in computing the individual's income for a preceding taxation year, in respect of contributions included in the total determined in respect of the individual for the year under clause (A),

(ii) $3,500, and

(iii) the amount determined by the formula

$$($3{,}500 \times Y) - Z$$

where

Y is the number of calendar years before 1990 each of which is a year

(A) all or any part of which is included in the individual's eligible service under a registered pension plan to which the individual has made a contribution that is included in the total determined under clause (i)(A) and in which the individual was not a contributor to any registered pension plan, or

(B) all or any part of which is included in the individual's eligible service under a registered pension plan to which the individual has made a contribution

(I) that is included in the total determined under clause (i)(A), and

(II) that the individual made before March 28, 1988 or was obliged to make under the terms of an agreement in writing entered into before March 28, 1988, and in which the individual was not a contributor to the plan, and

Z is the total of all amounts each of which is an amount deducted, in computing the individual's income for a preceding taxation year,

(A) in respect of contributions included in the total determined in respect of the individual for the year under clause (i)(A), or

(B) where the preceding year was before 1987, under subparagraph 8(1)(m)(ii) (as it read in its application to that preceding year) in respect of additional voluntary contributions made in respect of a year that satisfies the conditions in the description of Y, and

(c) service before 1990 while a contributor — the lesser of

(i) the amount, if any, by which

(A) the total of all amounts each of which is a contribution (other than an additional voluntary contribution, a prescribed contribution or a contribution included in the total determined in respect of the individual for the year under clause (b)(i)(A)) made by the individual in the year or a preceding taxation year and after 1962 to a registered pension plan in respect of a particular year before 1990 that is included, in whole or in part, in the individual's eligible service under the plan

exceeds

(B) the total of all amounts each of which is an amount deducted, in computing the individual's income for a preceding taxation year, in respect of contributions included in the total determined in respect of the individual for the year under clause (A), and

(ii) the amount, if any, by which $3,500 exceeds the total of the amounts deducted by reason of paragraphs (a) and (b) in computing the individual's income for the year.

(12) Restriction re transfers — A registered pension plan becomes a revocable plan at any time that an amount is transferred from the plan to another registered pension plan, to a registered retirement savings plan or to a registered retirement income fund unless

(a) the amount is transferred in accordance with any of subsections (1) to (8); or

(b) where the amount is transferred on behalf of an individual,

(i) the amount is deductible by the individual under paragraph 60(j) or (j.2), or

(ii) the Pension Benefits Standards Act, 1985 or a similar law of a province prohibits the payment of the amount to the individual.

Related Provisions: 147.1(11) — Revocation of registration — notice of intention. See additional Related Provisions at end of s. 147.3.

History: That portion of subsec. 147.3(12) preceding para. (a) amended by 1994, c. 7, Sch. VIII (1993, c. 24), subsec. 86(7), to add "or to a registered retirement income fund", applicable to transfers occurring after August 29, 1990.

(13) Excess transfer — Where

(a) the transfer in a calendar year of an amount from a registered pension plan on behalf of a member of the plan would, but for this subsection, be in accordance with subsection (1) or (2), and

(b) the plan becomes, at the end of the year, a revocable plan as a consequence of an excess determined under any of paragraphs 147.1(8)(a) and (b) and (9)(a) and (b) with respect to the member (whether or not such an excess is also determined with respect to any other member),

such portion of the amount transferred as may reasonably be considered to derive from amounts allocated or reallocated to the member in the year or from earnings reasonably attributable to those amounts shall, except to the extent otherwise expressly provided in writing by the Minister, be deemed to be an amount that was not transferred in accordance with subsection (1) or (2), as the case may be.

Interpretation Bulletins: IT-528: Transfers of funds between registered plans.

(13.1) Withdrawal of excessive transfers to RRSPs and RRIFs — There may be deducted in computing the income of an individual for a taxation year the lesser of

(a) the amount, if any, by which

(i) the total of all amounts each of which is an amount included under subsection 146(8), (8.3) or (12) or 146.3(5), (5.1) or (11) in computing the individual's income for the year, to the extent that the amount is not a prescribed withdrawal,

exceeds

(ii) the total of all amounts each of which is an amount deductible under paragraph 60(l) or subsection 146(8.2) in computing the income of the individual for the year, and

(b) the amount, if any, by which

(i) the total of all amounts each of which is an amount that was

(A) transferred to a registered retirement savings plan or registered retirement income fund under which the individual was the annuitant (within the meaning assigned by subsection 146(1) or 146.3(1), as the case may be),

(B) included in computing the income of the individual for the year or a preceding taxation year, and

(C) deemed by paragraph (10)(b) or (c) to have been paid by the individual as a premium to a registered retirement savings plan,

exceeds

(ii) the total of all amounts each of which is an amount

(A) deductible under this subsection in computing the individual's income for a preceding taxation year, or

(B) deducted under subsection 146(5) in computing the individual's income for a preceding taxation year, to the extent that the amount can reasonably be considered to be in respect of an amount referred to in subparagraph (i).

Related Provisions: 60(i) — Premium or payment under RRSP or RRIF; 146(5) — Amount of RRSP premiums deductible; 146(8.2) — Amount deductible where withdrawn after mistaken contribution; Reg. Reg. 8307(4) — Eligibility of withdrawn amount for designation.

History: Subsec. 147.3(13.1) added by 1994, c. 7, Sch. VIII (1993, c. 24), subsec. 86(8), applicable to 1992 et seq. except that in its application to the 1992 taxation year it shall be read as follows:

(13.1) There may be deducted in computing the income of an individual for the 1992 taxation year the lesser of

(a) the amount, if any, by which

(i) the total of all amounts each of which is an amount included under subsection 146(8), (8.3) or (12) or 146.3(5), (5.1) or (11) in computing the individual's income for a taxation year ending after 1988 and before 1993, to the extent that the amount is not a prescribed withdrawal,

exceeds

(ii) the total of all amounts each of which is an amount deductible under paragraph 60(l) or subsection 146(8.2) in computing the income of the individual for a taxation year ending after 1988 and before 1993, and

(b) the amount, if any, by which

(i) the total of all amounts each of which is an amount

(A) transferred to a registered retirement savings plan or registered retirement income fund under which the individual was the annuitant (within the meaning assigned by subsection 146(1) or 146.3(1), as the case may be),

(B) included in computing the income of the individual for the year or a preceding taxation year, and

(C) deemed by paragraph (10)(b) or (c) to have been paid by the individual as a premium to a registered retirement savings plan,

exceeds

(ii) the total of all amounts each of which is an amount deducted under subsection 146(5) in computing the individual's income for a preceding taxation year, to the extent that the amount can reasonably be considered to be in respect of an amount referred to in subparagraph (i).

(15) [Repealed]

History: Subsec. 147.3(15) repealed by 1998, c. 19, subsec. 175(2), applicable after 1996. Subsec. 147.3(15) formerly read:

(15) Annuity contract commencing after age 69 — Where, under circumstances in which paragraph 254(a) applies, an individual receives before 1997 an interest in an annuity contract in full or partial satisfaction of the individual's entitlement to benefits under a registered pension plan, and payment of the annuity has not begun by the end of the particular year in which the individual attains 69 years of age,

(a) that interest is deemed not to exist after the particular year;

(b) the individual is deemed to have received immediately after the particular year the payment of a single amount from the plan equal to the fair market value of the interest at the end of the particular year;

(c) the individual is deemed to have acquired immediately after the particular year an interest in the annuity contract as a separate and newly issued annuity contract at a cost equal to the amount referred to in paragraph (b); and

(d) the issue and acquisition of the newly issued annuity contract are deemed not to be pursuant to or under a registered pension plan.

Subsec. 147.3(15) added by 1997, c. 25, s. 45, applicable after 1996, except that

(a) it does not apply to an individual who attained 70 years of age before 1997;

(b) in applying the subsec. to an individual who attained 69 years of age in 1996, the reference to "69 years of age" shall be read as a reference to "70 years of age"; and

(c) it does not apply to an annuity contract where an individual received an interest in the contract before March 6, 1996 and, under the terms and conditions of the contract as they read immediately before that day,

(i) the day on which the annuity payments are to begin under the contract is fixed and determined and is after the year in which the individual attains

(A) 69 years of age, where the individual had not attained that age before 1997, or

(B) 70 years of age, where the individual attained 69 years of age in 1996, and

(ii) the amount and timing of each annuity payment are fixed and determined.

147.4 (1) RPP annuity contract — Where

(a) at any time an individual acquires, in full or partial satisfaction of the individual's entitlement to benefits under a registered pension plan, an interest in an annuity contract purchased from a licensed annuities provider,

(b) the rights provided for under the contract are not materially different from those provided for under the plan as registered,

(c) the contract does not permit premiums to be paid at or after that time, other than a premium paid at that time out of or under the plan to purchase the contract,

(d) either the plan is not a plan in respect of which the Minister may, under subsection 147.1(11), give a notice of intent to revoke the registration of the plan or the Minister waives the application of this paragraph with respect to the contract and so notifies the administrator of the plan in writing, and

(e) the individual does not acquire the interest as a consequence of a transfer of property from the plan to a registered retirement savings plan or a registered retirement income fund,

the following rules apply for the purposes of this Act:

(f) the individual is deemed not to have received an amount out of or under the registered pension plan as a consequence of acquiring the interest, and

(g) other than for the purposes of sections 147.1 and 147.3, any amount received at or after that time by any individual under the contract is deemed to have been received under the registered pension plan.

Related Provisions: 147.4(2) — Amendment to RPP annuity contract.

History: Subsec. 147.4(1) added by 1998, c. 19, s. 176, applicable to annuity contract acquisitions, amendments and substitutions that occur after July 30, 1997.

(2) Amended contract — Where

(a) an amendment is made at any time to an annuity contract to which subsection (1) or paragraph 254(a) applies, other than an amendment the sole effect of which is to

(i) provide for an earlier annuity commencement that avoids the application of paragraph (4)(b), or

(ii) enhance benefits under the annuity contract in connection with the demutualization (as defined by subsection 139.1(1)) of an insurance corporation that is considered for the purpose of section 139.1 to have been a party to the annuity contract, and

(b) the rights provided for under the contract are materially altered as a consequence of the amendment,

the following rules apply for the purposes of this Act:

(c) each individual who has an interest in the contract immediately before that time is deemed to have received at that time the payment of an amount under a pension plan equal to the fair market value of the interest immediately before that time,

(d) the contract as amended is deemed to be a separate annuity contract issued at that time otherwise than pursuant to or under a superannuation or pension fund or plan, and

(e) each individual who has an interest in the separate annuity contract immediately after that time is deemed to have acquired the interest at that time at a cost equal to the fair market value of the interest immediately after that time.

Related Provisions: 139.1(2)(g) — No demutualization benefit.

History: Para. 147.4(2)(a) amended by 2000, c. 19, subsec. 43(1), applicable to amendments and substitutions that occur after December 15, 1998. The para. formerly read:

(a) an amendment is made at any time to an annuity contract to which subsection (1) or paragraph 254(a) applies (other than an amendment the sole effect of which is to provide for an earlier annuity commencement that avoids the application of paragraph (4)(b)), and

Subsec. 147.4(2) added by 1998, c. 19, s. 176, applicable to annuity contract acquisitions, amendments and substitutions that occur after July 30, 1997.

(3) New contract — For the purposes of this Act, where an annuity contract (in this subsection referred to as the "original contract") to which subsection (1) or paragraph 254(a) applies is, at any time, substituted by another contract,

(a) if the rights provided for under the other contract

(i) are not materially different from those provided for under the original contract, or

(ii) are materially different from those provided for under the original contract only because of an enhancement of benefits that can reasonably be considered to have been provided solely in connection with the demutualization (as defined by subsection 139.1(1)) of an insurance corporation that is considered for the purposes of section 139.1 to have been a party to the original contract, the other contract is deemed to be the same contract as, and a continuation of, the original contract; and

(b) in any other case, each individual who has an interest in the original contract immediately before that time is deemed to have received at that time the payment of an amount under a pension plan equal to the fair market value of the interest immediately before that time.

Related Provisions: 139.1(2)(g) — No demutualization benefit due to substitution under 147.4(3)(a).

History: Para. 147.4(3)(a) amended by 2000, c. 19, subsec. 43(2), applicable to amendments and substitutions that occur after December 15, 1998. The para. formerly read:

(a) if the rights provided for under the other contract are not materially different from those provided for under the original contract, the other contract is deemed to be the same contract as, and a continuation of, the original contract; and

Subsec. 147.4(3) added by 1998, c. 19, s. 176, applicable to annuity contract acquisitions, amendments and substitutions that occur after July 30, 1997.

(4) RPP annuity contract beginning after age 69 — For the purposes of this Act, where, under circumstances to which paragraph 254(a) applied, an individual acquired before 1997 an interest in an annuity contract in full or partial satisfaction of the individual's entitlement to benefits under a registered pension plan, and payment of the annuity has not begun by the end of the particular year in which the individual attains 69 years of age,

(a) the interest is deemed not to exist after the particular year;

(b) the individual is deemed to have received immediately after the particular year the payment of an amount from the plan equal to the fair market value of the interest at the end of the particular year;

(c) the individual is deemed to have acquired immediately after the particular year an interest in the contract as a separate annuity contract issued immediately after the particular year at a cost equal to the amount referred to in paragraph (b); and

(d) the issue and acquisition of the separate annuity contract are deemed not to be pursuant to or under a registered pension plan.

History: Subsec. 147.4(4) added by 1998, c. 19, s. 176, applicable after 1996, except that

(a) it does not apply to an individual who attained 70 years of age before 1997;

(b) in applying it to an individual who attained 69 years of age in 1996, the reference in that provision to "69 years of age" shall be read as a reference to "70 years of age"; and

(c) it does not apply to an annuity contract if an individual received an interest in the contract before March 6, 1996 and, under the terms and conditions of the contract as they read immediately before that day,

(i) the day on which the annuity payments are to begin under the contract is fixed and determined and is after the year in which the individual attains

(A) 69 years of age, if the individual had not attained that age before 1997, or

(B) 70 years of age, if the individual attained 69 years of age in 1996, and

(ii) the amount and timing of each annuity payment are fixed and determined.

Life Insurance Policies

148. (1) Amounts included in computing policyholder's income — There shall be included in computing the income for a taxation year of a policyholder in respect of the disposition of an interest in a life insurance policy, other than a policy that is or is issued pursuant to

(a) a registered pension plan,

(b) a registered retirement savings plan,

(b.1) a registered retirement income fund,

(c) an income-averaging annuity contract,

(d) a deferred profit sharing plan, or

(e) an annuity contract where

(i) the payment for the annuity contract was deductible under paragraph 60(l) in computing the policyholder's income, or

(ii) the policyholder acquired the annuity contract in circumstances to which subsection 146(21) applied, the amount, if any, by which the proceeds of the disposition of the policyholder's interest in the policy that the policyholder, beneficiary or assignee, as the case may be, became entitled to receive in the year exceeds the adjusted cost basis to the policyholder of that interest immediately before the disposition.

(1.1) Amount included in computing taxpayer's income — There shall be included in computing the income for a taxation year of a taxpayer in respect of a disposition of an interest in a life insurance policy described in paragraph (e) of the definition "disposition" in subsection (9) the amount, if any, by which the amount of a payment described in paragraph (e) of that definition that the taxpayer became entitled to receive in the year exceeds the amount that would be the taxpayer's adjusted cost basis of the taxpayer's interest in the policy immediately before the disposition if, for the purposes of the definition "adjusted cost basis" in subsection (9), the taxpayer were, in respect of that interest in the policy, the policyholder.

Related Provisions: 56(1)(j) — Life insurance policy proceeds included in income. See additional Related Provisions at end of s. 148.

Regulations: 217(2) (information return).

(2) Deemed proceeds of disposition — For the purposes of subsections (1) and 20(20) and the definition "adjusted cost basis" in subsection (9),

(a) where at any time a policyholder becomes entitled to receive under a life insurance policy a particular amount as, on account of, in lieu of payment of or in satisfaction of, a policy dividend, the policyholder shall be deemed

(i) to have disposed of an interest in the policy at that time, and

(ii) to have become entitled to receive proceeds of the disposition equal to the amount, if any, by which

(A) the particular amount

exceeds

(B) the part of the particular amount applied immediately after that time to pay a premium under the policy or to repay a policy loan under the policy, as provided for under the terms and conditions of the policy;

(b) where in a taxation year a holder of an interest in, or a person whose life is insured or who is the annuitant under, a life insurance policy (other than an annuity contract or an exempt policy) last acquired after December 1, 1982 or an annuity contract (other than a life annuity contract, as defined by regulation, entered into before November 13, 1981 or a prescribed annuity contract) dies, the policyholder shall be deemed to have disposed of the policyholder's interest in the policy or the contract, as the case may be, immediately before the death;

(c) where, as a consequence of a death, a disposition of an interest in a life insurance policy is deemed to have occurred under paragraph (b), the policyholder immediately after the death shall be deemed to have acquired the interest at a cost equal to the accumulating fund in respect thereof, as determined in prescribed manner, immediately after the death; and

(d) where at any time a life insurance policy last acquired after December 1, 1982, or a life insurance policy to which subsection 12.2(9) of the Income Tax Act, chapter 148 of the Revised Statutes of Canada, 1952, applies by virtue of paragraph 12.2(9)(b) of that Act, ceases to be an exempt policy (otherwise than as a consequence of the death of an individual whose life is insured under the policy or at a time when that individual is totally and permanently disabled), the policyholder shall be deemed to have disposed of the policyholder's interest in the policy at that time for proceeds of disposition equal to the accumulating fund with respect to the interest, as determined in prescribed manner, at that time and to have reacquired the interest immediately after that time at a cost equal to those proceeds.

Related Provisions: See Related Provisions at end of s. 148.

History: Para. 148(2)(a) amended by 1994, c. 7, Sch. VIII (1993, c. 24), subsec. 87(2), applicable to policy dividends received or receivable in taxation years beginning after December 20, 1991. Para. (a) formerly read:

(a) where at a particular time a policyholder became entitled to receive under a life insurance policy an amount as, on account or in lieu of payment of, or in satisfaction of, a policy dividend, the policyholder shall be deemed to have disposed of an interest in the policy at that time and that amount shall be deemed to be proceeds of the disposition that the policyholder became entitled to receive at that time;

That portion of subsec. 148(2) preceding para. (a) amended by 1994, c. 7, Sch. II (1991, c. 49), subsec. 121(1), to add reference to subsec. 20(20), applicable to dispositions occurring after 1989.

payments and investment tax credit; IT-430R3: Life insurance proceeds received by a private corporation or a partnership as a consequence of death.

(3) Special rules for certain policies — For the purposes of this section, where all or any part of an insurer's reserves for a life insurance policy vary in amount depending on the fair market value of a specified group of properties (in this subsection referred to as a "segregated fund"),

(a) in computing the adjusted cost basis of the policy,

(i) an amount paid by the policyholder or on the policyholder's behalf as or on account of premiums under the policy or to acquire an interest in the policy shall, to the extent that the amount was used by the insurer to acquire property for the purposes of the segregated fund, be deemed not to have been so paid, and

(ii) any transfer of property by the insurer from the segregated fund that resulted in an increase in the portion of its reserves for the policy that do not vary with the fair market value of the segregated fund shall be deemed to have been a premium paid under the policy by the policyholder; and

(b) the proceeds of the disposition of an interest in the policy shall be deemed not to include the portion thereof, if any, payable out of the segregated fund.

(4) Income from disposition — For the purpose of computing a taxpayer's income from the disposition (other than a disposition deemed to have occurred under paragraph (2)(a) or a disposition described in paragraph (b) of the definition "disposition" in subsection (9)) of a part of the taxpayer's interest in a life insurance policy (other than an annuity contract) last acquired after December 1, 1982 or an annuity contract, the adjusted cost basis to the taxpayer, immediately before the disposition, of the part is the proportion of the adjusted cost basis to the taxpayer of the taxpayer's interest immediately before the disposition that

(a) the proceeds of the disposition

are of

(b) the accumulating fund with respect to the taxpayer's interest, as determined in prescribed manner, immediately before the disposition.

Regulations: 307 (accumulating fund).

Interpretation Bulletins: IT-87R2: Policyholders' income from life insurance policies.

(4.1), (5) [Repealed under former Act]

(6) Proceeds receivable as annuity — Where, under the terms of a life insurance policy (other than an annuity contract) last acquired before December 2, 1982, a policyholder became entitled to receive from the insurer at any time before the death of the person whose life was insured thereunder, all the proceeds (other than policy dividends) payable at that time under the policy in the form of an annuity contract or annuity payments,

(a) the payments shall be regarded as annuity payments made under an annuity contract;

(b) the purchase price of the annuity contract shall be deemed to be the adjusted cost basis of the policy to the policyholder immediately before the first payment under that contract became payable; and

(c) the annuity contract or annuity payments shall be deemed not to be proceeds of the disposition of an interest in the policy.

Related Provisions: 148(10)(b) — References to "person whose life was insured". See also Related Provisions at end of s. 148.

(7) Disposition at non-arm's length and similar cases — Where, otherwise than by virtue of a deemed disposition under paragraph (2)(b), an interest of a policyholder in a life insurance policy is disposed of by way of a gift (whether during the policyholder's lifetime or by the policyholder's will), by distribution from a corporation or by operation of law only to any person, or in any manner whatever to any person with whom the policyholder was not dealing at arm's length, the policyholder shall be deemed thereupon to become entitled to receive proceeds of the disposition equal to the value of the interest at the time of the disposition, and the person who acquires the interest by virtue of the disposition shall be deemed to acquire it at a cost equal to that value.

Related Provisions: See Related Provisions at end of s. 148.

(8) Idem — Notwithstanding any other provision in this section, where

(a) an interest of a policyholder in a life insurance policy (other than an annuity contract) has been transferred to the policyholder's child for no consideration, and

(b) a child of the policyholder or a child of the transferee is the person whose life is insured under the policy, the interest shall be deemed to have been disposed of by the policyholder for proceeds of the disposition equal to the adjusted cost basis to the policyholder of the interest immediately before the transfer, and to have been acquired by the person who acquired the interest at a cost equal to those proceeds.

Related Provisions: 148(8.1) — Inter vivos transfer to spouse; 148(8.2) — Transfer to spouse at death. See additional Related Provisions at end of s. 148.

History: Paras. 148(8)(a), (b) substituted by 1994, c. 7, Sch. II (1991, c. 49), subsec. 121(2), applicable to transfers and distributions occurring after 1989. Paras. (a), (b) formerly read:

(a) an interest of a policyholder in a life insurance policy (other than an annuity contract) has been transferred to

(i) the policyholder's spouse or child, for no consideration,

(ii) the spouse or a former spouse of the policyholder, in settlement of rights arising out of their marriage, or

(iii) an individual, pursuant to a decree, order or judgment of a competent tribunal made in accordance with prescribed provisions of the law of a province if that individual is a person within a prescribed class of persons referred to in those provisions, and

(b) the transferee or a child of the policyholder or transferee is the person whose life is insured under the policy,

(8.1) Inter vivos transfer to spouse [or common-law partner] — Notwithstanding any other provision of this section, where

(a) an interest of a policyholder in a life insurance policy (other than a policy that is, or is issued under, a plan or contract referred to in any of paragraphs (1)(a) to (e)) is transferred to

(i) the policyholder's spouse or common-law partner, or

(ii) a former spouse or common-law partner of the policyholder in settlement of rights arising out of their marriage or common-law partnership, and

(iii) [Repealed]

(b) both the policyholder and the transferee are resident in Canada at the time of the transfer,

unless an election is made in the policyholder's return of income under this Part for the taxation year in which the interest was transferred to have this subsection not apply, the interest shall be deemed to have been disposed of by the policyholder for proceeds of the disposition equal to the adjusted cost basis to the policyholder of the interest immediately before the transfer and to have been acquired by the transferee at a cost equal to those proceeds.

"adjusted cost basis" to a policyholder as at a particular time of the policyholder's interest in a life insurance policy means the amount determined by the formula

where

A is the total of all amounts each of which is the cost of an interest in the policy acquired by the policyholder before that time but not including an amount referred to in the description of B or E,

B is the total of all amounts each of which is an amount paid before that time by or on behalf of the policyholder in respect of a premium under the policy, other than amounts referred to in clause (2)(a)(ii)(B), in subparagraph (iii) of the description of C in paragraph (a) of the definition "proceeds of the disposition" or in subparagraph (b)(i) of that definition,

C is the total of all amounts each of which is an amount in respect of the disposition of an interest in the policy before that time that was required to be included in computing the policyholder's income or taxable income earned in Canada for a taxation year,

D is the total of all amounts each of which is an amount in respect of the policyholder's interest in the policy that was included by virtue of subsection 12(3) or section 12.2 or of paragraph 56(1)(d.1) of the Income Tax Act, chapter 148 of the Revised Statutes of Canada, 1952, in computing the policyholder's income for any taxation year ending before that time or the portion of an amount paid to the policyholder in respect of the policyholder's interest in the policy on which tax was imposed by virtue of paragraph 212(1)(o) before that time,

E is the total of all amounts each of which is an amount in respect of the repayment before that time and after March 31, 1978 of a policy loan not exceeding the total of the proceeds of the disposition, if any, in respect of that loan and the amount, if any, described in the description of J but not including any payment of interest thereon, any loan repayment that was deductible under paragraph 60(s) of this Act or paragraph 20(1)(hh) of the Income Tax Act, chapter 148 of the Revised Statutes of Canada, 1952 (as it applied in taxation years before 1985) or any loan repayment referred to in clause (2)(a)(ii)(B),

F is the amount, if any, by which the cash surrender value of the policy as at its first anniversary date after March 31, 1977 exceeds the adjusted cost basis (determined under the Income Tax Act, chapter 148 of the Revised Statutes of Canada, 1952, as it would have read on that date if subsection 148(8) of that Act, as it read in its application to the period ending immediately before April 1, 1978, had not been applicable) of the policyholder's interest in the policy on that date,

G is, in the case of an interest in a life annuity contract, as defined by regulation, to which subsection 12.2(1) applies for the taxation year that includes that time (or would apply if the contract had an anniversary day in the year at a time when the taxpayer held the interest), the total of all amounts each of which is a mortality gain, as defined by regulation and determined by the issuer of the contract in accordance with the regulations, in respect of the interest immediately before the end of the calendar year ending in a taxation year commencing before that time,

Proposed Amendment — Life annuity contracts

Letter from Dept. of Finance, September 12, 2002: See under Reg. 301(1).

G.1 [is,] in the case of an interest in a life insurance policy (other than an annuity contract) to which subsection (8.2) applied before that time, the total of all amounts each of which is a mortality gain, as defined by regulation and determined by the issuer of the policy in accordance with the regulations, in respect of the interest immediately before the end of the calendar year ending in a taxation year beginning before that time,

H is the total of all amounts each of which is the proceeds of the disposition of the policyholder's interest in the policy that the policyholder became entitled to receive before that time,

I is the total of all amounts each of which is an amount in respect of the policyholder's interest in the policy that was deducted by virtue of subsection 20(19) in computing the policyholder's income for any taxation year commencing before that time,

J is the amount payable on March 31, 1978 in respect of a policy loan in respect of the policy,

K is the total of all amounts each of which is an amount received before that time in respect of the policy that the policyholder was entitled to deduct under paragraph 60(a) in computing the policyholder's income for a taxation year, and

(a) in the case of an interest in a life insurance policy (other than an annuity contract) that was last acquired after December 1, 1982 by the policyholder, the total of all amounts each of which is the net cost of pure insurance, as defined by regulation and determined by the issuer of the policy in accordance with the regulations, in respect of the interest immediately before the end of the calendar year ending in a taxation year commencing after May 31, 1985 and before that time,

(b) in the case of an interest in an annuity contract to which subsection 12.2(1) applies for the taxation year that includes that time (or would apply if the contract had an anniversary day in the year and while the taxpayer held the interest), the total of all annuity payments paid in respect of the interest before that time and while the policyholder held the interest, or

(c) in the case of an interest in a contract referred to in the description of G, the total of all amounts each of which is a mortality loss, as defined by regulation and determined by the issuer of the contract in accordance with the regulations, in respect of the interest before that time;

Related Provisions: 12.2(5) — Amounts included in income — taxpayer's interest in an annuity contract; 148(2) — Deemed proceeds of disposition; 257 — Formula cannot calculate to less than zero. See additional Related Provisions at end of s. 148.

History: The description of B in the definition "adjusted cost basis" in subsec. 148(9) amended by 1994, c. 7, Sch. VIII (1993, c. 24), subsec. 87(4), applicable to amounts paid in taxation years commencing after December 20, 1991. The description formerly read:

B is the total of all amounts each of which is an amount paid before that time, by the policyholder or on the policyholder's behalf, in respect of a premium under the policy,

The description of E in "adjusted cost basis" amended by 1994, c. 7, Sch. VIII (1993, c. 24), subsec. 87(5), applicable to loan repayments occurring in taxation years beginning after December 20, 1991. The description formerly read:

E is the total of all amounts each of which is an amount in respect of the repayment before that time and after March 31, 1978 of a policy loan not exceeding the total of the proceeds of the disposition, if any, in respect of that loan and the amount, if any, referred to in the description of J but not including any payment of interest thereon or any repayment of the loan that was deductible pursuant to paragraph 20(1)(hh) or 60(s),

G.1 and its description added to "adjusted cost basis" by 1994, c. 7, Sch. VIII (1993, c. 24), subsecs. 87(3.1), (6), applicable to transfers and distributions occurring after 1989.

The description of G in "adjusted cost basis" amended by 1994, c. 7, Sch. II (1991, c. 49), subsecs. 121(4), to substitute "subsection 12.2(1)" for "subsection 12.2(1) or (3)" and to add "(or would apply if the contract had an anniversary day in the year at a time when the taxpayer held the interest)", applicable to policies last acquired after 1989.

Para. (b) of the description of L in para. 148(9)(a) substituted by 1994, c. 7, Sch. II (1991, c. 49), subsec. 121(5), applicable to policies last acquired after 1989. Para. (b) formerly read:

(b) in the case of an interest in an annuity contract to which subsection 12.2(1) or (3) applies, the total of all amounts each of which is an annuity payment paid in respect of the interest before that time and while the policyholder held the interest, or

"interest", in relation to a policy loan, has the meaning assigned by subsection 138(12);

"life insurance policy" — [Repealed under former Act]

"policy loan" means an amount advanced by an insurer to a policyholder in accordance with the terms and conditions of the life insurance policy;

"premium" under a policy includes

(a) interest paid after 1977 to a life insurer in respect of a policy loan, other than interest deductible in the 1978 or any subsequent taxation year pursuant to paragraph 20(1)(c) or (d), and

(b) a prepaid premium under the policy to the extent that it cannot be refunded otherwise than on termination or cancellation of the policy,

but does not include

(c) where the interest in the policy was last acquired after December 1, 1982, that portion of any amount paid after May 31, 1985 under the policy with respect to

(i) an accidental death benefit,

(ii) a disability benefit,

(iii) an additional risk as a result of insuring a substandard life,

(iv) an additional risk in respect of the conversion of a term policy into another policy after the end of the year,

(v) an additional risk under a settlement option,

(vi) an additional risk under a guaranteed insurability benefit, or

(vii) any other prescribed benefit that is ancillary to the policy;

Related Provisions: 60(s) — Repayment of policy loan. See additional Related Provisions at end of s. 148.

"proceeds of the disposition" of an interest in a life insurance policy means the amount of the proceeds that the policyholder, beneficiary or assignee, as the case may be, is entitled to receive on a disposition of an interest in the policy and for greater certainty,

(a) in respect of a surrender or maturity thereof, means the amount determined by the formula

$$(A - B) - C$$

where

A is the cash surrender value of that interest in the policy at the time of surrender or maturity,

B is that portion of the cash surrender value represented by A that is applicable to the policyholder's interest in the related segregated fund trust as referred to in paragraph 138.1(1)(e), and

C is the total of amounts each of which is

(i) an amount payable at that time by the policyholder in respect of a policy loan in respect of the policy,

(ii) a premium under the policy that is due but unpaid at that time, or

(iii) an amount applied, immediately after the time of the surrender, to pay a premium under the policy, as provided for under the terms and conditions of the policy,

(b) in respect of a policy loan made after March 31, 1978 means the lesser of

(i) the amount of the loan, other than the part thereof applied, immediately after the loan, to pay a premium under the policy, as provided for under the terms and conditions of the policy, and

(ii) the amount, if any, by which the cash surrender value of the policy immediately before the loan was made exceeds the total of the balances outstanding at that time of any policy loans in respect of the policy,

(c) in respect of a payment described in paragraph (e) of the definition "disposition" in this subsection, means the amount of that payment, and

(d) in respect of a disposition deemed to have occurred under paragraph (2)(b), means the accumulating fund in respect of the interest, as determined in prescribed manner,

(i) immediately before the time of death in respect of a life insurance policy (other than an annuity contract) last acquired after December 1, 1982, or

(ii) immediately after the time of death in respect of an annuity contract;

History: The description of C in para. (a) of "proceeds of the disposition" in subsec. 148(9) amended by 1994, c. 7, Sch. VIII (1993, c. 24), subsec. 87(7), applicable to surrenders occurring in taxation years commencing after December 20, 1991. That description formerly read:

C is the total of all amounts each of which is an amount payable at that time by the policyholder in respect of a policy loan in respect of the policy or a premium under the policy that is due but unpaid at that time,

Subpara. (b)(i) of "proceeds of the disposition" amended by 1994, c. 7, Sch. VIII (1993, c. 24), subsec. 87(8), applicable to policy loans made in taxation years beginning after December 20, 1991. That subpara. formerly read:

(i) the amount of the loan, and

"relevant authority" — [Repealed]

History: The definition "relevant authority" in subsec. 148(9) repealed by 1997, c. 25, s. 46, applicable April 25, 1997. It formerly read:

"relevant authority" has the meaning assigned by subsection 138(12);

"tax anniversary date", in relation to a life insurance policy, means the second anniversary date of the policy to occur after October 22, 1968;

"value" at a particular time of an interest in a life insurance policy means

(a) where the interest includes an interest in the cash surrender value of the policy, the amount in respect thereof that the holder of the interest would be entitled to receive if the policy were surrendered at that time, and

(b) in any other case, nil.

(9.1) Application of subsec. 12.2(11) — The definitions in subsection 12.2(11) apply to this section.

Origin of subsec. 148(9.1): R.S.C. 1985, c. 1 (5th Supp.) (formerly contained in the opening words of subsec. 12.2(11)).

(10) Life annuity contracts — For the purposes of this section,

(a) a reference to "insurer" or "life insurer" shall be deemed to include a reference to a person who is licensed or otherwise authorized under a law of Canada or a province to issue contracts that are annuity contracts;

(b) a reference to a "person whose life was insured" shall be deemed to include a reference to an annuitant under a life annuity contract, as defined by regulation, entered into before November 17, 1978;

(c) where a policyholder is a person who has held an interest in a life insurance policy continuously since its issue date, the interest shall be deemed to have been acquired on the later of the date on which

(i) the policy came into force, and

(ii) the application in respect of the policy signed by the policyholder was filed with the insurer;

(d) except as otherwise provided, a policyholder shall be deemed not to have disposed of or acquired an interest in a life insurance policy (other than an annuity contract) as a result only of the exercise of any provision (other than a conversion into an annuity contract) of the policy; and

(e) where an interest in a life insurance policy (other than an annuity contract) last acquired before December 2, 1982 to which subsection 12.2(9) of the Income Tax Act, chapter 148 of the Revised Statutes of Canada, 1952, does not apply has been acquired by a taxpayer from a person with whom the taxpayer was not dealing at arm's length, the interest shall be deemed to have been last acquired by the taxpayer before December 2, 1982.

Eligible Funeral Arrangements

148.1 (1) Definitions — In this section,

"cemetery care trust" means a trust established pursuant to an Act of a province for the care and maintenance of a cemetery;

Related Provisions: 128.1(10)"excluded right or interest"(e)(iii) — No deemed disposition on emigration of individual; 149(1)(s.2) — No tax on cemetery care trust; 248(1)"cemetery care trust" — Definition applies to entire Act.

History: The definition "cemetery care trust" added to subsec. 148.1(1) by 1998, c. 19, subsec. 177(4), applicable to 1993 et seq.

Regulations: 204(3)(d.1) (cemetery care trust need not file T3 return).

Interpretation Bulletins: IT-531: Eligible funeral arrangements.

"cemetery services" with respect to an individual means property (including interment vaults, markers, flowers, liners, urns, shrubs and wreaths) and services that relate directly to cemetery arrangements in Canada in consequence of the death of the individual including, for greater certainty, property and services to be funded out of a cemetery care trust;

History: The definition "cemetery services" added to subsec. 148.1(1) by 1998, c. 19, subsec. 177(4), applicable to 1993 et seq.

Interpretation Bulletins: IT-531: Eligible funeral arrangements.

"custodian" of an arrangement means

(a) where a trust is governed by the arrangement, a trustee of the trust, and

(b) in any other case, a qualifying person who receives a contribution under the arrangement as a deposit for the provision by the person of funeral or cemetery services;

Related Provisions: 212(1)(v) — Withholding tax on payment by custodian to non-resident person.

History: Para. (b) of the definition "custodian" in subsec. 148.1(1) amended by 1998, c. 19, subsec. 177(2), applicable to 1993 et seq. Para. (b) formerly read:

(b) in any other case, a qualifying person who receives a contribution under the arrangement as a deposit for the provision by the person of funeral services;

Interpretation Bulletins: IT-87R2: Policyholders' income from life insurance policies; IT-531: Eligible funeral arrangements.

"eligible funeral arrangement" at a particular time means an arrangement established and maintained by a qualifying person solely for the purpose of funding funeral or cemetery services with respect to one or more individuals and of which there is one or more custodians each of whom was resident in Canada at the time the arrangement was established, where

(a) each contribution made before the particular time under the arrangement was made for the purpose of funding funeral or cemetery services to be provided by the qualifying person with respect to an individual, and

(b) for each such individual, the total of all relevant contributions made before the particular time in respect of the individual does not exceed

(i) $15,000, where the arrangement solely covers funeral services with respect to the individual,

(ii) $20,000, where the arrangement solely covers cemetery services with respect to the individual, and

(iii) $35,000, in any other case,

and, for the purpose of this definition, any payment (other than the portion of the payment to be applied as a contribution to a cemetery care trust) that is made in consideration for the immediate acquisition of a right to burial in or on property that is set apart or used as a place for the burial of human remains or of any interest in a building or structure for the permanent placement of human remains, shall be considered to have been made pursuant to a separate arrangement that is not an eligible funeral arrangement;

Related Provisions: 128.1(10)"excluded right or interest"(e)(iv) — No deemed disposition on emigration of individual; 149(1)(s.1) — No tax on eligible funeral arrangement; 212(1)(v) — Withholding tax on payment from eligible funeral arrangement to non-resident; 248(1)"eligible funeral arrangement" — Definition applies to entire Act.

History: The definition "eligible funeral arrangement" in subsec. 148.1(1) amended by 1998, c. 19, subsec. 177(1), applicable to 1993 et seq. The definition formerly read:

"eligible funeral arrangement" at a particular time means an arrangement established and maintained by a qualifying person solely for the purpose of funding funeral services with respect to one or more individuals and of which there is one or more custodians each of whom was resident in Canada at the time the arrangement was established, where

(a) each contribution made before the particular time under the arrangement was made for the purpose of funding funeral services to be provided by the qualifying person with respect to an individual, and

(b) for each such individual, the total of all relevant contributions made before the particular time in respect of the individual under the arrangement does not exceed $15,000;

Regulations: 201(1)(f) (information return on return of funds); 202(2)(m) (information return on payment to non-resident).

Interpretation Bulletins: IT-531: Eligible funeral arrangements.

"funeral or cemetery services" with respect to an individual means funeral services with respect to the individual, cemetery services with respect to the individual or any combination of such services;

History: The definition "funeral or cemetery services" added to subsec. 148.1(1) by 1998, c. 19, subsec. 177(4), applicable to 1993 et seq.

Interpretation Bulletins: IT-531: Eligible funeral arrangements.

"funeral services" with respect to an individual means property and services (other than cemetery services with respect to the individual) that relate directly to funeral arrangements in Canada in consequence of the death of the individual;

Related Provisions: 255 — "Canada" includes coastal waters.

History: The definition "funeral services" in subsec. 148.1(1) amended by 1998, c. 19, subsec. 177(1), applicable to 1993 et seq. The definition formerly read:

"funeral services" with respect to an individual means property and services that relate directly to funeral, burial, cremation or cemetery arrangements in Canada in consequence of the death of the individual or to any combination of such arrangements;

Interpretation Bulletins: IT-531: Eligible funeral arrangements.

"qualifying person" means a person licensed or otherwise authorized under the laws of a province to provide funeral or cemetery services with respect to individuals;

History: The definition "qualifying person" in subsec. 148.1(1) amended by 1998, c. 19, subsec. 177(1), applicable to 1993 et seq. The definition formerly read:

"qualifying person" means a person licensed or otherwise authorized under the laws of a province to provide funeral services for individuals;

Interpretation Bulletins: IT-531: Eligible funeral arrangements.

"relevant contribution" in respect of an individual under a particular arrangement means

(a) a contribution under the particular arrangement (other than a contribution made by way of a transfer from an eligible funeral arrangement) for the purpose of funding funeral or cemetery services with respect to the individual, or

(b) such portion of a contribution to another arrangement that was an eligible funeral arrangement (other than any such contribution made by way of a transfer from any eligible funeral arrangement) as can reasonably be considered to have subsequently been used to make a contribution under the particular arrangement by way of a transfer from an eligible funeral arrangement for the purpose of funding funeral or cemetery services with respect to the individual.

Related Provisions: 148.1(1)"eligible funeral arrangement"(b) — Dollar limits on relevant contributions.

History: Paras. (a) and (b) of the definition "relevant contribution" in subsec. 148.1(1) amended by 1998, c. 19, subsec. 177(3), applicable to 1993 et seq. Paras. (a) and (b) formerly read:

(a) a contribution under the particular arrangement (other than a contribution made by way of a transfer from an eligible funeral arrangement) for the purpose of funding funeral services with respect to the individual, or

(b) such portion of a contribution to another arrangement that was an eligible funeral arrangement (other than any such contribution made by way of a transfer from any eligible funeral arrangement) as can reasonably be considered to have subsequently been used to make a contribution under the particular arrangement by way of a transfer from an eligible funeral arrangement for the purpose of funding funeral services with respect to the individual.

Interpretation Bulletins: IT-531: Eligible funeral arrangements.

(2) Exemption for eligible funeral arrangements — Notwithstanding any other provision of this Act,

(a) no amount that has accrued, is credited or is added to an eligible funeral arrangement shall be included in computing the income of any person solely because of such accrual, crediting or adding;

(b) subject to paragraph (c) and subsection (3), no amount shall be

(i) included in computing a person's income solely because of the provision by another person of funeral or cemetery services under an eligible funeral arrangement, or

(ii) included in computing a person's income because of the disposition of an interest under an eligible funeral arrangement or an interest in a trust governed by an eligible funeral arrangement; and

(c) subparagraph (b)(ii) shall not affect the consequences under this Act of the disposition of any right under an eligible funeral arrangement to payment for the provision of funeral or cemetery services.

Related Provisions: 149(1)(s.1) — No tax on trust governing an eligible funeral arrangement; 149(1)(s.2) — No tax on cemetery care trust.

History: Paras. 148.1(2)(b) and (c) amended by 1998, c. 19, subsec. 177(5), applicable to 1993 et seq. Paras. 148.1(2)(b) and (c) formerly read:

(b) subject to paragraph (c) and subsection (3), no amount shall be

(i) included in computing a person's income solely because of the provision by another person of funeral services under an eligible funeral arrangement, or

(ii) included in computing a person's income because of the disposition of an interest under an eligible funeral arrangement or an interest in a trust governed by an eligible funeral arrangement; and

(c) subparagraph (b)(ii) shall not affect the consequences under this Act of the disposition of any right under an eligible funeral arrangement to payment for the provision of funeral services.

Interpretation Bulletins: IT-531: Eligible funeral arrangements.

(3) Income inclusion on return of funds — Where at any particular time in a taxation year a particular amount is distributed (otherwise than as payment for the provision of funeral or cemetery services with respect to an individual) to a taxpayer from an arrangement that was, at the time it was established, an eligible funeral arrangement and the particular amount is paid from the balance in respect of the individual under the arrangement, there shall be added in computing the taxpayer's income for the year from property the lesser of the particular amount and the amount determined by the formula

$$A + B - C$$

where

A is the balance in respect of the individual under the arrangement immediately before the particular time (determined without regard to the value of property in a cemetery care trust);

B is the total of all payments made from the arrangement before the particular time for the provision of funeral or cemetery services with respect to the individual (other than cemetery services funded by property in a cemetery care trust); and

C is the total of all relevant contributions made before the particular time in respect of the individual under the particular arrangement (other than contributions in respect of the individual that were in a cemetery care trust).

Proposed Amendment — 148.1(3)C

C is the amount determined by the formula

$$D - E$$

where

D is the total of all relevant contributions made before the particular time in respect of the individual under the particular arrangement (other than contributions in respect of the individual that were in a cemetery care trust), and

E is the total of all amounts each of which is the amount, if any, by which

(a) an amount relating to the balance in respect of the individual under the arrangement that is deemed by subsection (4) to have been distributed before the particular time from the arrangement

exceeds

(b) the portion of the amount referred to in paragraph (a) that is added, because of this subsection, in computing a taxpayer's income.

Application: The February 27, 2004 draft legislation, subsec. 86(2), will amend the description of C in subsec. 148.1(3) to read as above, applicable to amounts that are transferred, credited or added after December 20, 2002.

Technical Notes (December 20, 2002): Section 148.1 is amended to provide specific rules relating to transfers from one EFA account to another. In general terms, the changes are as follows: . . .

- The provision that requires EFA distributions to be included in income (subsection 148.1(3)) is amended to ensure that the determination of the amount that can subsequently be distributed from the transferor EFA account on a tax-free basis is reduced by the portion of the transferred amount that was not included in income (i.e., that portion of the transferred amount that represents a return of contributions). . . .

These changes are described in more detail below.

Subsection 148.1(3) provides for an income inclusion by a taxpayer in the event that there is a distribution of funds from an individual's EFA account to the taxpayer (otherwise than as a payment for the provision of funeral or cemetery services with respect to the individual). The amount of the income inclusion is the lesser of the distributed amount and a second amount. In general terms, this second amount is determined by the formula:

$$A + B - C$$

where

A is the balance in the EFA account immediately before the distribution,

B is the total of all payments made from the EFA account before the distribution for the provision of funeral or cemetery services, and

C is the total of all "relevant contributions" in respect of the EFA account that were made before the distribution.

For the purpose of the description of C, an amount is defined in subsection 148.1(1) to be a "relevant contribution" in respect of a particular EFA account if

- the amount was contributed to the particular EFA account otherwise than by way of transfer from another EFA account, or
- the amount was contributed to another EFA account (otherwise than by way of transfer) and subsequently transferred (either from the original or a subsequent EFA account) to the particular EFA account.

The effect of subsection 148.1(3) is to include in the income of the taxpayer the lesser of the amount received and an amount which generally represents the income accumulated in the EFA account. If the amount received by the taxpayer is greater than the amount included in the taxpayer's income, the excess generally represents a non-taxable refund of relevant contributions (represented by the variable C in the formula).

The description of C is amended so that its value is reduced, in effect, by any relevant contributions previously transferred from the EFA account to another EFA account. This ensures that the amount of the transferred relevant contribution (which, by virtue of subsection 148.1(3), can be distributed from the recipient EFA account tax-free) cannot also be used to support a subsequent tax-free withdrawal from the transferor EFA account.

The description of C is amended to provide that its value is determined by the formula

$$D - E$$

For this purpose, the value of D is the amount determined under the existing description of C. The value of E is the total of all amounts each of which is

- an amount which was previously transferred from the EFA account and deemed, by new subsection 148.1(4), to be a distribution

minus

- the portion of the deemed distribution that was required, by subsection 148.1(3), to be included in computing a taxpayer's income.

Related Provisions: 12(1)(z.4) — Inclusion into income from property; 212(1)(x) — Withholding tax on payment to non-resident; 257 — Formula amounts cannot calculate to less than zero.

History [148.1(3)]: Subsec. 148.1(3) amended by 1998, c. 19, subsec. 177(6), applicable to 1993 et seq. Subsec. 148.1(3) formerly read:

(3) Where at any particular time in a taxation year a particular amount is distributed (otherwise than as payment for the provision of funeral services with respect to an individual) to a taxpayer from an arrangement that was, at the time it was established, an eligible funeral arrangement and the particular amount is paid from the balance in respect of the individual under the arrangement, there shall be added in computing the taxpayer's income for the year from property the lesser of the particular amount and the amount determined by the formula

$$A + B - C$$

where

A is the balance in respect of the individual under the arrangement immediately before the particular time;

B is the total of all payments made from the arrangement before the particular time for the provision of funeral services with respect to the individual; and

C is the total of all relevant contributions made before that time in respect of the individual under the particular arrangement.

Regulations: 201(1)(f) (information return).

Interpretation Bulletins: IT-531: Eligible funeral arrangements.

Proposed Addition — 148.1(4), (5)

(4) Deemed distribution on transfer — If at a particular time an amount relating to the balance in respect of an individual (referred to in this subsection and subsection (5) as the "transferor") under an eligible funeral arrangement (referred to in this subsection and subsection (5) as the "transferor arrangement") is transferred, credited or added to the balance in respect of the same or another individual (referred to in this subsection and subsection (5) as the "recipient") under the same or another eligible funeral arrangement (referred to in this subsection and subsection (5) as the "recipient arrangement"),

(a) the amount is deemed to be distributed to the transferor (or, if the transferor is deceased at the particular time, to the recipient) at the particular time from the transferor arrangement and to be paid from the balance in respect of the transferor under the transferor arrangement; and

(b) the amount is deemed to be a contribution made (other than by way of a transfer from an eligible funeral arrangement) at the particular time under the recipient arrangement for the purpose of funding funeral or cemetery services with respect to the recipient.

Related Provisions [subsec. 148.1(4)]: 148.1(5) — No deemed distribution on transfer to same individual.

(5) Non-application of subsection (4) — Subsection (4) does not apply if

(a) the transferor and the recipient are the same individual;

(b) the amount that is transferred, credited or added to the balance in respect of the individual under the recipient arrangement is equal to the balance in respect of the individual under the transferor arrangement immediately before the particular time; and

(c) the transferor arrangement is terminated immediately after the transfer.

Application: The February 27, 2004 draft legislation, subsec. 86(3), will add subsecs. 148.1(4) and (5), applicable to amounts that are transferred, credited or added after December 20, 2002.

Technical Notes (December 20, 2002): Section 148.1 is amended to provide specific rules relating to transfers from one EFA account to another. In general terms, the changes are as follows:

- A new provision (paragraph 148.1(4)(a)) deems the transferred amount to be distributed to the individual from whose EFA account the amount is transferred. However, if that individual is deceased, the amount is deemed to be distributed to the individual to whose EFA account the amount is transferred. This ensures that the transfer is included in income (to the extent that it does not exceed the income accumulated in the transferor account).
- A new provision (paragraph 148.1(4)(b)) deems the transferred amount to be a contribution made to the recipient EFA account other than by way of transfer. This ensures that the earnings portion of the transferred amount is not taxed again when it is distributed from the recipient EFA account. . . .

- A new provision (subsection 148.1(5)) provides that these new rules do not apply if the transferor and the recipient EFA accounts are in respect of the same person, the entire balance in the transferor account is transferred to the recipient account and the transferor EFA account is terminated immediately after the transfer.

These changes are described in more detail below. . . .

New subsection 148.1(4) contains rules that apply when an amount is transferred from one EFA account to another EFA account of the same or another person.

Paragraph 148.1(4)(a) deems the transfer to be a distribution from the transferor EFA account. If the individual from whose account the amount is transferred is alive at the time of the transfer, that individual is deemed to be the recipient of the distribution. Otherwise, the recipient is deemed to be the individual to whose EFA account the amount is transferred. This deeming provision ensures that subsection 148.1(3) applies to the transfer. Consequently, the transferred amount will be included in computing the income of the deemed recipient, except to the extent that the transferred amount exceeds the income accumulated in the transferor EFA account.

Paragraph 148.1(4)(b) deems the amount transferred to be a contribution made (otherwise than by way of transfer) under the recipient EFA account. This ensures that the income portion of the transferred amount (which is included in income, under subsection 148.1(3), as a distribution from the transferor account) is considered to be a "relevant contribution" in respect of the recipient EFA account (which it would not otherwise be, because of the definition "relevant contribution" in subsection 148.1(1)). This allows it to subsequently be withdrawn from the recipient EFA account on a tax-free basis.

New subsection 148.1(5) provides that new subsection 148.1(4) does not apply when the entire balance of an individual's EFA account is transferred to another EFA account of the same individual and the transferor EFA account is terminated immediately after the transfer. Consequently, there will be no deemed distribution resulting from such a transfer.

New subsection 148.1(5) applies to transfers made after December 20, 2002.

The following examples illustrate the application of the amendments to subsection 148.1.

Example 1

Paul sets up an EFA account for the pre-funding of his funeral expenses. He contributes $10,000 to his account, and earns $7,000 of interest in the account. Paul transfers $3,000 to an EFA account which he establishes for his daughter, Gaby.

The transferred amount is deemed to be a distribution to Paul under new paragrap 148.1(4)(a). Consequently, Paul includes in his income, under subsection 148.1(3), an amount of $3,000, which is the lesser of

- $3,000, which is the amount distributed, and
- $7,000, which is the amount determined by the formula under subsection 148.1(3):

A + B – C (where C = D – E)

= $17,000 + $0 – ($10,000 – $0)

The transfer is treated, in effect, as a distribution of a portion of the income accumulated in the plan.

Under new paragraph 148.1(4)(b), the transferred amount is also deemed to be a contribution made, other than by way of transfer, to Gaby's EFA account. Thus, the $3,000 is considered to be a relevant contribution in respect of Gaby's EFA account, and can subsequently be withdrawn tax-free.

Example 2

The facts are the same as in Example 1, except that Paul transfers $13,000 to Gaby's EFA.

The transferred amount is deemed to be a distribution to Paul under new paragrap 148.1(4)(a). Consequently, Paul includes in his income, under subsection 148.1(3), an amount of $7,000, which is the lesser of

- $13,000, which is the amount distributed, and
- $7,000, which is the amount determined by the formula under subsection 148.1(3):

A + B – C (where C = D – E)

= $17,000 + $0 – ($10,000 – $0)

The transfer is treated, in effect, as a distribution of all of the income accumulated in the plan ($7,000), which is taxable, plus a return of a portion of the relevant contributions in respect of the EFA ($6,000), which is not taxable.

Under new paragraph 148.1(4)(b), the transferred amount is also deemed to be a contribution made, other than by way of transfer, to Gaby's EFA account. This has no particular significance with respect to the portion of the transfer that represents relevant contributions in respect of Paul's EFA account, since this amount would be considered to be a relevant contribution to Gaby's EFA account under the existing rules. However, it does have significance with respect to the portion of the transfer that represents income in Paul's EFA account, in that it allows that portion to become a relevant contribution in respect of Gaby's EFA account which can then be withdrawn from Gaby's account tax-free.

Example 3

The facts are the same as in Example 2. After the transfer of $13,000, the balance in Paul's EFA account is $4,000, all of which represents relevant contributions in respect of the account. Over the next few years, the account earns an additional $2,500 of interest. Paul then withdraws the entire balance from the account.

The withdrawal is a distribution under subsection 148.1(3). Consequently, Paul includes $2,500 in his income, which is the lesser of:

- $6,500, which is the amount of the withdrawal, and
- $2,500, which is the amount determined by the formula under subsection 148.1(3):

A + B – C (where C = D – E)

= $6,500 + 0 – ($10,000 – $6,000)

The value of E ($6,000) is the excess of the amount that was previously transferred and to which subsection 148.1(4) applied ($13,000) over the portion of that amount that was included in income under subsection 148.1(3) ($7,000).

History: Para. 149(1)(d.4) amended by 2001, c. 17, subsec. 145(3) to add the words "one or more persons each of which is", applicable to taxation years and fiscal periods that begin after 1998.

Para. 149(1)(d.4) added by 1998, c. 19, applicable to taxation years and fiscal periods that begin after 1998.

(d.5) municipal corporations — subject to subsections (1.2) and (1.3), a corporation, commission or association not less than 90% of the capital of which was owned by one or more municipalities in Canada, if the income for the period of the corporation, commission or association from activities carried on outside the geographical boundaries of the municipalities does not exceed 10% of its income for the period;

Proposed Amendment — 149(1)(d.5)

(d.5) income within boundaries of entities — subject to subsections (1.2) and (1.3), a corporation, commission or association not less than 90% of the capital of which was owned by one or more entities each of which is a municipality in Canada, or a municipal or public body performing a function of government in Canada, if the income for the period of the corporation, commission or association from activities carried on outside the geographical boundaries of the entities does not exceed 10% of its income for the period;

Application: The February 27, 2004 draft legislation, subsec. 87(1), will amend para. 149(1)(d.5) to read as above, applicable to taxation years that begin after May 8, 2000.

Notwithstanding subsec. 152(4) to (5), any assessment of a taxpayer's tax payable under the Act for any taxation year that began before February 27, 2004 shall be made that is necessary to give effect to the amendment.

Technical Notes: Paragraph 149(1)(d.5) exempts from tax, subject to an income test, the taxable income of any corporation, commission or association at least 90% of the capital of which is owned by one or more municipalities in Canada.

In accordance with the Tax Court of Canada decision in Otineka Development Corporation Limited and 72902 Manitoba Limited v. The Queen, 94 D.T.C. 1234, [1994] 1 C.T.C. 2424, an entity could be considered a municipality for the purpose of this paragraph on the basis of the functions it exercised. More recently, however, the decision in Tawich Development Corporation v. Deputy Minister of Revenue of Quebec, [1997] 2 C.N.L.R. 187 (Que. Civil Chamber), aff'd 2001 D.T.C. 5144 (Que. C.A.), a decision under the Taxation Act (Quebec), held that an entity could not attain the status of a municipality by exercising municipal functions but only by statute, letters patent or order. From a tax policy perspective, it is desired that the entities previously entitled to the exemption on the basis of the Otineka decision continue to have access to the exemption. This amendment resolves the uncertainty resulting from the two conflicting cases. The exemption in paragraph 149(1)(d.5) is therefore extended to include any corporation, commission or association at least 90% of the capital of which was owned by one or more entities each of which is a municipal or public body performing a function of government in Canada, which is consistent with the bodies described in paragraph 149(1)(c).

Related Provisions: 94.1(1)"exempt taxpayer"(a) — Exclusion from foreign investment entity accrual rules; 149(1.1) — No exemption where other person has a right to acquire shares; 149(1.2) — Meaning of "outside the geographical boundaries"; 149(1.3) — No exemption if 10% ownership or de facto control by non-government; 149(11) — Geographical boundaries of body performing function of government; 181.1(3)(c) — Exemption from Part I.3 tax; 212(1)(b)(ii)(C)(IV) — No withholding tax on bond interest paid to non-residents; 227(14) — Exemption from tax under other Parts; 227(16) — Corporation deemed not private corporation for Part IV tax; Reg. 1216 — Exemption from Part XII tax.

History: Para. 149(1)(d.5) added by 1998, c. 19, applicable to taxation years and fiscal periods that begin after 1998.

(d.6) subsidiaries of municipal corporations — subject to subsections (1.2) and (1.3), a particular corporation all of the shares (except directors' qualifying shares) or of the capital of which was owned by one or more persons each of which is a corporation, commission or association to which paragraph (d.5) or this paragraph applies for the period if the income for the period of the particular corporation from activities carried on outside

(i) if paragraph (d.5) applies to the other corporation, commission or association, the geographical boundaries of the municipalities referred to in that paragraph in its application to that other corporation, commission or association, or

(ii) if this paragraph applies to the other corporation, commission or association, the geographical boundaries of the municipalities referred to in sub-paragraph (i) in its application to that other corporation, commission or association,

Proposed Amendment — 149(1)(d.6)(i), (ii)

(i) if paragraph (d.5) applies to the other corporation, commission or association, the geographical boundaries of the entities referred to in that paragraph in its application to that other corporation, commission or association, or

(ii) if this paragraph applies to the other corporation, commission or association, the geographical boundaries of the entities referred to in subparagraph (i) in its application to that other corporation, commission or association,

Application: The February 27, 2004 draft legislation, subsec. 87(2), will amend subparas. 149(1)(d.6)(i) and (ii) to read as above, applicable to taxation years that begin after May 8, 2000.

Notwithstanding subsec. 152(4) to (5), any assessment of a taxpayer's tax payable under the Act for any taxation year that began before February 27, 2004 shall be made that is necessary to give effect to the amendment.

Technical Notes: Paragraph 149(1)(d.6) exempts from tax, subject to an income test, a wholly-owned subsidiary of a corporation, commission or association referred to in paragraph 149(1)(d.5) of the Act. As a consequence of the amendment to paragraph 149(1)(d.5), the geographical boundaries of the entities referred to in subparagraphs (i) and (ii) of paragraph 149(1)(d.6) are expanded to include references to all of the entities in the amended 149(1)(d.5).

(a) paragraph (1)(d) did not apply in respect of the person's taxable income for the person's last taxation year that began before 1999;

(b) paragraph (1)(d.2), (d.3) or (d.4) would, but for this subsection, have applied in respect of the person's taxable income for the person's first taxation year that began after 1998;

(c) there has been no change in the direct or indirect control of the person during the period that

(i) began at the beginning of the person's first taxation year that began after 1998, and

(ii) ends at the end of the particular year;

(d) the person elects in writing before 2002 that this subsection apply; and

(e) the person has not notified the Minister in writing before the particular year that the election has been revoked.

History: Subsec. 149(1.11) added by 2001, c. 17, subsec. 145(6), applicable to taxation years and fiscal periods that begin after 1998 except that an election referred to in the subsec., as amended, filed with the Minister of National Revenue on or before December 31, 2001 (six months after the end of the month of Royal Assent), is deemed to have been filed in accordance with the subsection.

(v) where the person is a municipality in Canada or a corporation controlled by a municipality in Canada, the municipality, and

(vi) where the person is a municipal or public body performing a function of government in Canada or a corporation controlled by such a body, the area described in subsection (11) in respect of the person; or

Application: The February 27, 2004 draft legislation, subsec. 87(3), will amend the portion of subsec. 149(1.2) before para. (b) to read as above, applicable to taxation years that begin after May 8, 2000.

Notwithstanding subsec. 152(4) to (5), any assessment of a taxpayer's tax payable under the Act for any taxation year that began before February 27, 2004 shall be made that is necessary to give effect to the amendment.

Technical Notes: Subsection 149(1.2) excludes, for the purposes of paragraphs 149(1)(d.5) and (d.6) certain income from the determination of where an entity to which either of those paragraphs applies derives its income. As a consequence of the amendment to paragraph 149(1)(d.5), a written agreement in subsection 149(1.2) is expanded to include reference to a municipal or public body.

In addition, subparagraph 149(1.2)(a)(vi) is added to clarify that the geographical boundary of a municipal or public body performing a function of government in Canada is defined to be the area described in new subsection (11).

(b) in a province as

(i) a producer of electrical energy or natural gas, or

(ii) a distributor of electrical energy, heat, natural gas or water, where the activities are regulated under the laws of the province.

(d) where the person is Her Majesty in right of a province or a corporation controlled by Her Majesty in right of a province, the province, and

(e) where the person is a municipality in Canada or a corporation controlled by a municipality in Canada, the municipality.

Subsec. 149(1.2) added by 1998, c. 19, subsec. 178(4), applicable to taxation years and fiscal periods that begin after 1998.

(1.3) Capital ownership [by municipality] — For the purposes of paragraph (1)(d.5) and subsection (1.2), 90% of the capital of a corporation that has issued share capital is owned by one or more municipalities only when the municipalities own shares of the capital stock of the corporation that give the municipalities 90% or more of the votes that could be cast under all circumstances at an annual meeting of shareholders of the corporation.

Proposed Amendment — 149(1.3)

(1.3) Votes or de facto control [by municipality or government] — Paragraphs (1)(d) to (d.6) do not apply in respect of a person's taxable income for a period in a taxation year if at any time during the period

(a) the person is a corporation shares of which are owned by one or more other persons that, in total, give them more than 10% of the votes that could be cast at a meeting of shareholders of the corporation, other than shares that are owned by one or more persons each of which is

(i) Her Majesty in right of Canada or of a province,

(ii) a municipality in Canada,

(iii) a municipal or public body performing a function of government in Canada, or

(iv) a commission, an association or a corporation, to which any of paragraphs (1)(d) to (d.6) apply; or

(b) the person is, or would be if the person were a corporation, controlled, directly or indirectly in any manner whatever, by a person, or by a group of persons that includes a person, who is not

(i) Her Majesty in right of Canada or of a province,

(ii) a municipality in Canada,

(iii) a municipal or public body performing a function of government in Canada, or

(iv) a corporation, a commission or an association, to which any of paragraphs (1)(d) to (d.6) apply.

Application: The February 27, 2004 draft legislation, subsec. 87(4), will amend subsec. 149(1.3) to read as above, applicable to taxation years that begin after May 8, 2000 except that for those taxation years that began before December 21, 2002, the subsec. is to be read as follows:

(1.3) For the purposes of paragraph (1)(d.5) and subsection (1.2), 90% of the capital of a corporation that has issued share capital is owned by one or more entities, each of which is a municipality or a municipal or public body, only if the entities own shares of the capital stock of the corporation that give the entities 90% or more of the votes that could be cast under all circumstances at an annual meeting of shareholders of the corporation.

Notwithstanding subsec. 152(4) to (5), any assessment of a taxpayer's tax payable under the Act for any taxation year that began before February 27, 2004 shall be made that is necessary to give effect to the amendment.

Technical Notes: Subsection 149(1.3) provides that, for the purposes of applying paragraph 149(1)(d.5) and subsection 149(1.2) to a corporation, 90% of the capital of the corporation is considered to be owned by one or more municipalities only if the municipalities are entitled to at least 90% of the votes associated with the shares of the corporation.

As a consequence of the amendment to paragraph 149(1)(d.5), subsection 149(1.3) is amended applicable to taxation years that begin after May 8, 2000, to include reference to municipal or public bodies performing a function of government in Canada.

In addition, subsection 149(1.3) is replaced, applicable to taxation years that begin after December 20, 2002, to provide that paragraphs 149(1)(d) to (d.6) do not apply to exempt a person's taxable income for a period in a taxation year in two cases.

First, under new paragraph 149(1.3)(a), a corporation is not exempt from tax on its taxable income for a period in a taxation year if at any time during the period the corporation has issued shares that are owned by one or more persons (other than certain tax-exempts) that, in total, give them more than 10% of the votes that could be cast at a meeting of shareholders. For this purpose, it is necessary to determine whether more than 10% of the votes could be cast at a meeting of the shareholders by a person or persons other than:

- Her Majesty in right of Canada or of a province,
- a municipality in Canada,
- a municipal or public body performing a function of government in Canada, or
- a commission, an association or a corporation, to which any of paragraphs 149(1)(d) to (d.6) apply.

Second, under new paragraph 149(1.3)(b), a person is not exempt because of any of paragraphs 149(1)(d) to (d.6) from tax on taxable income for a period in a taxation year if at any time in the period the person is, or would be if the person were a corporation, controlled, directly or indirectly in any manner whatever, by a person (or by a group of persons that includes a person) other than:

- Her Majesty in right of Canada or of a province,
- a municipality in Canada,
- a municipal or public body performing a function of government in Canada, or
- a commission, an association or a corporation, to which any of paragraphs 149(1)(d) to (d.6) apply.

For further details about the expression "controlled, directly or indirectly in any manner whatever", reference should be made to subsections 256(5.1) and (6) of the Act. In general, the expression refers to a controller, who has any direct or indirect influence that, if exercised, would result in control in fact of the person.

History: Subsec. 149(1.3) added by 1998, c. 19, subsec. 178(4), applicable to taxation years and fiscal periods that begin after 1998.

(2) Determination of income — For the purposes of paragraphs (1)(e), (i), (j) and (l), in computing the part, if any, of any income that was payable to or otherwise available for the personal benefit of any person or the total of any amounts that is not less than a percentage specified in any of those paragraphs of any income for a period, the amount of such income shall be deemed to be the amount thereof determined on the assumption that the amount of any taxable capital gain or allowable capital loss is nil.

History: Subsec. 149(2) amended by 1994, c. 7, Sch. VIII (1993, c. 24), subsec. 88(2), applicable to 1992 et seq. Subsec. (2) formerly read:

(2) Income not to include taxable capital gains — For the purposes of paragraphs (1)(e), (i), (j) and (l), in computing the part, if any, of any income that was payable to or otherwise available for the personal benefit of any person or the total of any amounts that is not less than a percentage specified in any of those paragraphs of any income for a period, the amount of that income shall be deemed to be the amount thereof otherwise determined less the amount of any taxable capital gains included therein.

(4) Idem — For the purposes of subsection (3), the taxable income of a benevolent or fraternal benefit society or order from carrying on a life insurance business shall be computed on the assumption that it had no income or loss from any other sources.

(4.1) Income exempt under 149(1)(t) — Subject to subsection (4.2), subsection (1) applies to an insurer described in paragraph (1)(t) only in respect of the part of its taxable income for a taxation year determined by the formula

$$\frac{(A \times B \times C)}{D}$$

where

A is its taxable income for the year;

B is

(a) ½, where less than 25% of the total of the gross premium income (net of reinsurance ceded) earned in the year by it and, where it is not a prescribed insurer for the purpose of paragraph (1)(t), by all other insurers that

(i) are specified shareholders of the insurer,

(ii) are related to the insurer, or

(iii) where the insurer is a mutual corporation, are part of a group that controls, directly or indirectly in any manner whatever, or are controlled, directly or indirectly in any manner whatever by, the insurer, is in respect of insurance of property used in farming or fishing or residences of farmers or fishermen; and

(b) 1 in any other case;

C is the part of the gross premium income (net of reinsurance ceded) earned by it in the year that, in the opinion of the Minister, on the advice of the Superintendent of Financial Institutions or of the superintendent of insurance of the province under the laws of which it is incorporated, is in respect of insurance of property used in farming or fishing or residences of farmers or fishermen; and

D is the gross premium income (net of reinsurance ceded) earned by it in the year.

(4.1) Idem — Subject to subsection (4.2), subsection (1) applies in respect of an insurer described in paragraph (1)(t) only in respect of that proportion of the insurer's taxable income for a taxation year that

(a) the part of the gross premium income (net of reinsurance ceded) earned in the year by the insurer that, in the opinion of the Minister, on the advice of the Superintendent of Financial Institutions or of the superintendent of insurance of the province under the laws of which the insurer is incorporated, was in respect of insurance of farm property, property used in fishing or residences of farmers or fishermen

is of

(b) the gross premium income (net of reinsurance ceded) earned in the year by the insurer.

Subsec. 149(4.1) substituted by 1994, c. 7, Sch. II (1991, c. 49), subsec. 122(2), applicable to 1989 et seq. Subsec. (4.1) formerly read:

(4.1) Subject to subsection (4.2), subsection (1) shall apply in respect of an insurer described in paragraph (1)(t) only in respect of that proportion of the insurer's taxable income for a taxation year that

(a) the insurer's gross premium income (net of reinsurance ceded) for the year that in the opinion of the Minister, on the advice of the Superintendent of Financial Institutions or of the superintendent of insurance of the province under the laws of which the insurer is incorporated, was in respect of the insurance of farm property, property used in fishing or residences of farmers or fishermen

(b) its gross premium income (net of reinsurance ceded) for the year and, in computing the taxable income of the insurer for the taxation year, the insurer shall be deemed to have claimed or deducted in each of the taxation years preceding the year the greater of such amount as it claimed or deducted or such amount as it may have been entitled to claim or deduct under paragraphs 20(1)(a), 20(7)(c) and 138(3)(a) and section 140 to the extent that that amount does not exceed its taxable income otherwise determined for the preceding taxation year.

(4.2) Idem — Subsection (4.1) does not apply to an insurer described in paragraph (1)(t) in respect of the taxable income of the insurer for a taxation year where more than 90% of the total of the gross premium income (net of reinsurance ceded) earned in the year by the insurer and, where the insurer is not a prescribed insurer, all other insurers that

(a) are specified shareholders of the insurer,

Subsec. 149(4.2) substituted by 1994, c. 7, Sch. II (1991, c. 49), subsec. 122(2), applicable to 1989 et seq. Subsec. (4.2) formerly read:

(4.2) Subsection (4.1) shall not apply in respect of an insurer described in paragraph (1)(t) in respect of the taxable income of the insurer for a taxation year where more than 90% of the gross premium income (net of reinsurance ceded) of the insurer and all other insurers that were specified shareholders of the insurer or were related to the insurer or, where the insurer is a mutual corporation, all other insurers that were part of a group that controlled or were controlled by the insurer for the year was in respect of the insurance of farm property, property used in fishing or residences of farmers or fishermen.

(4.3) Computation of taxable income of insurer — For the purposes of this Part, in computing the taxable income of an insurer for a particular taxation year, the insurer shall be deemed to have deducted under paragraphs 20(1)(a), 20(7)(c) and 138(3)(a) and section 140 in each taxation year preceding the particular year and in respect of which paragraph (1)(t) applied to the insurer, the greater of

(a) the amount it claimed or deducted under those provisions for that preceding year, and

(b) the greatest amount that could have been claimed or deducted under those provisions to the extent that the total thereof does not exceed the amount that would be its taxable income for that preceding year if no amount had been claimed or deducted under those provisions.

History: Subsec. 149(4.3) added by 1994, c. 7, Sch. II (1991, c. 49), subsec. 122(2), applicable to 1989 et seq., except that in its application to the 1989 and 1990 taxation years the subsec. shall be read as follows:

(4.3) In computing the taxable income of an insurer described in paragraph (1)(t) for a taxation year in respect of which subsection (1) applies to the insurer, the insurer shall be deemed to have claimed or deducted in each of its taxation years preceding the year the greater of such amount as it claimed or deducted and such amount as it was entitled to claim or deduct under paragraphs 20(1)(a), 20(7)(c) and 138(3)(a) and section 140 to the extent that that amount does not exceed its taxable income otherwise determined for the preceding taxation year.

(5) Exception re investment income of certain clubs — Notwithstanding subsections (1) and (2), where a club, society or association was for any period, a club, society or association described in paragraph (1)(l) the main purpose of which was to provide dining, recreational or sporting facilities for its members (in this subsection referred to as the "club"), an inter vivos trust shall be deemed to have been created on the later of the commencement of the period and the end of 1971 and to have continued in existence throughout the period, and, throughout that period, the following rules apply:

(a) the property of the club shall be deemed to be the property of the trust;

(b) where the club is a corporation, the corporation shall be deemed to be the trustee having control of the trust property;

(c) where the club is not a corporation, the officers of the club shall be deemed to be the trustees having control of the trust property;

(d) tax under this Part is payable by the trust on its taxable income for each taxation year;

(e) the income and taxable income of the trust for each taxation year shall be computed on the assumption that it had no incomes or losses other than

(i) incomes and losses from property, and

(ii) taxable capital gains and allowable capital losses from dispositions of property, other than property used exclusively for and directly in the course of providing the dining, recreational or sporting facilities provided by it for its members;

(f) in computing the taxable income of the trust for each taxation year

(i) there may be deducted, in addition to any other deductions permitted by this Part, $2,000, and

(ii) no deduction shall be made under section 112 or 113; and

(g) the provisions of subdivision k of Division B (except subsections 104(1) and (2)) do not apply in respect of the trust.

(7.1) Penalty for failure to file on time — Where a corporation fails to file the prescribed form as required by subsection (7) for a taxation year, it is liable to a penalty equal to the amount determined by the formula

$$A \times B$$

where

A is the greater of

(a) $500, and

(b) 2% of its taxable income for the year; and

B is the lesser of

(a) 12, and

(b) the number of months in whole or in part that are in the period that begins on the day on or before which the prescribed form is required to be filed and ends on the day it is filed.

History: Subsec. 149(7.1) added by 1996, c 21, subsec. 37(4), applicable to taxation years that end after February 27, 1995.

(8) Interpretation para. (1)(j) — For the purpose of paragraph (1)(j),

(a) a corporation is controlled by another corporation if more than 50% of its issued share capital (having full voting rights under all circumstances) belongs to

(i) the other corporation, or

(ii) the other corporation and persons with whom the other corporation does not deal at arm's length,

but a corporation shall be deemed not to have acquired control of a corporation if it has not purchased (or otherwise acquired for a consideration) any of the shares in the capital stock of that corporation; and

(b) there shall be included in computing a corporation's income and in determining its gross revenue the amount of all gifts received by the corporation and all amounts contributed to the corporation to be used for scientific research and experimental development.

Related Provisions: 212(14)(c)(i) — Certificate of exemption; 256(6), (6.1) — Extended meaning of "control".

History: Para. 149(8)(b) amended by 1996, c 21, subsec. 37(5), applicable to taxation years that begin after June 1995. Para. (b) formerly read:

(b) there shall be included in computing a corporation's income all gifts received by the corporation and all amounts contributed to the corporation to be used for scientific research and experimental development.

(9) Rules for determining gross revenue — In determining the gross revenue of a corporation for the purpose of determining whether it is described by paragraph (1)(j) for a taxation year,

(a) there may be deducted an amount not exceeding its gross revenue for the year computed without including or deducting any amount under this subsection; and

(b) there shall be included any amount that has been deducted under this subsection for the preceding taxation year.

Related Provisions: 212(14)(c)(i) — Certificate of exemption; 248(1) — Definition of "gross revenue".

History: Subsec. 149(9) amended by 1996, c 21, subsec. 37(6), applicable to taxation years that begin after June 1995. Subsec. (9) formerly read:

(9) Rules — In computing the income of a corporation for the purpose of determining whether it is described by paragraph (1)(j) for a taxation year,

(a) there may be deducted an amount not exceeding its income for the year computed without including or deducting any amount under this subsection; and

(b) there shall be included any amount that has been deducted under this subsection for the immediately preceding taxation year.

(10) Exempt corporations [becoming or ceasing to be exempt] — Where, at any time (in this subsection referred to as "that time"), a corporation becomes or ceases to be exempt from tax under this Part on its taxable income otherwise than by reason of paragraph (1)(t), the following rules apply:

(a) the taxation year of the corporation that would otherwise have included that time is deemed to have ended immediately before that time, a new taxation year of the corporation is deemed to have begun at that time and, for the purpose of determining the taxpayer's fiscal period after that time, the taxpayer is deemed not to have established a fiscal period before that time;

(a.1) for the purpose of computing the corporation's income for its first taxation year ending after that time, the corporation shall be deemed to have deducted under sections 20, 138 and 140 in computing its income for its taxation year ending immediately before that time, the greatest amount that could have been claimed or deducted for that year as a reserve under those sections;

(b) the corporation is deemed to have disposed, at the time (in this subsection referred to as the "disposition time") that is immediately before the time that is immediately before that time, of each property that was owned by it immediately before that time for an amount equal to its fair market value at that time and to have reacquired the property at that time at a cost equal to that fair market value;

(c) for the purposes of applying sections 37, 65 to 66.4, 66.7, 111 and 126, subsections 127(5) to (26) and section 127.3 to the corporation, the corporation is deemed to be a new corporation the first taxation year of which began at that time; and

(c) for the purposes of applying sections 37, 65 to 66.4, 66.7, 94.1 to 94.4, 111 and 126, subsections 127(5) to (35) and section 127.3 to the corporation, the corporation is deemed to be a new corporation the first taxation year of which began at that time; and

Application: The October 30, 2003 Notice of Ways and Means Motion (NRTs and FIEs), s. 30, will amend para. 149(10)(c) to read as above, applicable to each corporation that, after 2002, becomes or ceases to be exempt from tax on its taxable income under Part I of the Act.

Technical Notes: Subsection 149(10) of the Act applies where, at a particular time, a corporation becomes or ceases to be exempt from tax under Part I on its taxable income (otherwise than by reason of the exemption for certain insurers in paragraph 149(1)(t)). A new taxation year is considered to start at the particular time and the corporation's properties are deemed to have been disposed of at fair market value and reacquired at the particular time for the same amount.

Paragraph 149(10)(c) provides that the corporation is, for specified purposes in the Act, treated as a new corporation. One of the specified purposes is with regard to the investment tax credit regime set out in subsections 127(5) to (26).

Paragraph 149(10)(c) is amended so that it is also relevant in applying

- additional rules for the investment tax credit that are set out in subsections 127(27) to (35) (this amendment is consequential on the earlier enactment of those subsections), and
- sections 94.1 to 94.4. (For example, a corporation's "deferral amount" (as defined in subsection 94.2(1)) in respect of any interest it holds in a foreign investment entity is determined without reference to taxation years that occurred before the corporation's change of status. This will typically result in a nil deferral amount for the corporation.)

(d) where, immediately before the disposition time, the corporation's cumulative eligible capital in respect of a business exceeds the total of

(i) ¾ of the fair market value of the eligible capital property in respect of the business, and

(ii) the amount otherwise deducted under paragraph 20(1)(b) in computing the corporation's income from the business for the taxation year that ended immediately before that time, the excess shall be deducted under paragraph 20(1)(b) in computing the corporation's income from the business for the taxation year that ended immediately before that time.

Related Provisions: 16(2), (3) — Obligation issued at discount; 54"superficial loss"(c), (g) — Superficial loss rule does not apply; 87(2.1)(b) — Losses of predecessor corporation; 89(1.2) — Capital dividend account of corporation ceasing to be tax-exempt; 100 — Disposition of an interest in a partnership; 124(3) — Crown agents; 149(6) — Apportionment rule; 212(14) — Certificate of exemption; 216(1) — Alternative re rents and timber royalties; 219(2) — Exempt corporations; 227(14) — Application of Parts III, IV and VI to certain public corporations.

History: Paras. 149(10)(a), (b) to (d) amended by 1998, c. 19, subsecs. 178(5), (6), applicable to a corporation that becomes or ceases to be exempt from tax on its taxable income under Part I of the Act after April 26, 1995. Those paras. formerly read:

(a) the taxation year of the corporation that would otherwise have included that time shall be deemed to have ended immediately before that time and a new taxation year of the corporation shall be deemed to have commenced at that time;

. . . . .

(b) the corporation shall be deemed to have disposed, immediately before the time that is immediately before that time, of each property (other than, where, at that time, the corporation ceases to be exempt from tax under this Part on its taxable income, a Canadian resource property or a foreign resource property) that was owned by it immediately before that time for an amount equal to its fair market value at that time and to have reacquired the property at that time at a cost equal to that fair market value;

(c) where paragraph (b) applies in respect of depreciable property of the corporation and the capital cost thereof to the corporation immediately before the disposition exceeds the fair market value thereof at that time, for the purposes of sections 13 and 20 and any regulations made under paragraph 20(1)(a),

(i) the capital cost of the property to the corporation at that time shall be deemed to be the amount that was its capital cost thereof immediately before the disposition, and

(ii) the excess shall be deemed to have been allowed to the corporation in respect of the property under regulations made under paragraph 20(1)(a) in computing its income for taxation years ending before that time; and

(d) notwithstanding section 111, no amount is deductible in computing the corporation's taxable income for a taxation year ending after that time in respect of a non-capital loss, net capital loss, restricted farm loss, farm loss or limited partnership loss for a taxation year ending before that time to the extent that the loss could have been applied to reduce the corporation's taxable income for taxation years ending before that time.

(11) Geographical boundaries — body performing government functions — For the purpose of this section, the geographical boundaries of a municipal or public body performing a function of government are

(a) the geographical boundaries that encompass the area in respect of which an Act of Parliament or an agreement given effect by an Act of Parliament recognizes or grants to the body a power to impose taxes; or

(b) if paragraph (a) does not apply, the geographical boundaries within which that body has been authorized by the laws of Canada or of a province to exercise that function.

Application: The February 27, 2004 draft legislation, subsec. 87(5), will add subsec. 149(11), applicable to taxation years that begin after May 8, 2000.

Notwithstanding subsec. 152(4) to (5), any assessment of a taxpayer's tax payable under the Act for any taxation year that began before February 27, 2004 shall be made that is necessary to give effect to the amendment.

Technical Notes: Subsection 149(11) is added to define, for the purposes of section 149, the geographical boundaries of a municipal or public body performing a function of government in Canada. Those boundaries are defined as encompassing the area in respect of which an Act of Parliament or an agreement given effect by an Act of Parliament recognizes or grants to the body a power to impose taxes; or if there has been no such recognition or grant, the area within which the body has been authorized by the laws of Canada or of a province to exercise that function.

For example, if a particular self-governing First Nation meets the definition of "a public body performing a function of government in Canada," it is intended that the relevant geographic boundary would delineate the area where the self-government agreement, or the statute enacting self-government powers, provides the First Nation authority to impose direct taxes. As a second example, if a particular Indian Band meets the definition of "a public body performing a function of government in Canada," it is intended that the geographic boundary of the Indian Band be the band's reserves as defined in the Indian Act. Similarly, if a particular school board meets the definition of "a municipal or public body performing a function of government in Canada" it is intended that the geographic boundary of the school board be the area of jurisdiction of the board as defined by provincial legislation or regulation.

History: Subsec. 149(11) repealed by 1998, c. 19, subsec. 178(7), in force on June 18, 1998. Subsec. 149(11) formerly read:

> (11) Exception — Subsection (10) does not apply to a corporation that ceases to be exempt from tax under this Part after November 12, 1981 by reason of control of the corporation being acquired by a person or persons pursuant to an agreement in writing entered into on or before that date.

(12) Information returns — Every person who, because of paragraph (1)(e) or (l), is exempt from tax under this Part on all or part of the person's taxable income shall, within 6 months after the end of each fiscal period of the person and without notice or demand therefor, file with the Minister an information return for the period in prescribed form and containing prescribed information, if

(a) the total of all amounts each of which is a taxable dividend or an amount received or receivable by the person as, on account of, in lieu of or in satisfaction of, interest, rentals or royalties in the period exceeds $10,000;

(b) at the end of the person's preceding fiscal period the total assets of the person (determined in accordance with generally accepted accounting principles) exceeded $200,000; or

(c) an information return was required to be filed under this subsection by the person for a preceding fiscal period.

Related Provisions: 149.1(14) — Charity information return; 162(7)(a) — Penalty for failure to file; 233 — Demand for information return.

History: Subsec. 149(12) added by 1994, c. 7, Sch. VIII (1993, c. 24), subsec. 88(4), applicable to fiscal periods ending after 1992.

Charities

Proposed Amendments — Registered Charities

Federal budget, Notice of Ways and Means Motion, March 23, 2004: Registered Charities — Regulatory Reform

(25) That the provisions of the Act relating to charities be modified in accordance with proposals described in the budget documents tabled by the Minister of Finance in the House of Commons on March 23, 2004.

Federal budget, Supplementary Information, March 23, 2004: Registered Charities — Regulatory Reform

There are approximately 80,000 charities registered under the Income Tax Act. Canadians recognize the value of charitable giving and the important contribution that Canada's registered charities make towards improving quality of life. In 2002 alone, 5.5 million Canadians made financial or in-kind donations worth $5.8 billion.

In March 2003 the Joint Regulatory Table (JRT), in its report "Strengthening Canada's Charitable Sector: Regulatory Reform", made 75 recommendations for improvements to the rules governing charities under the Income Tax Act. This report is the result of extensive consultations between the Government of Canada, the charitable sector and other key stakeholders. The JRT was launched in November 2000, as one of six tables established by the Government's Voluntary Sector Initiative.

Registered charities have not benefited from any significant updating to the administrative regime since 1983. The following budget measures significantly improve the regulatory framework for registered charities. These measures will also enhance Canadians' confidence that their generous donations to registered charities are well-managed. Specifically, Budget 2004:

- Responds to the recommendations of the JRT concerning registered charities by proposing:
  - — A new compliance regime.
  - — A more accessible appeals regime.
  - — More transparency and greater accessibility to information.
- Proposes to improve the disbursement quota rules.

Compliance Regime

Overall Compliance Strategy

The JRT established as key principles of regulatory reform that the regulatory framework should uphold the integrity of the provisions in the Income Tax Act and facilitate public trust in the work of charities.

Currently, the only sanction against a registered charity that does not comply with the requirements of the Income Tax Act is the revocation of its status as a registered charity (i.e. de-registration) [see 168(1) — ed.]. A revoked charity loses its tax-exempt status and its privilege to issue tax receipts. It must also transfer its assets within one year from its revocation to one or more registered charities [see 188(1)(a)C — ed.]. Any property remaining in the hands of the charity one year after the revocation must be transferred to the Crown [see 188(1) — ed.]. This requirement is often referred to as the revocation tax.

Each year the registration of about 2,000 charities is revoked. Most of those revocations occur because of a failure to file the required annual information return, or because the charity is being discontinued. A small number (15-20) are revoked each year for serious non-compliance.

Because of its harshness, revocation is seldom imposed for minor infractions. Consequently, lesser forms of non-compliance may go unchecked, thus diminishing public confidence in the legitimacy of charities and in how donations are spent.

Budget 2004 therefore proposes a more responsive approach to the regulation of charities for Income Tax Act purposes, taking into account the small size of most registered charities and the goodwill of the volunteers who operate them.

The first priority will be to encourage compliance through education. The Canada Revenue Agency (CRA) will work in partnership with leading sector organizations to help volunteers and employees who work for charities to know and understand the rules better.

Coupled with the continued use by the Minister of National Revenue of compliance agreements to help correct minor or inadvertent infractions, this new approach will emphasize risk control, problem solving, and compliance management. The Minister of National Revenue will continue to be able to revoke the registration of charities for more severe cases of non-compliance.

In addition, the budget proposes to introduce new, more effective sanctions that are more appropriate than revocation for relatively minor breaches of the Income Tax Act. The proposed sanctions will generally respond directly to activities that contravene the rules, thereby making the income tax rules for charities clearer and fairer. The sanctions will also be progressive, generally increasing in severity for repeat infractions. All proposed sanctions deal with infractions that are already identified in the Act. Moreover, a mechanism will be established to allow financial penalties to be reinvested in the charitable sector.

Proposed Intermediate Taxes and Penalties

Proposed sanctions and taxes include:

- The taxation of gross revenue generated by a registered charity from prohibited activities that generate income. The tax will apply: to private foundations that carry on a business activity; to charitable organizations and public foundations that carry on an unrelated business activity; and to foundations that acquire control of a corporation through means other than those allowed under the Act.
- Suspension of a registered charity's tax-receipting privileges for using donated funds other than for charitable purposes. This may include, for example, situations where a registered charity provides undue benefits to its trustees. A suspended charity will be prohibited from issuing official receipts and from receiving funds from qualified donees — that is, other organizations that can also issue official receipts — for a period of one year. The charity will also be required to advise potential donors of its suspension. A suspended charity's administrative and regulatory obligations — for instance, meeting its disbursement quota, or filing its annual information return — will continue during the suspension period.
- Monetary penalties for failure by a registered charity to file its annual information return on time as stipulated in the Act, together with publication of the names of late-or non-filers. These measures are intended to encourage registered charities to be more diligent in filing annual information returns for the benefit of the public and the tax authorities. Registered charities currently have six months from the end of their fiscal year to file an annual information return. Registered charities that have not filed on time will, as a first step, be subject to a penalty of $500. Further, registered charities that do not file upon the receipt of a demand to file from the Minister of National Revenue will have their registration revoked. Revoked charities will be allowed to apply for re-registration. If they do so apply and are re-registered within one year of the date of revocation, they will not be required to pay the revocation tax [188(1) — ed.], provided they file the missing returns, pay all outstanding penalties and other taxes, and otherwise comply with the provisions of the Income Tax Act. However, revoked charities that are not re-registered during that period will be subject to the revocation tax.

The proposed new sanctions regime is described in more detail in the table below. Charities will have the right to object to the imposition of an intermediate tax or penalty and, subsequently, to appeal to the Tax Court of Canada.

Table A9.3

Registered Charities: Intermediate Taxes and Penalties

Infraction	Tax or Penalty (Unless registration of the charity is revoked) — First infraction	Repeat infraction (Repeated acts or omissions will increase the probability of revocation)
Late filing of annual information return [149.1(14) — ed.]	$500 penalty	$500 penalty
Issuing of receipts with incomplete information [Reg. 3501(1) — ed.]	5% penalty on the eligible amount stated on the receipt	10% penalty on the eligible amount stated on the receipt
Failure to comply with certain verification and enforcement sections of the Income Tax Act (230 to 231.5), eg keeping proper books and records	Suspension of tax-receipting privileges	Suspension of tax-receipting privileges
Charitable organization or public foundation carrying on an unrelated business [149.1(2)(a), (3)(a) — ed.]	5% tax on gross unrelated business revenue earned in a taxation year	100% tax on gross unrelated business revenue earned in a taxation year and suspension of tax-receipting privileges
Private foundation carrying on any business [149.1(4)(a) — ed.]	5% tax on gross business revenue earned in a taxation year	100% tax on gross business revenue earned in a taxation year, and suspension of tax-receipting privileges
Foundation acquires control of a corporation [149.1(4)(c) — ed.]	5% tax on dividends paid to the charity by the corporation	100% tax on dividends paid to the charity by the corporation
Undue personal benefit provided by a charity to any person [149.1(1)"charitable foundation", "charitable organization"(b) — ed.]. For example, a transfer to a person who does not deal at arm's length with the charity or who is the beneficiary of a transfer because of a special relationship with a donor or a charity	105% tax on the amount of undue benefit	110% tax on the amount of undue benefit and suspension of tax-receipting privileges
A gift that is restricted under subsections 149.1(2), (3) or (4) of the Act [149.1(2)(c), (3)(b.1), (4)(b.1) — ed.]	105% tax on the amount of the gift	110% tax on the amount of the gift
Issuing receipts in a taxation year for eligible amounts that in total do not exceed $20,000 if there is no gift or if the receipt contains false information	125% tax on the eligible amount stated on the receipt	125% tax on the eligible amount stated on the receipt
Issuing receipts in a taxation year for eligible amounts that in total exceed $20,000, if there is no gift or if the receipt or if the receipt contains false information	Suspension of tax-receipting privileges and 125% tax on the eligible amount stated on the receipt	Suspension of tax-receipting privileges and 125% tax on the eligible amount stated on the receipt
Delaying expenditure of amounts on charitable activities through the transfer of funds to another registered charity [149.1(4.1) — ed.]	The charities involved are jointly and severally, or solidarily, liable for the amounts so transferred plus a 10% tax on those amounts	The charities involved are jointly and severally, or solidarily, liable for the amounts so transferred plus a 10% tax on those amounts

Notes:

These intermediate sanctions will not prevent application of the current provisions, which allow the Minister of National Revenue to revoke the registration of a charity in respect of any of the above infractions. For example, failure to file an information return may result in revocation of registered status upon a first infraction.

This chart does not include infractions for which no tax or penalty would be assessed, but which would lead to revocation, e.g. ceasing to conduct charitable activities.

Taxes and penalties will be assessed in aggregate for a taxation year.

A repeat infraction is an action in a taxation year that gives rise to a tax or penalty in respect of which an assessment was previously raised for a preceding taxation year.

Rules of general application may also apply in addition to the sanctions referred to above, e.g. the failure to keep proper books and records is an offence punishable by a fine or imprisonment.

These measures will apply in respect of taxation years that begin after March 22, 2004.

Transfer of Amounts in Respect of Taxes and Penalties

Where a particular charity is required to pay taxes and penalties for a taxation year which total more than $1,000, the charity will be permitted to satisfy its liability by transferring amounts to eligible donees as determined by the Minister of National Revenue. This will ensure that funds raised for charity may continue to be applied to charitable purposes.

For these purposes, an eligible donee in respect of a particular charity is a registered charity that satisfies all of the following conditions:

- It is fully compliant with the requirements of the Income Tax Act (i.e. not at that time subject to any tax, penalties or suspensions, etc. under the Act).
- It is not subject to a certificate pursuant to the Charities Registration (Security Information) Act.
- It is a charity, more than 50 per cent of the members of the board of directors or trustees of which deal at arms' length with each member of the board of directors or trustees of the particular charity.

Revocation

The Minister of National Revenue will retain the authority to revoke the registered status of a charity [see 168(1) — ed.] for severe breaches of the Income Tax Act including continued, repeated or cumulative infractions, and in cases where it is clear that the organization is being operated for purposes that are not charitable.

In addition, Budget 2004 proposes to allow the Minister of National Revenue to revoke the registration of an organization that obtained its registration on the basis of false or deliberately misleading information. This new ground for revocation is intended to provide the Minister of National Revenue with an expedited method of dealing with organizations that have obtained registration on false pretences.

Revocation Tax

Currently, a charity that has had its registration revoked has one year from the date of that revocation to divest itself of its assets — to registered charities or other qualified donees [see 188(1)(a)C — ed.]. The balance of the net assets of a revoked charity, after this divestiture, must be transferred to the Crown as a revocation tax.

Eligible Transfers on Revocation

The budget proposes that a particular charity whose registration has been revoked will be able to transfer assets only to registered charities, and only where those charities satisfy the conditions of the new eligible donee definition set out above. Other qualified donees such as municipalities, foreign universities and United Nations Agencies will not be eligible for transfers on divestiture, since the intent is to keep the money invested within the charitable sector in Canada, and applied to charitable purposes that are analogous to those for which the funds were originally raised.

Freezing Tax-Assisted Assets

The ability of a revoked charity to divest assets within one year of revocation provides a one-year suspension of any collection action in respect of the revocation tax. Cases can arise, however, where the Minister of National Revenue becomes aware that a revoked charity's assets are being diverted or directed for private benefit.

In order to collect the revocation tax in a timely manner, the budget proposes that the revocation tax be assessed in the Notice of Intended Revocation issued by the Minister of National Revenue. The assessment will be based on information received as a result of an audit or from the latest information return submitted by the charity. The normal suspension of collection for one year from the date of the publication of the Notice will not apply if the CRA obtains authorization from a judge to commence collection proceedings before that time [similar to 225.2(2) — ed.]. A charity whose registration has been revoked will retain the opportunity to satisfy the liability by transferring assets to an eligible donee, as described above.

Annulment

The Income Tax Act will be amended to provide explicit authority to the Minister of National Revenue to annul an organization's registration in circumstances where the Minister registered the organization in error. In recognition of the CRA's role in registering charities, and consistent with the current practice of the Minister of National Revenue under annulments made pursuant to administrative law, a revocation tax [188(1) — ed.] will not be applied in such circumstances, and official receipts issued prior to annulment will be honoured.

The measures relating to revocation and annulment will apply to notices issued by the Minister of National Revenue after the later of December 31, 2004 and 30 days after Royal Assent to any measure giving effect to this proposal.

Appeals Regime

Where a registered charity or applicant for registration disagrees with a decision of the Canada Revenue Agency (CRA), its recourse is to appeal the decision to the Federal Court of Appeal. Budget 2004 proposes to make the appeals process more accessible and affordable for registered charities and unsuccessful applicants by creating an impartial CRA internal reconsideration process for matters affecting charities, and by allowing for appeals of taxes and intermediate penalties to be made to the Tax Court of Canada.

Internal Reconsideration Process

Unlike other taxpayers, registered charities and applicants do not currently have access to the internal objection review process of the CRA. The budget proposes to extend the application of CRA's existing objection review process to notices of decisions regarding:

- Applications for registration that have been denied.
- Revocations or annulments of a charity's registration
- Designations relating to whether a registered charity is a private or public foundation or one that is directly involved with charitable programs and services.
- Impositions of any taxes or penalties against a registered charity.

As part of this objection process:

- A valid Notice of Objection by an organization will be required to be filed within 90 days from the issuance by the CRA of the notice which is the subject of the objection.
- The results of the review will be required to be communicated to the organization in writing.
- The objection process will be mandatory before an appeal may be made to a court.

External Appeals Process

Appeals of decisions on registration and revocation will continue to be directed to the Federal Court of Appeal. Appeals of decisions to annul the registration of a charity will also be directed to the Federal Court of Appeal. Appeals of taxes and penalties, described above under the heading A New Compliance Regime for Registered Charities, may be directed to the Tax Court of Canada.

It is proposed that these measures apply in respect of notices of decisions referred to above that are issued by the Minister of National Revenue after the later of December 31, 2004, and 30 days after Royal Assent to any measure giving effect to this proposal.

This new objection and appeals processes will not apply to an applicant or a registered charity that is the subject of a certificate under the Charities Registration (Security Information) Act. The current process for such cases will continue to apply.

Transparency and Accessibility of Information

The Canada Revenue Agency (CRA) is authorized to disclose information about the status of registered charities and some of their financial information. The budget proposes to further enhance transparency and accessibility by making new information available on registered charities, the registration process, regulatory decisions, and compliance activities and results. These proposals will not compromise existing safeguards that are in place to protect the privacy of individuals.

Making the CRA's decision process more transparent and accessible will enhance the charitable sector's awareness of the income tax rules and how they are applied. At the same time, greater transparency and accessibility means greater accountability, serving to reinforce confidence within the donating public in the integrity of the CRA and the charitable sector.

Information Pertaining to Registered Charities

At present, Canadians have access to a variety of useful information on currently or previously registered charities. This includes annual information returns, governing documents, the names of directors and the periods during which they were directors, registration letters and notices of revocation.

Budget 2004 proposes to authorize the Minister of National Revenue to release to the public the following additional information regarding registered charities, where such information has been submitted to the Minister after 2004:

- Financial statements that are filed with annual information returns.
- Letters sent by the CRA to a charity relating to the grounds for annulment of the charity's registration.
- The CRA's decisions regarding a notice of objection filed by a registered charity.
- The information that a registered charity has filed in support of an application for special status or an exemption under the Act, as well as any responses to such applications from the CRA (e.g. requests for permission to accumulate assets).
- The identification of a registered charity on which a sanction has been imposed, the type of sanction imposed, and the letter sent to the charity relating to the grounds for the sanction.

Information Pertaining to Organizations Denied Registration

Currently, no information is made available to the public about organizations that have been denied registration as registered charities under the Income Tax Act. Access to such information will assist the charitable sector and the public in understanding how the CRA determines whether an organization meets the criteria for registration as a registered charity. Accordingly, the CRA will make available its reasons for denying the registration of an organization. This will include, in such a manner as to withhold the identity of an applicant, the following information if submitted or received by an organization in the course of making an application to the CRA for registration as a registered charity:

- The governing documents of the organization, including the organization's statement of purpose.
- Information disclosed by the organization in the course of making the application.
- A copy of the notice of denial in respect of the organization.
- A copy of the decision, if any, of the CRA's Appeals Branch regarding a notice of objection, if any, filed by the organization.

Information Pertaining to Organizations Denied Registration

Currently, no information is made available to the public about organizations that have been denied registration as registered charities under the Income Tax Act. Access to such information will assist the charitable sector and the public in understanding how the CRA determines whether an organization meets the criteria for registration as a registered charity. Accordingly, the CRA will make available its reasons for denying the registration of an organization. This will include, in such a manner as to withhold the identity of an applicant, the following information if submitted or received by an organization in the course of making an application to the CRA for registration as a registered charity:

- The governing documents of the organization, including the organization's statement of purpose.
- Information disclosed by the organization in the course of making the application.
- A copy of the notice of denial in respect of the organization.
- A copy of the decision, if any, of the CRA's Appeals Branch regarding a notice of objection, if any, filed by the organization.

Additional Information on Official Tax Receipts

The Income Tax Regulations currently require registered charities to include certain information on their official receipts, such as details about the charity and the donor, the eligible amount in respect of the gift and the date of the gift. The budget proposes to also require that the name and website address of the CRA appear on all official receipts. This change will take effect for receipts issued after 2004.

Increasing Public Information and Sector Education

The CRA proposes to increase public education on what to be aware of when giving to charities, how to confirm the status of a charity, and how to file a complaint about a charity. In addition, the CRA will post on its website the reasons for its registration decisions as well as the policies, procedures and research databases it uses for its decision-making. The CRA will also make available to the public an annual report on its activities related to registered charities.

A More Transparent Relationship with the Charitable Sector

Registered charities will now have a stronger voice in shaping the administration of tax rules through a newly created Charities Advisory Committee. The Committee will be comprised of sector representatives, and mandated to advise the Minister of National Revenue on these administrative issues. [Details on the Committee are available in Registered Charities Newsletter No. 19 — ed.]

Disbursement Quota Rules

[See Proposed Amendments under 149.1(1)"disbursement quota" — ed.]

[Table A9.1 in the Budget Supplementary Information estimates that the charity regulatory reforms will cost $12 million in 2004-05 and $12 million in 2005-06. Finance indicates that this refers to costs of extra audit capacity; training; implementation and administration of internal reconsideration processes and appeals, assessment and collection operations for new taxes and penalties; the Charities Advisory Committee; and joint educational programs with sector organizations to inform charity volunteers and staff about the tax rules. The income from the proposed penalties is expected to be small, as most charities will set off any taxes and penalties with payments to other eligible charities — ed.]

(i) each of the other directors, trustees, officers and like officials of the organization, and

(ii) each person who, and each member of a group of persons who do not deal with each other at arm's length that, has contributed or otherwise paid into the organization more than 50% of the capital of the organization (other than Her Majesty in right of Canada or of a province, a municipality, another registered charity that is not a private foundation, and any club, society or association described in paragraph 149(1)(l)), and

(ii) by a person, or by a group of persons that do not deal at arm's length with each other, if the person or any member of the group does not deal at arm's length with a person described in subparagraph (i);

Application: The February 27, 2004 draft legislation, subsec. 88(1), will amend paras. (c) and (d) of the definition "charitable organization" in subsec. 149.1(1) to read as above, applicable after 1999 except that, in respect of a charitable organization that was not designated as a private foundation or a public foundation under subsec. 149.1(6.3) or under subsec. 110(8.1) or (8.2), as enacted by R.S.C. 1952, c. 148 [repealed; see Pre-RSC History to 110(8.1), (8.2) on TaxPartner or taxnet.pro], and has not applied after February 15, 1984 for registration under para. 110(8)(c) of that Act [repealed; see Pre-RSC History to 110(8)] or under the definition "registered charity" in subsec. 248(1), subpara. (c)(ii) of the definition "charitable organization", as amended, applies after 2004.

Technical Notes (December 20, 2002): The definition "charitable organization" provides that more than 50% of the directors, trustees, officers or similar officials of a charitable organization must deal with each other and with each of the other directors, trustees, officers or similar officials at arm's length.

For a charity that has applied for registration after February 15, 1984 and which has been designated as a private or public foundation, the definition "charitable organization" also requires that not more than 50% of the charity's capital be contributed by a person or group of persons not dealing with each other at arm's length. This definition is amended to replace the "contribution" test with a "control" test. As a result, a charity will not be disqualified from being treated as a charitable organization solely because a person, or a group of persons not dealing with each other at arm's length, has contributed more than 50% of the charity's capital. However, such a person or group is not permitted to control the charity in any way, nor may the person or the members of the group represent more than 50% of the directors, trustees, officers and similar officials of the charity.

Letter from Dept. of Finance, September 11, 2001:

Dear [xxx]

I am responding to your recent inquiry concerning the capital restriction in the definition of charitable organization of not more than 50% of the capital contributed to the organization by one person or a group of persons not dealing at arm's length.

This matter has been brought to our attention recently in the context that it could have unintentional implications prohibiting large one-time donations.

From a tax policy perspective, we agree that the income tax provisions should not have the effect of prohibiting or limiting charitable giving. Under the current definition of "charitable organization", the capital restriction of not more than 50% could unintentionally have that effect.

Consequently, and in light of the other restrictions in the income tax provisions including disbursements requirements, we are recommending to the Minister of Finance that the definition "charitable organization" in subsection 149.1(1) of the Act be amended to ensure that in certain circumstances large donations are not prohibited. In particular, we are recommending the replacement of the current contribution test with a post-donation test. This test will require that, at all times after the donation, any person (or group of persons not dealing at arm's length) contributing more than 50% of the capital of the organization must deal at arm's length with more than half of the directors, trustees and officers of the organization, and must not have any direct or indirect influence over the organization such that, if exercised, it would be reasonable to conclude that the person (or group) controls the organization or one or more activities of the organization.

We are recommending that such an amendment apply for the purpose of determining an organization's status after 1999. If the recommendation is acted upon, we anticipate that the amendment would be included in a future income tax technical bill.

Yours sincerely,
Len Farber
General Director, Tax Legislation Division

Proposed Amendments — Disbursement quota

Federal budget, Supplementary Information, March 23, 2004: Disbursement Quota Rules

In order to retain registered status, charities must fulfil minimum annual disbursement requirements set out in the Income Tax Act. These rules, known as the disbursement quota rules, ensure that a significant portion of a registered charity's resources are devoted to charitable programs and services, rather than, for example, fundraising, management, or administration. A summary description of these rules is provided below.

Overview of Current Disbursement Quota Rules

A registered charity must annually disburse an amount at least equal to the total of the following [see 149.1(1)"disbursement quota"A and A.1 — ed.]:

- 80% of tax-receipted donations (other than endowments) received by it in the previous year.
- 80% of the proceeds from the disposition of endowments in the year.

For charitable foundations, 4.5% of the fair market value of its capital assets (such as investments) that are not used directly in charitable activities or administration [see 149.1(1)"disbursement quota"D — ed.]

For charitable foundations, a percentage of amounts received by it from other registered charities: 80% for public foundations and 100% for private foundations [see 149.1(1)"disbursement quota"B — ed.].

A registered charity meets its annual disbursement obligation by expending amounts on the delivery of its own charitable programs and services, or by transferring funds to registered charities and other qualified donees [see 149.1(2)(b), (3)(b) and (4)(b) — ed.]

The budget proposes to introduce several changes to the disbursement quota rules and to eliminate certain regulatory barriers to ensure that registered charities can effectively manage the gifts entrusted to them by Canadians.

Disbursement Quota on Capital Assets

Disbursement Quota Rate

Budget 2004 proposes to replace the fixed 4.5% disbursement quota rate [see 0.045 in the formula in 149.1(1)"disbursement quota" — ed.] with a new rate that is more representative of historical long-term real rates of return earned on the typical investment portfolio held by a registered charity.

Given the ongoing nature of charitable activities, it is appropriate to allow charities to maintain a capital asset base on a sustainable long-term basis. Accordingly, the disbursement quota rate on capital assets should be set at a level that can sustain the real value of a charity's capital assets over the long-term. This is consistent with the long-term intentions of donors who provide gifts in the form of endowments.

Analysis indicates that the current 4.5% disbursement quota rate is high relative to long-term investment returns. Accordingly, the budget proposes to reduce the 4.5% disbursement quota rate on capital assets to 3.5%. This rate will be reviewed periodically to ensure that it continues to be representative of long-term rates of return.

This change will apply to taxation years that begin after March 22, 2004.

Realizing Capital Gains from Endowments

Registered charities typically hold capital endowments that produce investment income in the form of capital gains, dividends, and interest. Since an annual disbursement quota is applied on the value of these capital endowments, registered charities will need to use the investment income in order to meet their disbursement obligations. In some cases, the return on an investment is weighted heavily in favour of capital gains, rather than cash flow such as dividends or interest. In these circumstances, a registered charity might prefer to meet its disbursement quota by realizing, and expending, capital gains that have accrued on endowments, if the terms of the gift do not restrict the charity from this action. However, if the charity does so, under the current rules it must then meet an 80% disbursement obligation to the extent that the proceeds of disposition are expended by the charity. The effect of the current rules is to discourage registered charities from realizing capital gains in order to meet disbursement obligations to fund charitable programs and services.

Budget 2004 therefore proposes to reduce the 80% disbursement requirement that applies to the expenditure of proceeds from the disposition of such endowments, by the lesser of 80% of the capital gain realized on the disposition and 3.5% of the value of all property not used directly in charitable activities or administration.

This proposal will apply to taxation years that begin after March 22, 2004.

Extending the 3.5% Disbursement Quota to Charitable Organizations

Historically, charitable foundations were the primary beneficiaries of endowments. For that reason, only charitable foundations were made subject to a disbursement obligation on endowments [see 149.1(1)"disbursement quota"D — ed.]. Currently, however, both charitable organizations and charitable foundations may hold capital endowments from which they generate investment income. Accordingly, the budget proposes that charitable organizations be made subject to the 3.5% disbursement obligation on their capital assets. With this change, all registered charities will be subject to the same disbursement obligations on their capital assets.

In order to provide charitable organizations registered before March 23, 2004 with sufficient time to adjust to this new requirement, this measure will apply only to their taxation years that begin after 2008. For charitable organizations registered after March 22, 2004, this measure will apply to taxation years that begin after that date.

Transfers Between Registered Charities

Gifts Transferred to Charitable Organizations

Currently, both charitable organizations and charitable foundations may receive funds transferred from other charities. Those transfers may be used to satisfy the disbursement quota of the transferor charity and, if the transfer is made to a registered charitable foundation, is taken into account in calculating its disbursement quota (at a rate of 80% for public foundations and 100% for private foundations). However, the receipt of these transfers is not taken into account in calculating the disbursement quota of a charitable organization [see 149.1(1)"disbursement quota"A(c) — ed.]

The budget, therefore, proposes to ensure that all transfers from one registered charity to another are subject to a disbursement requirement. In particular, an 80% disbursement requirement will be applied to transfers (other than specified gifts and transfers of capital endowments, as described below) received by registered charitable organizations in taxation years that begin after March 22, 2004.

Transfer of Endowments

Registered charities often receive gifts by way of bequest or inheritance, or that are subject to a condition that the gift be held by the charity for a period of not less than 10 years. Such gifts are often referred to as endowments.

Where the terms of the endowment so allow, a registered charity may transfer property received as an endowment to another registered charity. However, the existing income tax rules for endowments provide impediments to such transfers, generally because of the interaction of the disbursement obligations on both the transferor and the transferee.

In order to facilitate these transfers, Budget 2004 proposes that an endowment received by a registered charity from another registered charity result in the same treatment as if the endowment had been received directly from the original donor. This will be effected by applying a 100% disbursement requirement to the transferor (which will be satisfied by the transfer), and by treating the endowment in the hands of the recipient charity as if it had been received directly from the original donor.

This proposal will apply to taxation years that begin after March 22, 2004.

Gifts Made by Way of Direct Designation

Currently, upon the death of an individual, a charitable donations tax credit may be claimed in the individual's terminal income tax return for gifts made to a registered charity as a result of a designation of the charity as the direct beneficiary of the individual's registered retirement savings plan (RRSP) [see 118.1(5.3) — ed.], registered retirement income fund (RRIF) [118.1(5.3) — ed.], or life insurance policy [118.1(5.1) — ed.]. The charitable sector has expressed concern that, while these gifts are analogous to endowments, they are currently subject to the same disbursement quota rules as ordinary gifts.

The budget proposes to treat such gifts made by way of direct designation as endowments for the purpose of the disbursement quota rules. This means that such gifts will be subject only to the 3.5% disbursement quota while they are held as capital, and the 80% disbursement requirement in the year they are liquidated.

This proposal will apply to taxation years that begin after March 22, 2004.

Endowments Received and Spent in the Same Year

Currently, endowments are subject to an 80% disbursement requirement to the extent that the registered charity liquidates and spends the capital in a year following the year in which the gift is received [see 149.1(1)"disbursement quota"A.1 — ed.]. Budget 2004 proposes that the 80% disbursement requirement also apply to gifts of capital that are liquidated in the same year that they are received.

This proposal will apply to taxation years that begin after March 22, 2004.

"public foundation" means a charitable foundation of which,

(a) where the foundation has been registered after February 15, 1984 or designated as a charitable organization or private foundation pursuant to subsection (6.3) or to subsection 110(8.1) or (8.2) of the Income Tax Act, chapter 148 of the Revised Statutes of Canada, 1952,

(i) more than 50% of the directors, trustees, officers or like officials deal with each other and with each of the other directors, trustees, officers or officials at arm's length, and

(ii) not more than 50% of the capital contributed or otherwise paid in to the foundation has been so contributed or otherwise paid in by one person or members of a group of such persons who do not deal with each other at arm's length, or

(b) in any other case,

(i) more than 50% of the directors or trustees deal with each other and with each of the other directors or trustees at arm's length, and

(ii) not more than 75% of the capital contributed or otherwise paid in to the foundation has been so contributed or otherwise paid in by one person or by a group of persons who do not deal with each other at arm's length and, for the purpose of subparagraph (a)(ii), a reference to any person or to members of a group does not include a reference to Her Majesty in right of Canada or a province, a municipality, another registered charity that is not a private foundation, or any club, society or association described in paragraph 149(1)(l);

Proposed Amendment — 149.1(1) "public foundation"

"public foundation" means a charitable foundation

(a) of which more than 50% of the directors, trustees, officers and like officials deal at arm's length with each other and with

(i) each of the other directors, trustees, officers and like officials of the foundation, and

(ii) each person who, and each member of a group of persons who do not deal with each other at arm's length that, has contributed or otherwise paid into the foundation more than 50% of the capital of the foundation (other than Her Majesty in right of Canada or of a province, a municipality, another registered charity that is not a private foundation, and any club, society or association described in paragraph 149(1)(l)),

(b) that is not, and would not be if the foundation were a corporation, controlled directly or indirectly in any manner whatever

(i) by a person that has contributed or otherwise paid into the foundation more than 50% of the capital of the organization (other than Her Majesty in right of Canada or of a province, a municipality, another registered charity that is not a private foundation, and any club, society or association described in paragraph 149(1)(l)), or

(ii) by a person, or by a group of persons that do not deal at arm's length with each other, if the person or any member of the group does not deal at arm's length with a person described in subparagraph (i);

Application: The February 27, 2004 draft legislation, subsec. 88(4), will amend the definition "public foundation" in subsec. 149.1(1) to read as above, applicable after 1999 except that, in respect of a charitable organization that was not designated as a private foundation or a charitable organization under subsec. 149.1(6.3) or under subsec. 110(8.1) or (8.2), as enacted by R.S.C. 1952, c. 148 [repealed; see Pre-RSC History to 110(8.1), (8.2) on TaxPartner or taxnet.pro], and has not applied after February 15, 1984 for registration under para. 110(8)(c) of that Act [repealed; see Pre-RSC History to 110(8)] or under the definition "registered charity" in subsec. 248(1), para. (b) of the definition "public foundation", as amended, is in its application before 2005 to be read

(a) without reference to the expression "(other than Her Majesty in right of Canada or of a province, a municipality, another registered charity that is not a private foundation, and any club, society or association described in paragraph 149(1)(l))"; and

(b) as if the reference to "50%" in that paragraph were read as "75%".

Technical Notes (December 20, 2002): The definition "public foundation" provides that more than 50% of the directors, trustees, officers or similar officials of a public foundation must deal with each other and with each of the other directors, trustees, officers or similar officials at arm's length.

This definition requires that not more than 50% (75% in some cases) of the foundation's capital can be contributed by a person or group of persons not dealing with each other at arm's length. The "contribution" test in the definition is replaced by a "control" test. As a result, a foundation will not be disqualified from being treated as a public foundation solely because a person, or a group of persons not dealing with each other at arm's length, has contributed more than 50% of the foundation's capital. However, such a person or group is not permitted to control the foundation in any way, nor may the person or the members of the group represent more than 50% of the directors, trustees, officers and similar officials of the foundation.

Letter from Dept. of Finance, December 13, 2002:

Dear [xxx]

I am writing in response to your letter dated November 14, 2002, in which you requested that the definition of a "public foundation" in the Income Tax Act be amended in a manner similar to the change that has been proposed in respect of charitable organizations.

In particular, we have agreed to recommend an amendment that will replace the current contribution test for charitable organizations with a test applying after a donation is made. Under this test, any person (or group of persons not dealing at arm's length) contributing more than 50% of the capital of the organization must deal at arm's length with more than half of the directors, trustees and officers of the organization, and must not have any direct or indirect influence over the organization such that, if exercised, it would be reasonable to conclude that the person (or group) controls the organization or one or more activities of the organization.

As the policy objectives for rules regarding the control of charitable organizations are similar to those for public foundations, we agree that it would be appropriate to recommend that the definitions of each remain similar in this respect. We will also recommend that such an amendment apply for the purpose of determining a foundation's status after 1999. If the recommendation is acted upon, we anticipate that the amendment would be included in a future technical bill.

Yours sincerely,
Len Farber
General Director, Tax Legislation Division, Tax Policy Branch

(1.1) Exclusions — For the purposes of paragraphs (2)(b), (3)(b), (4)(b) and (21)(a), the following shall be deemed to be neither an amount expended in a taxation year on charitable activities nor a gift made to a qualified donee:

(a) a specified gift; and

(b) an expenditure on political activities made by a charitable organization or a charitable foundation.

(1.2) Authority of Minister — For the purposes of the determination of D in the definition "disbursement quota" in subsection (1), the Minister may

(a) authorize a change in the number of periods chosen by a charitable foundation in determining the prescribed amount; and

(b) accept any method for the determination of the fair market value of property or a portion thereof that may be required in determining the prescribed amount.

(2) Revocation of registration of charitable organization — The Minister may, in the manner described in section 168, revoke the registration of a charitable organization for any reason described in subsection 168(1) or where the organization

(a) carries on a business that is not a related business of that charity; or

(b) fails to expend in any taxation year, on charitable activities carried on by it and by way of gifts made by it to qualified donees, amounts the total of which is at least equal to the total of

(i) the amount that would be the value of A for the year, and

(ii) the amount that would be the value of A.1 for the year, in the definition "disbursement quota" in subsection (1) in respect of the organization if it were a charitable foundation.

Proposed Addition — 149.1(2)(c)

(c) makes a disbursement by way of a gift, other than a gift made

(i) in the course of charitable activities carried on by it, or

(ii) to a donee that is a qualified donee at the time of the gift.

Application: The February 27, 2004 draft legislation, subsec. 88(5), will add para. 149.1(2)(c), applicable to gifts made after December 20, 2002.

Technical Notes: Subsections 149.1(2), (3) and (4) set out the reasons for which the Minister of National Revenue may revoke the registration of a charitable organization, a public foundation and a private foundation, respectively. These subsections are amended to permit the revocation of the registration of such entities if they make gifts (other than gifts made in the course of their charitable activities) to persons or entities that are not qualified donees. A "qualified donee" is essentially a person or entity to which a tax deductible or tax creditable donation may be made.

> (a) an incorrect statement was made in the furnishing of information for the purpose of obtaining the designation, or
>
> (b) the organization has amended its objects after its last designation was made, and, where the designation is so revoked, the organization shall be deemed for the purpose of section 168 to have ceased to comply with the requirements of this Act for its registration under this Act.

History: Subsec. 149.1(6.5) added by 1994, c. 7, Sch. II (1991, c. 49), subsec. 123(4), applicable after July 13, 1990.

1995, c. 11: S. 46 of 1995, c. 11, in force July 12, 1996, provides as follows:

> 46. Other references — Every reference made to the Minister of Communications, the Minister of Multiculturalism and Citizenship and the Secretary of State of Canada in relation to any matter to which the powers, duties and functions of the Minister of Canadian Heritage extend by virtue of this Act, in any other Act of Parliament or in any order, regulation or other instrument made under any Act of Parliament shall, unless the context otherwise requires, be read as a reference to the Minister of Canadian Heritage.

(7) Designation of associated charities — On application made to the Minister in prescribed form, the Minister may, in writing, designate a registered charity as a charity associated with one or more specified registered charities where the Minister is satisfied that the charitable aim or activity of each of the registered charities is substantially the same, and on and after a date specified in such a designation, the charities to which it relates shall, until such time, if any, as the Minister revokes the designation, be deemed to be associated.

(8) Accumulation of property — A registered charity may, with the approval in writing of the Minister, accumulate property for a particular purpose, on terms and conditions, and over such period of time, as the Minister specifies in the approval, and any property accumulated after receipt of such an approval and in accordance therewith, including any income earned in respect of the property so accumulated, shall be deemed

(a) to have been expended on charitable activities carried on by the charity in the taxation year in which it was so accumulated; and

(b) not to have been expended in any other year.

History: Subsec. 149.1(8) substituted by 1994, c. 21, subsec. 74(5), applicable to taxation years that begin after 1992. That subsec. formerly read:

(8) A registered charity may, with the approval in writing of the Minister, accumulate property for a particular purpose on such terms and conditions and over such period of time, if any, as is specified by the Minister in the approval, and any property accumulated after receipt of such an approval and in accordance therewith, including any income earned in respect of the property so accumulated, shall be deemed to have been expended on charitable activities carried on by the charity in the taxation year in which it was so accumulated.

(9) Idem — Property accumulated by a registered charity as provided in subsection (8), including any income earned in respect of that property, that is not used for the particular purpose for which it was accumulated either

(a) before the expiration of any period of time specified by the Minister in the Minister's approval of the accumulation, or

(b) at an earlier time at which the registered charity decides not to use the property for that purpose shall, notwithstanding subsection (8), be deemed to be income of the charity for, and the amount of a gift for which it issued a receipt described in subsection 110.1(2) or 118.1(2) in, its taxation year in which the period referred to in paragraph (a) expires or the time referred to in paragraph (b) occurs, as the case may be.

Proposed Amendment — 149.1(9) closing words

is, notwithstanding subsection 149.1(8), deemed to be income of the charity for, and the eligible amount of a gift for which it issued a receipt described in subsection 110.1(2) or 118.1(2) in, its taxation year in which the period referred to in paragraph (a) expires or the time referred to in paragraph (b) occurs, as the case may be.

Application: The February 27, 2004 draft legislation, subsec. 88(8), will amend the closing words of subsec. 149.1(9) to read as above, applicable after December 20, 2002.

Technical Notes (December 20, 2002): Subsection 149.1(8) permits a registered charity, with the approval of the Minister of National Revenue, to accumulate property over a specified period for a particular purpose. The amount of such property accumulated is deemed to have been expended in the taxation year of the charity in which it was accumulated. If in fact the charity defaults on this responsibility by not using the property for the approved purpose within the specified period, subsection 149.1(9) treats that property as income of the charity and the amount of a gift for which it issued a receipt. This affects the calculation of the disbursement quota of the charity, with the result that the amount of the property must be actually disbursed in the year following default.

Subsection 149.1(9) is amended consequential to the addition of new subsection 248(30), in respect of gifts made after December 20, 2002, to provide that the amount of a gift for which a tax receipt is issued refers to the "eligible amount" of a gift. For additional information, see the commentary to new subsection 248(30).

Related Provisions: 248(30)–(33) — Determination of eligible amount of gift.

History: That portion of subsec. 149.1(9) following para. (b) substituted by 1994, c. 7, Sch. II (1991, c. 49), subsec. 123(5), applicable to 1988 et seq. That portion formerly read:

shall, notwithstanding subsection (8), be deemed to be income of the charity and the amount of a gift for which it issued a receipt described in paragraph 110.1(1)(a) or subsection 118.1(2) in its taxation year in which the period referred to in paragraph (a) expires if that paragraph is applicable or in which the earlier time referred to in paragraph (b) occurs if that paragraph is applicable.

(10) Deemed charitable activity — An amount paid by a charitable organization to a qualified donee that is not paid out of the income of the charitable organization shall be deemed to be a devotion of a resource of the charitable organization to a charitable activity carried on by it.

Related Provisions: 149.1(12)(b) — Rules — income.

(11) [Repealed under former Act]

(12) Rules — For the purposes of this section,

(a) a corporation is controlled by a charitable foundation if more than 50% of the corporation's issued share capital, having full voting rights under all circumstances, belongs to

(i) the foundation, or

(ii) the foundation and persons with whom the foundation does not deal at arm's length,

but, for the purpose of paragraph (3)(c) or (4)(c), as the case may be, a charitable foundation shall be deemed not to have acquired control of a corporation if it has not purchased or otherwise acquired for consideration more than 5% of the issued shares of any class of the capital stock of that corporation;

(b) there shall be included in computing the income of a charity for a taxation year all gifts received by it in the year including gifts from any other charity but not including

(i) a specified gift or a gift referred to in paragraph (a) or (b) of the description of A in the definition "disbursement quota" in subsection (1),

(ii) any gift or portion of a gift in respect of which it is established that the donor is not a charity and

(A) has not been allowed a deduction under paragraph 110.1(1)(a) in computing the donor's taxable income or under subsection 118.1(3) in computing the donor's tax payable under this Part, or

(B) was not taxable under section 2 for the taxation year in which the gift was made, or

(iii) any gift or portion of a gift in respect of which it is established that the donor is a charity and that the gift was not made out of the income of the donor; and

(c) subsections 104(6) and (12) are not applicable in computing the income of a charitable foundation that is a trust.

(13) Designation of private foundation as public — On application made to the Minister by a private foundation, the Minister may, on such terms and conditions as the Minister considers appropriate, designate the foundation to be a public foundation, and on and after the date specified in such a designation, the foundation to which it relates shall, until such time, if any, as the Minister revokes the designation, be deemed to be a public foundation.

(14) Information returns — Every registered charity shall, within 6 months from the end of each taxation year of the charity, file with the Minister both an information return and a public information return for the year, each in prescribed form and containing prescribed information, without notice or demand therefor.

Proposed Amendment — Penalty for failing to file return

Federal budget, Supplementary Information, March 23, 2004: [Registered charities that have not filed on time will first be subject to a penalty of $500. (15) Information may be communicated — Notwithstanding section 241,

(a) the information contained in a public information return referred to in subsection (14) shall be communicated or otherwise made available to the public by the Minister in such manner as the Minister deems appropriate; and

(b) the Minister may make available to the public in such manner as the Minister deems appropriate an annual listing of all registered or previously registered charities indicating for each the name, location, registration number, date of registration and, in the case of a charity the registration of which has been revoked, annulled or terminated, the effective date of the revocation, annulment or termination.

Proposed Amendment — 149.1(15)(b)

(b) the Minister may make available to the public in such manner as the Minister considers appropriate a listing of all registered, or previously registered, charities and Canadian amateur athletic associations that indicates for each of them

(i) its name and address,

(ii) its registration number and date of registration, and

(iii) the effective date of any revocation, annulment or termination of its registration.

Application: The February 27, 2004 draft legislation, subsec. 88(9), will amend para. 149.1(15)(b) to read as above, in force on Royal Assent.

Technical Notes (December 20, 2002): Section 241 prohibits the use or communication by an official of information obtained under the Act unless specifically authorized by one of the exceptions found in that section. Paragraph 149.1(15)(b), which deals with charities, provides that, notwithstanding section 241, the Minister of National Revenue may publish a listing of all registered or previously registered charities indicating the name, location, registration number and, where the charity is no longer registered, the effective date of the revocation, annulment or termination of the charity's registration. This provision does not currently allow for the release of similar information in respect of registered Canadian amateur athletic associations. Since taxpayers who make donations to such associations obtain the same tax relief that is available in respect of donations to registered charities and, since subsection 149.1(15) is intended to provide transparency for the benefit of potential donors, paragraph 149.1(15)(b) is amended, effective after Royal Assent to this measure, to allow for the release of such information in respect of Canadian amateur athletic associations.

Related Provisions: 241(3.2) — Additional disclosure permitted of charity information.

(16)–(19) [Repealed under former Act]

(20) Rule regarding disbursement excess — Where a registered charity has expended a disbursement excess for a taxation year, the charity may, for the purpose of determining whether it complies with the requirements of paragraph (2)(b), (3)(b) or (4)(b), as the case may be, for the immediately preceding taxation year of the charity and 5 or less of its immediately subsequent taxation years, include in the computation of the amounts expended on charitable activities carried on by it and by way of gifts made by it to qualified donees, such portion of that disbursement excess as was not so included under this subsection for any preceding taxation year.

(21) Definition of "disbursement excess" — For the purpose of subsection (20), "disbursement excess" for a taxation year of a charity means the amount, if any, by which

(a) the total of amounts expended in the year by the charity on charitable activities carried on by it or by way of gifts made by it to qualified donees

exceeds

(b) in the case of a charitable foundation, its disbursement quota for the year, and

(c) in the case of a charitable organization, the total of

(i) the amount that would be the value of A for the year, and

(ii) the amount that would be the value of A.1 for the year, in the definition "disbursement quota" in subsection (1) in respect of the organization if it were a charitable foundation.

(4) Death of partner or proprietor — Where

(a) subsection 34.1(9) or 34.2(8) applies in computing an individual's income for a taxation year from a business, or

(b) an individual who carries on a business in a taxation year dies in the year and after the end of a fiscal period of the business that ends in the year, another fiscal period of the business (in this subsection referred to as the "short period") ends in the year because of the individual's death, and the individual's legal representative elects that this subsection apply, the individual's income from businesses for short periods, if any, shall not be included in computing the individual's income for the year and the individual's legal representative shall file an additional return of income for the year in respect of the individual as if the return were filed in respect of another person and shall pay the tax payable under this Part by that other person for the year computed as if

(c) the other person's only income for the year were the amount determined by the formula

$$A + B - C$$

where

A is the total of all amounts each of which is the individual's income from a business for a short fiscal period,

B is the total of all amounts each of which is an amount deducted under subsection 34.2(8) in computing the individual's income for the taxation year in which the individual dies, and

C is the total of all amounts each of which is an amount included under subsection 34.1(9) in computing the individual's income for the taxation year in which the individual dies, and

(d) subject to sections 114.2 and 118.93, that other person were entitled to the deductions to which the individual is entitled under sections 110, 118 to 118.7 and 118.9 for the year in computing the individual's taxable income or tax payable under this Part, as the case may be, for the year.

(1.11) Determination pursuant to subsec. 245(2) — Where at any time the Minister ascertains the tax consequences to a taxpayer by reason of subsection 245(2) with respect to a transaction, the Minister

(a) shall, in the case of a determination pursuant to subsection 245(8), or

(b) may, in any other case,

determine any amount that is relevant for the purposes of computing the income, taxable income or taxable income earned in Canada of, tax or other amount payable by, or amount refundable to, the taxpayer under this Act and, where such a determination is made, the Minister shall send to the taxpayer, with all due dispatch, a notice of determination stating the amount so determined.

Related Provisions: 152(1.111) — Definitions in subsec. 245(1) apply; 152(1.12) — Limitation; 152(1.3) — Determination binding; 244(14) — Presumption re date of mailing of notice of determination; 244(15) — Determination deemed made on date mailed; 248(7)(a) — Mail deemed received on day mailed.

(1.111) Application of subsec. 245(1) — The definitions in subsection 245(1) apply to subsection (1.11).

Origin of subsec. 152(1.111): R.S.C. 1985, c. 1 (5th Supp.) (formerly contained in the opening words of subsec. 245(1)).

(1.12) When determination not to be made — A determination of an amount shall not be made with respect to a taxpayer under subsection (1.11) at a time where that amount is relevant only for the purposes of computing the income, taxable income or taxable income earned in Canada of, tax or other amount payable by, or amount refundable to, the taxpayer under this Act for a taxation year ending before that time.

(1.2) Provisions applicable — Paragraphs 56(1)(l) and 60(o), this Division and Division J, as they relate to an assessment or a reassessment and to assessing or reassessing tax, apply, with such modifications as the circumstances require, to a determination or redetermination of an amount under this Division or an amount deemed under section 122.61 or 126.1 to be an overpayment on account of a taxpayer's liability under this Part, except that

Application: The February 27, 2004 draft legislation, subsec. 89(1), will amend the opening words of subsec. 152(1.2) to read as above, applicable in respect of forms filed after March 20, 2003.

Technical Notes (December 20, 2002): Subsection 152(1.2) is amended to delete the reference to section 126.1, consequential to the repeal of that section. For additional information, see the commentary to section 126.1.

(a) subsections (1) and (2) do not apply to determinations made under subsections (1.1) and (1.11);

(b) an original determination of a taxpayer's non-capital loss, net capital loss, restricted farm loss, farm loss or limited partnership loss for a taxation year may be made by the Minister only at the request of the taxpayer; and

(c) subsection 164(4.1) does not apply to a determination made under subsection (1.4).

Related Provisions: 96(2.1) — Limited partnership losses; 111 — Losses deductible; 160.2(3) — Minister may assess recipient under RRSP or RRIF.

History: Subsec. 152(1.2) amended by 1998, c. 19, subsec. 181(1), applicable in respect of determinations made after June 18, 1998. Subsec. 152(1.2) formerly read:

(1.2) Paragraphs 56(1)(l) and 60(o), this Division and Division J, as they relate to an assessment or a reassessment and to assessing or reassessing tax, apply, with such modifications as the circumstances require, to a determination or redetermination of an amount under this Division or an amount deemed under section 122.61 or 126.1 to be an overpayment on account of a taxpayer's liability under this Part, except that subsections (1) and (2) do not apply to determinations made under subsections (1.1) and (1.11) and, for greater certainty, an original determination of a taxpayer's non-capital loss, net capital loss, restricted farm loss, farm loss or limited partnership loss for a taxation year may be made by the Minister only at the request of the taxpayer.

Subsec. 152(1.2) amended by 1994, c. 8, subsec. 20(1), applicable after 1992. Subsec. (1.2) formerly read:

(1.2) Paragraphs 56(1)(l) and 60(o), this Division and Division J, as they relate to an assessment or a reassessment and to assessing or reassessing tax, are applicable, with such modifications as the circumstances require, to a determination or a redetermination and to determining or redetermining amounts under this Division, except that subsections (1) and (2) are not applicable to determinations made under subsections (1.1) and (1.11) and, for greater certainty, an original determination of a taxpayer's non-capital loss, net capital loss, restricted farm loss, farm loss or limited partnership loss for a taxation year may be made by the Minister only at the request of the taxpayer.

(1.3) Determination binding — For greater certainty, where the Minister makes a determination of the amount of a taxpayer's non-capital loss, net capital loss, restricted farm loss, farm loss or limited partnership loss for a taxation year or makes a determination under subsection (1.11) with respect to a taxpayer, the determination is (subject to the taxpayer's rights of objection and appeal in respect of the determination and to any redetermination by the Minister) binding on both the Minister and the taxpayer for the purpose of calculating the income, taxable income or taxable income earned in Canada of, tax or other amount payable by, or amount refundable to, the taxpayer, as the case may be, for any taxation year.

Related Provisions: 96(2.1) — Limited partnership loss; 111 — Losses deductible; 160.2(3) — Minister may assess recipient under RRSP or RRIF.

Interpretation Bulletins: IT-488R2: Winding-up of 90%-owned taxable Canadian corporations (archived); IT-512: Determination and redetermination of losses.

(1.4) Determination in respect of a partnership — The Minister may, within 3 years after the day that is the later of

(a) the day on or before which a member of a partnership is, or but for subsection 220(2.1) would be, required under section 229 of the Income Tax Regulations to make an information return for a fiscal period of the partnership, and

(b) the day the return is filed, determine any income or loss of the partnership for the fiscal period and any deduction or other amount, or any other matter, in respect of the partnership for the fiscal period that is relevant in determining the income, taxable income or taxable income earned in Canada of, tax or other amount payable by, or any amount refundable to or deemed to have been paid or to have been an overpayment by, any member of the partnership for any taxation year under this Part.

Related Provisions: 152(1.2)(c) — Subsec. 164(4.1) does not apply to determination under 152(1.4); 152(1.5), (1.6) — Notice of determination; 152(1.7) — Determination binding; 152(1.8) — Assessment where partnership found not to exist; 163(2.9) — Partnership can be assessed certain penalties as though it were a corporation; 165(1.15) — Objection to determination; 244(15) — Determination deemed made on date mailed.

History: Subsec. 152(1.4) added by 1998, c. 19, subsec. 181(2), applicable in respect of determinations made after June 18, 1998.

(1.5) Notice of determination — Where a determination is made under subsection (1.4) in respect of a partnership for a fiscal period, the Minister shall send a notice of the determination to the partnership and to each person who was a member of the partnership during the fiscal period.

Related Provisions: 152(1.6) — Determination valid even if notice not received by partners; 244(14) — Presumption re date of mailing of determination; 244(20) — Notice mailed to partnership deemed provided to all partners; 248(7)(a) — Mail deemed received on day mailed.

History: Subsec. 152(1.5) added by 1998, c. 19, subsec. 181(2), applicable in respect of determinations made after June 18, 1998.

(1.6) Absence of notification — No determination made under subsection (1.4) in respect of a partnership for a fiscal period is invalid solely because one or more persons who were members of the partnership during the period did not receive a notice of the determination.

Related Provisions: 244(20) — Notice mailed to partnership deemed provided to all partners.

History: Subsec. 152(1.6) added by 1998, c. 19, subsec. 181(2), applicable in respect of determinations made after June 18, 1998.

(1.7) Binding effect of determination — Where the Minister makes a determination under subsection (1.4) or a redetermination in respect of a partnership,

(a) subject to the rights of objection and appeal of the member of the partnership referred to in subsection 165(1.15) in respect of the determination or redetermination, the determination or redetermination is binding on the Minister and each member of the partnership for the purposes of calculating the income, taxable income or taxable income earned in Canada of, tax or other amount payable by, or any amount refundable to or deemed to have been paid or to have been an overpayment by, the members for any taxation year under this Part; and

(b) notwithstanding subsections (4), (4.01), (4.1) and (5), the Minister may, before the end of the day that is one year after the day on which all rights of objection and appeal expire or are determined in respect of the determination or redetermination, assess the tax, interest, penalties or other amounts payable and determine an amount deemed to have been paid or to have been an overpayment under this Part in respect of any member of the partnership and any other taxpayer for any taxation year as may be necessary to give effect to the determination or redetermination or a decision of the Tax Court of Canada, the Federal Court of Appeal or the Supreme Court of Canada.

History: Para. 152(1.7)(b) amended by 2002, c. 8, para. 184(a) to substitute "Federal Court of Appeal" for "Federal Court of Canada", in force July 2, 2003.

Subsec. 152(1.7) added by 1998, c. 19, subsec. 181(2), applicable in respect of determinations made after June 18, 1998.

(1.8) Time to assess — Where, as a result of representations made to the Minister that a person was a member of a partnership in respect of a fiscal period, a determination is made under subsection (1.4) for the period and the Minister, the Tax Court of Canada, the Federal Court of Appeal or the Supreme Court of Canada concludes at a subsequent time that the partnership did not exist for the period or that, throughout the period, the person was not a member of the partnership, the Minister may, notwithstanding subsections (4), (4.1) and (5), within one year after that subsequent time, assess the tax, interest, penalties or other amounts payable, or determine an amount deemed to have been paid or to have been an overpayment under this Part, by any taxpayer for any taxation year, but only to the extent that the assessment or determination can reasonably be regarded

(a) as relating to any matter that was relevant in the making of the determination made under subsection (1.4);

(b) as resulting from the conclusion that the partnership did not exist for the period; or

(c) as resulting from the conclusion that the person was, throughout the period, not a member of the partnership.

Related Provisions [subsec. 152(1.8)]: 165(1.1)(a), (d) — Limitation of right to object; 169(2)(a), (d) — Limitation of right to appeal.

History: The opening words of subsec. 152(1.8) amended by 2002, c. 8, para. 184(b) to substitute "Federal Court of Appeal" for "Federal Court of Canada", in force July 2, 2003.

Subsec. 152(1.8) added by 1998, c. 19, subsec. 181(2), applicable in respect of determinations made after June 18, 1998.

(2) Notice of assessment — After examination of a return, the Minister shall send a notice of assessment to the person by whom the return was filed.

Related Provisions: 158 — Remainder payable forthwith after assessment mailed; 244(14), (15) — Mailing date of assessment.

Selected Cases [subsec. 152(2)]: Sinnott v. R., [2000] 4 C.T.C. 2438 (TCC) (Sending of notice of assessment to trustee in bankruptcy instead of taxpayer did not give rise to extension of delays to object).

Forms: T67A, T67AC, T67AN, T453, T456, T457, T492: Notices of assessment; T1132: Alternative address authorization.

(3) Liability not dependent on assessment — Liability for the tax under this Part is not affected by an incorrect or incomplete assessment or by the fact that no assessment has been made.

Related Provisions: 152(4), (6), (8) — Assessment and reassessment; 160.2(3) — Minister may assess recipient; 165 — Objections to assessments; 166 — Assessment not to be vacated by reason of improper procedures; 169 — Appeal.

Selected Cases [subsec. 152(3)]: Guaranty Properties Ltd. v. Canada, [1990] 2 C.T.C. 94 (FCA); leave to appeal to SCC refused (1991), 49 B.L.R. 320 (note) (Amalgamating company not relieved of taxes prior to amalgamation; notice of reassessment valid).

(3.1) Definition of "normal reassessment period" — For the purposes of subsections (4), (4.01), (4.2), (4.3), (5) and (9), the normal reassessment period for a taxpayer in respect of a taxation year is

(a) where at the end of the year the taxpayer is a mutual fund trust or a corporation other than a Canadian-controlled private corporation, the period that ends 4 years after the earlier of the day of mailing of a notice of an original assessment under this Part in respect of the taxpayer for the year and the day of mailing of an original notification that no tax is payable by the taxpayer for the year; and

(b) in any other case, the period that ends 3 years after the earlier of the day of mailing of a notice of an original assessment under this Part in respect of the taxpayer for the year and the day of mailing of an original notification that no tax is payable by the taxpayer for the year.

Related Provisions: 136(1) — Cooperative corporation may be private corporation for purposes of s. 152; 137(7) — Credit union may be private corporation; 152(4), (6), (8) — Assessment and reassessment; 160.2(3) — Minister may assess recipient; 165 — Objections to assessments; 166 — Irregularities; 169, 172 — Appeal; 244(14) — Notice presumed mailed on date of notice; 244(15) — Date when assessment made.

History: 2001, c. 17, subsec. 150(2) (see below) is applicable in respect of an individual if, at any particular time after October 1, 1996 and before June 14, 1999 (two years before Royal Assent),

(a) the individual ceased to be resident in Canada; or

(b) where the individual is a trust, the trust made a distribution of property to which subsec. 107(2) does not apply solely because of the application of subsection 107(5), as amended.

Subsec. 150(2) reads as follows:

(2) Where this subsection applies in respect of an individual, for the purposes of any reassessment of the individual's tax, interest or penalties, for any year, that is necessary to take into account the application of this Act in respect of the cessation of residence or the distribution referred to in subsection (1), the individual's normal reassessment period under subsection 152(3.1) of the Act for any taxation year that ends at or after the particular time described in subsection (1) is, notwithstanding subsection 152(3.1) of the Act, deemed to end on the later of

(a) the day on which the normal reassessment period for the year would, but for this section, end; and

(b) the day [June 14, 2002] that is one year after the day on which this Act [2001, c. 17] receives royal assent.

The opening words of subsec. 152(3.1) amended by 1999, c. 22, subsec. 63.1(1), applicable to appeals disposed of after June 17, 1999. The opening words formerly read:

(3.1) For the purposes of subsections (4), (4.01), (4.2), (4.3) and (5), the normal reassessment period for a taxpayer in respect of a taxation year is

Subsec. 152(3.1) amended by 1998, c. 19, subsec. 181(3), applicable after April 27, 1989. The subsec. formerly read:

(3.1) For the purposes of subsections (4), (4.2), (4.3) and (5), the normal reassessment period for a taxpayer in respect of a taxation year is

(a) where at the end of the year the taxpayer is a mutual fund trust or a corporation other than a Canadian-controlled private corporation, the period that ends 4 years after the day of mailing of a notice of an original assessment under this Part in respect of the taxpayer for the year or the day of mailing of a notification that no tax is payable by the taxpayer for the year; and

(b) in any other case, the period that ends 3 years after the day of mailing of a notice of an original assessment under this Part in respect of the taxpayer for the year or the day of mailing of a notification that no tax is payable by the taxpayer for the year.

That portion of subsec. 152(3.1) preceding para. (a) amended by 1994, c. 7, Sch. VIII (1993, c. 24), subsec. 90(1), to add reference to subsection (4.3), applicable to reassessments and redeterminations in respect of taxation years made after June 10, 1993 that relate to changes in balances for other taxation years made as a result of assessments made, or decisions on appeals rendered, after December 20, 1991.

That portion of subsec. 152(3.1) preceding para. (a) amended by 1994, c. 7, Sch. II (1991, c. 49), subsec. 125(1), to add reference to subsec. (4.2), applicable to assessments and redeterminations made in respect of 1985 et seq.

Selected Cases [subsec. 152(3.1)]: Brunette v. R., [2001] 1 C.T.C. 2008 (TCC) (Delay starts the day after assessment issued); Continental Bank of Canada v. R., [1998] 4 C.T.C. 77 (SCC) (Minister not permitted to completely change basis of assessment long after reassessment period); APL Oil & Gas Ltd. v. Canada, [1996] 3 C.T.C. 2001 (TCC) (Minister could not repudiate valid assessment because of a correctable error).

(3.2) Determination of deemed overpayment [Child Tax Benefit] — A taxpayer may, during any month, request in writing that the Minister determine the amount deemed by subsection 122.61(1) to be an overpayment on account of the taxpayer's liability under this Part for a taxation year that arose during the month or any of the 11 preceding months.

Related Provisions: 152(3.3) — Notice of determination.

History: Subsec. 152(3.2) added by 1994, c. 7, Sch. VII (1992, c. 48), subsec. 15(2), applicable to months that are after 1992.

(3.3) Notice of determination [Child Tax Benefit] — On receipt of the request referred to in subsection (3.2), the Minister shall, with all due dispatch, determine the amounts deemed by subsection 122.61(1) to be overpayments on account of the taxpayer's liability under this Part that arose during the months in respect of which the request was made or determine that there is no such amount, and shall send a notice of the determination to the taxpayer.

History: Subsec. 152(3.3) added by 1994, c. 7, Sch. VII (1992, c. 48), subsec. 15(2), applicable to months that are after 1992.

(3.4) Determination of UI premium tax credit — A taxpayer may request in writing that the Minister determine the amount deemed by subsection 126.1(6) or (7) to be an overpayment on account of the taxpayer's liability under this Part for a taxation year.

Related Provisions: 152(3.5) — Notice of determination.

History: Subsec. 152(3.4) added by 1994, c. 8, subsec. 20(2), applicable after 1992.

(3.5) Notice of determination [UI premium tax credit] — On receipt of the request referred to in subsection (3.4), the Minister shall, with all due dispatch, determine the amount deemed by subsection 126.1(6) or (7), as the case may be, to be an overpayment on account of the taxpayer's liability under this Part for a taxation year, or determine that there is no such amount, and shall send a notice of the determination to the taxpayer.

Proposed Repeal — 152(3.4), (3.5)

Application: The February 27, 2004 draft legislation, subsec. 89(2), will repeal subsecs. 152(3.4) and (3.5), applicable in respect of forms filed after March 20, 2003.

Technical Notes (December 20, 2002): This subsection [(3.4)] enables a taxpayer to request the Minister of National Revenue to determine the amount deemed by subsection 126.1(6) or (7) to be an overpayment on account of the taxpayer's liability under Part I of the Act.

This subsection is repealed consequential to the repeal of section 126.1. For additional information, see the commentary to section 126.1.

Subsection 152(3.5) requires the Minister of National Revenue to respond to a request for a determination of the UI premium tax credit. This subsection is repealed consequential to the repeal of section 126.1. For additional information, see the commentary to section 126.1.

History: Subsec. 152(3.5) added by 1994, c. 8, subsec. 20(2), applicable after 1992.

(4) Assessment and reassessment [limitation period] — The Minister may at any time make an assessment, reassessment or additional assessment of tax for a taxation year, interest or penalties, if any, payable under this Part by a taxpayer or notify in writing any person by whom a return of income for a taxation year has been filed that no tax is payable for the year, except that an assessment, reassessment or additional assessment may be made after the taxpayer's normal reassessment period in respect of the year only if

(a) the taxpayer or person filing the return

(i) has made any misrepresentation that is attributable to neglect, carelessness or wilful default or has committed any fraud in filing the return or in supplying any information under this Act, or

(ii) has filed with the Minister a waiver in prescribed form within the normal reassessment period for the taxpayer in respect of the year; or

(b) the assessment, reassessment or additional assessment is made before the day that is 3 years after the end of the normal reassessment period for the taxpayer in respect of the year and

(i) is required pursuant to subsection (6) or would be so required if the taxpayer had claimed an amount by filing the prescribed form referred to in that subsection on or before the day referred to therein,

(ii) is made as a consequence of the assessment or reassessment pursuant to this paragraph or subsection (6) of tax payable by another taxpayer,

(iii) is made as a consequence of a transaction involving the taxpayer and a non-resident person with whom the taxpayer was not dealing at arm's length,

(iii.1) is made, if the taxpayer is non-resident and carries on a business in Canada, as a consequence of

(A) an allocation by the taxpayer of revenues or expenses as amounts in respect of the Canadian business (other than revenues and expenses that relate solely to the Canadian business, that are recorded in the books of account of the Canadian business, and the documentation in support of which is kept in Canada), or

(B) a notional transaction between the taxpayer and its Canadian business, where the transaction is recognized for the purposes of the computation of an amount under this Act or an applicable tax treaty.

(iv) is made as a consequence of a payment or reimbursement of any income or profits tax to or by the government of a country other than Canada or a government of a state, province or other political subdivision of any such country,

(v) is made as a consequence of a reduction under subsection 66(12.73) of an amount purported to be renounced under section 66, or

(vi) is made in order to give effect to the application of subsection 118.1(15) or (16).

Proposed Amendment — 152(4)(b)(vi)

(vi) is made in order to give effect to the application of subsection 94(9) or (10) or 118.1(15) or (16).

Application: The October 30, 2003 Notice of Ways and Means Motion (NRTs and FIEs), s. 31, will amend subpara. 152(4)(b)(vi) to read as above, applicable after 2002.

Technical Notes: In general terms, subsection 152(4) provides that the Minister of National Revenue may not reassess tax payable by a taxpayer for a taxation year after the normal reassessment period for the taxpayer in respect of the year unless certain conditions described in paragraph 152(4)(a) or (b) have been met. Subparagraph 152(4)(b)(vi) allows the Minister to reassess a taxpayer within 3 years after the end of the normal reassessment period for the taxpayer in respect of the year where the reassessment is made in order to give effect to the application of subsection 118.1(15) or (16).

Subparagraph 152(4)(b)(vi) is amended to also allow the Minister to reassess a taxpayer within three years after the end of the normal reassessment period where the reassessment is made in order to give effect to the application of subsection 94(9) or (10). For more information on subsections 94(9) and (10), see the commentary on those subsections.

History: Subpara. 152(4)(b)(iii.1) added by 2001, c. 17, subsec. 149(1), applicable to 2000 et seq.

Subsec. 152(4) amended by 1998, c. 19, subsec. 181(4), applicable after April 27, 1989, except that in applying the subsec.

(a) before August 1997, it shall be read without reference to subpara. (b)(vi);

and

(b) to a taxation year before the 1996 taxation year, it shall be read without reference to subpara. (b)(v).

Subsec. 152(4) formerly read:

(4) Subject to subsection (5), the Minister may at any time assess tax for a taxation year, interest or penalties, if any, payable under this Part by a taxpayer or notify in writing any person by whom a return of income for a taxation year has been filed that no tax is payable for the year, and may

(a) at any time, if the taxpayer or person filing the return

(i) has made any misrepresentation that is attributable to neglect, carelessness or wilful default or has committed any fraud in filing the return or in supplying any information under this Act, or

(ii) has filed with the Minister a waiver in prescribed form within the normal reassessment period for the taxpayer in respect of the year,

(b) before the day that is 3 years after the expiration of the normal reassessment period for the taxpayer in respect of the year, if

(i) an assessment or reassessment of the tax of the taxpayer was required pursuant to subsection (6) or would have been required if the taxpayer had claimed an amount by filing the prescribed form referred to in that subsection on or before the day referred to therein,

(ii) there is reason, as a consequence of the assessment or reassessment of another taxpayer's tax pursuant to this paragraph or subsection (6), to assess or reassess the taxpayer's tax for any relevant taxation year,

(iii) there is reason, as a consequence of a transaction involving the taxpayer and a non-resident person with whom the taxpayer was not dealing at arm's length, to assess or reassess the taxpayer's tax for any relevant taxation year, or

(iv) there is reason, as a consequence of an additional payment or reimbursement of any income or profits tax to or by the government of a country other than Canada, to assess or reassess the taxpayer's tax for any relevant taxation year, and

(c) within the normal reassessment period for the taxpayer in respect of the year, in any other case, reassess or make additional assessments, or assess tax, interest or penalties under this Part, as the circumstances require, except that a reassessment, an additional assessment or an assessment may be made under paragraph (b) after the normal reassessment period for the taxpayer in respect of the year only to the extent that it may reasonably be regarded as relating to

(d) the assessment or reassessment referred to in subparagraph (b)(i) or (ii),

(e) the transaction referred to in subparagraph (b)(iii), or

(f) the additional payment or reimbursement referred to in subparagraph (b)(iv).

(a) before August 1997, it shall be read without reference to subpara. (b)(vi); and

(b) to a taxation year before the 1996 taxation year, it shall be read without reference to subpara. (b)(v).

(4.1) Where waiver revoked — Where the Minister would, but for this subsection, be entitled to reassess, make an additional assessment or assess tax, interest or penalties by virtue only of the filing of a waiver under subparagraph (4)(a)(ii), the Minister may not make such reassessment, additional assessment or assessment after the day that is six months after the date on which a notice of revocation of the waiver in prescribed form is filed.

Related Provisions: 152(1.7) — Limitation period re determination of partnership income or loss; 152(4.2) — Reassessment with taxpayer's consent; 165(1.2) — No objection permitted where right to object waived; 169(2.2) — No appeal where right to object or appeal waived.

Forms: T652: Notice of revocation of waiver.

(4.2) [Reassessment with taxpayer's consent] — Notwithstanding subsections (4), (4.1) and (5), for the purpose of determining, at any time after the expiration of the normal reassessment period for a taxpayer who is an individual (other than a trust) or a testamentary trust in respect of a taxation year,

(a) the amount of any refund to which the taxpayer is entitled at that time for that year, or

(b) a reduction of an amount payable under this Part by the taxpayer for that year, the Minister may, if application therefor has been made by the taxpayer,

(c) reassess tax, interest or penalties payable under this Part by the taxpayer in respect of that year, and

(d) redetermine the amount, if any, deemed by subsection 120(2) or (2.2), 122.5(3), 122.51(2), 127.1(1), 127.41(3) or 210.2(3) or (4) to be paid on account of the taxpayer's tax payable under this Part for the year or deemed by subsection 122.61(1) to be an overpayment on account of the taxpayer's liability under this Part for the year.

Proposed Amendment — 152(4.2) — 10-year limit

Federal budget, Notice of Ways and Means Motion, March 23, 2004: Taxpayer-Requested Adjustments

(22) That, for requests made in a calendar year that is after 2004, by a taxpayer who is an individual (other than a trust) or a testamentary trust, the Minister of National Revenue may not, in respect of a taxation year of the taxpayer that ended more than ten calendar years before the beginning of that calendar year

(a) make a reassessment under subsection 152(4.2) of the Act in respect of the taxation year,

(b) refund under paragraph 164(1.5)(a) of the Act any overpayment for the taxation year,

(c) waive or cancel, under subsection 220(3.1) of the Act, all or any portion of any penalty assessed in or in respect of, or interest otherwise accrued during, the taxation year, or

(d) extend the time for making an election, or grant permission to amend or revoke an election, under subsection 220(3.2) of the Act, that was otherwise required to have been made before the end of the taxation year.

Federal budget, Supplementary Information, March 23, 2004: Taxpayer-Requested Adjustments

In 1991 the Income Tax Act was amended to allow an individual or testamentary trust to request that the Minister of National Revenue accept a late-filed return for a taxation year, or reassess an income tax return beyond the normal reassessment period for a taxation year (generally 3 years), in order to provide for an income tax refund. This measure allowed the Minister to assess or reassess returns for the 1985 and subsequent taxation years. At the same time, the Act was also amended to permit the Minister of National Revenue to accept late-filed, amended, or revoked elections for taxation years after 1984 where an intention to make (or revoke) the election can be shown, and to waive or cancel penalties or interest for taxation years after 1984 in situations where factors beyond the taxpayer's control, such as illness or a natural disaster, prevented a tax return from being filed on time. However, these provisions did not include a mechanism to update the 1985 base year.

Administrative problems can arise in verifying claims made for taxation years going as far back as 1985. The budget therefore proposes that, for applications for relief made after 2004, adjustments made under these provisions be limited to taxation years that end in any of the ten preceding calendar years.

This measure will come into effect after 2004 in order to give taxpayers an opportunity to review their records and, if needed, request adjustments based upon the current law.

(d) redetermine the amount, if any, deemed by subsection 120(2), 122.5(3), 122.51(2), 127.1(1), 127.41(3) or 210.2(3) or (4) to be paid on account of the taxpayer's tax payable under this Part for the year or deemed by subsection 122.61(1) to be an overpayment on account of the taxpayer's liability under this Part for the year.

Para. 152(4.2)(d) amended by 1998, c. 19, subsec. 42(2), applicable to 1997 et seq., except that for the 1997 taxation year the reference to "subsection 120(2)," shall be read as a reference to "subsection 120(2), 120.1(4),". Para. 152(4.2)(d) formerly read:

(d) redetermine the amount, if any, deemed by subsection 120(2), 120.1(4), 122.5(3), 127.1(1), 127.41(3) or 210.2(3) or (4) to be paid on account of the taxpayer's tax payable under this Part for the year or deemed by subsection 119(2), 122.61(1) or 126.1(6) or (7) to be an overpayment on account of the taxpayer's liability under this Part for the year.

Para. 152(4.2)(d) amended by 1995, c. 3, subsec. 46(2), applicable to taxation years that end after February 22, 1994. Para. (d) formerly read:

(d) redetermine the amount, if any, deemed by subsection 120(2), 120.1(4), 122.5(3), 127.1(1), 144(9) or 210.2(3) or (4) to be paid on account of the taxpayer's tax under this Part for the year or deemed by subsection 119(2), 122.61(1) or 126.1(6) or (7) to be an overpayment on account of the taxpayer's liability under this Part for the year,

Para. 152(4.2)(d) amended by 1994, c. 8, subsec. 20(3), applicable after 1992, except that in its application to redeterminations made in respect of the 1991 and 1992 taxation years, the para. shall be read as follows:

(d) redetermine the amount, if any, deemed by subsection 120(2), 120.1(4), 122.2(1), 122.5(3), 127.1(1), 144(9) or 210.2(3) or (4) to be paid on account of the taxpayer's tax under this Part for the year or deemed by subsection 119(2) or 122.61(1) to be an overpayment on account of the taxpayer's liability under this Part for the year.

Para. (d) formerly read:

(d) redetermine the amount, if any, deemed by subsection 120(2), 120.1(4), 122.5(3), 127.1(1), 144(9) or 210.2(3) or (4) to be paid on account of the taxpayer's tax under this Part for the year or deemed by subsection 119(2) or 122.61(1) to be an overpayment on account of the taxpayer's liability under this Part for the year.

Para. 152(4.2)(d) substituted by 1994, c. 7, Sch. VII (1992, c. 48), subsec. 15(3), applicable to redeterminations made in respect of 1991 et seq. except that, in its application to redeterminations made in respect of the 1991 and 1992 taxation years, the para. shall be read as follows:

> (d) redetermine the amount of tax, if any, deemed by subsection 120(2), 120.1(4), 122.2(1), 122.5(3), 127.1(1), 144(9) or 210.2(3) or (4) to be paid on account of the taxpayer's tax under this Part for the year or deemed by subsection 119(2) or 122.61(1) to be an overpayment on account of the taxpayer's liability under this Part for the year.

Para. (4.2)(d) formerly read:

> (d) redetermine the amount of tax, if any, deemed by subsection 119(2), 120(2), 120.1(4), 122.2(1), 122.5(3), 127.1(1), 144(9) or 210.2(3) or (4) of this Act or subsection 122.4(3) of the Income Tax Act, chapter 148 of the Revised Statutes of Canada, 1952, as it applied to taxation years ending before 1991, to have been paid on account of the taxpayer's tax under this Part for that year.

Subsec. 152(4.2) added by 1994, c. 7, Sch. II (1991, c. 49), subsec. 125(2), applicable to assessments and redeterminations made in respect of 1985 et seq.

(4.3) Consequential assessment — Notwithstanding subsections (4), (4.1) and (5), where the result of an assessment or a decision on an appeal is to change a particular balance of a taxpayer for a particular taxation year, the Minister may, or where the taxpayer so requests in writing, shall, before the later of the expiration of the normal reassessment period in respect of a subsequent taxation year and the end of the day that is one year after the day on which all rights of objection and appeal expire or are determined in respect of the particular year, reassess the tax, interest or penalties payable, or redetermine an amount deemed to have been paid or to have been an overpayment, under this Part by the taxpayer in respect of the subsequent taxation year, but only to the extent that the reassessment or redetermination can reasonably be considered to relate to the change in the particular balance of the taxpayer for the particular year.

Related Provisions: 152(3.1) — Normal reassessment period; 152(4.4) — Definition of "balance"; 165(1.1) — Limitation of right to object to assessments or determinations; 169(2) — Limitation of right to appeal.

History: Subsec. 152(4.3) substituted by 1994, c. 21, subsec. 76(2), applicable to reassessments and redeterminations in respect of taxation years made after June 10, 1993 that relate to changes in balances for other taxation years made as a result of assessments made, or decisions on appeals rendered, after December 20, 1991 except that, where the day referred to as "the day on which all rights of objection and appeal expire or are determined in respect of the particular year" occurred before June 10, 1993, the subsec. shall be read as if that reference were a reference to June 10, 1993. That subsec. formerly read:

> (4.3) Notwithstanding subsections (4), (4.1) and (5), where the result of an assessment or a decision on an appeal is to change a particular balance of a taxpayer for a particular taxation year, the Minister may or, where the taxpayer so requests in writing, shall, before the later of the expiration of the normal reassessment period in respect of another taxation year and the end of the day that is one year after the day on which all rights of objection and appeal have expired or been determined in respect of the particular year, reassess the tax, interest or penalties payable, or redetermine an amount deemed to have been paid, under this Part by the taxpayer in respect of the other taxation year, but only for the purpose of giving effect to any provision of this Act requiring the inclusion, or allowing the deduction, of an amount in computing a balance of the taxpayer for the other year, to the extent that the inclusion or deduction can reasonably be considered to relate to the change in the particular balance of the taxpayer for the particular year.

Subsec. 152(4.3) added by 1994, c. 7, Sch. VIII (1993, c. 24), subsec. 90(2), applicable to reassessments and redeterminations in respect of taxation years made after June 10, 1993 that relate to changes in balances for other taxation years made as a result of assessments made, or decisions on appeals rendered, after December 20, 1991 except that where the day referred to in subsec. (4.3) as "the day on which all rights of objection and appeal have expired or been determined in respect of the particular year" occurs before June 10, 1993, subsec. (4.3) shall be read as if that reference were to June 10, 1993.

(4.4) Definition of "balance" — For the purpose of subsection (4.3), a "balance" of a taxpayer for a taxation year is the income, taxable income, taxable income earned in Canada or any loss of the taxpayer for the year, or the tax or other amount payable by, any amount refundable to, or any amount deemed to have been paid or to have been an overpayment by, the taxpayer for the year.

Related Provisions: 152(4.3) — Consequential assessment; 165(1.11)(b) — Balance adjustment to be requested specifically on large corporation's notice of objection.

History: Subsec. 152(4.4) substituted by 1994, c. 21, subsec. 76(2), applicable to reassessments and redeterminations in respect of taxation years made after June 10, 1993 that relate to changes in balances for other taxation years made as a result of assessments made, or decisions on appeals rendered, after December 20, 1991. That subsec. formerly read:

> (4.4) For the purposes of subsection (4.3), a "balance" of a taxpayer for a taxation year is the income, taxable income earned in Canada or any loss of the taxpayer for the year, or the tax or other amount payable by, any amount refundable to, or any amount deemed to have been paid by, the taxpayer for the year.

Subsec. 152(4.4) added by 1994, c. 7, Sch. VIII (1993, c. 24), subsec. 90(2), applicable to reassessments and redeterminations in respect of taxation years made after June 10, 1993 that relate to changes in balances for other taxation years made as a result of assessments made, or decisions on appeals rendered, after December 20, 1991.

(5) Limitation on assessments — There shall not be included in computing the income of a taxpayer for a taxation year, for the purpose of an assessment, reassessment or additional assessment made under this Part after the taxpayer's normal reassessment period in respect of the year, any amount that was not included in computing the taxpayer's income for the purpose of an assessment, reassessment or additional assessment made under this Part before the end of the period.

Related Provisions: 12(2.2) — Deemed outlay or expense; 67.5(2) — Reassessments; 127(17) — Assessment re ITC SR&ED pool beyond the deadline; 152(1.7) — Limitation period re determination of partnership income or loss; 152(3.1) — Normal reassessment period; 152(4.01) — Limitation on extended assessments; 152(4.2) — Assessment; 152(4.3) — Consequential assessment; 152(9) — Minister allowed to raise alternative ground of assessment; 160.2(3) — Minister may assess recipient under RRSP or RRIF; 161.1(7) — Late assessment to allow interest offset allocation.

History: Subsec. 152(5) amended by 1998, c. 19, subsec. 181(5), applicable after April 27, 1989. Subsec. 152(5) formerly read:

> (5) There shall not be included in computing the income of a taxpayer for a taxation year, for the purposes of any reassessment, additional assessment or assessment of tax, interest or penalties under this Part that is made after the normal reassessment period for the taxpayer in respect of the year, any amount
>
> (a) that was not included in computing the taxpayer's income for the purposes of an assessment of tax under this Part made before the end of the normal reassessment period for the taxpayer;
>
> (b) in respect of which the taxpayer establishes that the failure so to include it did not result from any misrepresentation that is attributable to negligence, carelessness or wilful default or from any fraud in filing a return of the taxpayer's income or supplying any information under this Act; and

(c) where any waiver has been filed by the taxpayer with the Minister, in the form and within the time referred to in subsection (4), with respect to a taxation year to which the reassessment, additional assessment or assessment of tax, interest or penalties, as the case may be, relates, that the taxpayer establishes cannot reasonably be regarded as relating to a matter specified in the waiver.

Selected Cases [subsec. 152(5)]: Merswolke v. Canada, [1995] 1 C.T.C. 2524 (TCC) (Subsec. 152(5) does not authorize reassessment without authority of subsecs. 152(4), (4.2) or (4.3)).

(6) Reassessment where certain deductions claimed [carrybacks] — Where a taxpayer has filed for a particular taxation year the return of income required by section 150 and an amount is subsequently claimed by the taxpayer or on the taxpayer's behalf for the year as

(a) a deduction under paragraph 3(e) of the Income Tax Act, chapter 148 of the Revised Statutes of Canada, 1952, by virtue of the taxpayer's death in a subsequent taxation year and the consequent application of section 71 of that Act in respect of an allowable capital loss for the year,

(b) a deduction under section 41 in respect of the taxpayer's listed-personal-property loss for a subsequent taxation year,

(b.1) a deduction under paragraph 60(i) in respect of a premium (within the meaning assigned by subsection 146(1)) paid in a subsequent taxation year under a registered retirement savings plan where the premium is deductible by reason of subsection 146(6.1),

(c) a deduction under section 118.1 in respect of a gift made in a subsequent taxation year or under section 111 in respect of a loss for a subsequent taxation year,

(c.1) a deduction under section 119 in respect of a disposition in a subsequent taxation year,

(d) a deduction under subsection 127(5) in respect of property acquired or an expenditure made in a subsequent taxation year,

(e) a deduction under subsection 125.2 in respect of an unused Part VI tax credit (within the meaning assigned by subsection 125.2(3)) for a subsequent taxation year,

(f) a deduction under section 125.3 in respect of an unused Part I.3 tax credit (within the meaning assigned by subsection 125.3(3)) for a subsequent taxation year,

(f.1) a deduction under subsection 126(2) in respect of an unused foreign tax credit (within the meaning assigned by subsection 126(7)), or under subsection 126(2.21) or (2.22) in respect of foreign taxes paid, for a subsequent taxation year,

(f.2) a deduction under subsection 128.1(8) as a result of a disposition in a subsequent taxation year,

(g) a deduction under subsection 147.2(4) because of the application of subsection 147.2(6) as a result of the taxpayer's death in the subsequent taxation year, or

(h) a deduction by virtue of an election for a subsequent taxation year under paragraph 164(6)(c) or (d) by the taxpayer's legal representative, by filing with the Minister, on or before the day on or before which the taxpayer is, or would be if a tax under this Part were payable by the taxpayer for that subsequent taxation year, required by section 150 to file a return of income for that subsequent taxation year, a prescribed form amending the return, the Minister shall reassess the taxpayer's tax for any relevant taxation year (other than a taxation year preceding the particular taxation year) in order to take into account the deduction claimed.

Related Provisions: 111 — Losses deductible; 150 — Returns; 160.2(3) — Minister may assess recipient under RRSP or RRIF; 161(7)(b)(iii) — Effect of carryback of loss, etc.; 164(5), (5.1) — No back interest on refund where past year reassessed; 165(1.1) — Limitation of right to object to assessments or determinations; 169(2)(a) — Limitation of right to appeal.

History: Former para. 152(6)(c.1) amended and renumbered as (f.1), new para. (c.1) and para. (f.2) added, by 2001, c. 17, subsecs. 149(2) and (3) applicable to taxation years that end after October 1, 1996. In respect of

(a) a deduction under s. 119, or an adjustment under subsec. 128.1(8), in respect of a disposition by a taxpayer, or

(b) a deduction under subsec. 126(2.21) or (2.22) in respect of foreign taxes paid by a taxpayer, the taxpayer is deemed to have filed the prescribed form described in subsec. 152(6) in a timely manner if the taxpayer files the form with the Minister on or before the later of the day on or before which the taxpayer would, but for this application, be required to file the form and the taxpayer's filing-due date for the taxation year that includes June 14, 2001.

Former para. (c.1) (now (f.1)) formerly read:

(c.1) a deduction under subsection 126(2) in respect of an unused foreign tax credit (within the meaning assigned by subsection 126(7)) for a subsequent taxation year,

Para. 152(6)(g) added by 1998, c. 19, subsec. 181(6), applicable to taxpayers who die after 1992.

(6.1) Reassessment where amount included in income under subsec. 91(1) is reduced — Where

(a) a taxpayer has filed for a particular taxation year the return of income required by section 150,

(b) the amount included in computing the taxpayer's income for the particular year under subsection 91(1) is subsequently reduced because of a reduction in the foreign accrual property income of a foreign affiliate of the taxpayer for a taxation year of the affiliate that ends in the particular year and is

(i) attributable to the amount prescribed to be the deductible loss of the affiliate for the year that arose in a subsequent year of the affiliate that ends in a subsequent taxation year of the taxpayer, and

(ii) included in the description of F of the definition "foreign accrual property income" in subsection 95(1) in respect of the affiliate for the year, and

(c) the taxpayer has filed with the Minister, on or before the filing-due-date for the taxpayer's subsequent taxation year, a prescribed form amending the return, the Minister shall reassess the taxpayer's tax for any relevant taxation year (other than a taxation year preceding the particular taxation year) in order to take into account the reduction in the amount included under subsection 91(1) in computing the income of the taxpayer for the year.

Related Provisions: Reg. 5903(1) — Loss carryback.

History: Subsec. 152(6.1) added by 2001, c. 17, subsec. 149(4), applicable to taxation years of foreign affiliates that begin after November 1999.

(7) Assessment not dependent on return or information — The Minister is not bound by a return or information supplied by or on behalf of a taxpayer and, in making an assessment, may, notwithstanding a return or information so supplied or if no return has been filed, assess the tax payable under this Part.

Related Provisions: 152(4) — Reassessment; 160.2(3) — Minister may assess recipient under RRSP or RRIF; 165 — Objections to assessments; 169 — Appeal to Tax Court of Canada.

(9) Alternative basis for assessment — The Minister may advance an alternative argument in support of an assessment at any time after the normal reassessment period unless, on an appeal under this Act

(a) there is relevant evidence that the taxpayer is no longer able to adduce without the leave of the court; and

(b) it is not appropriate in the circumstances for the court to order that the evidence be adduced.

XVII — Withholding of taxes in respect of personal services.

History: Para. 153(1)(a) amended by 2001, c. 17, subsec. 151(1), applicable in respect of amounts paid, credited or provided after 2000. The para. formerly read:

(a) salary or wages or other remuneration,

Para. 153(1)(g) amended by the said c. 17, subsec. 151(2), applicable in respect of amounts paid, credited or provided after 2000. The para. formerly read:

(g) fees, commissions or other amounts for services,

The closing words of subsec. 153(1) amended by the said c. 17, subsec. 151(3), applicable after June 27, 1999. The closing words formerly read:

shall deduct or withhold therefrom such amount as is determined in accordance with prescribed rules and shall, at such time as is prescribed, remit that amount to the Receiver General on account of the payee's tax for the year under this Part or Part XI.3, as the case may be, and, where at that prescribed time the person is a prescribed person, the remittance shall be made to the account of the Receiver General at a financial institution (within the meaning that would be assigned by the definition "financial institution" in subsection 190(1) if that definition were read without reference to paragraphs (d) and (e) thereof).

Para. 153(1)(d.1) amended by 1998, c. 19, s. 182, deemed to have come into force on June 30, 1996. Para. 153(1)(d.1) formerly read:

(d.1) an amount as a benefit under the Employment Insurance Act,

Paras. 153(1)(s) and (t) added by the said c. 19, s. 43, para. (s) applicable to payments made after 1992, and para. (t) applicable to payments made after 1997.

Para. 153(1)(d.1) amended by 1996, c. 23, para. 187(d), to substitute "Employment Insurance Act" for "Unemployment Insurance Act", in force June 30, 1996.

Para. 153(1)(i) repealed by 1996, c. 23, s. 175, in force January 1, 1998. Para. (i) formerly read:

(i) a training allowance under the National Training Act,

Para. 153(1)(m) substituted for paras. (m), (m.1) by 1994, c. 21, s. 77, applicable to payments made after October 1991. Those paras. formerly read:

(m) an amount as a benefit under the Labour Adjustment Benefits Act,

(m.1) an income assistance payment made pursuant to an agreement under section 5 of the Department of Labour Act,

That portion of subsec. 153(1) following para. (r) amended by 1994, c. 7, Sch. VIII (1993, c. 24), s. 91, applicable after 1992. That portion formerly read:

shall deduct or withhold therefrom such amount as may be determined in accordance with prescribed rules and shall, at such time as may be prescribed, remit that amount to the Receiver General on account of the payee's tax for the year under this Part or Part XI.3, as the case may be.

1994, c. 7, Sch. VIII (1993, c. 24), subsec. 82(10), provides that the amended definition of "minimum amount" in subsec. 146.3(1) does not apply, for the purposes of prescribed rules made under subsec. 153(1), with respect to payments made before 1993.

Paras. 153(1)(f), (l) substituted, (m.1) added, by 1994, c. 7, Sch. II (1991, c. 49), subsecs. 126(1)–(3), applicable to payments made after July 13, 1990. Paras. (f), (l) formerly read:

(f) an annuity payment,

. . . . .

(l) a payment out of or under a registered retirement income fund,

(1.3) Payments by trustee, etc. — For the purposes of subsection (1), where a trustee who is administering, managing, distributing, winding up, controlling or otherwise dealing with the property, business, estate or income of another person authorizes or otherwise causes a payment referred to in that subsection to be made on behalf of that other person, the trustee shall be deemed to be a person making the payment and the trustee and that other person shall be jointly and severally liable in respect of the amount required under that subsection to be deducted or withheld and to be remitted on account of the payment.

Selected Cases [subsec. 153(1.3)]: Coopers & Lybrand Ltd. v. Canada, [1994] 2 C.T.C. 2244 (TCC) (Agent held liable for source deductions not withheld).

(1.4) [Repealed]

History: Subsec. 153(1.4) repealed by 1996, c 21, s. 40, applicable June 20, 1996. Subsec. (1.4) formerly read:

(1.4) Definition of "trustee" — In subsection (1.3), "trustee" includes a liquidator, receiver, receiver-manager, trustee in bankruptcy, assignee, executor, administrator, sequestrator or any other person performing a function similar to that performed by any such person.

(2) [Repealed]

History: Subsec. 153(2) repealed by 1994, c. 8, s. 21, applicable to 1995 et seq.; for the 1994 taxation year, subsec. 153(2) reads as follows:

(2) Subject to sections 155, 156 and 156.1, where amounts have been deducted or withheld under this section from the remuneration or other payments received by an individual in a taxation year, if the total of the remuneration and other payments from which such amounts have been deducted or withheld and which the individual had received in the year is equal to or greater than ¾ of the individual's income for the year, the individual shall, on or before the individual's balance-due day for the year, pay to the Receiver General the remainder of the individual's tax for the year as estimated under section 151.

Subsec. (2) formerly read:

(2) Payment of remainder — Where amounts were deducted or withheld under this section from the remuneration or other payments received by an individual in a taxation year, if the total of the remuneration and other payments from which the amounts were deducted or withheld and which the individual received in the year is equal to or greater than ¾ of the individual's income for the year, the individual shall, on or before the individual's balance-due day for the year, pay to the Receiver General the remainder of the individual's tax for the year as estimated under section 151.

Subsec. 153(2) substituted by 1994, c. 7, Sch. II (1991, c. 49), subsec. 126(4), applicable to 1990 et seq. Subsec. 153(2) formerly read:

(2) Where amounts have been deducted or withheld under this section from the remuneration or other payments received by an individual in a taxation year, if the total of the remuneration and other payments from which such amounts have been deducted or withheld and which the individual had received in the year is equal to or greater than ¾ of the individual's income for the year, the individual shall, on or before April 30 in the next year, pay to the Receiver General the remainder of the individual's tax for the year as estimated under section 151.

(3) Deemed effect of deduction — When an amount has been deducted or withheld under subsection (1), it shall, for all the purposes of this Act, be deemed to have been received at that time by the person to whom the remuneration, benefit, payment, fees, commissions or other amounts were paid.

Related Provisions: 78(1)(b) — Unpaid amounts; 227 — Withholding taxes — rules; 227.1 — Liability of directors.

Selected Cases [subsec. 153(3)]: Fraser v. R., [1997] 3 C.T.C. 3 (FCA) (Source deductions belonged to employee, not to employer).

(4) Unclaimed dividends, interest and proceeds — Where at the end of a taxpayer's taxation year the person beneficially entitled to an amount received by the taxpayer after 1984 and before the year as or in respect of dividends, interest or proceeds of disposition of property is unknown to the taxpayer, the taxpayer shall remit to the Receiver General on or before the day that is 60 days after the end of the year on account of the tax payable under this Act by that person an amount equal to

(a) in the case of dividends, 33⅓% of the total amount of the dividends,

(b) in the case of interest, 50% of the total amount of the interest, and

(c) in the case of proceeds of disposition of property, 50% of the total of all amounts each of which is the amount, if any, by which the proceeds of disposition of a property exceed the total of any outlays and expenses made or incurred by the taxpayer for the purpose of disposing of the property (to the extent that those outlays and expenses were not deducted in computing the taxpayer's income for any taxation year or attributable to any other property), except that no remittance under this subsection shall be required in respect of an amount that was included in computing the taxpayer's income for the year or a preceding taxation year or in respect of an amount on which the tax under this subsection was previously remitted.

(1.1) Values of A and B in "net tax owing" — For the purposes of determining the values of A and B in the definition "net tax owing" in subsection (1), income taxes payable by an individual for a taxation year are determined

(a) before taking into consideration the specified future tax consequences for the year; and

(b) after deducting all tax credits to which the individual is entitled for the year relating to those taxes (other than tax credits that become payable to the individual after the individual's balance-due day for the year, prescribed tax credits and amounts deemed to have been paid because of the application of either subsection 120(2) or (2.2)).

History: Para. 156.1(1.1)(b) amended by 2000, c. 19, subsec. 45(5), applicable to 1999 et seq. The para. formerly read:

(b) after deducting all tax credits to which the individual is entitled for the year relating to those taxes (other than tax credits that become payable to the individual after the individual's balance-due day for the year, prescribed tax credits and the amount deemed to have been paid because of the application of subsection 120(2)).

Subsec. 156.1(1.1) added by 1997 c. 25, subsec. 48(2), applicable to amounts that become payable after 1995.

(1.2) Value of D in "net tax owing" — For the purpose of determining the value of D in the definition "net tax owing" in subsection (1), the amount deemed by subsection 120(2) to have been paid on account of an individual's tax under this Part for a taxation year is determined before taking into consideration the specified future tax consequences for the year.

History: Subsec. 156.1(1.2) added by 1997 c. 25, subsec. 48(2), applicable to amounts that become payable after 1995.

(1.3) Value of F in "net tax owing" — For the purpose of determining the value of F in the definition "net tax owing" in subsection (1), the amount deemed by subsection 120(2.2) to have been paid on account of an individual's tax under this Part for a taxation year is determined before taking into consideration the specified future tax consequences for the year.

History: Subsec. 156.1(1.3) added by 2000, c. 19, subsec. 45(6), applicable to 1999 et seq.

(2) No instalment required — Sections 155 and 156 do not apply to an individual for a particular taxation year where

(a) the individual's chief source of income for the particular year is farming or fishing and the individual's net tax owing for the particular year, or either of the 2 preceding taxation years, does not exceed the individual's instalment threshold for that year; or

(b) the individual's net tax owing for the particular year, or for each of the 2 preceding taxation years, does not exceed the individual's instalment threshold for that year.

Related Provisions: 107(5.1) — Trust's gain on distribution to non-resident beneficiary does not increase instalment requirements; 128.1(5) — Deemed disposition on emigration does not increase instalment requirements; 157(2.1) — Threshold of $1,000 for corporations; 161(2) — Interest on late or insufficient instalments.

Forms: T1033-WS: Worksheet for calculating instalment payments.

(3) Idem — Sections 155 and 156 do not require the payment of any amount in respect of an individual that would otherwise become due under either of those sections on or after the day on which the individual dies.

(4) Payment of remainder — Every individual shall, on or before the individual's balance-due day for each taxation year, pay to the Receiver General in respect of the year the amount, if any, by which the individual's tax payable under this Part for the year exceeds the total of

(a) all amounts deducted or withheld under section 153 from remuneration or other payments received by the individual in the year, and

(b) all other amounts paid to the Receiver General on or before that day on account of the individual's tax payable under this Part for the year.

Related Provisions: 104(23)(e) — Alternative rule for testamentary trust; 161(1) — Interest payable if balance not paid on time.

History [s. 156.1]: S. 156.1 amended by 1994, c. 8, s. 24, subsecs. 156.1(1) to (3) applicable to amounts that become payable after June 1994 and subsec. 156.1(4) applicable to 1994, et seq. S. 156.1 formerly read:

> 156.1 (1) No instalment required — Where the total of the taxes payable (before taking into consideration any amount referred to in any of subparagraphs 161(7)(a)(ii) to (v) or (viii) that was excluded or deducted, as the case may be) under this Part and Part I.1 by an individual for a particular taxation year or for the taxation year preceding that year is not more than the total of $1,000 and the amount, if any, determined in respect of the individual for that year under subsection 120(2),
>
> (a) sections 155 and 156 do not apply to that individual for the particular year; and

(b) the corporation's first instalment base for the year is not more than $1,000, the corporation may, instead of paying the instalments required by paragraph (1)(a) for the year, pay to the Receiver General, pursuant to paragraph (1)(b), the total of the taxes payable by it under this Part and Part VI.1 for the year.

Para. 157(2.1)(a) amended by 1994, c. 7, Sch. VI (1992, c. 29), s. 7, to substitute "161(7)(a)(ii) to (viii)" for "161(7)(a)(ii) to (vii)", applicable to 1992 et seq.

Para. 157(2.1)(a) substituted by 1994, c. 7, Sch. II (1991, c. 49), s. 130, applicable

(a) to 1990 et seq.; and

(b) with respect to amounts referred to in para. 161(7)(a), in respect of subsequent taxation years referred to in that para. ending after 1989.

Para. (a) formerly read:

(a) the total of the taxes payable under this Part, Part I.3 and Part VI.1 by a corporation for a taxation year, or

(3) Private, mutual fund and non-resident-owned investment corporations — Notwithstanding subsection (1), the amount payable for a taxation year by a corporation to the Receiver General on or before the last day of any month in the year shall be deemed to be the amount, if any, by which

(a) the amount so payable as determined under that subsection for the month

exceeds

(b) where the corporation is neither a mutual fund corporation nor a non-resident-owned investment corporation, 1/12 of the corporation's dividend refund (within the meaning assigned by subsection 129(1)) for the year,

(c) where the corporation is a mutual fund corporation, 1/12 of the total of

(i) the corporation's capital gains refund (within the meaning assigned by section 131) for the year, and

(ii) the amount that, by virtue of subsection 131(5), is the corporation's dividend refund (within the meaning assigned by section 129) for the year,

Proposed Amendment — 157(3)(c)

(c) if the corporation is a mutual fund corporation, 1/12 of the total of

(i) the corporation's capital gains refund (within the meaning assigned by section 131) for the year, and

(ii) the amount that, because of subsection 131(5) or, where the corporation is a prescribed labour-sponsored venture capital corporation, because of subsection 131(11), is the corporation's dividend refund (within the meaning assigned by section 129) for the year,

Application: The February 27, 2004 draft legislation, s. 90, will amend para. 157(3)(c) to read as above, applicable to 1999 et seq.

Technical Notes (December 20, 2002): Section 157 requires a corporation to pay monthly instalments of its total tax payable under Parts I, I.3, VI, VI.1 and XIII.1 of the Act. Subsection 157(3) allows corporations to reduce each monthly instalment by 1/12 of the amount of certain tax refunds, including the "dividend refund" under section 129. For most mutual fund corporations, the dividend refund amount is computed according to rules set out in subsection 131(5). Paragraph 157(3)(c), which allows a mutual fund corporation to apply its dividend refund to reduce its instalments, therefore refers to subsection 131(5). However, prescribed labour-sponsored venture capital corporations (LSVCCs), which are by definition mutual fund corporations, do not use subsection 131(5) to compute their dividend refunds — instead, they use special rules in subsection 131(11). To ensure that subsection 157(3) applies appropriately to LSVCCs, this amendment adds to paragraph 157(3)(c) a reference to subsection 131(11).

(d) where the corporation is a non-resident-owned investment corporation, 1/12 of the corporation's allowable refund (within the meaning assigned by section 133) for the year, and

(e) 1/12 of the total of the amounts each of which is deemed by subsection 125.4(3), 125.5(3), 127.1(1) or 127.41(3) to have been paid on account of the corporation's tax payable under this Part for the year.

Related Provisions: 131(5) — Dividend refund to mutual fund corporation; 136 — Cooperative not private corporation — exception.

History: Para. 157(3)(e) amended by 1998, c. 19, subsec. 184(2), applicable to taxation years that end after February 22, 1994 except that,

(a) for taxation years that ended before 1995, the para. shall be read without reference to "125.4(3)"; and

(b) for taxation years that ended before November 1997, the para. shall be read without reference to "125.5(3)".

Para. 157(3)(e) formerly read:

(e) 1/12 of the total of all amounts each of which is an amount deemed by subsection 125.4(3) or 127.41(3) to have been paid on account of the corporation's tax payable under this Part for the year.

Para. 157(3)(e) amended by 1996, c 21, s. 41, applicable to 1995 et seq. Para. (e) formerly read:

(e) 1/12 of the amount deemed by subsection 127.41(3) to have been paid on account of the corporation's tax payable under this Part for the year.

Para. 157(3)(e) added by 1995, c. 3, s. 47, applicable to taxation years that end after February 22, 1994.

Para. 157(3)(b) amended by 1994, c. 7, Sch. VIII (1993, c. 24), subsec. 94(5), applicable to 1993 et seq. Para. (b) formerly read:

(b) where the corporation is a private corporation, 1/12 of the corporation's dividend refund (within the meaning assigned by section 129) for the year,

157.1 (1) Instalment deferral for January, February and March 2002 — Definitions — The following definitions apply in this section.

"eligible corporation", for a particular taxation year, means a corporation

(a) that is resident in Canada throughout the particular taxation year; and

(b) of which the taxable capital employed in Canada, within the meaning assigned by Part I.3, for its preceding taxation year did not exceed,

(i) if the corporation is not associated with any other corporation in the particular taxation year, $15 million, and

(ii) if the corporation is associated with one or more other corporations in the particular taxation year, the amount by which $15 million exceeds the total of the taxable capital employed in Canada, within the meaning assigned by Part I.3, of those other corporations for their last taxation years that ended in the last calendar year that ended before the end of the particular taxation year.

Related Provisions: 87(2)(j.92) — Amalgamation — continuing corporation; 88(1)(e.2) — Winding-up; 181.2(1), 181.3(1) — Taxable capital employed in Canada.

"eligible instalment day" of an eligible corporation means a day in January, February or March, 2002, on which an instalment on account of the corporation's tax payable under this Part for the taxation year that includes that day would become payable

(a) if this Act were read without reference to this section; and

(b) if, in the case of a corporation that is not required by section 157 to make instalment payments on account of its tax payable under this Part for the taxation year, it were so required.

(2) Deferred balance-due day — An eligible corporation's balance-due day for a taxation year that ends after 2001 is deemed to be the later of

(a) the day that would otherwise be the corporation's balance-due day for the taxation year, and

(b) the day that is six months after the corporation's last eligible instalment day in the taxation year.

(3) Deferred instalment day — An amount that would, because of paragraph 157(1)(a), otherwise become payable in respect of a taxation year by an eligible corporation on an eligible instalment day of the corporation does not become payable on that day but becomes payable

(a) if the particular day that is six months after the eligible instalment day is in the taxation year, on the particular day; and

(b) in any other case, on the day that is deemed by subsection (2) to be the corporation's balance-due day for the taxation year.

History: S. 157.1 added by 2002, c. 9, s. 42, applicable to taxation years that end after 2001.

Definitions [s. 157.1]: "amount" — 248(1); "associated" — 256; "balance-due day" — 157.1(2), 248(1); "Canada" — 255, Interpretation Act 35(1); "corporation" — 248(1), Interpretation Act 35(1); "eligible corporation", "eligible instalment day" — 157.1(1); "month" — Interpretation Act 35(1); "resident in Canada" — 250; "taxable capital employed in Canada" — 181.2(1), 181.3(1); "taxation year" — 249.

158. Payment of remainder — Where the Minister mails a notice of assessment of any amount payable by a taxpayer, that part of the amount assessed then remaining unpaid is payable forthwith by the taxpayer to the Receiver General.

Related Provisions: 156.1(4) — Obligation of individual to pay balance by balance-due date; 157(1)(b) — Obligation of corporation to pay balance; 161.4(1) — No requirement to pay balance of $2 or less; 164(3) — Interest on overpayments; 220(4) — Security for taxes; 222–225 — Collection of taxes; 225.1 — Collection restrictions; 248(7)(a) — Mail deemed received on day mailed.

Definitions [s. 158]: "assessment", "Minister", "taxpayer" — 248(1).

159. (1) Person acting for another — For the purposes of this Act, where a person is a legal representative of a taxpayer at any time,

(a) the legal representative is jointly and severally liable with the taxpayer

(i) to pay each amount payable under this Act by the taxpayer at or before that time and that remains unpaid, to the extent that the legal representative is at that time in possession or control, in the capacity of legal representative, of property that belongs or belonged to, or that is or was held for the benefit of, the taxpayer or the taxpayer's estate, and

(ii) to perform any obligation or duty imposed under this Act on the taxpayer at or before that time and that remains outstanding, to the extent that the obligation or duty can reasonably be considered to relate to the responsibilities of the legal representative acting in that capacity; and

(b) any action or proceeding in respect of the taxpayer taken under this Act at or after that time by the Minister may be so taken in the name of the legal representative acting in that capacity and, when so taken, has the same effect as if it had been taken directly against the taxpayer and, if the taxpayer no longer exists, as if the taxpayer continued to exist.

Related Provisions: 150(3) — Obligation to file taxpayer's return; 227.1 — Liability of corporate directors; 248(7)(a) — Mail deemed received on day mailed.

History: Subsec. 159(1) amended by 1998, c. 19, s. 185, in force on June 18, 1998. Subsec. 159(1) formerly read:

(1) Payment on behalf of others — Where the Minister mails to a person required by section 150 to file a return of the income of a taxpayer for a taxation year a notice of assessment of any amount payable for the year by or in respect of the taxpayer, that part of the amount assessed then remaining unpaid is payable forthwith by the person to the Receiver General to the extent that the person has or had, at any time after the end of the taxation year, in his or her possession or control property belonging to the taxpayer or the taxpayer's estate and on payment thereof the person shall be deemed to have made the payment on behalf of the taxpayer.

(2) Certificate before distribution — Every legal representative (other than a trustee in bankruptcy) of a taxpayer shall, before distributing to one or more persons any property in the possession or control of the legal representative acting in that capacity, obtain a certificate from the Minister, by applying for one in prescribed form, certifying that all amounts

(a) for which the taxpayer is or can reasonably be expected to become liable under this Act at or before the time the distribution is made, and

(b) for the payment of which the legal representative is or can reasonably be expected to become liable in that capacity have been paid or that security for the payment thereof has been accepted by the Minister.

Related Provisions: 159(3) — Liability where property distributed with no certificate; 159(3.1) — Appropriation of property; 220(4) — Security for taxes; 227.1 — Liability of directors for withholding taxes.

History: Subsec. 159(2) amended by 1998, c. 19, s. 185, in force on June 18, 1998. Subsec. 159(2) formerly read:

(2) Every person (other than a trustee in bankruptcy) who is an assignee, liquidator, receiver, receiver-manager, administrator, executor or any other like person (in this section referred to as the "responsible representative") administering, winding up, controlling or otherwise dealing with a property, business or estate of another person shall, before distributing to one or more persons any property over which the responsible representative has control in the capacity of the responsible representative, obtain a certificate from the Minister, by applying therefor in prescribed form, certifying that all amounts

(a) for which any taxpayer is liable under this Act in respect of the taxation year in which the distribution is made, or any preceding taxation year, and

(b) for the payment of which the responsible representative is or can reasonably be expected to become liable in that capacity

have been paid or that security for the payment thereof has been accepted by the Minister.

That portion of subsec. 159(2) preceding para. (a) substituted by 1994, c. 7, Sch. II (1991, c. 49), s. 131, applicable to applications made after December 17, 1991. That portion formerly read:

(2) Every person (other than a trustee in bankruptcy) who is an assignee, liquidator, receiver, receiver-manager, administrator, executor, or any other like person, (in this section referred to as the "responsible representative") administering, winding up, controlling or otherwise dealing with a property, business or estate of another person, before distributing to one or more persons any property over which the responsible representative has control in that capacity, shall obtain a certificate from the Minister certifying that all amounts

(3) Personal liability — Where a legal representative (other than a trustee in bankruptcy) of a taxpayer distributes to one or more persons property in the possession or control of the legal representative, acting in that capacity, without obtaining a certificate under subsection (2) in respect of the amounts referred to in that subsection, the legal representative is personally liable for the payment of those amounts to the extent of the value of the property distributed, and the Minister may at any time assess the legal representative in respect of any amount payable because of this subsection, and the provisions of this Division apply, with any modifications that the circumstances require, to an assessment made under this subsection as though it had been made under section 152.

Proposed Amendment — 159(3)

(3) Personal liability — If a legal representative (other than a trustee in bankruptcy) of a taxpayer distributes to one or more persons property in the possession or control of the legal representative, acting in that capacity, without obtaining a certificate under subsection (2) in respect of the amounts referred to in that subsection,

(a) the legal representative is personally liable for the payment of those amounts to the extent of the value of the property distributed;

(b) the Minister may at any time assess the legal representative in respect of any amount payable because of this subsection; and

(c) the provisions of this Division (including, for greater certainty, the provisions in respect of interest payable) apply, with any modifications that the circumstances require, to an assessment made under this subsection as though it had been made under section 152 in respect of taxes payable under this Part.

Application: The February 27, 2004 draft legislation, s. 91, will amend subsec. 159(3) to read as above, applicable to assessments made after December 20, 2002.

Technical Notes (December 20, 2002): Subsection 159(1) provides, in part, that a legal representative acting for another person is jointly and severally liable for each amount payable by the other person under the Act, to the extent that the representative has possession and control of the other person's assets. If the representative distributes assets of the other person before obtaining a certificate from the Minister of National Revenue that the other person's tax debts have been paid, the Minister may, under subsection 159(3), assess the representative for the amount of the debt.

Subsection 159(3) is amended to clarify that a legal representative so assessed after December 20, 2002 is subject to interest on the assessment without any limit on the amount of interest for which the representative may be liable.

Related Provisions: 159(3.1) — Appropriation of property; 222(5)(c) — Restart of 10-year collection limitation period.

History: Subsec. 159(3) amended by 1998, c. 19, s. 185, in force on June 18, 1998. Subsec. 159(3) formerly read:

(3) Where a responsible representative distributes to one or more persons property over which the responsible representative has control in that capacity without obtaining a certificate under subsection (2) in respect of the amounts referred to in that subsection, the responsible representative is personally liable for the payment of those amounts to the extent of the value of the property distributed and the Minister may assess the responsible representative therefor in the same manner and with the same effect as an assessment made under section 152.

Selected Cases [subsec. 159(3)]: Flemming Estate v. MNR, [1983] C.T.C. 321 (FCTD); rev'd in part [1984] C.T.C. 352, (sub nom. R. v. Parsons) (FCA) (No need to seek certificate from Minister when requirements of section do not cover directors of corporation).

(3.1) Appropriation of property — For the purposes of subsections (2) and (3), an appropriation by a legal representative of a taxpayer of property in the possession or control of the legal representative acting in that capacity is deemed to be a distribution of the property to a person.

History: Subsec. 159(3.1) added by 1998, c. 19, s. 185, in force on June 18, 1998.

(4) [Repealed]

History: Subsec. 159(4) repealed by 2001, c. 17, subsec. 154(1), applicable to individuals who cease to be resident in Canada after October 1, 1996. The subsec. formerly read:

> (4) Election on emigration — Where an individual to whom subsection 128.1(4) applies
>
> (a) so elects in prescribed manner on or before the individual's balance-due day for the taxation year in which the individual ceased to be resident in Canada, and
>
> (b) furnishes to the Minister security acceptable to the Minister for payment of any tax under this Act the payment of which is deferred by the election,
>
> all or any portion of such part of that tax as is equal to the amount, if any, by which that tax exceeds the amount that would be that tax if this Act were read without reference to subsection 128.1(4) may, subject to subsection (4.1), be paid in such number of equal annual instalments as is specified in the election by the individual.

Subsec. 159(4) substituted by 1994, c. 21, s. 78, applicable to changes in residence occurring after 1992. That subsec. formerly read:

> (4) Election where subsec. 48(1) applicable — Where subsection 48(1) is applicable in respect of a taxpayer who has ceased to be resident in Canada in a taxation year, and the taxpayer so elects and furnishes the Minister with security acceptable to the Minister for payment of any tax the payment of which is deferred by the election, notwithstanding any provision of this Part respecting the time within which payment shall be made of the tax payable under this Part by the taxpayer for the year, all or any portion of such part of that tax as is equal to the amount, if any, by which that tax exceeds the amount that that tax would be, if this Act were read without reference to subsection 48(1), may be paid in such number (not exceeding 6) of equal consecutive annual instalments as is specified by the taxpayer in the election, the first instalment of which shall be paid on or before the day on or before which payment of that tax would, but for the election, have been required to be made and each subsequent instalment of which shall be paid on or before the next following anniversary of that day.

(4.1) [Repealed]

History: Subsec. 159(4.1) repealed by 2001, c. 17, subsec. 154(1), applicable to individuals who cease to be resident in Canada after October 1, 1996. The subsec. formerly read:

> (4.1) Idem — Where an individual to whom subsection 128.1(4) applies elects under subsection (4),
>
> (a) the number of equal annual instalments provided in the election shall be deemed to be the lesser of 6 and such other number as is specified in the election by the individual;
>
> (b) the first instalment shall be paid on or before the individual's balance-due day for the taxation year; and
>
> (c) each subsequent instalment shall be paid on or before the next following anniversary of the day described in paragraph (b).

Subsec. 159(4.1) added by 1994, c. 21, s. 78, applicable to changes in residence occurring after 1992.

(5) Election where certain provisions applicable [on death] — Where subsection 70(2), (5) or (5.2) of this Act or subsection 70(9.4) of the Income Tax Act, chapter 148 of the Revised Statutes of Canada, 1952, is applicable in respect of a taxpayer who has died, and the taxpayer's legal representative so elects and furnishes the Minister with security acceptable to the Minister for payment of any tax the payment of which is deferred by the election, notwithstanding any provision of this Part or the Income Tax Application Rules respecting the time within which payment shall be made of the tax payable under this Part by the taxpayer for the taxation year in which the taxpayer died, all or any portion of such part of that tax as is equal to the amount, if any, by which that tax exceeds the amount that that tax would be, if this Act were read without reference to subsections 70(2), (5) and (5.2) and the Income Tax Act, chapter 148 of the Revised Statutes of Canada, 1952, were read without reference to subsections 70(2), (5), (5.2) and (9.4) of that Act, may be paid in such number (not exceeding 10) of equal consecutive annual instalments as is specified by the legal representative in the election, the first instalment of which shall be paid on or before the day on or before which payment of that tax would, but for the election, have been required to be made and each subsequent instalment of which shall be paid on or before the next following anniversary of that day.

160. (1) Tax liability re property transferred not at arm's length — Where a person has, on or after May 1, 1951, transferred property, either directly or indirectly, by means of a trust or by any other means whatever, to

(a) the person's spouse or common-law partner or a person who has since become the person's spouse or common-law partner,

(b) a person who was under 18 years of age, or

(c) a person with whom the person was not dealing at arm's length,

the following rules apply:

(d) the transferee and transferor are jointly and severally liable to pay a part of the transferor's tax under this Part for each taxation year equal to the amount by which the tax for the year is greater than it would have been if it were not for the operation of sections 74 to 75.1 of this Act and section 74 of the Income Tax Act, chapter 148 of the Revised Statutes of Canada, 1952, in respect of any income from, or gain from the disposition of, the property so transferred or property substituted therefor, and

(e) the transferee and transferor are jointly and severally liable to pay under this Act an amount equal to the lesser of

(i) the amount, if any, by which the fair market value of the property at the time it was transferred exceeds the fair market value at that time of the consideration given for the property, and

(ii) the total of all amounts each of which is an amount that the transferor is liable to pay under this Act in or in respect of the taxation year in which the property was transferred or any preceding taxation year, but nothing in this subsection shall be deemed to limit the liability of the transferor under any other provision of this Act.

Proposed Amendment — 160(1) after (e)(i)

(ii) the total of all amounts each of which is an amount that the transferor is liable to pay under this Act (including, for greater certainty, an amount that the transferor is liable to pay under this section, regardless of whether the Minister has made an assessment under subsection (2) for that amount) in or in respect of the taxation year in which the property was transferred or any preceding taxation year, but nothing in this subsection limits the liability of the transferor under any other provision of this Act or of the transferee for the interest that the transferee is liable to pay under this Act on an assessment in respect of the amount that the transferee is liable to pay because of this subsection.

Application: The February 27, 2004 draft legislation, subsec. 92(1), will amend the portion of subsec. 160(1) after subpara. (e)(i) to read as above, applicable in respect of assessments made after December 20, 2002.

Technical Notes (December 20, 2002): The amount that a taxpayer is liable to pay in respect of the transfer of property from a non-arm's length tax debtor is determined under subsection 160(1). The Minister may assess the taxpayer for such a liability under subsection 160(2). Paragraph 160(1)(e) is amended, in respect of assessments made after December 20, 2002, to clarify that the assessment of the taxpayer is subject to interest, without any limit on the amount of interest for which the taxpayer may be liable. [This overrules Algoa Trust, [1998] 4 C.T.C. 2001 (TCC) — ed.]

Related Provisions: 74–75.1 — Attribution of income on non-arm's length transfers; 160(3.1) — Fair market value of undivided interest in property; 160(4) — Transfer to spouse on breakdown of marriage; 248(5) — Substituted property.

History: Subsec. 160(1) amended by 2000, c. 12, Sch. 2, s. 1, to replace "spouse" with "spouse or common-law partner", applicable to 2001 et seq., in force July 31, 2000. See also the transitional rules reproduced in the History to 248(1)"common-law partner".

I.T. Technical News: No. 4 (section 160 — the Davis case).

(1.1) Joint liability where subsec. 69(11) applies — Where a particular person or partnership is deemed by subsection 69(11) to have disposed of a property at any time, the person referred to in that subsection to whom a benefit described in that subsection was available in respect of a subsequent disposition of the property or property substituted for the property is jointly and severally liable with each other taxpayer to pay a part of the other taxpayer's liabilities under this Act in respect of each taxation year equal to the amount determined by the formula

$$A - B$$

where

A is the total of amounts payable under this Act by the other taxpayer in respect of the year, and

B is the amount that would, if the particular person or partnership were not deemed by subsection 69(11) to have disposed of the property, be determined for A in respect of the other taxpayer in respect of the year, but nothing under this subsection is deemed to limit the liability of the other taxpayer under any other provision of this Act.

Proposed Amendment — 160(1.1) closing words

but nothing in this subsection limits the liability of the other taxpayer under any other provision of this Act or of any person for the interest that the person is liable to pay under this Act on an assessment in respect of the amount that the person is liable to pay because of this subsection.

Application: The February 27, 2004 draft legislation, subsec. 92(2), will amend the closing words of subsec. 160(1.1) to read as above, applicable in respect of assessments made after December 20, 2002.

Technical Notes (December 20, 2002): Subsection 160(1.1) provides that where subsection 69(11) applies to deem a disposition of property to have occurred at fair market value, both the person disposing of the property and the person acquiring the property are jointly and severally liable for the payment of each other's liabilities arising under the Act as a result of that disposition. The Minister of National Revenue may assess the person for such a liability under subsection 160(2). Subsection 160(1.1) is amended, in respect of assessments made after December 20, 2002, to clarify that the assessment of the taxpayer is subject to interest. [This overrules Algoa Trust, [1998] 4 C.T.C. 2001 (TCC) — ed.]

Related Provisions: 257 — Formula cannot calculate to less than zero.

History: Subsec. 160(1.1) added by 1998, c. 19, subsec. 186(1), applicable in respect of dispositions that are deemed by subsec. 69(11) to occur after April 26, 1995.

(1.2) Joint liability — tax on split income — A parent of a specified individual is jointly and severally liable with the individual for the amount required to be added because of subsection 120.4(2) in computing the specified individual's tax payable under this Part for a taxation year if, during the year, the parent

(a) carried on a business that purchased goods or services from a business the income of which is directly or indirectly included in computing the individual's split income for the year;

(b) was a specified shareholder of a corporation that purchased goods or services from a business the income of which is directly or indirectly included in computing the individual's split income for the year;

Proposed Amendment — 160(1.2)(a), (b)

(a) carried on a business that was provided property or services by a partnership or trust all or a portion of the income of which partnership or trust is directly or indirectly included in computing the individual's split income for the year,

(b) was a specified shareholder of a corporation that was provided property or services by a partnership or trust all or a portion of the income of which partnership or trust is directly or indirectly included in computing the individual's split income for the year,

Application: The February 27, 2004 draft legislation, subsec. 92(3), will amend paras. 160(1.2)(a) and (b) to read as above, applicable after December 20, 2002.

Technical Notes (December 20, 2002): Subsection 160(1.2), which applies in respect of tax owing on split income, is amended in two respects.

First, paragraphs 160(1.2)(a), (b) and (d) are amended to replace the phrase "goods or services" with the phrase "property or services" as a consequence of the same changes made to paragraphs (b) and (c) of the definition "split income" in subsection 120.4(1).

(c) was a specified shareholder of a corporation, dividends on the shares of the capital stock of which were directly or indirectly included in computing the individual's split income for the year;

(d) was a shareholder of a professional corporation that purchased goods or services from a business the income of which is directly or indirectly included in computing the individual's split income for the year; or

Proposed Amendment — 160(1.2)(d)

(d) was a shareholder of a professional corporation that was provided property or services by a partnership or trust all or a portion of the income of which partnership or trust is directly or indirectly included in computing the individual's split income for the year, or

Application: The February 27, 2004 draft legislation, subsec. 92(4), will amend para. 160(1.2)(d) to read as above, applicable after December 20, 2002.

Technical Notes (December 20, 2002): See under 160(1.2)(a), (b).

(e) was a shareholder of a professional corporation, dividends on the shares of the capital stock of which were directly or indirectly included in computing the individual's split income for the year.

Proposed Addition — 160(1.2) closing words

but nothing in this subsection limits the liability of the specified individual under any other provision of this Act or of the parent for the interest that the parent is liable to pay under this Act on an assessment in respect of the amount that the parent is liable to pay because of this subsection.

Application: The February 27, 2004 draft legislation, subsec. 92(5), will add the above closing words to subsec. 160(1.2), applicable in respect of assessments made after December 20, 2002.

Technical Notes (December 20, 2002): Second, a "postamble" is added to subsection 160(1.2) to clarify that, in respect of assessments made under subsection 160(2) after December 20, 2002, the assessment is subject to interest.

History: Subsec. 160(1.2) added by 2000, c. 19, s. 46, applicable to 2000 et seq.

(2) Assessment — The Minister may at any time assess a taxpayer in respect of any amount payable because of this section and the provisions of this Division apply, with any modifications that the circumstances require, in respect of an assessment made under this section as though it had been made under section 152.

Proposed Amendment — 160(2)

(2) Assessment — The Minister may at any time assess a taxpayer in respect of any amount payable because of this section and the provisions of this Division (including, for greater certainty, the provisions in respect of interest payable) apply, with any modifications that the circumstances require, in respect of an assessment made under this section as though it had been made under section 152 in respect of taxes payable under this Part.

Application: The February 27, 2004 draft legislation, subsec. 92(6), will amend subsec. 160(2) to read as above, applicable in respect of assessments made after December 20, 2002.

Technical Notes (December 20, 2002): Subsection 160(2) allows the Minister of National Revenue to assess a taxpayer at any time in respect of liabilities arising under section 160, with such assessment having the same effect as if it had been made under section 152. Subsection 160(2) is amended, in respect of assessments made after December 20, 2002, to clarify that the assessment is subject to interest.

Related Provisions: 152 — Assessment; 222(5)(c) — Restart of 10-year collection limitation period.

History: Subsec. 160(2) amended by 1998, c. 19, subsec. 186(2), in force on June 18, 1998. Subsec. 160(2) formerly read:

(2) Minister may assess transferee — The Minister may at any time assess a transferee in respect of any amount payable by virtue of this section and the provisions of this Division are applicable, with such modifications as the circumstances require, in respect of an assessment made under this section as though it had been made under section 152.

Selected Cases [subsec. 160(2)]: Phillips (E.) v. Canada, [1993] 2 C.T.C. 2110 (TCC) (Assessment under provision cannot include amounts in respect of transferor's provincial tax liability).

Proposed Addition — 160(2.1)

(2.1) Assessment — The Minister may at any time assess a taxpayer in respect of any amount payable because of paragraph 94(3)(d) or (e) and the provisions of this Division (including, for greater certainty, the provisions in respect of interest payable) apply, with any modifications that the circumstances require, in respect of an assessment made under this section as though it had been made under section 152 in respect of taxes payable under this Part.

Application: The October 30, 2003 Notice of Ways and Means Motion (NRTs and FIEs), subsec. 32(1), will add subsec. 160(2.1), applicable to assessments made after 2002.
